"The position of Brazil coffee in New York market has undergone a radical change, being fully 1c per pound lower than this date last month for both actual coffee and the distant speculative positions. The cause is to be ascribed to the continuation of receipts at the ports of Brazil upon a larger scale than had been forecasted, leading to increased estimates for the present crop ending June 30th next—more especially with reference to the output of Santos, which estimate has been increased by 750,000 bags, or say for the total crop of Rio and Santos to 10¼ to 10½ millions, against previous estimates of 9½ millions. A demoralized market has resulted. Under such circumstances very little business has been passing here, and at this writing our quotations are wholly nominal, neither buyers nor sellers being willing to operate until a more stable market is eventually reached."

TEA MARKET.

There is almost no movement in teas at present.

RICE MARKET.

M. Phillips & Co. report:

"There is a very healthy tone to the market, retailers realizing that lower prices are not likely and therefore satisfying their needs. The market presents no new features."

DRIED FRUITS.

Evaporated apples have firmed considerably. Cluster raisins are being looked for. Prunes and raisins are quiet.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 25—John R. Adams & Co. report:

"Prunes are still dull but peaches and apricots are active and are in very small supply. Raisins are quiet. Good stock is taken about as fast as offered but at prices that are lower than the Coast prices with freight added."

Lockport, N. Y., Feb. 27th—F. H. Taylor reports:

"The evaporated apple situation rests on the following things: (1) That the past season there was a bumper crop, which we get once in four years, with low prices ruling. (2) That the present stock is far below that of the full crop years, and will be wanted before the new crop comes in. (3) That high prices invariably follow the full crop, and conditions for higher prices were never more favorable."

New York, Feb. 25th—Hills Bros. report:

Currants—The market remains firm and unchanged. Two cargoes of 700 tons and 500 tons will arrive shortly and give our market ample working supplies.

Dates—Fards are moving freely owing to the exceptionally low prices. Prices are in a very low state at present and some advances in values are expected.

Figs—Stocks are gradually being depleted and market shows a further advance in some grades. It would seem as if stocks would be entirely cleared up before the advent of the cold storage season, as the quantity held in this market is far below that of last season.

Dayton, Or., Feb. 21—D. A. Snider reports:

"The demand for evaporated apples is improved. The pack of the Coast was smaller this year than for several years. There are no prunes here."

BEANS.

ow stocLks olcally have made Pacific Coast prices more sensitive to Eastern conditions. A decline in Michigan beans has unsettled the local market. Dealers here have not met the decline as they consider the drop merely temporary and do not want to let go at lower figures.

J. K. Armsby & Co. report:

"Limas are moving so freely at the advanced price that we may have to advance the price again. They are now selling at $5.00, Los Angeles, and $5.25 San Francisco. If the present movement continues it will be only a short time before the entire available supply will have left first hands.

CANNED GOODS.

Canned Fruits—It is doubtful if there are enough canned fruits in first hands to supply the needs of the Coast trade. Stocks are very low.

Canned Tomatoes—The Association has been forced to withdraw prices on 2½ and 3-lb. s lid pack, both with and without peppers. Inquiries are being received daily that cannot be satisfied. Low grade goods are in abundant supply.

Aberdeen, Md., Feb. 27th—Baker & Morgan report:

"Buying has not been heavy enough to cause any advance ,although tomatoes continue firm."

Baltimore, Feb. 27th—T. J. Meeham & Co. report:

"The improvement in regard to tomatoes has created confidence. There is little speculative buying. It is all for prompt shipment and actual wants."

Baltimore, Feb. 27th—T. G. Cranwell & Co. report:

"A special trade on No. 2 and No. 3 Standard tomatoes has been taken up by the trade this week, through such a wide range of territory that it indicates that in reality jobbers are carrying pretty light stocks of tomatoes. There is a very thorough scraping up of all No. 3 tomatoes under 62½c per dozen. There is a fair inquiry."

The "American Gricer' says:

"There are still five months' consumption to be provided for and stocks in distributors' hands are light. For two years' supply we had 19,000,000 cases. This means 9,500,000 cases for each year. This equals a monthly consumption of about 800,000 cases, and 4,000,000 cases as the quantity that will be required before the 1905 pack is available. We are unable to find more than 2,000.000 cases to meet this demand, which will be between three and four million cases. The gap thus indicated ought to mean better prices."

Canned Asparagus—Of the 145,000 cases of asparagus packed last year, about 7,000 cases, or 5 per cent, was large white. The canners made deliveries of about 40 per cent. Although the crops look fine, there is no likelihood of a heavier pack this year than last, although twice as many orders have been booked by the dealers in anticipation of their wants.

CANNED SALMON.

The three canneries of the Alaska Packers' Association on Puget Sound, located at Point Roberts, Anacortes and Sehmiahmoo, will be operated as usual this year, and it is said that none of the other sockeye canneries on the Sound will be shut down, although some of the packers were much disappointed that the Washington Legislature failed to pass a bill providing for a closed season for sockeyes. With proper attention to hatcheries it is thought that the sockeyes will escape extermination. It is officially stated that notwithstanding the failure to do so, largely increased hatchery operations will be made in British Columbia, as indicated by the report of Fisheries Commi-sioner Babcock.

The "Trade Register" of Seattle says:

"Opening prices on the Columbia river for 1905 pack are expected to be the same as last year and a good pack says no canneries will be operated in is seriously open to question."

The Dalles, Or., Feb. 20th—Seufart Bros. & Co. say:

"Salmon on this river are cleaned up. Light snowfalls indicate that we will have high water in May instead of the middle of June, and therefore there will be clear water in July and August, which will be bad for fishing. Prices will be the same as last year, at least until the middle of August, when the extent of the Sound pack in sockeyes will be known. If the Sound pack is as large as packers expect, prices will go to smash, as they did in the fall of 1901. If it proves to be small on account of overfishing, we can look for higher prices in Columbia river that will last for a few years at least. My advice to jobbers is to hold packers strictly to account for fish packed before August 10th for No. 1 Chinooks. Much of the fish shipped last year in September and October as No. 1 Chinook salmon was in reality a bad No. 2 in everything except prices. Jobbers should see that every contract reads that goods must be packed on or before August 10th, and guarantee all the equal of May ,June and July of any No. 1 pack made on the Columbia river. Prospects are that prices will open at 95c for ½ lb; $1.50 for talls and $1.60 for flats, with the usual shading by packers of 5c per dozen to large jobbers and a brokerage allowance on the side."

SALTED FISH.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Norway mackerel, bloaters, ones and twos, have taken quite a jump, and there is no prospect of a decline. Norway threes are still cheap on account of large stocks."

The Cudahy Packing Co. report:

THE SALMON SITUATION.

Striking Review of Conditions That Affect Prices and Pack.

In a recent circular letter to the wholesale trade, the Kelley-Clarke Co. say, among other things:

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 20 1905.

Has it occurred to you that the salmon situation the last three years is a history of shrinkages and failures?

Did it ever strike you that, if continued, a profitable department of your business would be irretrievably lost? If not, then listen to us.

In 1902, 72 Alaska canneries packed 2,500,000 cases; in 1903, 63 Alaska canneries packed 2,000,000 cases; in 1904, 53 Alaska canneries packed 1,900,000 cases; in 1905, 37 Alaska canneries expect to pack 1,200,000 cases.

Just think of it! Only 37 Alaska plants will operate this season, as against 72 in 1902. Surely the downward drift must cause every thoughtful buyer to pause and inquire the reasons.

It is understood that the A. P. A. will close down this season eight of their plants, which, in 1904 season, packed 425,000 cases Reds and 60,000 cases Pinks. It is not expected that any of the P. P. & N. Co. plants will operate this year, although they did run five plants in 1904, packing 250,000 cases, mostly all Reds. Other independent plants are closed down many of whom have failed.

Why is it, may be asked, that many packers have failed and others are shutting down?

A Record of Continued Loss.

Losses, losses; nothing but losses. The larger the pack the greater the loss.

Cause: Excessive labor exactions; expensive marine operations and equipments; higher costs of tin plate, boxes, solder, etc.; expensive offices; high salaried officials and poor marketing are a few of the items that have thrown the packing of salmon from a safe and profitable investment into a hazardous, unprofitable undertaking.

Last year some of the larger factors sought to remedy this loss making condition by creating an artificial plane of values. This was a mistake; a most serious one, as it antagonized the great consuming public, who promptly retaliated by transferring their hitherto requirements of salmon to other canned food products. The packers fully awakened to the inevitable and only solution possible—i. e., reduction of costs, hence the almost general closing down of plants. Economy and reduction of packs is now considered essential to continuance.

Urge Creation of Demand.

Last year we vigorously opposed the creation of a false market. Our opposition was then in the interest and welfare of the busines. Today no less are we interested in the success of the salmon business and propose now to inaugurate a campaign of mutual interests between jobber and packer.

Now, Mr. Jobber, as you have 50,000 men in your employ who regularly call on from 600,000 to 800,000 retail grocers, who in turn serve 80,000,000 people less than two pounds of salmon per capita per annum we beg of you to exert a lively interest in canned salmon. Give your salesman instructions to push salmon. Show some confidence in the product; quit your bearing the market. Swallow a few of our opening facts and realize that canned salmon, at present prices, is practically cost, and that unless a ready market at fair prices is open to the sale of salmon, some day not far distant canned salmon as a popular price product will have disappeared.

Sockeye Conditions Problematical.

The Sockeye situation this season is a tall guessing game. From past indications of the "Four Year" theory there should be a good-sized pack; but as against the prospective large pack, which would ordinarily upset market conditions, a safety valve has been applied.

The Sockeye run in other years or "off" years," as termed, has about run out. A legislative bill is now being prepared making the years 1906 and 1908 close seasons on Sockeyes. A similar bill is also being prepared by

ALCAZAR THEATRE.

A very interesting story is told in the "Middleman" at this theatre. The play deals with financial problems, labor troubles and a pretty and fascinating love story. John Craig has the role of an old art potter whose daughter (Lillian Lawrence) is betrayed. All the other parts are well in the grasp of the Alcazar's artistic players. On Monday, March 13th, comes the first production in the West of "Alice of Old Vincennes." The play is said to be even more interesting than the novel upon which it is founded and which has scored so great a success.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Very large audiences have been greeting Kolb and Dill at the Grand in "I. O. U." The play has been rewritten and is exceedingly funny. Kolb and Dill are as popular as ever and keep their audiences laughing while they are on the stage. The performance is for fun only and is worth going to see.

TIVOLI OPERA HOUSE.

"Boccaccio" is in its last nights at the Tivoli. The play is one of the prettiest of the light musical plays. It is beautifully staged and costumed by the Tivoli management. On Monday night "The Burgomaster" will be presented with a strong cast. An elaborate production both as to scenery and cast is promised. The Tivoli's chorus is prettier and more shapely than ever.

CENTRAL THEATRE.

There is fun without end at the Central Theatre this week, where the stock company of that house presents "A Texas Steer." This satire deals strongly with the political methods of America and has always proven a favorite with the great public. The cast is very good. Next week "Faust" is to be presented.

CHUTES.

The "Circle Swing" at the Chutes is one of the sensations of the day. Although the airship boats are crowded with passengers, yet there are many who, after one look at the new sensation, decide that they will leave it for others more venturesome than themselves to try. The program at the free theatre is a very interesting one.

FISCHER'S THEATRE.

There is an interesting program three times a day at Fischer's Theatre. The list of head liners this week is a strong one and includes the Edwards Duo and Tom Mack, a black-face monologuist who was formerly with West's Minstrels. The moving pictures present interesting novelties this week. There are two performances each evening at 7:30 and 9. The prices are 10 and 20 cents.

SHOULD KEEP PIM-OLAS.

At this time of the year it would be impossible to suggest a more seasonable and appropriate article for window display than Pim-Olas.

Pim-Olas sharpen the appetite.

There is no table relish to be compared with them.

Pim-Olas are used by the elite on all occasions for garnishing salads, hot and cold meats, fish, oysters, etc., and for cocktails.

Picnics will soon be occupying the attention of the public more than ever before. Nearly every one includes a bottle of Pim-Olas in their lunch.

The agents for Pim-Olas, the Spohn-Patrick Company, will furnish the dealer with attractive literature and advertising cuts for catalogues, price current or any printed matter he may issue.

THE TRUE CHARITY.

Prevention of Temptation the Greatest Protection and Kindness to the Weak.

If it is true that charity covers a multitude of sins, it is also true that temptation creates a horde of criminals.

Man is weak. Evolution has strengthened some, deteriorated others. For the latter there should be safeguards. No temptation should be placed before the weak characters. They often err through causes over which they have no control.

To the small boy, an orchard overflowing with ripe fruit is a great temptation. To the clerk, to the youthful customer, to members of the owner's family, the open cash drawer in the store is ever a strong temptation, and beckons them onward to take that which is not theirs.

As the farmer has guarded his orchards with fences and dogs, so the wise storekeeper has adopted devices like the cash register to protect his money.

This removes the great cause of crime. Theft, embezzlement, suicide and murder all follow temptation.

Pierce & Co., of 14 Turk street, are the Pacific Coast agents for the National Cash Register Company.

SAVES MONEY—PREVENTS LOSS OF GOODS.

A good oil tank is a money-maker in many ways—by stopping leaks, preventing excess measures, and rendering it impossible for oil to spoil goods in the same room.

It is because of these facts that the Bowser oil tank has had a great sale and is now to be found in the majority of the best groceries.

It is economical, convenient and safe.

THE SALMON SITUATION.

the British Columbia packers, a committee from whom are now in Ottawa. It is understood they will be successful in prevailing on the Canadian government to adopt the close season in the same years. Radical measures must be adopted if the Sockeye fish are to be preserved.

Whether remedial legislation is enacted or not, packers are determined to close down in the years indicated, and have made financial preparations to carry whatever portion of this year's pack may seem desirable until January 1, 1907. The packers are of the impression that Sockeye talls should rule between $1.25 and $1.35.

One Year's Pack for Two Years.

The mistakes of the past, combined with the exceedingly short packs, have so demanded of industry that extreme caution is demanded of all those packers who hope to survive. The determination, therefore, to spread the marketing of this year's pack over the years 1905 and 1906 is the only policy that will permit of the packers continuing in business.

Under the circumstances, future prices are decidedly problematical. We cannot venture a guess.

There is a "pointer" in the situation, however, that all jobbers should consider. The run of Sockeye salmon does not exceed thirty days in all. As flats and halves are a slow working package, canners can put out at least 40 per cent. more talls per day than either of these two styles, and naturally, when the run is on, all canners stop the packing of flats and halves and confine their attention exclusively to the tall tin. Hence it is obvious that in big years there is a correspondingly reduced pack of flats and halves, and the "pointer" to you is to get in your "subject to approval of price" orders early.

Bokkings have been very heavy thus far, and we are rather of the opinion that a large percentage of flats and halves have already been contracted.

TRADING STAMPS DOOMED.

ing stamps have been wiped out, have frequently fled the towns hurriedly without offering to redeem the trading stamps peddled out by foolish merchants who gave them to their customers. These merchants then had to satisfy these indignant people.

Prager's advertises that they will redeem trading stamps. It is to be noted that they make no definite proposition by which the public can hold them to account.

Will Block Coupon Schemes.

The law signed by Governor Pardee will prove of enormous aid to the retail merchant class since it serves to render illegal the great mass of coupon schemes which have been attached to legitimate commercial enterprises and render them extremely expensive.

The passage of this law is a great triumph for the State Grocers' Association.

The assistance of the Cigar Dealers' Association made the work of the grocers much easier in securing the law for the abolishment of trading stamps. It required the splendid machinery of the State Grocers' Association to secure its passage, though.

The San Francisco Grocers' Association started the movement against trading stamps several years ago. They took on their shoulders a task that the entire merchant class bore in other cities.

When T. H. Cocoran was president, the trading stamp matter was worked on very vigorously. The present president, J. Salomon, and W. Lenhoff, who was the vice-president, were put at the head of the committee that directed the association's activity.

The progress then made awoke the other classes of merchants to the possibility of securing relief from stamps. They united with the grocers.

A committee consisting of J. Salomon, Frank B. Connolly, Joseph A. Stulz and Geo. B. Doyle waited on the newspapers and took up the campaign against trading stamps.

Probability of Constitutionality.

A bill against trading stamps was being prepared by the attorney of the State Grocers' Association, and the attorney of the Merchants' Association of San Francisco was also at work on such a measure when they learned that the Cigar Dealers' Association had had a bill prepared by their lawyer, Mr. Charles A. Son.

The attorneys of these organizations were then brought together and spent a half day in remodeling the measure.

It is this bill which we print on another page which is now a law.

The three attorneys feel sure that its constitutionality can be established. They had the advantage of knowing the weak points of the laws that failed and are certain that they have avoided them.

Points to Watch

COFFEE MARKET—
It is thought that a re-action in prices of green coffees is now probable. Leading authorities unite in declaring that the bottom has been reached.

CANNED PINEAPPLE—
Stock of fancy sliced pineapple is said to be exhausted in first hands.

CANNED TOMATOES—
Solid pack goods are getting scarce. Low prices are putting the cheap goods in consumption. Fancy goods will be valuable property before the new pack comes in.

PRUNES—
Higher prices are being foretold for the larger sizes.

BRAZIL NUTS—
There has been a very large crop and new prices are expected to range lower.

MACKEREL—
No decline from the advance of this week is looked for until October.

FINNAN HADDIES—
Present prices are low.

PLEASES CONNOISSEURS.

One of the best coffees offered the Pacific Coast trade is the "Wedding Breakfast" brands of the Nash-Smith Tea and Coffee Company, the retail price of which is maintained at 35 cents per pound. This is a Java-Mocha mixture, gas roasted at an elevation of over 5,000 feet above the sea level. It has secured wonderful success in the Rocky Mountain States and the Middle West, and retailers of the Pacific Coast States are finding it very popular.

SEASON FOR SEVILLE GOODS.

Now is the time of the year when the wideawake grocer will see that his stock of "White Label" Queen olives and Pim-Olas are in order.

The season of picnics, excursions, camping parties, etc., is close at hand, and there is nothing more delicious or more appetizing than these goods with meals at such times.

It is the dealer who pays close attention to such small details as the proper stocking of goods of this class that sell the greatest amount of the Seville Packing Company's products, and thereby raises the character of his business while he materially increases its profits.

The dealer in handling these goods has the satisfaction of knowing that he has supplied his customers with the choicest and best goods procurable.

FLOUR AT COST.

Certain Mills Allowing Cutters to Demoralize Prices.

By J. F. Paulding.

The following advertisement was issued on March 9th by a retail grocer doing business in San Francisco and Oakland:

BEST FLOUR.....$1.20

Sperry, Colonial, Del Monte.

Are the mills that allow such a course acting as "friends" of the men who distribute their flour?

When the mills allow an advertisement such as this, they force every grocer in San Francisco and Alameda county to face the competition of a retailer who is selling leading brands of flour at absolute cost, providing they pay list price.

Not only does this force the grocers of these two localities to meet the competition, but it makes the consumer in every locality reached by the San Francisco dailies think their local grocers are robbing them if he asks a fair price.

Yet these mills, as well as the Port Costa and Crown, stand idly by and do nothing whatever to relieve the situation.

Del Monte Mills' Position.

It is not our intent to cause any undue criticism toward the Del Monte mills. They are anxious to list and protect their flour at any time the other mills do.

The real cause of the grocer having to face this kind of competition is the stand taken by the Stockton Milling Company, the Port Costa Milling Company and the Sperry Milling Company.

These three last mentioned mills, with the Del Monte, have had an association for several years, and the Del Monte has taken their flour off the list rather than break a rule of the association.

A Lesson for Grocers.

The grocers might take a lesson from the stand of the Del Monte Milling Company. If they are willing to sacrifice their own belief in order to bow to the will of a majority of their association, the association man has a striking example of loyalty that he would do well to emulate.

The Del Monte mills have shown a disposition to protect their customers in almost every respect. They stand ready at any time to protect their flour, providing the grocers will induce the other mills to do likewise.

In order to get the other mills to do so, you should push the sale of those flours, the price of which is protected.

They are as follows:

GLOBE MILLS.
"Banquet" brand.
"Silver Star" brand.
STANDARD FLOUR CO.
"Summit Snow" brand.
BAY CITY MILLS.
"Bay City" brand.
"White Fawn" brand.

You should also insist that the following mills protect their price, so that you will not have to be facing a $1.20 price:

SPERRY MILLING CO.
PORT COSTA MILLING CO.
STOCKTON MILLING CO.
AMERICAN MILLING CO.

These mills are using every endeavor to persuade the grocers of San

VICTORY.

Merchants in Many Parts of California Assist in Securing Needed Legislation.

By J. F. PAULDING.

Every merchant in the State of California should appreciate the work done by the California Retail Grocers and Merchants Association in securing favorable consideration from the legislature for measures on behalf of the merchants.

There is no special association to thank; there is no especial individual to thank. Every association and individual member responded nobly to the call and it was only through all bringing their influence to bear simultaneously on their Senators and Assemblymen, that we made them realize how much in earnest the merchants of the State were in demanding the laws asked for.

From the standpoint of the retail merchant the session of the legislature just concluded was the most important that has ever been held in California.

Important Measures Passed.

The Anti-Trading Stamp, Anti-Coupon bill is one of the most important measures that came before the legislature. The State Association was the largest factor in securing its passage as the vote on the bill will show. The Senators and Assemblymen from the entire State, with one exception, voting in its favor. Outside of San Francisco and Oakland, and one or two chambers of commerce, the State Association was the entire factor.

Wife's Separate Property—The passage of this bill has been asked by the merchants for many years. The statutes of this State allowed the juggling of property accumulated by husband and wife in order to evade the payment of just debts. The bill, as passed, holds the separate property of the wife responsible for bills for necessaries of life contracted by her or either of them while they are living together. Property accumulated by the wife, previous to her marriage, or acquired by her by will or through the death of a relative after marriage is exempt from the operations of the law.

Outlawing of Accounts—The bill providing that an account shall not begin to outlaw till the customer quits trading with the store, that is, the account shall date from the last item proven was passed, notwithstanding that it was introduced late in the session and met decided opposition. Heroic work was done on this bill by Mr. Houser in the Assembly and Mr. Muluter in the Senate. They both worked as if they were getting special pay for pushing this measure. The bill passed with a big majority, although it was defeated in the Senate when it first came up for consideration.

Bad Bills Defeated.

If the California State Grocers' Association had done nothing except defeat the objectionable bills that were introduced this season, it would have given ample reason for its creation.

We ask the merchants to judge for themselves what the effect of the following laws would have been

Wright's S. B. 250 would have prevented attachments being served in almost every case. The retailer would have had to prove fraud, deception etc. or that the debtor was going to

State President Reports

Mr. Pearson Tells of National Grocers' Convention at Cincinnati.

State President C. B. Pearson has made a very interesting report to the State Directors of the convention of the National Grocers' Association at Cincinnati, which he attended as the State delegate. After telling of his trip, he said:

The convention was called to order Tuesday morning by Mr. L. J. Oehlers, president of the Cincinnati Grocers' Association, after prayer by the Rev. C. W. Blodgett. Mr. Oehlers made the address of welcome.

He next introduced Mr. Julius Fleischmann, Mayor of Cincinnati, who welcomed the delegates and tendered them the freedom of the city.

Mr. W. B. Melish, in a very witty and humorous speech, welcomed the guests on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce.

Past President Chas. R. Lott, and Vice-President Jas. A. Stulz responded for the visitors.

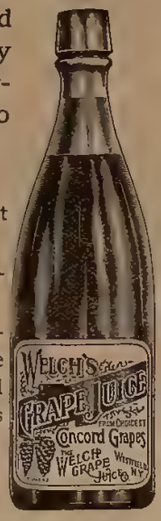
President A. W. Farlinger then followed with his annual address. This was replete with good thoughts and showed great pains and study in preparing it. He recommends that organizers be put in the different States, that local and State associations introduce city and State legislation antagonistic to all trading stamp schemes, that a uniform rating code be adopted, that the National Association devise ways and means to put it on a self supporting basis; that each State association adopt the mutual fire insurance plan (thereby saving the policy holders from 70 to 100 per cent on their premiums), that the national endorse the Cooper Quarles bill, as endorsed by President Roosevelt, giving the Interstate Commerce Commission authority to afford relief from unjust discrimination in freight rates.

He also urged the adoption of a national law for weights and measures.

Recognition for California.

The appointment of committees followed and Mr. Connoly of California was honored by being made a member of the credential committee. By virtue of my office I was a member of resolution committee.

Secretary Fred Mason's report followed, showing the good work that was being accomplished with the aid of the trade press, and told of organization during the past year. He also told of the hard work he had in getting the American Cereal Company to agree to discontinue the giving of premiums in their package goods. At this point a telegram was read from the Great Western Cereal Company announcing their discontinuance of this practice. This caused great enthusiasm. The financial report showed a balance on hand of $2532.51.



Dr. Wiley, Chief Chemist of the United States Agricultural Department, then followed in regard to the pure food bill. He was a very interesting speaker declaring that the grocers were the educators of the people, as they come in contact with the masses more than any other class of merchants do.

Mr. T. P. Sullivan of Chicago gave an interesting address on "Peddlers and Transient Merchants,' showing up in plain facts the harm this class of competition does to the legitimate groceryman. He urged as a remedy a very high license.

A. F. Sheldon of Chicago gave an address on "Scientific Salesmanship," and Henry J. Schaberg followed in a few well chosen remarks on "The Grocer's Influence." Tuesday evening there was a smoker for the delegates, where sauerkraut and beer were in abundance.

Second Day.

Being a member of the committee on resolutions, composed of the president of each State association, we were obliged to meet in a committee room separate from the convention hall, and as there was plenty of work for us to do, I did not have the pleasure of listening to the following addresses: "The Relation of Debtors and Creditors," by Edwin A. Kranthoff; "Parcel Post and Mail Order Houses," by C. L. Grigg; "National Pure Food Law," by Hon. Horace Ankeney of the Pure Food Commission of Ohio.

A very able address on "Relation of Our State Association and Our Mutual Insurance Company," by E. R. Moore, secretary of Indiana Mutual Insurance Company, followed, and it was made plain that the merchants of that State are saving from one-third to one-half over what they used to pay old-line companies.

Mr. Fred Lorenz, ex-treasurer of the National, read a paper on "Financing the National Association." He advocated placing the tax at 50 cents a member. This was fought out at great length by the resolutions committee, and finally passed, but I voted against it. When it came up later in the convention it was debated for over two hours and finally voted down, the tax still remaining the same, 10 cents per member.

The most eloquent address during the convention was made by Mr. J. A. Van Hoose, president of the Southern Wholesale Grocers' Association, of Birmingham, Ala. Mr. Van Hoose is an ex-minister of the gospel. He dealt with the evil of wholesalers selling direct to the consumers, and the manufacturers selling direct to the retailers.

He advocated a rebate by the manufacturers of say 5 cents a case on staple brands of goods as a means of financing the National Association.

Wednesday evening the delegates were the guests of the Cincinnati grocers at a theatre party, the play being Klaw and Erlanger's grand production of "Ben Hur." The orchestra seats were reserved for the delegates. The production was keenly enjoyed by all.

Third Day.

The final report of the committee on credentials showed 182 accredited delegates. The following officers were elected: John A. Greene, Ohio, president; L. F. Padberg, Missouri, vice-president; H. W. Schwab, Wisconsin, treasurer; C. J. Kramer, Arkansas, director.

When we arrived in Cincinnati everything was for Joseph A. Stulz for president and Mr. Greene for vice-president, but a combination was formed by Ohio, with 61 votes, and Missouri, with 20 votes, to elect Mr. Greene president, and Mr. Padberg, vice-president.

Mr. Stulz was the unanimous choice of the officers of the National Association, but with the combination against him his defeat was certain.

The only thing that could be said against Mr. Stulz was that he was too far away, and that the time and expense of traveling was too great. Mr. Ashley, in nominating Mr. Greene, spoke in the highest terms of Mr. Stulz, but said that he was too far away.

After lunch the convention was called to order by President Greene.

Resolutions of Convention.

The following resolutions were adopted:

Recommending the appointment of a committee to urge upon Congress the passage of a bill creating a uniform standard of weights and measures.

To discourage manufacturers from selling direct to retailers to the detriment of legitimate jobbers.

Protesting against, and asking all cereal companies to discontinue the giving of all coupon premium schemes.

Commending the action of the trade press in combatting the evil of exchanging various articles of merchandise for tags, coupons, etc.

Asking the American Tobacco Company to cease the giving of tags and coupons for redemption, and that all State and local associations be asked to pass resolutions on this subject and forward to said company.

Protesting against the American Tobacco Company's new plan of putting a cash value on tags, as by so doing they become a competitor of the retail dealer who is a distributor of their products, by selling direct to the consumer.

Adopted the recommendation of President A. W. Farlinger that the net weight of goods contained in packages be plainly marked on the outside of the package by the manufacturers and packers, so that the purchaser may knew the exact quantity purchased.

Resolution of appreciation to President Roosevelt heartily commending his action taken on trade and commerce, and pledging the support of the National to assist him in further efforts to bring about a change of existing conditions. Urging the government and municipal officials to exert themselves to prevent the use of the public streets and avenues for merchandising in any form, and pledging its support to any movement designed to put an end to peddling and hawking.

Instructing the legislative committee to draft a bill and present same to Congress prohibiting the use of coupons tags, etc.

That the by-laws be amended to read: That the president and secretary of each State association affiliated with the National shal by virtue of their offices be members exofficio and delegates to the National Association.

Directing the secretary to use his efforts to induce the manufacturers of crackers and cookies to charge goods at net weight, instead of forcing the retailer to pay for cardboard, etc., used in packing, at the price of the articles sold.

Opposing the giving of rebates as practiced by many manufacturers.

Petitioning President Roosevelt to make an order that all government officials shall pay their debts for necessaries, whether contracted before or after entering the employ of the United States.

Instructing the National officers to use all honorable means to influence manufacturers to sell their goods through the proper channel, instead of through the club and endless chain system.

Commending the Cooper-Quarles bill relative to excessive rates charged by private lines.

A vote of thanks to the Cincinnati association for their courtesies, and assuring them of our appreciation.

Mayor Fleischmann's Gift.

Just before adjournment a policeman escorted Secretary Fred Mason to Mayor Fleischmann's office when he was presented with a check for $1000 for the National Association. When Mr. Mason returned and announced the good news the enthusiasm was unbounded. I had the honor of meeting Mayor Fleischmann, who is a young man and is exceedingly popular.

During the afternoon there was an excursion to Ivorydale, given by Proctor & Gamble, giving the delegates a chance to visit their immense plant and see how Ivory Soap is made. I was unable to attend, but my wife reported a very pleasant affair. There was plenty of music, a dance in the factory, after which a tempting lunch was served.

Thursday evening a banquet was given the visitors, plates being laid for 2500 people. Grocers from all over Ohio came to attend, and in conversation with the caterer the next day I was informed that 1755 guests were served.

The program was abandoned after Toastmaster Fred Mason made several ineffectual efforts to suppress the demonstration and make himself heard.

It was the largest banquet I ever attended and considering the large crowd, the service was excellent. The Cincinnati grocers spared neither time nor money to make this affair a success, and it was a grand sight and one never to be forgotten.

Through the efforts of Mr. Connolly a trip was arranged on Friday to Dayton, Ohio to visit the factory of the National Cash Register Company. The members of the Dayton Grocers' Association met us at the depot, and escorted us there. We were taken in

We enjoyed our visit here very much, seeing much that was new and interesting. We also visited a large market during the afternoon, and in the evening took our train to return.

The National Association is made up of bright, intelligent grocers from nearly every State in the Union, who are earnest and sincere in their efforts to improve conditions and correct evils that now exist. With the different State associations properly organized and represented in the National, the influence that can be brought to bear will be such that great good can be accomplished.

New York and several of the far Eastern States are going to take up organization at once, and get many more retailers into the ranks.

Urges Better Organization.

I would urge the different local associations throughout the State to do all in their power to get new members and have a large representation at Stockton in August.

We have accomplished much, but, properly organized, we can accomplish more. I wish to thank the board of directors for the confidence they placed in me by sending me to the National Association, and will try and show my appreciation by good, hard work in the future.

I hope and trust that my trip will prove a benefit to the State Association.

We were royally entertained by the Cincinnati grocers, and enjoyed our return trip, but were glad to return to sunny California.

C. B. Pearson, President.

WILL ADVERTISE PRUNES.

A communication was recently received by the Santa Clara County Dried Fruit Promotion Committee from Siegel-Cooper & Co., of New York, who said that they favored demonstrating prunes and offered any assistance in their power.

WEST WANTS PROTECTION.

The directors of the State Grocers' Association, at their meeting last week, passed the following resolution protesting against the Esch-Townsend bill in its present shape, and demanding that the great interests of the West have direct representation on the Inter-State Commerce Commision:

Whereas, The California Retail Grocers and Merchants' Association is vitally interested in the upbuilding of California in every way, in its manufactures and its distributing facilities; and,

Whereas, The present Interstate Commerce Commission consists solely of members from east of the Missouri river, none of whom has ever been a resident of California; none of whom is a merchant or manufacturer or a railroad man of experience, but all of whom are lawyers or political representatives; and,

Whereas, It is proposed to give this Interstate Commerce Commission power, upon complaint, to change any interstate freight rate in the United States, which practically places the control of the railroads without operating or financial responsibility therefor into the hands of a commission; and,

Whereas, California is so far from its markets in both directions in comparison with other sections that rates made o the mileage basis adopted heretofore in appeals acted on by the commission, would bar our products from many markets in competition with other sections where we are now enabled to compete because the California railroads realize that in order to live themselves they must make rates enabling us to live; therefore be it

Resolved, That we request representation of the Pacific Coast and of the Pacific Northwest, through the enlargement of the commission by two members, and that we suggest the rate-making power be left where it is, and that the commission should devote itself to the elimination of abuse of evils arising from any secret rebates, secret rates, private car lines or other forms of discrimination among shippers between any two points.

SELLS PURE MAPLE SYRUP.

Clarence M. La Shelle has just completed a tour of the Coast in the interests of Welch Bros.' Maple Company, of Burlington, Vt. This firm manufactures an absolutely pure maple syrup that is noted wherever it is introduced for its delicious flavor. Mr. LaShelle informs us that the price of maple syrup will unquestionably rule firm and high since many manufacturers of highly considered brands of maple syrup will now have to buy much larger quantities of maple sugar in order to be able to sell their goods in States that have pure food laws. Mr. LaShelle explains that the syrup of his company was merely the sap thickened by boiling and was not made by dissolving maple sugar as so many are. The particular excellence of its flavor is due to this fact.

In the first place, they will like the Shredded Whole Wheat products and find that they represent the ideal food with the maximum amount of nutrition; and the second place, you will be doing yourself a good turn as well as your customers. It always pays to recommend a good thing—particularly when there is a satisfactory profit in it for you.

The Shredded Whole Wheat products pay you a good profit, and keep on paying it constantly, as they are not a fad, but a staple — people who once try them, keep on trying them.

There's no food on the market which is better advertised. This means that the demand is permanent as well as strong.

It will be good business for you to speak a good word for Shredded Whole Wheat to those unacquainted with its merits.

PREPARED TO FIGHT.

Trading Stamp People Will Try to Control Litigation.

We learn from Sacramento that an attempt will be made by the Sperry & Hutchinson interests to have some friends of theirs among the retail dealers arrested for giving trading stamps as soon as the law goes into effect. They will furnish the lawyer for the arrested merchant and will use every endeavor to have the law proved unconstitutional.

The San Francisco retail grocers are more interested than any other body in upholding the law, as far as it pertains to trading stamps.

The Cigar Dealers' Association want to use the law in order to break down the Tobacco Trust schemes of premium coupons.

It will be up to the San Francisco grocers to institute an active campaign in arresting those dealers who insist on giving trading stamps and keep on arresting them until the Supreme Court hands down a decision.

A correspondent in Los Angeles writes that the people are flocking to the Trading Stamp Company's rooms to get their stamps redeemed.

There is no question but that a great many people will find themselves unable to redeem their trading stamps when the law goes into effect.

Stamp Companies Skipped.

In Eastern States, where effective laws have been passed, many of the trading stamp companies made no attempt to redeem the stamps that had been issued, but closed up their warehouses and fled the towns, leaving the retail merchants who had given out the stamps to explain to their angry customers. Every grocer should explain to his customers that this is the treatment they will probably get from the trading stamps here.

It is to be noted that Prager's no longer advertises that they will redeem trading stamps at their store.

The Sebastopol Roachdale Company, whose store was destroyed by fire recently, held a special meeting on March 4th. After considerable discussion it was decided to disincorporate.

THANK MR. PAULDING.

San Francisco Grocers Rejoice at Legislative Triumphs of State Association.

Only 15 grocers were present at the meeting of the San Francisco Retail Grocers on Wednesday evening, which proved very interesting.

Mr. Suss, chairman of the Grievance Committee, reported having corrected several trade abuses complained of by members. Complaint of a bottling company that had sold a consumer resulted in their promising to discontinue. Otto Luhn, the soap manufacturer, agreed to stop selling soap from house to house.

Members were urged to send complaints to Mr. Suss, giving full particulars.

Much gratification was expressed at the results achieved at the last Legislature. Mr. Paulding told in an interesting way of the work that had been done.

Vice-President Connolly, who is also State Secretary, explained some of the obstacles that had been overcome. He insisted that the value of Mr. Paulding's services was far in excess of what he had been paid, and suggested that a vote of thanks be tendered him. This was done without a dissenting voice.

Mr. Bauers, secretary of the Dry Goods Dealers' Association, in a short address, expressed great admiration at the effective way in which the grocers all over the State had been enabled to unite in influencing the Legislature through their State Association.

GET PICKLE TRADE.

Give Something Better and See How It Draws Customers.

"We are in position to help retail grocers build up a good pickle business.

"It only requires quality to do this.

"If the dealer is willing to do his share, we will assume all the risk."

This is the platform of the Pacific Vinegar & Pickle Works. They let the dealer "money back" every package of their "California Home Brand" pickles and thus enable him to recommend them to his trade. They guarantee that the price will be right by agreeing to let the grocer fix the price himself and pay whatever he decides they are worth if, on the arrival of the goods, he does not find them the best value for the money he ever bought.

No Pacific Coast pickles ever before had the quality that is to be found in the "California Home Brand" goods. F. L. Matthews, manager of the Pacific Vinegar and Pickle Works, has been in the business for more than 20 years. He has learned the great lesson that permanent success in the condiment line depends upon quality. The pickles used by his company are specially grown from special seed with every care to insure tender pickles. Their sweet pickles are really preserves and every sale means a steady customer who will buy ten times as many "California Home Brand" goods as they would of the usual cheap and tough article.

Attracting Trade

Entertainers As Trade Attracters.

A one-price cash supply company of South Dakota uses original advertising schemes. One of them is just in, says the Commercial Bulletin.

A circular, evidently printed on a mimeograph, was sent to all of the people in that territory. At the top is a picture of a full moon and the date, January 27. The circular explains itself. It says:

Dear Friends—We have made arrangements with a company of "Royal Entertainers" of high standing to give a musical and literary entertainment at Michael's hall—Friday evening, Jan. 27th, for the benefit of all who are (and may be) our customers—old and young—married or single—male and female.

Absolutely no admission charged.

This company comes at our expense.

We issue the tickets this way:

We give every person or family a free ticket with every $5 worth of goods bought from us between the dates of Friday of this week—Jan. 13 and Friday evening, Jan. 27. (No saving stamps will be given between these dates.)

There is a two-fold benefit to you just at this time, in this way:

First—You save money because of the extra special values offered during this month's stock cleaning.

Second—An evening of high class entertainment, absolutely free! You certainly will be made to realize that—

"A little nonsense, now and then
Is relished by the wisest men."

We kindly refer you to large advertisement circulars of last week for the ridiculously low prices quoted on Ladies' Tailor Made Suits, Skirts, Jackets, Shirt Waists, etc., but better still for you to come and see the bargains offered at this Rummage Sale, and buy all you can possibly use for the next six months.

Just with our ordinary trade we would issue tickets enough for a good house to this entertainment, but we want the house packed on the night of Jan. 27, and if you get more tickets than you can use, give them to your friends.

You notice we mention full moon—Jan. 27, so those who live 15 or 20 miles away can just as well come as not and bring the children.

One of the entertainers of this company was hired because of his ability to please, entertain and keep the little folks wide awake all evening.

Thanking you again for your liberal patronage, and assuring you our earnest endeavors to always give you our best values and on the evening of Jan. 27th furnish you an evening of Real Enjoyment, we are, very truly yours, —McLouth & Slasor.

P. S.—Seats reserved in order as each $5 is traded. The one who trades the first $5 beginning Friday, Jan. 13th, gets first choice—the second $5 the second choice, and so on. Who will be the first? McL. & S.

Utilize Your Awning for Advertising.

Comparatively few dealers ever think to put their awnings at work, as an advertisement for their business. In too many cases the awning is allowed to become weather-worn and dingy, while the advertising upon it is generally limited to the name and street number on the flap.

Now, as a matter of fact, an unfurled awning is the most conspicuous part of a store front, and if it is ragged and soiled is apt to give people an unfavorable impression of the store.

As a rule, the average dealer, especially in the smaller cities, would find it a good investment to have the awning renewed every season. The more trim and tidy the awning is kept, the more favorable would be the impression upon prospective customers.

Then the awning should bear an attractive permanent advertisement, sufficiently striking in character to attract the attention of persons on the opposite side of the street, or of those riding by. In addition to this permanent sign, the awning can be utilized from time to time for temporary advertisements, whenever the dealer has something special to which he desires to call attention.

The awning can be used to advantage for this purpose in exploiting a new brand which is being introduced, and during the summer to impress upon vacationists the advisability of buying a stock of smokes before they start upon their outings; while just previous to the holiday season the awning can be employed to urge the desirability of making selections for holiday gifts from the dealer's stock.

Temporary signs for such purposes can be painted upon muslin or cotton by an ordinary sign painter at a comparatively trifling expense.

Francisco they are their friends and have been for many years.

The Dealers' Friends.

We ask you if allowing you to face such competition for all these years is friendship?

We ask you if refusing to abide by the request of the grocers for protection is friendship?

We ask if it shows friendship for them to try and make you believe them as against the reports of your association?

We ask you if it is friendship for them to spread lying reports in an endeavor to shake your confidence in your representative, who is making an effort to better your condition?

Do all these prove their friendship for you?

We leave you to be the judge.

It sometimes takes a new friend who really tries to help to show up the shortcomings of the old ones who pretended to be friends in order to keep you willing to work for them without a profit.

Others will not allow cutters to prevent you from making money.

HAS WON MANY MEDALS.

One of the most effective medal winners of the country is the "United States Metal Polish." This splendid article won all the medals at the World's Fair at Chicago in 1893 in competition with many polishes, and also the World's Fair at St. Louis, which recently closed.

The "United States Metal Polish" has been on the market for 23 years. Its history has been one of considerable satisfaction. It is the product of long experiments by a practical chemist. Its excellence is such that the demand has been increasing continually, so that they are now the largest manufacturers of their kind in the country.

The goods are guaranteed to be first class in every respect. This fact insures that the customer who purchases will be satisfied. There is a good margin to the retail dealer, which insures that the dealer will be satisfied.

GRAPE JUICE THAT SELLS.

Welch's grape juice is enjoying a very large sale in California this winter—much greater than ever before.

There are many grape juices on the market, but the original unfermented grape juice is that known as Welch's, and which is put up by Dr. Welch of Welch's Grape Juice Company at Westport, New York.

This article is free from any adulteration or antiseptic, and is sold to consumers just as it is pressed from the grapes. The trade cannot make any mistake in stocking Welch's for the reason that it is the leading article of its kind, and the makers are advertising it very liberally in all the leading magazines and periodicals.

The corner store, 50x125 feet, will be devoted to offices and salesrooms and will be fitted up with every modern improvement. The second store, which was also occupied by J. A. They will have three additional floors and an additional basement for the systematic storage of their goods in addition to the new floors and basement that they have.

CIGARS AND TOBACCO.

Ehrman Bros. & Co., distributors of the Optimo, report a satisfactory and steadily increasing trade. The Optimo is easily the leader among high grade goods in this market. No up-to-date cigar store is without them. They are putting a new size of the Optimo on the market.

The M. A. Gunst Cigar Company of Seattle, Wash., have bought the entire business of Goldberg Bros., Inc., Henry K. Goldberg becoming first vice president and manager of the new enterprise.

Henry W. Taft, a brother of the Secretary of War, has been especially engaged to investigate the selling operations of the American Tobacco Company in and about the city of New York.

Rinaldo Bros. & Co., cigar and tobacco dealers and jobbers, are putting considerable stress on Old North State tobacco, manufactured by R. P. Richardson Jr., at Reedsville, N. C.

The utter absurdity of attempting to gauge the strength or mildness of a cigar by the color of the wrapper is coming to be better understood by smokers generally than it ever was before. As a result the demand for pale colored cigars is steadily decreasing. One New York dealer says that his sales of light colored cigars are 40 per cent less than they were a few months ago.—Tobacco.

The Tampa correspondent of Tobacco writes to that journal: "Jose Lovera & Co. are fertile in resources. The latest improvement designed by Mr. Lovera is a dry box with a capacity for 10,000 cigars, the boxes placed on a grating midway in the box with electric bulbs on the bottom to furnish the heat, the temperature being uniform and can be raised to 110 degrees, which will dry the boxes in 10 minutes to be ready for shipping when weather is unusually damp."

Arrangements for the great tobacco exposition at New York next October are progressing most satisfactorily, according to the managers. The committee is in receipt of numerous letters from would-be exhibitors and have received promises from a number of prominent manufacturers that they will be represented by attractive exhibits. Indirect assurance has also been received that most of the more prominent independent cigar manufacturers in Havana have already decided that they will be liberally represented and that several thousand dollars will be raised for that purpose.

Herman Heyneman has issued the following circular to the trade under date of March 6:

"Effective on and after this date, for a limited time, we will send checks to your customers, the retail dealers, for 50 cents (50c) each, on sales to them from your stock made under the following conditions: Each sale must consist of 50 pounds or more of The American Tobacco Company's listed brands of smoking tobacco, or "Boot Jack" plug, or "Sledge" plug, or "Old Virginia" cheroots (100 "Old Virginia" Cheroots will count in a sale as two (2) pounds of tobacco). Each sale must include five pounds of "Union Leader" plug or 12 pounds "Sledge" plug. Each sale must include either "Union Leader" plug cut or "Sledge" plug, and no payment will be made on any sales unless one of these brands is included, in quantities as above stated. No allowance of more than fifty cents (50c) will be made on any sale of more than 50 pounds and less than 100 pounds of the brands of tobaccos above named. Sales of 100 pounds must include 10 pounds of "Union Leader" plug cut or 24 pounds of "Sledge" plug, to entitle the retailer to a check from us for $1.00; and larger sales in multiples of 50 pounds must include "Union Leader" plug cut or "Sledge" plug in the same proportion."

HOW HE DID IT.

A Prominent San Francisco Grocer Makes a Discovery.

A prominent San Francisco grocer was speaking recently about the various means developed for economizing work and insuring accuracy in the grocery store.

Automatic weighers, computing scales, electric coffee mills and cheese-cutters, all are important, the main difficulty with many of them being the amount of capital required for a man to furnish his store with these fixtures; but the most important and least expensive improvement this grocer knows of is the Perfection Short Credit System, which looks after the credit end of his business without any work, and saves him all the night labor and worry of mistakes and bill-making he previously endured.

This man is only one of the many who have found this system invaluable to them, and it is a fact that no dealer can afford to be without it.

The agent is P. E. Lenfestey, 220 California street, San Francisco.

Matches that are made in heaven have nothing to do with the misfit alliances between poverty-striken foreigners and silly American heiresses.

FRANK P. FAVEL.

A Live Business Man Who is Enthusiastic About Lily Cream.

We present this week a picture of Frank P. Favel, the local representative of the Pacific Creamery Company who is now located at the headquarters of the company, 115 Davis street, in this city. Mr. Favel has been engaged in exploiting Lily Cream for the last eight years. His field has been Southern California until the first of the year, when he was transferred to San Francisco in order that the company might secure the same hold in Northern California that they have in the South.

Lily Cream is the pioneer of the large tins of evaporated cream.

In quality it is a standard of excellence.

Although it is found in most of the leading grocery stores of Northern California, Mr. Favel reports that the business for February of this year showed a large increase over the sales of the similar period in 1904.

UTAH GROCERS PROTEST.

A committee of fifteen has been appointed by the newly organized Grocers' and Butchers' Association of Salt Lake City to take up the matter of necessary legislation. The grocers of the Mormon metropolis want to be able to garnish the wages of public officials. They also want manufacturers to mark the net weight of the contents of all package goods on the outside wrapper. Another bill that the grocers are interested in is one to make it a misdemeanor to sell storage eggs as fresh ranch hen fruit.

Clerk's Corner

Indifferent Clerks Lose Trade.

Perhaps the lack of alertness or indifference on the part of employers or of the executives who look after the details of them is to some extent responsible for the fact that many clerks and other employees who come in contact with customers daily injure the business of their employers, say Michigan Tradesman.

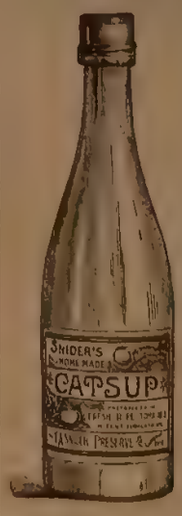
While the majority of clerks are obliging and study to please their customers and to serve their employers conscientiously, there is many a one among the minority who every day causes his firm to lose more than his salary amounts to. In other words, if, instead of drawing his salary of $15 a week or whatever it may be, he were to pay his employer that sum for the privilege of working for him, his employer even then would profit by discharging him.

A New York man recently had occasion to go into a large machinist supply house in the down-town district to make a purchase. It was fully forty minutes before closing time and half a dozen idle clerks were lounging on the counters talking. None of them offered to wait on the intending customer and when he finally advanced on the staring group and asked to be waited on, each looked at another with an expression that plainly said: "It's so near our quitting time that I don't want to work." And it was fully a minute before one shuffled lazily from the group and proceeded to make a sale. He threw down an article from the shelf without waiting to learn just the customer wanted. Then, in haste to get through with his task, he tried to tell the customer that he had no other kind. The customer scanned the shelves until he saw what he wanted and then the clerk lazily wrapped up the purchase and wrote out the check.

It goes without saying that the customer will walk several blocks out of his way rather than go there to trade again. Of course the man in charge of the floor would not countenance such shiftlessnees on the part of his clerks if he saw it. But that does not count with the customer.

MILK POWDER IN CANADA.

James H. Worman, U. S. Consul at Three Rivers, Quebec, writes: "A process has recently been patented in Canada for the manufacture of milk powder, which consists of mixing with milk a sufficient quantity of milk salts to render the albumen soluble, such as 1 per cent of nitrate of calcium and phosphate of potassium. The milk is then evaporated and noncrystalline sugar is added in proportion of about 1 to 2 per cent of the weight of the milk in order to prevent decomposition."



TIMELY AND PERTINENT.

"Mr. Grocer, a sort of Lenten monotony has come over our family luncheons, and I know you can suggest something toothsome to break it up. Please, now, what shall it be?" Has the affable Mrs. Paywell said this to you yet, over the phone or the counter? Very likely.

If you have sampled the "Sunset" brand of canned mackerel and can therefore speak confidently of the excellence of both the fish and the olive oil, you know just what to say to Mrs. Paywell and to add to the golden opinions she has already formed of you. These mackerel are both delicate and satisfying, and there is a choice of souse, mustards and tomato flavoring.

These goods deserve a prominent place in every Lenten display, and the wide-awake dealer will see to it that he has it, that his customers' palates may be tickled and his sales increased.

CLIMATE CONDITIONS.

San Jose—Fruit growers insist that spring is fully a month ahead of time this year. The almond blossoms are nearly all fallen and the apricots and early peaches are all in bloom. The past rainfall insures a bountiful season.

Gridley—The season is now far enough advanced to indicate for this section the largest fruit crop in its history. Almonds, peaches and apricots promise full crops, and from the number of swelling buds on the pear and prune trees it seems likely that these varieties will yield heavily.

SUGAR MARKET.

There have been no changes this week and there is no indication as to how the market will go, but prices are lower than the cost of raws would authorize.

New York, March 9, Willett & Gray report: "The total stock of sugar for the world shows a visible supply of 3,019,816 tons, as against 3,834,641 tons last year. A decrease of about 815,000 tons.

COFFEE MARKET.

Lewin-Meyer Co. report:

"There has been considerable activity locally. Roasters have been buying freely at present prices since they feel that coffee at the figure now quoted is a safe investment. There was a decline of an eighth of a cent in New York to-day (Wednesday afternoon), but there is no room for a further decline in excess of a fraction of a cent and there is more probability of an advance."

New York, March 9th, Willett & Gray report: "With the general situation cleared up and prices brought back to about the lowest level of the crop, it is quite certain that conditions are favorable to better markets. The world's stocks begin to show a good decreaseand allowing that Rio and Santos receipts will be about as forecasted for the month, the arrivals of other coffees will surely show a sharp falling off. The visible supply must therefore continue to decrease for the balance of the crop. How much the decrease will be will depend on the proportions of the trade demand. It is well known that the necessities of the interior roasters and dealers are becoming acute, and there are good signs for improving demand in the New York market. Reports from different points in Europe also confirm a better inquiry for coffee. Whenever the trade becomes assured of the merit of existing values in the light of smaller production, together with constant increasing consumption, a notable change can be brought about very quickly. Coffee is well held by the strongest parties in the trade as well as by large capitalists, which of itself is a strong feature for the speculative markets. There exists also a large short interest to be taken care of ultimately."

TEA MARKET.

Conditions locally are at a standstill. The jobbing trade is fully supplied. We print this week a quotation from a Chicago paper which sounds rather fishy, since the Ceylon tea growers have not been telling of the uprooting of any large proportion of acreage planted for teas.

A Chicago paper reports L. H. Houston of San Francisco as saying: "Our market has been loaded to the limit because of the over-production of the Ceylon tea season before last. Because of this over-production, the tea acreage in Ceylon has been reduced about 75 per cent. I expect this decrease will result in an advance of at least 2 cents this fall, when conditions become normal again. The retail market will probably be affected to the extent of 5 cents. If Japan's war continues for any length of time there must be a steady advance in tea prices."

CANNED GOODS.

Stocks of canned fruits are very generally broken. The association is able to supply the needs of its regular customers. All eyes are now turned to the country and will depend upon the quality and quantity of the fruit crop which will come upon a practically bare market.

George B. Katzenstein, manager of the Earl Fruit Co., after a personal inspection of the San Joaquin Valley as far as Fresno and Visalia, the Santa Clara region, Watsonville, Suisun, Vacaville and Winters, Sutter, Yuba and Butte counties, and as far north as Anderson in Shasta County, says:

"In all the places I visited the conditions are most promising. The only place where I found anything like a doubtful feeling is about San Jose, where the prune growers are alarmed over the appearance of a new pest, called thrips. The situation is alarming.

"In every way that the matter may be considered the present rain will be helpful to the fruit interests. From my view the fruit will be improved and the quantity of commercial output profitable for shipping.

"The pear blight, which practically destroyed the Bartlett pear in the orchards of the San Joaquin Valley, from which thousands of carloads were formerly shipped, is threatening the Sacramento Valley. Unless the orchardists work together their pear trees will also be destroyed.

"Barring possible extreme cold weather and the equally baneful north winds at inopportune times, the prospect is favorable for a record-breaking year. We ought to be able to market our fruits from ten to twenty days earlier than usual. The small apricot crop, and the enforced rest has shown its effect on the orchards, as the trees are literally alive with blossoms."

Canned Pineapple—Canned sliced pineapple is reported to be extremely scarce in Baltimore. The stock of fancy pineapple in first hands seems to be exhausted.

CANNED VEGETABLES.

Asparagus—The first asparagus of the season is being packed this week. The California Fruit Canners' Association will begin in a week or ten days.

Canned Peas—The "New England Grocer" of Boston says that advances of 10 and 15 cents on spot peas, owing to their heavy consumption resulting from low prices. Fancy grades spot peas are very closely cleaned up.

Canned Corn—Supplies of cheap goods are still being pressed on the market and corn is quiet. Good corn is held with confidence, but inferior grades may bring even lower prices. It is reported that Maine corn is already sold up to 80 per cent of the possible output and inquiries are still numerous.

Canned Tomatoes—The "Grocery World" of Philadelphia says that the supply of cheap tomatoes is about cleaned up and that a decided advance in prices is expected by July 1st.

DRIED FRUITS.

Prunes—There is an increasing demand for 40-50s at from 5 to 5¼ cents. Other sizes show no advance

San Jose, March 7th—A large number of crates are being made at Santa Cruz for the purpose of shipping Santa Clara prunes to Europe during the coming fruit season. This will lessen the quality of high class fruit to be cured.

Sacramento, March 11th — The "Union" reports: Ernest Luehring predicts better prune prices for the coming season. He declares that there is no probability of a repetition of the big crops of Bosnia and Servia, and since there is no big carry-over, California prune growers will have a chance."

Raisins—The market is stagnant with lower prices for 3-crown and 2-crown layers.

Figs—The "Grocers' Criterion" of Chicago says: "Advices from Smyrna confirm the fact that stocks there are practically exhausted. The only market abroad that can be looked to for further supplies is England and stock is said to be in small supply there. The few local holders show a strong advancing tendency. Competent authorities estimate that the available spot supply of figs is about 800,000 pounds. This is some 500,000 pounds less than the corresponding period of last year.

BRAZIL NUTS.

Spot stocks are stated to be exhausted. The new crop is expected soon but no price have been fixed as yet. Since the 1905 crop is expected to be considerable larger than last year a moderate range of values is looked for.

CANNED SALMON.

The Alaska Packers' Association will dispatch 28 vessels to the north as against 45 of last year. The reduction in the fleet is the result of operating only 13 of its 20 Alaskan canneries which were running last year. It will operate three on Puget Sound as against one in 1904. Only 22 of 46 belonging to other Alaska companies will operate. In all 31 Alaska canneries will be closed during 1905.

Astoria, Ore., March 10th—B. F. Stone of the J. K. Armsby Co., says: "I do not believe the Columbia river prices can be raised over last year because of the large expected pack of sockeyes on the Puget Sound. There will be ready sale at last year's prices for all the salmon that can be packed on the Columbia river, but they would not move readily at higher prices. Present conditions are effected through the fact that in addition to the expected large pack on the Sound there are several hundred thousand cases of Alaska fish still in first hands."

Seattle, Wash., March 9.—Instead of the total closure of fishing during 1906-1908, there will be a closed season of 36 hours each week during which the salmon will be able to run up the rivers. No fish can be caught in the waters of Washington between 6 p. m. Saturday and 6 a. m. Monday under heavy penalty. The large canners fear that the protection accorded will not be sufficient to save the salmon from extermination.

Seattle, Wash., March 10.—Canners in Southeast Alaska start up about June 1st. The canneries on the Sound will commence between July 10th and 15th. This is expected to be the fourth-cycle, or big year—that is the largest pack in the last four years is anticipated. Owing to the delay in the sale of the P. P. & N. Co's Alaska properties only a few of the plants will be operated this year. It is reported that there is nothing left of the canned and pickled stock from last year's Columbia river pack in first hands. No contracts are being considered for this season's pack except that each cannery promises to supply its regular customers, if they can, at a price to be arrived at later.

Vancouver, B. C.—The failure of the Washington legislature to pass a law protecting salmon in 1906-8 will result in revoking the Canadian agreement since it was passed conditionally upon a close season on Puget Sound. It is possible that an agreement will be arrived at with the Americans with regard to the weekly close season.

SALT AND SMOKED FISH.

Wieland Bros. report:

"Norway Mackerel. Bloaters, ones and twos, took another jump in price and there is no prospect of a decline until next season in October. Smoked Finnan Haddies turn out remarkably good this season and as prices are very low at present, they will sell well with the retail trade during Lenten season."

Sprats—Advices from France and Belgium state that the pack of sprats up to date have been very poor. Stocks unsold in hands of packers are now very low and the market at primary points show an advancement of 60c per case since the commencement of the season.

BAG MARKET.

The rains have put up the price of Calcutta bags from 6⅛c to 6½c. There will be about 42,000,000 needed for the Coast grain crop this year.

HAY MARKET.

Somers & Co. report:

"Shipments of hay for the week have amounted to 3080 tons. There is nothing to warrant this quantity of hay being shipped. The recent downfall was general throughout the State, and coming at the time when needed it has had the effect of giving the market an easy tone. Prices, however, remain as previously quoted, although they have a weak tendency."

AGED OLIVE TREES.

A dispatch in the San Jose "Herald" says that Brother Delzano of Santa Clara College is actively engaged in making olive oil from the trees on the college farm. These olive trees are over 100 years old and were planted by the early Franciscan fathers. Every other year they bear excellent crops.

"BRICKS WITHOUT STRAW."

Spokane Grocers Realize the Necessity of Practical Efforts to Secure Results.

Although the representatives of the Washington State Grocers' Association were largely instrumental in the formation of the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association, yet the Spokane Association was the only one to redeem its agreement to help meet the expense of putting the association into practical operation.

In commenting upon this, "The Trade" of Spokane says, under the above caption:

The "Trade" regrets to learn that the Spokane Association is the only one in this State that has raised funds for, or paid anything to the support of, the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association. Apparently our brethren on the Sound are derelict in this matter, as in one or two other things that might be mentioned.

Now, the Spokane Association is not "kicking." So far as we know, not a complaint or murmur has issued from it. These are comments which reach us, not from local sources, but from San Francisco and other Coast points.

Organized on Rational Lines.

The Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association was organized on rational lines and for laudable purposes.

It is possible for it to do a great work for the retail grocers of the Coast. It can handle questions which the various local and State associations could not successfully cope with, but this Pacific Coast Association cannot hand out these benefits unless it is supported, and if State and local associations are so indifferent, so self-centered, as to withhold the small measure of financial support asked of them, why, they can neither expect nor do they deserve anything in return from it.

Spokane Does Its Duty.

The Spokane Association has been doing its duty.

Why have not the others?

Perhaps they fear that they would get no returns therefrom and that their money would be practically thrown away.

Well, it is practically thrown away so long as there is a large majority which will not keep faith with the others and do their duty.

Perhaps they fear that the secretary of the Pacific Coast Association, being located in San Francisco, and working largely on California problems, would neglect this State.

This is no excuse for them refusing to do their full duty by the Pacific Coast Association at least long enough to give it and its officers a fair trial and an opportunity to demonstrate what it could and would do for the grocers of all three States.

Roast for the Doubters.

This is not the way to advance association work.

Co-operation is the greatest force in modern business economics.

This is not co-operation.

Of what avail for the few to do their duty, when the many not only fail to do theirs but do not even try.

Neither the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association nor the Washington State Grocers' Association can succeed if such conditions continue (and we might add that the success of these associations enhances the success of the various constituent local associations).

There must be that determination and honor on the part of each association to do its full duty, and confidence on the part of each that the others will do their duty.

With the right kind of support and the right kind of officers both are bound to succeed.

SO SAY WE ALL OF US.

That man who marries a woman for her money usually has to work over time for what little he gets.

MILWAUKEE BEATS PEDDLARS.

The Milwaukee Retail Grocers Association has been arguing with the city fathers against the peddler abuse. As a result, a license has been passed by which a peddler with a two-horse wagon will have to pay $50; those with a one-horse wagon, $20; those with a cart, $10, and others, $5.

Amusements

ALCAZAR.

"Alice of Old Vincenness" has made a hit at the Alcazar. This clever romance has never been seen in San Francisco before, although it has been a great success throughout the East and the Middle West for two seasons. It is the very commendable enterprise of Belasco, Mayer and Price that now enables San Francisco to see it. "Alice of Old Vincennes" blends the romantic and historic. Its scenes are laid in Indiana in 1778, during the struggle for Independence. There is swift and exciting action in this story of a fearless American girl and her soldier lover. Lillian Lawrence has the physical graces and magnetic quality for the title role. John Craig plays the fearless and impetuous lover with delightful effectiveness. James A. Herne's sweet and tender idyl of the Atlantic coast, "Sag Harbor," follows on March 20th.

TIVOLI.

The cast of "The Burgomaster" is a particularly strong one. The opera is very funny and there is a great deal of exceptionally pretty music. The play is splendidly staged and, altogether, the production is one of the best the Tivoli has given, which says much for it. There are several additions to the artists including Grace Palotta, who has made an instant success.

CENTRAL.

The scenic effects of Faust are really remarkable even for this house, where the unexpected is so usual as to be considered quite natural. Herchell Mayall as Mephisto is a very devil of a fellow and forms a splendid background for Juliet Crosby's Marguerite, which is a really artistic bit of work. Next week "Hearts Adrift" will be produced.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Kolb and Dill are continuing their success in "I. O. U." at the Grand. Edith Mason and Thomas Persse have been added to the company and increased the effectiveness of the performance materially. The piece abounds with local hits and catchy music. At Sunday's matinee will be given the first production of "The Beauty Shop" by the same company.

FISCHER'S.

They have quite an array of headliners at Fischer's Theater this week. One of the most interesting is "Jinks," a monkey who is wonderfully intelligent and seems to understand everything his master says. Two performances are given every evening and make this theater a very convenient resort for those who are busy earlier in the evening and like to see an entire performance. The prices are 10 and 20 cents.

CHUTES.

The series of melodramas given by John T. Chick and Company are proving quite a popular feature of the program which includes numerous first-class specialties. The many attractions of the Chutes make it one of the most popular pleasure grounds of the city. There is something of interest for the amusement loving public of all ages from the time the gates open until they close.

REFRIGERATOR TIME.

Every grocer on the Pacific Coast needs a refrigerator. His saving on butter and cheese alone will pay for a good one in one season.

The best article of its kind now offered the public is the McCray Refrigerator which is the only refrigerator that afords a cold, dry circulation. It requires much less ice than the ordinary refrigerator and the saving in this particular more than makes up for any difference in cost between the McCray Refrigerator and a cheap ice box. They are sold on easy payments.

Beck, Wakefield Co., 122 Market st., are the general agents for the Pacific coast.

BIG CRACKER SHORTAGE.

Grocers in many parts of the United States are entering protests against the shortage in cracker packages. They claim that the packages contain too much cardboard and too few crackers. The grocers object to paying for cardboard at cake prices.

A St. Louis grocer recently stated to the "Interstate Grocer" that he weighed the contents of a box, the net weight of which was marked 17½ pounds, and found that there were 12½ pounds of crackers, a shortage of 5½ pounds. Since he paid 6½ cents per pound for the crackers, this means that in one box the shortage amounted to 35 cents or more than 30 per cent of what he paid for the crackers.

The Advocate would be interested in learning if Pacific Coast grocers suffer as badly.

PETALUMA ROCHDALE COMPANY

The annual statement of the manager of the Petaluma Rochdale Company, according to the "Courrier" of that city, showed a profit of $814.26. The paper adds that this sum will be applied to writing off the wear and tear on the store fixtures and the balance will be apportioned to stockholders." There is no intimation as to how much of a balance there will be for the stockholders.

VICTORY.

leave the State before an attachment could be served.

Wright's S. B. 276 provided that no attachment could be served for bills less than $25.00. This would have put a premium on dead beats contracting accounts of less than $25.00 and the merchants would have been powerless to protect himself.

S. B. No. 852 provided that boards of supervisors, etc., could levy a special license on retail merchants.

Cleveland's Assembly Bills Nos. 369, 370, 372 were all pure food bills. 369 would have prevented the country dealer from selling a bottle of castor oil, or a package of patent medicine, without a prescription; 370 and 372 would have thrown the responsibility of adulteration of foods on the retailer who offered them for sale and not the manufacture who made them.

A. B. 806 would have repealed the law passed two years ago by the State Association's efforts allowing the attachment of the wages of public or municipal employees.

Every one of these measures were made known to the representatives of the State Association. Their influence was used against them. Letters, telegrams and personal efforts of the Secretary were all employed. The result was that most of them were killed in the committees.

A. B. 372 passed the Assembly and was killed in the Senate owing to the objectionable features being pointed out to several of the leading Senators.

A. B. 370 was on the third reading file, and the author of the bill was called upon by a representative of the association who pointed out the objectionable features of the bill and the bill was withdrawn.

The work conducted by the State Association was expensive and effective, and merchants of the State should be thankful to the public spirited men who, by devoting their time and money to the up-building of the California State Grocers' Association, have made these results possible.

MAJESTIC.

The Mansfield version of "Old Heidelberg" is once more drawing crowded houses at this theater. It is a play in which the interest is brought out to the fullest by Bishop's company of clever players. Next week "Juanita of San Juan" will be produced.

"Juanita of San Juan," a play redolent of the atmosphere of Mission days, set in modern framing, will be the offering at H. W. Bishop's Majestic Theater during the week commencing Monday, March 20th. It pictures the conditions as they existed some years ago between the Gringo and the native land holder. The plot involves a romance, in which the hero, an American of modern times, saves the senorita from renegade American land jumpers, and wins her hand. The cast includes J. H. Gilmour, Eleanor Gordon, Frank MacVicars and Robert Eliot. On Monday night Mission Camp 264, Woodmen of the World, will take a benefit, for which occasion there will be a capacity house.

CARNATION REBATE POPULAR.

The special rebate of 25 cents per case to the retail trade, which the Pacific Coast Condensed Cream Company are making on Carnation cream, is proving very popular—the sales under it greatly exceeding those under the previous like deal.

The sale for Carnation is increasing from month to month, and the first quarter of 1905 shows a large increase over that for the corresponding period of 1904.

WANT NET WORK.

The grocers of Milwaukee, Wis., want to compell the manufacturer of package goods to stamp the net weight of the contents on every package.

MR. LIVINGSTON HAS GRIP.

Mr. Jeff Livingston, general manager o fthe T. A. Snider Preserve Company, who has been visiting the local representatives of his company, the Spohn-Patrick Company, has been confined to his room at the Palace Hotel for several days with the grip.

We are pleased to be able to state that he is rapidly convalescing and expects to be about again in a few days.

IN PALATIAL QUARTERS.

J. A. Folger & Co. have moved into their beautiful new building at Howard and Spear streets. They have a five-story warehouse adjoining their main building, which is four stories high and occupies 45x137½ feet of space. Half of the lower floor of their building is devoted to the offices and salesrooms. Another space of the same size is devoted to the shipping department. They have three stories above and these, together with the basement, are devoted to their manufacturing and packing plant.

Points to Watch

SALMON—
It is anticipated that when the Japanese government begins buying pink salmon for its army supplies that prices will advance from 10c to 15c per case, as there are now only a 100,000 cases in first hands as against 500,000 cases at the same time last year.

RICE—
Stocks of fancy Carolina rice are almost exhausted and an advance is predicted later in the summer.

CHEESE—
Stocks of New York factory cheese are very small, and importers say an advance of ½ to 1 cent is probable in the near future.

BACON, HAM AND LARD—
Market in the East is very firm and prices have advanced there. Locally there is no change.

SAPOLIO HELPS GROCERS.

No better proof could be given of the value of help from manufacturer than the way in which the price of "Sapolio" is maintained. There are a few firms that cut it from time to time. Were it not for the fact that these firms at once get into trouble, every large store would have been selling it four for 25 cents long ago, and the straight grocer would have been up against it.

It is worthy of note that the Emporium, which formerly advertised Sapolio at four cakes for 25 cents, now asks 30 cents for four cakes, when it advertises at all.

Recently the Owl Drug Company has been offering Sapolio at 6 cents per cake. They have been notified by the local agent that this must cease, and all wholesale grocers and wholesale druggists have been warned that to sell the Owl Drug Store from now on would subject them to the penalties of their contract, which means a fine of $25 and the refusal of Enoch Morgans Sons' Company to sell them any more goods.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

Frolic and fun will reign at the Majestic theatre during the week commencing with next Monday night when "My Wife's Husbands" will be presented. This play scored the greatest success at its New York production during last season. Among those figuring conspicuously in the cast of next week are Adele Block, Oza Waldrop, George Woodward, Harry Mestayer, Landers Stevens, Mina Gleason and others. On next Wednesday afternoon the special matinee of "Rosmersholm" will positively take place. On Monday evening the Mystic Shriners have reserved the Majestic for a theatre party.

KILLS ONE MEASURE.

Governor Pardee Vetoes Bill No. 920 Making Payment Renew an Account.

Sacramento, March. 23.—Governor Pardee has pocketed Assembly Bill 920. This kills the measure.

Retail grocers of California may well feel proud over the consideration accorded them by the last Legislature.

Three important laws have been passed because they asked for them. These laws are all of enormous value to merchants of all classes. These laws are as follows:

1. Making it a misdemeanor, punishable by fine or imprisonment, to give away trading stamps or premium coupons that do not promise some definite article.

2. Making any property belonging to the wife responsible for the necessaries of life, except what she had before her marriage and what she may acquire through will or through the death of a relative.

3. Providing that an account does not begin to outlaw till the customer quits dealing with the retailer and making a payment on an account renew the entire account for two years more.

The first two of these were signed by the Governr and have become laws. The last one was not signed and the work on it will all have to be done over again two years hence.

The bills that were killed through the influence of the State Grocers' Association were of enough importance to warrant the grocers in the expense of their organization.

There were three bills intended to take away from the dealer the right to attach the wages of a public employe. They were all beaten.

There was one vicious Pure Food bill that had passed the Assembly, was favorably reported by the Senate Committee and was ready for final passage in the Senate when Mr. Paulding caught it. This bill could have enabled the Pure Food authorities to confiscate millions of dollars' worth of goods on the grocers' shelves. It required that all food products must have a label on which was printed in letters at least one-sixth of an inch long the names of the ingredients contained in the package.

When Mr. Paulding had shown the Senators what a dreadful wrong this measure would do the retail dealers of the State it was refused passage.

Another bill, and it is a very good one, requires that all packages of butter must bear the net weight stamped on the wrapper.

Assemblyman Dorsey of Bakersfield secured the passage of a measure that will enable a creditor to attach the property of a debtor in any county directly through a judgment secured in some other county.

All these measures will help every retail grocer in the State, and many other merchants besides.

PLAN PROVES POPULAR.

The plan of the Standard Flour Company whereby it gives dividend-paying shares to grocers and consumers of Summit Snow Flour is proving a great success. The company announces that a dividend will be declared for the quarter ending March 31st.

GETTING INTO LINE.

Sperry Mills Establishing Flour Card in Palo Alto.

(By J. F. Paulding.)

The agitation of the flour question seems to be bearing some valuable fruit for the grocers of the interior towns.

The Sperry Milling Company have recently started a flour card in Palo Alto. We understand it is being done in other towns also.

We are glad to learn that the Sperry Milling Company are giving the grocers this consideration. We only wish we were in a position to accord them the same praise for protecting the San Francisco and Alameda county grocers.

We would be glad to join hands with all the local mills and help rid this market of the oversupply of outside flour.

We would be just as zealous in fighting against the invasion of outside flour as we are in trying to get the grocers to handle the flour that is protected.

Neither the Sperry, Port Costa, Crown or American Milling Company has as yet given the grocers of San Francisco and other Bay cities any consolation. It is even stated by some that they are now instituting the card price in their flour in the outside towns, not so much to help the grocers as to make it harder for the "Globe Mills" to introduce their goods.

This fact would tend to show how wrong and unfair their policy in San Francisco is, not only to the grocers, but to themselves.

We have no feeling against the mills who allow their flour to be cut except in an impersonal way. They represent a vicious policy that is hurting the grocery trade. When they take the same stand as the Globe, Standard and Bay City mills have done we will accord them all due credit.

We cannot see why the grocers in Alameda county and San Francisco are not entitled to the same protection that is accorded the grocers of other communities.

Until they are we must stand together and recommend the retail grocers to handle the flour made by those mills who protect the retail price.

The grocers of San Francisco have now, for the first time in their history, a practical opportunity to secure a profit on flour.

If they let it pass they are likely to never have another one.

The grocers of San Francisco and Alameda county should insist that the

Sperry Milling Company,
Port Costa Milling Company,
Stockton Milling Company,
American Milling Company

should protect them from the cutters. If they refuse, the grocers should give them as little consideration as their business will permit.

The flours that cannot be cut are

GLOBE MILLING COMPANY—
"A1" (profit 70c barrel)
"Banquet" (profit 60c barrel)
"Silver Star" (profit 60c barrel)

STANDARD FLOUR COMPANY—
"Summit Snow" (profit 60c barrel).

BAY CITY MILLS—
"White Foam" (profit 60c barrel)
"Bay City" (profit 60c barrel).

Every retail grocer owes it to these mills and TO HIMSELF to sell the above-named flours whenever he can, in place of those flours that the mills allow to be sold at cost by the cutters.

They Want to Help.

Manufacturers Willing to Do Their Share Where Grocers Are Organized.

(By J. F. Paulding.)

Manufacturers are realizing the value to them of having the retail grocers help in maintaining proper prices.

Some months ago the American Cereal Company wrote that they had sought for ten years to find some means by which they could suppress cutting. They stated that they would be glad to take up any plan that they could be convinced was practical.

We wrote them and explained our plan of having the retail grocers back up the manufacturer who would use his power to prevent the cutting of his goods. They realized the practicability of our plan and had their attorneys draw two contract forms.

They propose to employ these contract forms in those communities where the grocers are so thoroughly organized that they can afford to take their stand against the cutters, practically saying to the cutters: "We want your business, but if you are not willing to maintain a price that will be satisfactory to the organized grocers of the city, we will not sell you our goods and will require that the jobbers do not sell to you."

Will Not Sell Cutters.

The plan is a simple one. They will help those grocers who are willing to help themselves. Where the grocers are strongly organized and will ask for it, and will agree to give them support as against goods that can be cut, the American Cereal Company propose to sell only to retail grocers who will sign an agreement to maintain a retail selling price that will be satisfactory to the grocers of that community. As a further precaution they will require wholesalers to enter an agreement not to sell to a retailer who does not sign the agreement to maintain the retail price, and the American Cereal Company will refuse to supply a jobber who fails to keep that agreement.

Favor Two Communities.

Recognizing the fact that grocers of Southern California and those of Spokane, Wash., are more effectively organized than elsewhere the American Cereal Company proposes to put its plan in operation in those communities first. As other communities establish the fact that they want to be protected in their profits they will be favored.

Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley are prepared to afford the manufacturer the necessary protection.

We consider it undesirable to attempt to uphold prices in those cities as long as San Francisco is not in line.

We regret to say that while the efforts of the State Association have met the approval of the grocers generally in San Francisco, that we have had our efforts to better trade conditions hampered and held back by the lack of interest and even antagonism of some of the San Francisco grocers.

the same care and enthusiasm as they are in other communities.

The grocers of Los Angeles are now getting a profit of 25 cents a sack on every sack of standard flour they sell.

I want to say right here, though, that if I had gone among them when we started our movement and had circulated the reports of the mills we were fighting as facts, instead of urging the grocers to back up the Sperry Mills, who were giving us the support we needed, that the fight would indeed have been lost.

If the San Francisco Retail Grocers had done what the Alameda County Grocers' Association is doing in the way of getting its members to boost flours that pay them a profit, the mills would have decided weeks ago that it would pay them to force cutters to quit selling flour for $1.20, and to make all grocers to sell for not less than $1.35, as they have told the grocers across the bay they would be willing to do to-day.

But half-hearted work in a movement of this kind is as bad as none. There is no "knock" quite so hard as lack of enthusiasm in the men who should be at the head of the boosters.

There can be no assurance of profits for San Francisco and the other Bay cities until the San Francisco grocers are enough in earnest in wanting profits to get out and work as hard as they know how to help the State Association and the Pacific Coast Association in its movement to back up the manufacturers who are willing to fight with the cutters if the rest of the grocers ask it.

There are manufacturers who are willing to do this to-day.

Some of them have already taken up the fight.

They know as we do that the great majority of San Francisco retail grocers want a profit.

When the San Francisco Retail Grocers are prepared to carry out the wishes of the members of their organization and present an organized front in favor of those who protect profits and against those who allow their goods to be cut then, and not till then, will we feel authorized in advising that manufacturers institute the contract system for preventing cutters from selling their goods without a profit.

The San Francisco organization is regarded as the only thing that has prevented the successful completion long ago of our movement towards securing profits for the grocers of this and other cities. Many grocers—men prominent in the grocery business—are sorely disappointed, and feel that their interests are being sacrificed.

San Francisco can have profits on flour and many other heavy staples by diligent work. I can and will be glad to help, but I cannot do it all.

PREPARING TO PICNIC.

Oakland Grocers Considering Sites for Their Annual Outing.

The picnic committee of the Alameda County Grocers' Association, consisting of L. Warnke, chairman; Harry Duncan, George Hoffman, Henry Cushing and George Tum Suden, reported progress at the meeting on Monday evening.

Fernbrook, Schuetzen and Sunset Parks are being considered. A proposition for a picnic at Martinez will also be looked into. This would include a steamboat ride about the bay, which would be a very pleasurable feature of the outing. The committee was given further time.

The association passed resolutions protesting against the Esch-Townsend bill in its present form, and asking that the Pacific Coast be represented on the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Acting Secretary J. F. Paulding was called upon for a report of the legislative work and was listened to with great interest as he told of what had been accomplished and the consideration that had been granted the merchants. Mr. Paulding's remarks were received with warm applause.

Mr. Paulding spoke appreciatively of the splendid assistance that had been given him by Secretary Reed and Mr. Warnke, of Alameda, and of how the influence of the grocers had been increased by the support of the Merchants' Exchange of Oakland, the Coal Dealers and other similar organizations.

THE 1905 HIRES DEAL.

The Charles E. Hires Company's special deal on root beer extract is now being announced by the jobbing trade and the agents, the Spohn-Patrick Company.

On all first orders for Hires' Root Beer the dealer will receive a quantity of very fine lead pencils that are entirely different from any heretofore used by the Hires company.

These pencils are very attractive, and the dealer will be able to easily sell them at five cents each.

THE MANUFACTURERS' SIDE.

How Associated Retailers Can Benefit the Man Who Makes the Goods.

The Crescent Manufacturing Company, of Spokane, Wash., in a letter to the president of the Retail Grocers' Association of that city, has offered some very excellent ideas, from the point of view of the manufacturer, upon the question of the maintenance of uniform prices on manufactured products. These sentiments are so good and so well expressed that they are quoted by "The Trade" as follows:

"You will be fortunate, indeed, if you are not called upon during your time of office to solve that most vexatious and persistent question: What can be done with the persistent price cutter?

"In this connection we beg to be allowed the liberty of suggesting what we regard as in a large measure our own plan of handling the problem.

"It consists simply of requiring the manufacturer or jobber to protect the selling price of any brand of goods for which they desire a market.

"With the good will and assistance of the association it is entirely practicable for the proprietor of a brand of goods to agree with the trade upon a reasonable selling price, one that will be just to the consumer and that will yet afford the grocer a margin of profit above the cost of handling, and to protect that price if he has the interest of the trade sufficiently at heart to induce him to devote a little time and expense to the end in view.

Manufacturer Takes the Burden.

"This idea is to shift from the association to the manufacturer the disagreeable responsibility of disciplining the price cutter.

"It has been pretty effectually demonstrated that an association boycott is ineffective in most cases. In addition there is always a certain amount of popular sympathy extended to a boycotted firm which amounts to good advertising for them if taken advantage of.

"On the other hand, a manufacturer or jobber owns his goods. He can sell them at any price or upon any terms he may deem wise. If his terms or conditions are not agreeable to the grocer, the grocer need not or will not buy.

"Part of the conditions or terms on which an article is sold may be the condition that a certain retail price be maintained. This agreement can be made legally binding upon the purchaser and the contract can be enforced, and its violation may be made the basis for damage claim that will stand in court.

Power of the Retailer.

"Thus it is within the power of the proprietor of a brand to protect its sale, and it is within the power of the association to regulate him to do so.

"If an article is being cut and no apparent effort is being made to protect the price, it would only be necessary for the association to agree to put that article under the counter and sell no more of it as long as the cut continues.

"The party behind the brand would not long hesitate between the patronage of one lonesome price cutter and that of the members of your association.

Damages From the Cutter.

"Such action on the part of the association would in turn furnish to the manufacturer a substantial and sure basis for a claim for damages against the price cutter.

"We have found however that it has not been necessary to involve any of the associations in any of the several instances where cuts have been made on Crescent Baking Powder in such case we have succeeded in promptly adjusting matters and in restoring the selling price. With the association back of us however we feel ready to do our part."

PAYS TWO PROFITS.

Advantages That Accrue to the Dealer From Handling Satisfactory Coffees.

Coffee pays a good profit. This is what makes it a desirable line for the grocer to build up.

When the grocer sells a thoroughly good coffee he makes two profits: The margin of the sales and the customer's good will which will accrue to him from their satisfaction.

It is by selling coffees of recognized excellence with which he is able to give an absolute guarantee that the retail grocer is able to secure and keep valuable trade that the coffee pedlers and specialty houses have been taking away from him so long.

The retail grocer has himself to blame for the loss of most of his coffee trade. He only has himself to blame that he does not win back the trade that is rightfully his.

Only the largest purchasers of coffee are able to offer blends of whose uniformity they can be absolutely sure. They select the coffees they need for their blend from the large stocks they buy. It would not be be possible for them to keep their particular blends always the same if they did not buy in large quantities and then have trained coffee men to see that the quality used was uniform.

It is because of the care taken in the selection of the coffees they sell under the "Schillings Best" brand that A. Schilling & Co. have been able to keep it prominently before the trade for so long.

Trained assistants carefully select those grades needed for this blend. They purchase in such quantities, that A. Schilling & Co. are able to guarantee to the dealer that the package of "Schilling's Best" coffee that he may give to a customer ten years from now will be the same in every particular as the coffee that the customer buys to-day.

The fact that this coffee is sold under the "Schilling's Best" brand insures its high quality both to the satisfaction of the dealer and the customer. It is easy to sell "Schilling's Best" coffee because the dealer is able to "money back" the goods. For this reason, he can feel safe in urging the customer to take the package home for trial.

It is doubly desirable for the dealer to handle "Schilling's Best" goods because he knows that no competitor will offer them for sale for a less price than he may charge and there is a fair margin of profit on every sale.

CANNED GOODS IN AFRICA.

Richard Guenther, U. S. Consul-General at Frankfort, Germany, reports that canned fruits, vegetables, etc., to the value of $789,000, were imported at Johannesburg, Transvaal, in 1903. These goods weighed over 6,000,000 pounds, and less than 700,000 pounds were sent by the United States. The great bulk of the goods came from Great Britain, with France second. The following firms are the principal dealers in this line of goods: In Johannesburg—Atkins & Co., J. W. Becket & Co., Cohen & Sons, A. George & Co., Harmens Brothers, Harwin & Paterson, E. Nettmann & Co., Patton Brack, Raphaely, Leo & Ducles, and Skolm & Gimsberg. In Petroria—Lilienfield & Co., A. Johnston & Co., Jack John (Limited), and B. Gundelfinger & Co.

Lucky men always say it is due to pluck.

A NEW CANNING COMPANY.

The Pratt-Low Preserving Company has been incorporated in San Jose, with a capital stock of $200,000. The directors are H. C. Morris, A. H. Higgins, H. M. Barry, W. G. Cooke, Oakland; George W. Pratt, San Francisco; David Low, San Jose; F. A. Wilder, San Francisco.

REJOICE IN ASSOCIATION.

A banquet was held at Brisbane, Australia, recently in honor of James Allan and T. C. Beirue, two members of the Drapers' Association of that city who were about to visit Europe. In the course of the dinner, one speaker remarked that "the occasion was unique in that it was the first time in this or other states that a body of men representing the retail drapery business had met in such harmony and union." There were many flattering expressions of appreciation of the secretary, Mr. S. Earle, to whose earnest efforts much of the success of the association was attributed.

PIERCE & CO. CHANGE.

Pierce & Co., who made such a wonderful success with the National Cash Register on the Pacific Coast, have given up that account and will from now on devote themselves to the Money Weight Scale, for which they were the agents also. Their offices are now in the new James Flood building, corner of Powell and Market.

The National Cash Register Company will handle the cash register account directly. They will remain at 14 Turk street.

Their action in this regard is in line with their established policy. The Pierce & Co. agency was practically the last of the independent agencies in the United States. Mr. N. F. Thoms, one of the big men of the company, will be in charge of the San Francisco branch.

Pierce & Co. have made a remarkable record in their handling of National Cash Registers. During the first seven months in which they handled the account they sold seven cash registers. In 1904 they sold over $360,000 worth of cash registers, and they had confidently expected to bring the record up to the $500,000 mark for 1905.

During the first fifteen days of March, Pierce & Co. broke all records in the sale of cash registers, selling $21,000 worth. The National Cash Register has a system by which they register the number of "points" a salesman must record to do what they consider a satisfactory business. The total quota for the sales force of Pierce & Co. for the month of March was 730 points. The salesmen registered 840 points in that time. In connection with this the office received the following telegram from A. L. Ditzler, manager of sales agencies:

Charles D. Pierce—Accept hearty congratulations on magnificent March business. We regret the severence of twenty years of most pleasant business relationship. Hope old friendly spirit and good feeling will never be severed. Best wishes from the management and all your other friends here. Also hope for continued prosperity and happiness.

R. L. DITZLER.

A banquet was tendered Mr. Pierce on Saturday evening by the office and sales force at a downtown restaurant. There were about fifty guests at the table, and all joined in praises of the man who had directed them for so long. The table was arranged in the shape of a horseshoe, and among the other decorations was a life-size floral representation of Juliana de Kol, Mr. Pierce's world-famous cow.

Attracting Trade

Well-Directed Advertising Pays.

It has been said that advertising may pay in one town where it is throwing money away in another.

That is not true, says the Minneapolis Commercial Bulletin.

You can educate the people of any town to read and follow your advertising. That is, if you go at it in the right way. You can never do it by lazy advertising.

C. G. Kaskey, of Manson, Iowa, who is one of the most progressive merchants in that part of the country and known for miles around for his original methods, demonstrated that people can be interested in the merchant's ads.

He came to Manson a few years ago with a very small stock of goods and a small acquaintance. He began his campaign for business by liberal and original advertising methods.

At first the people did not take to his advertising at all, but Mr. Kaskey did not give up. He simply kept at it, and it was not long until he had them educated to know that a bargain advertised by him was a real bargain.

He made his store attractive by keeping it neatly trimmed and clean. That goes a long ways toward advertising a store.

When Mr. Kaskey gives a sale he plans to keep interest in it at high mark until it closes.

Sometime ago he put on a sale that packed the store to barely standing room every day for a week.

How did he do it?

Why, he advertised in such a way people had to keep coming to take advantage of the bargains. The bargains were pullers. The hour sale was one of the coaxers used. The quarter-hour sale another.

Fifteen-Minute Sales.

Every day was devoted to a different lot of bargains. For the first day he advertised he would sell five-cent packages of needles from 9:45 to 10 a. m. for one cent a package.

Then from 10:45 to 11 a. m. he sold a 200-yard spool of thread for one cent a spool.

From 2:30 to 2:45 p. m. six and seven-cent calicoes went for two cents a yard. Only ten yards were sold to a customer.

Seven cents bought fifteen-cent children's muslin drawers. They had to be bought from 3:45 to 4 p. m.

For five days he continued these sales, offering the public such bargains as these.

Leaving an hour or so between the special sales gave the customers opportunity to look over the stock in other parts of the store.

WORTHY OF EMULATION.

The special deal of 25-cent discount on every case of Carnation Cream continues with satisfactory results.

It is very gratifying to the dealer to know that the manufacturers of this article are doing everything in their power to maintain the retail selling price on it, and to give the trade a satisfactory margin of profit.

There is probably less cutting on Carnation Cream than ever before, and it appears that the special deal has served its purpose well in giving added interest to the dealers, who get all the increased profit.

If other manufacturers would follow in the footsteps of the Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Company, producers of this cream, it would be cause for great rejoicing on the part of the trade.

KEEP STOCK MOVING.

It behooves the merchant to select lines of goods that will move quickly, and turn his money over as often as possible. Outside of sardines, canned fish, as a rule, are not quick sellers, but the "Sunset" mackerel packed in olive oil, and therefore having the rich flavor that makes the sardine so delicious, seems to be an exception to the rule.

The choice quality of "Sunset" mackerel makes it a quick repeater, while the varieties of "Sunset"—sauce, tomato and mustard—give the palate a new tickle each time. They are good stock to carry.

LOOKS TO THE WEST.

The policy instituted by the Pacific Coast Grocers' Association of having manufacturers fix and maintain a fair retail selling price on their goods has aroused much interest all over the United States.

When prices are maintained through a mutual agreement there is always weakness. Some tricky dealer will seek to secure a temporary advantage by cutting, while the other dealers maintain prices, and unless some arrangements have been made to punish the cutter, the price agreement must invariably fall through.

Where prices are maintained by the demand of the manufacturer, the co-operation even of the cutters is insured, since there is speedy and effective punishment for those who do not maintain the price, and no dealer fears that he is being made a tool of by other men in the same line of business.

A letter to Mr. Paulding from James Lillis, manager of the Merchants' Mutual Association of Kansas City, Kan., shows that the merchants of that city are looking with interest at the progress made by Mr. Paulding. Mr. Lillis says:

"We have made some progress by way of protecting our members' profits on the staples they handle through contract with the manufacturers, who protect the retail prices.

"We have discovered that some of the manufacturers have contracts with the jobbers which establishes an equality price on selling to the retail trade, and also prohibits the jobbers from making any special prices to cutters. These same manufacturers so far have refused to protect the retail price by contract.

"We feel we have started in the right direction and expect that we will have results to show in three months' time.

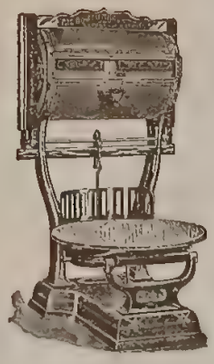
"I enclose a copy of a circular issued by the association for the purpose of pushing only the products, the price of which is protected by the retail dealers. The results not only surprised the manufacturers, but the dealers as well. We have failed to learn of a single dealer who refused to put the goods in stock.

"This has done more to encourage the members than anything that has come up since the founding of the association. It has also increased the membership of the association, which has inspired them to greater effort."

CHICLE COMPANY WILL BUILD.

The American Chicle Company has purchased a 50x120 foot lot on Bluxom street, near Fourth, for $15,000, and will erect a four-story fireproof building at the cost of $45,000. The building will be used as the Pacific Coast branch factory and business offices of the company.

FLOUR MILLERS ORGANIZE.



A temporary organization of the millers of the State has just been formed, and on April 3 a meeting will be held in the Board of Trade rooms, at which it is expected to establish the organization permanently. T. J. Parsons, of the Del Monte Mills, is temporary chairman, and E. J. Luke, of the Yolo Mills, is the temporary secretary. The organization will be along similar lines to those now existing in the East, and the object will be to do away with the evils now existing in the trade and to improve conditions generally.

GIBSON IN TOWN.

Mr. Gibson, not the Rev., but the hustling Huyler man, has been visiting the bag trade this week.

Money Weight Scales

Some of the Advantages the Grocer Derives:

1—They give the correct value of the article being weighed.
2—They prevent loss from errors in calculation.
3—They save time required in making calculation.
4—They are made better than ordinary scales.
5—With proper care they will last an ordinary life-time.
6—The pivots are of hardened tool steel, and with agate bearings inserted at the proper point, are practically indestructible.
7—They are sensitive to the very small fraction of an ounce.
8—They are an ornament to any store.
9—They are the only scale that is mechanically honest.
10—Customers, knowing them to be an honest scale, like to have their purchases weighed on them.
11—Sold on easy monthly payments.

With the Money Weight Scales you at once weigh goods AT THEIR MONEY VALUE.

RAISIN MEN ORGANIZE.

Fresno Vineyardists Band Together to Save Themselves From Ruin.

Not only the raisin growers, but the business men of Fresno county, realized that the entire community was facing ruin if steps were not taken to protect the individual vineyardists from fierce and unintelligent competition.

Growers who had exerted themselves to maintain fair conditions in the past, and had been exasperated by having "Smart Aleck" neighbors refuse to join the association, were willing to let their places go to smash rather than let these "smarties" exult over them again. Many men took the stand that they would not join in the movement until the men who had stood out in the past had come in.

For three months committees have been at work. Yet, when the meeting of the growers was called on March 16 to either perfect the organization or abandon the plans, only 28,000 acres had been signed up a shortage of 7,000 acres over what all recognized as essential for success.

The growers present and the business men of Fresno at once took up an active campaign, securing the signatures of the men who had remained out. By 4:45 p. m. the owners of 36,000 acres had agreed to pool their issues. This has been increased since to over 39,000 acres. As only 35,000 acres were considered necessary, success is considered assurred.

The plan includes co-operative management in the packing and marketing of raisins. A corporation is to be formed, each vineyardist holding a share at $1 for each acre. This will eliminate the element of foolish competition that has resulted in forcing "weak" growers to sell their crops at less figures than the conditions of supply and demand would warrant.

Each grower agrees to put up $1 for every acre signed for, if that amount be found necessary. Only 10 cents of this dollar was called for at once, and the rest will be called in on similar installments. The money thus secured will be employed in effecting the organization, and will be considered a loan to the company, to be paid back to the growers later.

Each grower will sign an agreement to allow the association to retain one-half cent on every pound of raisins he turns in. The money so secured will be divided equally into two funds, one for packing and the other for selling the raisins, and the association will have full control of the product of the immense acreage named.

Under the circumstances, with the carry-over reduced to comparatively small proportions and the prospects for a good crop, the vineyardists of Fresno are anticipating a prosperous year, and the grocery trade may expect a very desirable stability in raisin prices.

PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

It pays to advertise an article that is better than others of its kind. That is why the manufacturers of "X-Ray Stove Polish" have been able to place it so strongly before the public in all the great magazines.

It costs a fortune to buy advertising such as is being used to popularize this article. But, when it is once used, the housewife comes back for it again and again and it is from these repeat orders that the manufacturer gets his profits.

It is the repeating quality of the X-Ray Stove Polish that makes it such a valuable addition to the grocers' stock. A carload that arrived some ten days ago has been practically taken up by the jobbers and R. A. Holcombe & Co., the Pacific Coast agents, inform us that they expect to have the greater part of another car [illegible] en route, sold [illegible].

Cigars and Tobacco

Ehrman Bros. & Co. have just received a large invoice of Optimos, sufficient to meet the immediate and pressing demands of their trade.

F. J. Keller has succeeded Keller & Lewis, cigars and tobacco, at Sand Point, Idaho.

Portland—T. M. Simonton has succeeded Claude Schmeer, cigars and tobaccos, Portland, Ore.

J. M. Gamble, representative of the American Tobacco Company, is moving his offices to the Italian-American Bank building, rooms 206 and 209. He expects to be located there by the first of next week.

Sol Hamburger, of A. Santaella & Co., of Chicago and Tampa, left for home last Tuesday night via Portland and Seattle, whither he goes to look after the interests of his house. Mr. Hamburger expresses himself as delighted with the increase of trade that has been secured for the Optimo by his San Francisco representatives, Ehrman Bros. & Co.

The M. Blaskower Company has made the final transfer of its retail stands in San Francisco, San Jose and Sacramento to the United Cigar Store Company. Mr. Blaskower, together with Fred Tillman, Jr., and C. H. Schmidt, manager for Tillman & Bendel, will continue the wholesale and retail box business at the mai store on Montgomery street. The M. Blaskower Company will hereafter make a specialty of imported cigars and of Tampa clear Havana goods. The Mardi Gras will be the company's leader in Tampa made goods.

The tobacco labeling bill, which provides for the labeling of all tobacco sampled or sold by sample in the State ot Connecticut with a printed tag showing the name of the State in which it was grown, is before the Legislature at Hartford. The bill would prohibit the common practice of classing all New England tobacco as Connecticut tobacco.

According to an official report of the Imperial German Consulate in Manila the output of cigarettes by the Manila factories average daily 17,550,000 or 438,750,000 monthly, counting twenty-five working days to the month. The yearly output reaches therefore the enormous total of 5,265,000,000, or nearly double the quantity produced in the United States, though we have ten times the population of the Philippines.

Dealers in certain sections have been careless as to the provisions of the law in their use of dummy cigar boxes for display purposes. This matter has been brought to the personal attention of Commissioner of Internal Revenue John W. Yerkes, and as a consequence he has just issued an order that unless the practice has entirely stopped by the first of May next all dealers making use of dummy cigar boxes in such a way as to violate the provisions of the law shall be promptly and rigorously proceeded against.

The American Tobacco Company will send the retailer a check for 50 cents on a sale made up of fifty pounds or over, but less than 100 pounds, of its listed brands of smoking tobacco or Boot-Jack, Sledge or Old Virginia Cheroots (100 Old Virginia Cheroots counting as two (2) pounds of tobacco), or Genuine "Bull Durham" tobacco or Sweet Caporal granulated, provided such sale includes five pounds Union Leader or twelve pounds Sledge. Orders made up in the same proportion for over 100 pounds and less than 150 pounds will entitle the retailer to $1, and 150 to 200 pounds to $1.50, etc.

When it comes to calling people out of their beds the fire bell double discounts the church bell.

CROP REVIEW.

From all parts of the State comes the information that the orchards are in splendid condition. Recent rains have helped all fruits enormously. Almonds are already far enough advanced to be beyond danger of frost. Unless killing frost comes during the next month 1905 will be a banner year for California.

SUGAR MARKET.

Raws declined an eighth and refined was dropped 10 cents. Raws resumed their former figure, but refined stays at the decline. The trade is at a loss as to what the next move will be. Under normal conditions sugar would be selling for from one-fourth to one-half more than it now brings.

TEA MARKET.

There is "nothing doing" locally. Rumors are abroad as to the possibility of a duty on tea.

New York—The "Merchants' Review" says: "Cheap Japan tea is now offered in this city below the prices of the article for a series of years. What a commentary on the wild predictions of people with bullish sympathies when the Russian-Japanese war broke out. It was declared then that the war would interfere with growing and curing tea, and that prices must advance. Then when it was found that tea was being produced as usual, the prophets said that a war tax on tea must come sooner or later. Certain they were that the price of Japan tea must advance because of the hostilities in the East. Well, we've had plenty of war news, and as the end seems drawing near the price of Japanese tea actually declines."

Reports from Washington, D. C., indicate that the Formosa tea crop of 1904 was nearly 3,000,000 pounds less than in 1903.

COFFEE MARKET.

Local coffee roasters have been buying quite freely, although not anticipating their wants materially. While there is a feeling that the market will not be lower, yet there is not confidence enough to warrant large purchases.

The "Spice Mill" says: "There is no analogy between the demoralization of the market to-day and that of a year ago, when the bottom fell out of the market. Statistics could be quoted to show why the prices to-day are low enough. Yet figures and predictions have been almost useless in the face of the present decline. Aside from speculative considerations the market in coffee is strong, and the consuming trade have taken advantage of the low levels to lay in supplies. Importers and jobbers of coffee are now convinced that the prices are at a basis of real value. For this reason they have been large buyers, although the declining market has served to frighten some off."

Washington, D. C., March 16.—There is a strong probability that at the next session of Congress a small duty will be placed on coffee. Congress is facing a treasury deficit. Besides this many of the new American acquisitions raise coffee and are clamoring for protection.

RICE MARKET.

M. Phillips & Co. report:

"The market on Japans remains about the same; no advance or no decline. It looks as if it will be a steady market all summer on medium grades, but the fancy grade of Japan rice will go higher, owing to a scarcity of this quality.

"Fancy Carolina—The market is up about one-quarter on this grade, and choice goods are hard to get. We look for quite an advance in this grade later in the summer, as stocks are almost exhausted in the South.

"There has been considerable Sandwich Island rice imported. About 1,500 sacks came on the last steamer. This grade will have a tendency to keep down the price of Japs, as it is a quality of rice that takes well with the trade.

"China No. 1 Rice is about one-eighth lower. No. 2, same price as last quoted."

SPICE MARKET.

Baltimore, Md., March 8.—Black pepper is scarce and firm.

Nutmegs are in great demand, with firm values and higher prices anticipated for both.

Caraway Seed—The prices are firm and there is likelihood of an advance.

Gum Camphor—This is a good article to buy at present prices.

CANNED GOODS.

Canned Fruits—The market is in a healthy condition, but is very quiet.

Canned Tomatoes—The market presents an encouraging feature. The cheap stock that has burdened the market ever since the packing season closed is being largely cleaned out. Better grades are all held firm. Eastern advices indicate that there will be a shortage of 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 cases before the new pack is ready for delivery if the present rate of consumption continues.

Canned Corn—Cheap corn is still placed in the market at all sorts of prices. Fancy stocks are in very limited supply.

CRANBERRIES.

Plentiful grades are reported in Wisconsin and other Northwestern points. This has resulted in decline on the Eastern market instead of advances, as were expected.

CANNED SALMON.

The Alaska Packers' Association is reported as selling 10,000 cases of red Alaska salmon last month to the Japanese Government at $1.10 per dozen.

New York—F. A. Aplin, vice-president of the J. K. Armsby Company, the selling agent of the Alaska Packers' Association, says: "The English salmon market is strong and tendency upward. Large operators are now buying freely. The strong position of red Alaska salmon is intensified by the scarcity of other grades. It is rare that the markets are so completely cleaned out at this season on Columbia River salmon as they are to-day and on sockeyes, few of which were packed last year. There are no very large holdings in first hands outside of the salmon held by the Alaska Packers' Association and in the hands of the defunct P. P. & M. Co., which latter is reported to be held at $1.05 on the Coast."

Tacoma, March 10.—The "News" says: "Great preparations are being made in all the canneries on the lower Sound and on the Frazer River. The Puget Sound in 1901 packed 1,415,165 cases. Canneries expect another record pack this year, since it is the fourth-cycle year. Frazer River canneries are preparing to take care of another million cases.

Vancouver, B. C.—The canners do not anticipate any relief of salmon fishing from the law passed by the Washington Legislature, providing for a closed season for salmon from 6 o'clock Saturday evening to 6 o'clock Monday morning. The thirty-six hours during which the fishermen of Washington will have to leave the fish alone will enable the salmon to reach the Canadian waters, and they will be taken in the Frazer River traps, and not on the Sound.

It is estimated that there are now in first hands less than 100,000 cases of pink as against 500,000 cases at the same period last year. Pink salmon are now quoted by the packers to jobbers at 70c to 75c regular. The Japanese Government is buying these goods for the navy. It is expected that Japan will be buying other army requirements shortly, and this will bring an advance of 80c to 85c.

Astoria, March 3.—Elmore & Co. say: "It is admitted that jobbers generally hold very light stocks and must soon come into the market to buy for their spring and summer requirements. Unsold stock of red Alaska salmon in packers' hands is much smaller than generally supposed. Outside of the there is very little medium or good quality salmon available. We look for an advance in prices on all good salmon unsold in first hands.

There is little doubt but that the pack of sockeyes this year will be considerably larger than for the last three years. We look for a pack of from 650,000 to 750,000 cases. Even if it should reach a million cases and the Columbia River and Alaska packs are the same as last year, the domest...

trade will reasonably take care of the entire output, saying nothing of the large quantities required for export. In regard to future prices, the trade must remember that there have been advances in the cost of material, etc., and that the salmon packers have to spend many thousands of dollars before a single fish is caught, and have to pay labor contracts for the full pack, even though there may be a bad run of fish. We think the Columbia River spring pack of chinooks will probably open on a basis of $1.45 to $1.50 for talls; sockeyes about $1.35 for talls, and Alaska red about $1.15 to $1.20.

Seattle, Wash., March 9.—Brady & Co. report: "There is great demand for salmon for immediate shipment, which is unusual, since the first three months of the year are dull as a rule. Red Alaska salmon is practically the whole thing, and the trade is paying in the neighborhood of $1 f. o. b. Coast. Pink salmon is in limited supply and is held at from 70c to 75c. Some speculators look for from 75c to 80c during April and May. We recommend the purchase of red Alaska in the neighborhood of $1. There is a possibility that the trade will have to pay $1.10 before the new delivery, as the largest factor is still holding at that figure. The trade will do well not to purchase more than they need to last them until Oct. 1.

DRIED FRUITS.

The situation remains the same, with peaches and apricots in good demand and hard to find.

Raisins—The vineyardists of the San Joaquin Valley, representing 39,200 acres of raisin grapes, met in Fresno and have formed a combine. It is estimated that the production of 35,000 acres would give practical control of the market. The raisin men of Fresno county expect to control the market so that it cannot be manipulated by speculators to the disadvantage of the growers. This will mean firmer prices for raisins and will make spot goods stronger, since new raisins will not come into the market until October.

New York—There has been considerable business recently in a speculative way which has cleaned up much cheap stock. One operator is credited with having taken 6,400 boxes of Coast seeded raisins, and all but 900 boxes have since gone into consumption. A prominent broker says that if it is true that there is not more than 7,000 tons available in California for seeding purposes, it means that the supply will not be large enough to meet the ordinary demands of consumption between the present time and when the new crop becomes available for market purposes. "Even though the requirements of consumption should not be so large as usual, I don't see how it can fall below the present available supply," he said. "If the situation in California is what I believe it to be, prices on raisins ought to be fully 2 per cent higher on raisins than they are now."

Apples—New York dealers report the stock in evaporated apples as being out of producers hands. The supply was considerably less than was expected earlier in the season. The season for their use is coming, and holders are firm in their demands because of the shortage of the supply.

PRUNES.

New York—A well-known west side broker is reported as saying that the prune situation would be very strong if it were not that there are too many weak holders, who will have enough prunes to keep the market down as they come out from time to time. If this element could be eliminated the fact that the stock on the Coast does not exceed 600 carloads and that the crop of 1905, if very large, will, as a matter of course, be short in supplies of 40-50s, and 50-60s make fancy stocks desirable property.

San Jose—The Prune Promotion Association, which now has members among packers, growers, canners, merchants, bankers, railroad men, etc., and represents 55 per cent of the output of prunes of this district, are sending out notices to the packers and shippers of cured fruits in the Santa Clara Valley asking them to join their association.

San Jose—At a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce it was reported that W. R. Hearst proposed to buy about 1,000,000 2-lb. boxes of Santa Clara prunes, which he desires to advertise extensively through his papers and distribute gratis to the public. Speakers called attention to the fact that it was doubtful if sufficient fruit of the desired size could be obtained at present, as the pack has already been largely distributed.

Seattle, Wash., March 7.—Dealers appear to have more confidence, particularly in the larger sizes standard grades. With the steady jobbing movement in consumption there is a noticeable a stronger feeling.

Dates—Cables just received from London report stocks of Hallowis and Sayers closed, and the only dates now obtainable there are Khadrawis, which have been somewhat neglected. Demand has been fair, the market firm.

Currants—Mr. Jackson, American Minister at Athens, Greece, reports: "During 1904 the amount of Greek currants exported had been 173,614,172 pounds, which was 20,000,000 pounds less than what was exported during 1903. Only one-half as much were sent to the United States in 1904 as in 1903."

LIMA BEANS.

New York—The advance seems already to have stopped buying interest. Although high prices have checked the demand from some quarters they have had the contrary effect on others, since the unquestionably strong position of the article and other confident attitude of the principal holders convince many buyers that lima beans are good property at the present price.

SALT FISH.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Norwegian mackerel of all grades are higher in price, particularly bloaters, ones and twos."

Codfish—The schooner Czarina arrived on March 19 with 150,000 codfish in its hold.

A LOBSTER TRUST.

It is authentically asserted by those who know that a powerful combine is preparing to control the lobster output of New England and the Maritime Provinces. Agents are at work in Boston.

PROVISIONS.

BRINGING THEM BACK.

Problem That Confronts the Retail Dealer Who Desires to Make His Coffee Business Pay.

When the retail grocer finds that the quality of the coffee he sells brings his customers back for more he has then solved a very important problem in his business.

It is when the customer does not get the coffee that pleases her exactly that she buys from the coffee peddler, or goes to a specialty house devoted entirely to teas and coffees. It is not so much the matter of price as it is of satisfaction.

People forget the price if the goods please. If the goods do not please, the fact that they were cheap does not at all palliate their rankness.

Even the finest quality of goods will not always please every customer. If the grocer is to keep the confidence and kindly feeling of all his trade he must have them feel confident that they can bring back the goods that may not chance to please them and have their money refunded cheerfully. When the grocer can do this without losing the profit on the sale, he is doubly equipped to do business on a basis satisfactory both to his customer and himself.

The dealer is protected in these particulars when he gives his trade "Schilling's Best" goods. When he sells "Schilling's Best" Coffee he knows that the quality of the goods has the guarantee of the Schilling responsibility. He knows that A. Schilling & Co. look on the quality of their coffee to uphold the high standing of the Schilling name. He also knows, therefore, that the coffee in the package represents honest value for the money asked for it, and also represents the best judgment of the most careful of coffee buyers.

He knows also that he can "money back" the coffee to his customer without fear of loss to himself.

This fact tends to give the customer confidence in the quality of the coffee and predisposes her in its favor. It is also the strongest argument in favor of the value represented in the coffee, since the manufacturer, who knows absolutely what the quality is, would be the last man to "money back" the goods if he did not feel sure that they would be perfectly satisfactory even to the most critical customer.

With the customer satisfied, and with a fair profit assured to the dealer, the Advocate does not hesitate to state that A. Schilling & Co. are materially helping better trade conditions for the retail grocers with their "Schilling's Best" goods and their policy of protecting the retail grocer in his profit.

A HEALTHY GROWTH.

To the general trade it will be interesting, and at the same time a surprise, to follow the progress of P. F. Rathjen in the line of provision packer and manufacturer of various lines of meats.

In 1891 Mr. Rathjen first embarked in the provision business and in a very moderate way, getting up at 4 o'clock in the morning to make his own sausage, which was entirely hand made.

By his close, personal attention to business his trade increased, and the consumer soon learned that the product of his factory was of superior merit.

Mr. Rathjen was awake to the situation and kept pace with the increasing demand, by enlarging his plant and by equipping it with the best of machinery of modern design.

The result to-day is that in his perfectly equipped factory he employs twelve men and operates three delivery wagons to deliver daily to the trade. A growth such as this is pleasing to note, as it has been entirely the result of energy and business foresight which Mr. Rathjen possessed.

MR. LIVINGSTON DEPARTS.

Mr. Jeff Livingston, general manager of the T. A. Snider Preserve Company, after spending three weeks with his California agents, the Spohn-Patrick Company, left this week for Portland and Seattle on his return to the East.

Mr. Livingston is greatly pleased with the success that is attending the distribution of Snider goods on the coast.

Amusements

ALCAZAR.

They are playing "Sag Harbor," the last and best of James A. Hearne's plays, at the Alcazar this week. It is a beautiful bit of dramatic work, and is well presented by the Alcazar company. "Sag Harbor" reviews life in a sleepy Atlantic seaport town on the Long Island shore, and its atmosphere is simple and wholesome, and the audience becomes very much interested in the plain, every-day people whose loves and sorrow they are able to share. It is one of the notable shows of the week. "Old Heidleberg" will be revived for the week beginning March 27.

MAJESTIC THEATER.

"Juanita of San Juan" is being presented at the Majestic this week by the clever stock company. This play possesses particular interest for Westerners, as the atmosphere is almost local. The case is a good one, and the stage setting is of the very highest order.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Kolb & Dill seem to make it a point to add clever people to their cast every week without dropping off any of the former players. "The Beauty Shop" is making a decided hit. It goes with a snap and vim that is very refreshing. Miss Lillian Sutherland has established herself as a decided favorite.

CENTRAL.

There is not a quiet moment in "Hearts Adrift." From one act to another the sensations pile up and the villian of the piece grows so particularly bad that when he is hurled to his death from the deck of a full sized airship, the audience yells with delight. Herschal Mayall, as a man-about-town with a warm heart, finds favor with his audience as usual and Miss Crosby makes the flower girl heroine a very lovely personage. Miss Blanc in a striking character role, gives an impersonation of a Bowery waiter girl that is very effective. "The Cattle King" will be produced next week.

CALIFORNIA.

At last they have a decent show at this house after weeks of the very worst performances that nervy managers have dared inflict good natured American audiences with. Miss Anglin, assisted by Frank Worthing, Ward McAllister and a capable company, present the "Marriage of Kitty" which is a cleved comedy in which the French naughtiness is toned down to please the taste of San Francisco audiences.

TIVOLI.

"The Burgomaster" is beginning its second week. Crowded houses attest the public interest in the opera which not only contains many song hits but is presented with an unusually large cast of clever principals backed up by a chorus of unusual size and attractiveness.

CHUTES.

There is plenty of sport for those who go to the Chutes. The circle swing is proving a very popular novelty. It is well worth a visit to the Chutes to merely see it in operation to say nothing of the experience of riding in the air-ships. The free theatre has one of the best programs offered by any house in the city. The bill includes a magician, the usual singers, dancers and pictures and a condensed domestic comedy by John T. Chick and his cleve company.

FISCHER'S.

Good vaudeville continues to pack this little theatre for its three daily performances. The last evening performance begins shortly after 9 o'clock.

The Almighty puts long tails on horses and man cuts them off.

Fits of abstraction are of frequent occurrence among pickpockets.

A bachelor often lives to marry the daughter of the woman who turned him down.

MANY STOCK UP.

Rarely has the retail grocery trade taken hold of a new article with such readiness as they have the X-Ray Stove Polish. P. J. Buckley is well known to the grocery trade and, of course, his recommendation has carried considerable weight. At the same time the very nature of the goods show their durability. The vast sums of money being spent in advertising by the management form another evidence of its excellence, since they could not afford to so advertise an article that was not a good repeater.

R. A. Holcombe & Co. report to us that three out of every five retail grocers called on have stocked X-Ray Stove Polish, and wherever it has been placed it has moved well.

DEMAND FOR SNIDER'S GOODS.

A carload of Snider's Oyster Cocktail Sauce arrived in San Francisco last Tuesday and was distributed to the trade by the Spohn-Patrick Company.

This article is in splendid demand. The call for it is steadily increasing.

Snider's Pork and Beans, which the T. A. Snider Preserve Company is now introducing in this market, is being very favorably received, and is destined to meet with a very big sale if present indications and the high quality of the goods are any criterion to go by.

WHERE BEST CREAM IS PRODUCED.

Wherever climate favors the raising of corn in connection with succulent food, and wherever cows have been bred by years of selection for richness in butterfat, there it is where the best quality of milk is obtained. It is for this reason that the milk, out of which "Our Pet" Brand Evaporated Cream is made, excels in richness, as is stated in the advertisement of the Helvetia Milk Condensing Company, to which we call your attention.

Greer's WASHING AMMONIA.

It has come to our knowledge that there is an attempt to introduce on the market a WASHING AMMONIA make from BONES AND ANIMAL REFUSE. We trust that the trade will take time to investigate the character of this STUFF which, if sold to the consumer, will only tend to discourage the use of Ammonia as a household article.

JOBBERS WHO RETAIL.

Snohomish County Merchants Take Action Against Such Firms.

The Snohomish County Merchants' Association recently passed two resolutions. One resolution, which provides for the action to be taken by the retail dealers themselves, was as follows:

We, the undersigned, merchants of Snohomish county, have adopted these resolutions this third day of February, 1904, and herewith submit the same for your information, which we believe will be of vital importance that all should observe:

"We agree to withdraw our patronage from any wholesaler, whether it be jobber, meat packer, or commission house, who will sell directly or indirectly to any consumer, hotel, boarding house, restaurant, camp or shingle mill without a store. (A store to be interpreted as a place maintained for a vocation in the county of Snohomish.) This we do to place trade in its legitimate channel.

"We agree to notify the wholesale house violating these resolutions, and upon conviction the proper penalty shall be decided upon by vote of the board of directors of the Snohomish County Merchants' Association."

(Signed.)

The other resolution, copies of which were sent to all wholesalers and jobbers doing business in Snohomish county, was as follows:

To Wholesalers and Jobbers on the Pacific Coast Doing Business in Snohomish County—Gentlemen:

Whereas, Certain traveling salesmen are indirectly violating our resolution No. 1 (one), which was adopted Feb. 3, 1904, by selling at wholesale to consumers, hotels, boarding houses, restaurants, lumber, log, shingle and bolt camps, and billing said goods through some legitimate retailer at a very small profit to said retailer, and

Whereas, The trustees of this association have condemned this method of doing business;

Be It Resolved, That the above method of selling goods be considered unfair by this association.

By order of the TRUSTEES.

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Martin's New York State factory cheese has advanced another half-cent and there is no prospect of a decline before June. Another raise of one-half cent to one cent is likely to occur at any movement, as stocks in New York are exceedingly small."

ROLLED OATS.

On March 7 the main plant of the American Cereal Company, at Cedar Rapids, Ia., was completely burned. The loss amounted to $1,500,000. The Eastern cereal companies advanced their prices on rolled oats 15 cents per barrel immediately. This advance was based on the expectation that the American Cereal Company output would be temporarily reduced.

GLASS JARS.

The "Grocery World" says manufacturers' agents at present seem to agree that glass jars are to rule lower in the coming season than ever before. The only reason for this seems to be to an expected large output.

HAY.

Somers & Co. say:

"Recently there has been no outlet for the large amount of hay coming to market except local consumption, and in consequence buyers are well supplied. The abundant rains and general high temperatures which have prevailed throughout the country have done much towards advancing the new crop and have made grass plentiful, so that many of the stock and dairymen feed no hay at all. As a result alfalfa and stock hay is especially plentiful and sells only at very low prices. This is also true of anything that is off grade or damaged.

"We can quote no change in prices, although the recent slack demand has given the market an easier tone."

STAYING CUSTOMERS.

The customers that stay and that send their friends to your store are the kind that pay.

You can only secure that kind of customers by winning their confidence. To do this you must not only be able to give them quality, but you must make them sure that they get quality when they come to your store.

Manufacturers who seek to help the dealer get this kind of confidence are wise. Few of them go to the lengths adopted by the Pacific Vinegar and Pickle Works. This concern is not satisfied with helping the grocer give his customers confidence by authorizing him to "money back" their goods. They want to make the grocer himself sure, and to do this agree that if he does not find their "California Home Brand" goods the best quality he ever bought, they will accept from him any price he may see fit to pay.

Their advertisement of their sweet pickles on page 2 of the cover is worth reading.

Points to Watch

CHEESE—
New York factory cheese is very scarce and prices are very strong.

NUTS—
Almonds are very scarce and will be higher. Pecans are also firming very generally.

CANNED TOMATOES—
All the available "solid pack" will be exhausted before new goods arrive. The watery slop goods are fast going into consumption.

TEA MARKET—
Prices will not decline before the arrival of the new pick. There is likelihood of better prices for high grade Japanese when the season begins.

PROVISIONS—
The Eastern market is firm at figures above parity with Coast prices. Ham, bacon and lard have not advanced yet locally to meet Eastern conditions, but the advance may come any day.

HONOR FRED EIBEN.

Twenty-five of the leading grocers of Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley united on Wednesday evening in tendering a banquet to Fred Eiben of Eiben & Nor, who is to leave in a few days on a four months' visit to the old folks in Germany. Among the special guests of the evening were Messrs. Stulz, Paulding and Powers of San Francisco.

Harry Duncan presided at the meeting as toastmaster and served gracefully and well. Many speeches were made and many bumpers were drunk to Mr. Eiben's health and in wishing him a pleasant journey and a safe return. At the close of the evening H. D. Cushing presented Mr. Eiben with a great silver stein of beautiful workmanship, a gift of the friends gathered at the table.

An interesting feature of the evening was that it was an entire surprise to Mr. Eiben, whose partner, Mr. Nor, saw to it that he had no engagements for Wednesday and took him down town to a "committee meeting."

BAD FOOD SCARCE.

The desirable effects of a good pure food law strictly enforced is shown by the last report of the Pennsylvania Food Department. Their last bulletin was issued on Feb. 14. Although it required thirty-seven pages to report a summary of the work done during the preceding month there were only a handful of adverse reports.

CAUSE OF VETO.

Governor Pardee Tells His Reason for Withholding His Signature of A. B. 920.

Retail grocers all over the State of California have been seriously disappointed because Governor Pardee failed to sign A. B. 920, which provided that an account should not begin to outlaw until the customer quit trading with the dealer. In other words, it provided that an open account should date from the last item instead of having each item begin to outlaw as soon as purchased.

In Massachusetts, Connecticut, Illinois, and practically every one of the older States in the country they have not only this provision, but the bill itself does not outlaw for from five to six years.

Acting State Secretary Paulding wrote Governor Pardee asking his reason for withholding his signature from the bill. The Governor replied as follows:

Sacramento, March 27, 1905.

Mr. J. F. Paulding, San Francisco:

Dear Sir—The bill provided that a running account should begin to outlaw only from the date of any book entry, either credit or debit. The matter received a good deal of attention in this office, and was discussed several times at length. The unanimous opinion, both legal and lay, with which I agree, was that the allowing of a debit charge to renew the life of the whole of a running account would be open to objection—the difficulty of proving, on the part of a purchaser, the falseness of a debit being almost, if not quite, impossible, as I, from personal experience can testify.

On the other hand, had the bill provided only that a partial payment, which should be easy of disproof, if false, should renew the life of the account and its date be the point from which the statute should begin to run, it would have been unobjectionable, and would, I think, have been signed.

Everybody realizes (I am sure I do) that the storekeeper hardly stands a fair chance under the present law with a long continued running account, with items of charge two years in arrears outlawing. But it seems to me that neither creditor nor debtor would be treated unjustly if the date of a payment on account were taken as the starting point from which the statute is to run. A debtor who makes no payment in one year, to say nothing of two, is, it sems to me, hardly a good customer with whom to have a running account.

In short, it appears to me that a credit, and not a debit, entry would be an unobjectionable starting point from which to date the running of the statute. Very truly yours.

GEO. C. PARDEE.

It is evident that Governor Pardee had an idea that if a customer should purchase something from a merchant five or six years after an old account had been closed, that the merchant could then make the new item a part of the old account and collect the entire bill. If his legal advisers had sought to be just to the retail merchants they would have informed him that such

ALL WANT PROFIT.

Dealers of Every Class Favor Proper Regulation of Business Methods.

(By J. F. Paulding.)

A retail grocer in a small town near San Francisco told a flour salesman he was going to try to get the grocers together in an association.

"That would be a good thing," said the salesman, "but don't let them rope you in to buying "Globe" flour. The State association has been paid by the Globe Mills to fight the rest of us, and you don't want to let them fool you."

I ask the fair-minded retail grocers of the Pacific Coast if that isn't the sourest piece of foolishness they ever heard of.

The State association asks the mills to prevent cutters from selling their leading brands at too low a price. This is something they have the right to do, and have the power to do. Several mills refused to comply with our request.

One mill—the Globe Grain and Milling Company—did everything we asked. They put a price on their flour that gave the dealer 15 cents and 17½ cents profit on every sack he sold. They advertised the flour extensively. They advertised the flour extensively. They put up fine goods.

We advised our members to sell the flour of the Globe Mills on which they got a profit, and which could not be cut in preference to the brands that the mills allowed the cutters to sell for what it cost the small dealer.

What else could we do?

Would we not be foolish to advise our members to sell those brands of flour that were being cut to pieces.

Would our organization be of any use to its members if we did not inform them how they could help themselves?

Then these mills, who refused to protect their trade because they did not want to get into trouble with the big stores that make a specialty of cutting, said, "The grocers do not want us to help them get a profit!"

And then the very firms they were afraid of gave them direct proof that they DID want a profit by advocating and boosting in every way the "A1" flour of the Globe Mills, that could not be cut!

They did not do this because they loved the Globe Mills. They did it because "A1" flour paid them a profit, and they knew they were safe in advertising it at $1.40, because nobody else could offer it for less and the flour was of such high quality that they knew it would satisfy their customers.

The "Emporium" had a big pile of "A1" flour in a conspicuous part of their store bearing a big sign "$1.40." They advertised it in the daily papers at odd spells, too, although they were selling the old standard brands at $1.20.

Sallinger Bros. in Oakland are also pushing and selling "A1" flour at $1.40 and get $1.25 for their "Sallingers' [illegible]."

These facts show the results that can be made when the merchants themselves maintain the selling price of the goods.

In those lines where the department stores and cutters are

HELP ALL GROCERS.

Frank B. Connolly, Vice-President of the Frisco Association, Tells What the National Can Do.

A short time ago, Elisha Winters of Kansas City, Kas., wrote Frank B. Connolly of San Francisco complimenting him upon the able way in which he had analyzed the prospects for the national association, and asking him to outline a plan that associations all over the country could consider, discuss and pass on before the National Convention at Niagara Falls.

In his reply Mr. Connolly sent the following suggestions for a general policy that would make the national association of value to grocers in every part of the country, from the small town, who buys everything from the wholesaler on long time, to the big cash buyer, who gets his goods direct from the manufacturer through a "buying exchange."

The Advocate thinks the trade press could take this matter up with very good advantage to their readers.

Must Interest Every Grocer.

In order that the National Association of Retail Grocers of the United States may be in fact what its name implies, it must have a policy that will concentrate upon it the interest of every grocer in the country.

Every retail grocer feels that those wholesale grocers who protect the retail trade in their profits and in their business should receive every consideration and protection from the retail grocer. Yet we cannot expect the retail grocers of Philadelphia, New York, Boston or San Francisco and other large cities to feel interest in an organization that declares, as one of its chief principles, the upholding of the wholesale grocer when the wholesale grocers of those cities not only refuse to co-operate with the retailers to protect them in their profits, but actually compete with them.

In Minnesota, Washington and a few other favored States, the wholesale grocers use their power to help the retail grocers maintain proper trade methods and prevent undesirable cutting. In these States the retail grocers owe it to themselves to do everything in their power to continue such trade conditions and strengthen the organization of the wholesalers. They can better afford to co-operate with the jobbers to prevent manufacturers from selling to the retail trade direct and, by paying more, insure a profit, than to buy for less money and sell at cost.

Where Wholesalers Wrong Retailers.

In other States numerous firms recognized as wholesalers, are allowed to retail. The better retailers who have to compete with large cutting establishments, are then forced to form Buying Exchanges in order to get prices that enable them to meet the cut rates of their competitors. The retail trade do not owe the wholesale trade any allegiance in communities where the jobbers permit the cut prices.

The National Retail Grocers Association does a wrong to itself and to the grocery trade when it takes a stand that not only is not helpful to the retail grocers of some communities, but would be absolutely hurtful to others if the organization had the influence to make its resolutions effective. The resolution concerning wholesale grocers and buying direct passed at the last convention, has just that effect.

The National Retail Grocers' Association should be so conducted as to win for it the active support and sympathy of the largest retail grocers in every community of the country, as well as the smaller men. These concerns are located principally in the cities where the jobber do not co-operate with the retail trade and seek to protect them against department competition. To protect themselves these firms cannot afford to buy many things from the wholesale grocers but are forced to secure other sources of supply through which they can buy to better advantage.

All Grocers Want Profits.

There is one policy that will interest all grocers equally both large and small. That is a policy that would tend to bring system into the retail grocery business and would insure the trade against unintelligent cutting.

Every grocer is in business to make money. Every merchant would like to have certain lines on which he can feel safe in making a price that will net him a profit.

The advertising grocer will always be able to find something to cut. If there are certain standard goods that he knows his competitor cannot cut, he will be willing and glad to sell them at a fair price also.

Manufacturer Can Help.

There is only one way that law and order can be brought into the grocery business. This is through the assistance of the manufacturer who has the right to fix and maintain the price at which his goods shall be sold. The manufacturer has the right to refuse to sell to those who cut his price and to demand of the wholesale trade that tney refuse to sell firms that cut this price. The manufacturer alone has this right.

The manufacturer would not ordinarily be warranted in making any such a demand unless the retail grocery trade were prepared to back him up. If the influence of the National Association should be devoted to creating that assurance, it would be of value to every retailer and every manufacturer in the country.

The great power and influence of the National Retail Druggists' Association came from its devoting its influence to securing the co-operation of the retail druggists in so backing up the manufacturers that they could anord to give the trade protection. This policy has made the National Druggists' Association of so much value to its members that the per capita tax has been raised from 25 cents to $4 per year and the members pay the $4 much more gladly and with much more enthusiasm than they did the 25 cents.

Retailers Must Give Aid.

When the Retail Druggists' Association asked the manufacturers of Peruna to fix a retail selling price on that article and maintain the same by refusing to supply cutters with their goods, the Peruna people requested that the National Druggists' Association should secure the signatures of 30,000 retail druggists to a request that this action be taken. When this was done, the Peruna people outlined a policy similar to that being followed by numerous other manufacturers of staple drug specialties. As a consequence, it is now the exception and not the rule when this specialty is cut.

The Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association has been developing this policy for the advantage of the grocers of the Pacific Coast. They find that, without exception, manufacturers would be glad to undertake some such policy if the retail grocery trade would point out to them some way by which it can be done safely.

The National Can Help.

There is only one way by which manufactures can be made to feel that they can safely establish a fixed retail selling price for their goods. That way is for the Retail Grocers' associations of the country, under the leadership and direction of the National Grocers' Association, to not only resolve but actually to give their earnest assistance and best ability to the sale of those goods whose retail selling prices are protected. This also includes the united action on the parts of the retail grocers in restricting in every way possible the sale of those goods the manufacturers of which allow them to be cut.

Should the National Retail Grocers' Association adopt this policy, it will not interfere with the existing policy of the retail grocers in those States where the jobbers protect the retail trade. As a matter of fact, that co-operation will make the work of the manufacturers easier and less expensive of maintenance. The assistance of the manufacturer will also make the jobbers' responsibility in the matter less.

At the same time, it will give the retail grocers, both large and small, in the less favored communities protection against cutters in spite of the carelessness and often worse than carelessness of the wholesalers who too often extend protection to the cutters who are usually large purchasers to the detriment of the rest of the trade.

A Valuable Chief Policy.

We believe the National Retail Grocers' Association should take as its chief policy the idea of the co-operating with the manufacturers so as to make the maintenance of a fair price on leading staples practicable. Whether the manufacturer sells through the jobber or direct to the retailer is something for the wholesale grocers to settle with the manufacturer and is entirely a local issue.

We believe that the next policy should be a declaration in favor of the protection of the wholesale trade in those districts where the wholesale trade are prepared to protect the retailer.

The matter of securing national legislation, the abatement of trade abuses, such as premium schemes, etc., the further extending of organization, are all valuable incidental features of importance to which attention should be given as the necessity arises.

Invites Suggestions From Others.

We hope that each organization in the country will give this proposition careful thought and discussion. If it is followed up intelligently, there is no reason why at the next convention of the National Retail Grocers' Association some definite plan should not be fixed upon, which would result in immense mancial advantage to every merchant of the United States handling retail groceries.

I have put my ideas into the shape of resolutions, which I enclose. I hope that every organization in the country will pass the same and forward copies to the National Secretary, Fred Mason, to print in the Trade Press Bulletin.

Asking for Profits.

Whereas, The exigencies of trade require that a dealer meet the prices of his direct competitors, and

Whereas, The prices made by cut-rate stores on leading staples have resulted in lowering the general average of profit on those staples far below the safety point, and

Whereas, Conditions are now such that a general rehabilitation of prices is essential, and

Whereas, An agreement among retail grocers themselves as to the maintenance of a retail price is impracticable in many communities since it can only be obtained by the agreement on the part of the wholesale grocers to refuse to sell goods to the cutter, and

Whereas, The legal right of fixing and maintaining the selling price on an article rests with the manufacturer and the manufacturer alone, be it

Resolved, That we urge the manufacturers of the country to establish such prices for their specialties in the various communities as will allow a satisfactory margin of profit to the retailer. Be it further

Resolved, That we think the manufacturers should require of wholesalers an agreement not to sell their goods to such retail grocers as may cut the price of the same. Be it further

Resolved, That we will give every assistance in our power to increase the popularity of such goods as are protected in their retail price by the manufacturer, and that we will do everything in our power to restrict the sale of those goods which the manufacturers allow to be cut.

Recommend Contract Plan.

Whereas, Certain manufacturers have found it possible to minimize cutting in their goods by selling only through jobbers who sign a contract to sell their goods only to retailers who sign agreements to maintain the retail selling price. Be it

Resolved, That we urge upon manufacturers the advisability of the contract plan. Be it further

Resolved, That we will assist in every way in our power to advance the sale of goods so protected.

Promises of Assistance.

Whereas, The value of the maintenance of prices and the extent to which manufacturers can afford to devote reserves to this policy depends upon the extent to which they are supported by the retail grocers trade. Be it

Resolved That we urge the managers of the National Grocers' Association to use its influence to induce manufacturers of articles of widespread use to adopt the contract selling plan in all communities where the retail grocers are prepared to give such manufacturers the support that will warrant their undertaking this system.

TRADE WINNERS.

Grocers who sell REAL sweet pickles will find them trade winners. Many of the so called sweet pickles are nothing out of hairy pickles packed in sweetened vinegar. These pickles are neither tempting, satisfactory nor digestible. A real sweet pickle that is, cucumbers preserved with granulated cane sugar and spices. In all of these things.

The dealer can be sure he is getting the very best sweet pickles the market affords when he buys "California Home Brand" of the Pacific Vinegar and Pickle Works. He can be sure of the quality himself, because this firm is willing to guarantee satisfaction by saying that if the dealer does not find the goods the best value he has ever bought, they will accept, without question, any price he may fix on the goods. As an additional assurance they authorize the dealer to money back "California Home Brand" pickles. This means that the grocer can assure his customers that if the goods fail to give entire satisfaction in every respect they can return them and get their money back.

Such assurances as these can only be given with really high class goods. We refer our readers to the advertisement on page 2 of the cover.

The growth of the direct tea trade with Ceylon is shown in the official statements of the past four years, as recently given out. In other words, direct shipments have become threefold larger since 1901 and are still growing.

"GOOD" AND "BAD."

The Only Kinds of Coffee Known to the Average Retail Grocer.

As far as consumers are concerned, there are as a rule only two kinds of coffee: these are "good coffee" and "bad coffee."

Few grocers have the ability to distinguish between them of their own knowledge

They have only one recourse. That is, to buy from a manufacturer whose name is recognized among consumers as a symbol of good quality, and whose standing is such that the dealer can feel sure that the goods bought from him will be up to the desired standard.

When the manufacturer backs up his goods with a "money back" guaranty to both the consumer and the dealer, the dealer is safe. And this is the only condition under which he can be safe.

The customer has to depend upon the word of the retail dealer. If the dealer "money backs" the article, the customer's assurance is made absolute.

Most dealers have to depend upon the honesty of the manufacturer. When the manufacturer gives a "money back" guarantee, the dealer also is made absolutely safe.

When the dealer sells a package of coffee bearing the name of a manufacturer of recognized responsibility and "money backs" that package, his customers feel doubly secure. If they like the coffee, the grocer gets the credit for selling the coffee. If they don't like it, it is the manufacturer, not the grocer, who is blamed, because the grocer gives them their money back and sells them something of a different quality.

A. Schilling & Co., years ago, recognized this means of protecting both retail grocer and their customers. They "money back" their "Schilling's Best" coffee and thus take all the responsibility for its quality and for its being satisfactory to the grocers' customers.

They do more.

They will not sell goods to any dealer who cuts the price. In this way they assure the dealer a fair profit on the sale, and at the same time satisfying his trade that the price he charges is a fair one.

When the retail grocer "money backs" his coffee, he is making a great advance towards securing the trade of those customers who want to be sure of good coffee and many of whom buy coffee from the single line coffee house because they do not feel sure that the package coffee they might get from the retail grocer would be "good"—that is, satisfactory.

The retail grocery trade should recognize the fact that the manufacturers who are helping them protect special brands of high-grade coffee are helping them win back an immense amount of business which they have lost, sometimes through carelessness, but oftener through trying to sell to their trade bulk coffee whose quality they themselves have no assurance will be uniform and the values of which are not always fair to the customer.

They can protect themselves in this regard by carrying "Schilling's Best" in stock.

SELL POISONED WINES.

Local Dealers Find Themselves in Trouble With the Health Office.

In spite of the cheapness of good pure California wines, numerous firms have been dumping upon the market great quantities of "slops" dosed with arsenic and acids and painted red with coal tar dyes. All of these additions are hurtful. At the same time the action is doubly inexcusable since it works a great damage to the wine growers of the State.

Some of the places where the doctored wines were sold at retail charge high prices for service, and could well afford to give their customers honest goods.

The manufacturers charged with having adulterated wines are:

WARNING TO MERCHANTS.

The Merchants' Association of this city has mailed 5,000 copies of the anti-trading stamp law to retail dealers in San Francisco. They accompanied the copy of the law with a circular in which they stated that under the law it would be a misdemeanor to give trading stamps or similar devices after sixty days from March 7, 1905. The circular concludes: "We believe this law is constitutional, and trust it will be strictly observed by the merchants of San Francisco."

The trading stamp companies propose to fight the law. They will seek to question its constitutionality. Cases will be brought at the same time in Sacramento, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

A conference has been held of representatives from the Merchants' Association, San Francisco Retail Grocers, the State Grocers' and Merchants' Association, Cigar Dealers' Association of San Francisco and the Dry Goods Dealers of San Francisco. An executive committee has been appointed of one man from each organization. This executive committee will engage necessary legal assistance and outline a plan along which the campaign against the stamps will be conducted.

Merchants in other cities will be able to have their local cases continued pending a decision by the Supreme Court in San Francisco, thus minimizing the costs of getting a final decision as to the law's constitutionality.

CALIFORNIA WHEAT.

"All interests in California, including millers, wheat growers and shippers, are alive to the wheat situation in the Golden State. Not only has the wheat production of the State very materially decreased of late years, but an actual or relative deterioration of the quality of the grain has taken place," says the "American Miller."

"According to the Bureau of Statistics, the wheat crop of California from 1879 to 1896 averaged pretty close to 35,000,000 bushels per year. Since then it has fallen quite rapidly, amounting in 1902 to 22,000,000 bushels, in 1903 to 20,000,000 bushels and in 1904 to only 15,000,000 bushels. The State reports are even less for this last named series of years.

"The deterioration of the wheat in its gluten content was not felt to be a serious matter so long as a large percentage of the wheat was shipped abroad, where it was in demand on account of its color. But now that the Oriental trade of California mills is expanding, the necessity not only of larger crops, but of a better gluten quality is pressing upon all interests. Thus far wheats introduced in California have shown a tendency to a gradual lessening of the gluten until what might be considered the California normal was reached."

(Note—The Globe Milling Company has made up for the lack of gluten in California wheat by making their "A1" flour of a blend of Eastern wheat with California wheat. The result is a strong yet white flour that proves highly satisfactory to the housewife.)

EUROPEAN MACARONI.

J. H. Werman, U. S. Consul at Three Rivers, Quebec, reports that French and Italian parties contemplate manufacturing macaroni in Canada on a large scale. As the United States macaroni manufacturers consume 3,000 barrels of flour daily, this project is worthy of consideration.

THAT COFFEE DUTY.

Opinions of Diffrt Authorities as to Probability of Suoh a Tax.

The Advocate last week printed a dispatch from Washington announcing that the possibility of a duty on coffee was being discussed. The country is facing a deficit, and the Republican members are seeking to secure some effective means of raising the revenue to offset this deficit before the next general election.

France has a tax of almost 15 cents per pound; Germany has a tax of 5 cents, and England, Austria, Italy and other countries derive large sums from this source.

The United States had a duty of 3 cents per pound on coffee until 1871. The duty was then removed and Brazil immediately imposed an export tax on coffee, thus transposing about $8,000,000 per year, which had formely gone into the United States treasury, into the Brazil treasury, and the price of coffee remained the same to American consumers.

If the present plans are carried out coffee will be admitted free from Porto Rico and the Philippines. In this way the coffee industry will be assisted in this country. At the same time the duty will not prove a great hardship to the growers in other countries.

President Sullivan, of the New York Coffee Exchange, says:

"A duty of three or five cents per pound on coffee would not decrease the consumption of the bean in this country. The consumer would be assured of a better grade of coffee and the dealer would get better prices. Porto Rico would benefit at once, and it is quite within the range of possibility that the coffee industry in the Philippines would be encouraged substantially."

J. M. Jarvey, of Arbuckle Bros., insists that the suggestion of a duty is merely talk started by speculators to influence the market. He says:

"I believe it to be entirely without foundation. I think the story started right here in New York and was written for the purpose of influencing the market. I am in the closet touch with the coffee interests everywhere and must certainly have heard of it if Congress contemplated any such step."

Our specialties must be sold at a profit and on merit only.

To the Trade—It has been the policy of our firm during a business career of more than twenty-five years to insist that merchants handling our specialties sell them at a price that affords a legitimate profit, and to assure our customers that this policy will be strictly adhered to in the future.

We take this opportunity to remind them that we will refuse to sell our specialties or any brand of goods under our control to any retail merchant who cuts the selling price by giving cash checks, trading stamps, or offers similar inducements to promote the sale of any of our specialties, WHICH MUST BE SOLD AT A PROFIT AND ON MERIT ONLY.

Clerk's Corner

The Clerks Who Talks Too Much.

A merchant has the following pertinent remarks to make about the clerk who tells the secrets of his employer's business:

"The clerk who does not blab is a jewel. There are not many such. I am not advertising that as my own opinion entirely, although in my talks with clerks I have learned that a big majority were ready to tell a little bit more about the business than they should.

"Most merchants will tell you that the gossiping clerk is one of the things they have to guard against in keeping their store and business at peace with the community. The clerk likes to know the cost mark, and after he has learned it he frequently gets confidential with kindred spirits, and away she goes. No clerk of any sense or intelligence can be around the store long without learning things about the business which the proprietor does not care to have told on the outside. People of good judgment would hesitate long before referring to those things at all. But the blabbing clerk rushes in where angels fear to tread, and in his effort to appear exceedingly wise he tips off all he knows. This is usually information which the many people in the community are only too glad to get hold of. They proceed to distort it and peddle it from mouth to mouth until it does actual harm to the store. You may not realize it, but it is a fact that one gossiping clerk can offset a great deal of the good advertising the merchant tries to give his store.

"You and I and every one else interested in retailing frequently discuss and think over plans for giving the store a good reputation. We want the good name of the store to travel as far as possible. A good name is worth just as much to a store as it is to a man. To do this we give good values. We try to make good on every statement, whether in advertising or across the counter.

Clerk Undoes Good Work.

"When I say that some gossiping or knocking clerk can undo a lot of this good work, I know what I am talking about. I have seen clerks who were trusted by their employers do him a great deal of harm unintentionally by just such gossip. I have seen many other instances where proprietors' reposing confidence in clerk were repaid by actual knocking. This talk was peddled around the community, to the detriment of the merchant, with him utterly oblivious to what was going on. He probably could not realize that the clerk could be so hypocritical.

"There are clerks who can be trusted, but the point I want to make is that the merchant should study his clerk carefully, and when you find you have one who can not keep his mouth shut get rid of him."

A SUPERIOR POLISH.

The retail trade has taken hold of X-Ray Stove Polish with splendid enthusiasm. They recognize the fact that an article so widely advertised must have merit and the general nature of the goods make them very easy to sell.

The fact that X-Ray Polish is guaranteed to go twice as far as any paste or liquid polish and that it does not burn off makes its a very desirable article. It being in a powdered state, the polish does not stick to the can and the careful housewife recognizes that she is able to use every bit of it. There are two sizes: The small size, which sells for 5 cents per tin, costs $1.50 per case of 3 dozen, and since there are a half dozen tins free with each box, it brings in $2.10—a profit of 40 per cent.

The 10-cent size costs $2.50 for a quarter gross box and with the half dozen free, brings a return of $4.20, a profit of nearly 70 per cent.

Attracting Trade

G. C. Maskey, progressive merchant of Iowa, has demonstrated how a merchant can attract trade and hold it, as the following will show:

A Drop Sale.

The last week of his clearance sale he put all short ends and broken lots of dress goods, belts, gloves, mitts, parasols, neckties, collars, shirt waists, shoes, etc., all on one table. Monday morning he offered any article in the lot for 98 cents. In the afternoon they went for 87 cents. Twice every day the prices went down. When Saturday evening came everything that was left went for one cent. It was what you call a clearance sale.

Everything went.

Window Trimming.

Mr. Kaskey is great on window trimming. He has done a great deal of it. He believes in its value to such an extent that he changes the trim two and three times each month. He does not stop at expense.

The price card is used to a great extent. Almost every section of the store has its card signs.

Sends Out Samples.

The first thing he does when he gets his new stock of dress goods is to get his samples ready. He sends these out to several hundred people for miles and miles around. One hundred different samples are sent to each woman, and with them he encloses the following letter:

"We take pleasure in showing you samples of our spring and summer line of fabrics. As in past seasons, we are the first to show the new ideas, and have an assortment that is seldom seen outside of the large cities. By buying early and having the goods shipped first we get the pick of the market instead of what is left after the season has advanced. It is to our interest just the same as it is to yours to buy early when the assortment is complete. Just at present we can fill orders for any of the enclosed samples, but they are selling more rapidly than we expected, and we advise you to make your selections and mail your order at once and the goods will be promptly sent you. Send cash with order."

These samples range in price from ten to seventy-five cents a yard. The mail orders he gets as a result range from 50 cents to $20.

Does he get many mail orders?

The number is surprising. He is always very careful to see that every mail order is filled correctly, and that it is sent out promptly.

A Discount Card.

When he was having a sale on shoes last November he sent out a great many postal cards to people all over that part of the country. The cards were printed and read as follows:

"This card is worth 75 cents to you if you bring it to our store some time between November 1st and November 10th, 1904. The object of this is to have you try our shoes. If you buy a pair of ladies' or men's shoes we will allow you 50 cents and 25 cents on children's shoes. This card is good only to party addressed or member of family."

The returns from this simple piece of advertising were surprising to Mr. Kaskey himself.

When he writes an ad he says something. His ads are interesting.

Printers have to be up to scratch to do Mr. Kaskey's printing. Poor type doesn't go with him. If his printer cannot give him the right kind of a border, he buys his own. What Mr. Kaskey wants he wants, and he wants it correct.

A Catalogue.

Every spring and fall he issues a very neat catalogue on dry goods to his trade. It is not a cheap affair. He uses the best paper and makes it so attractive that the women of Manson and vicinity consider it a treasure. On the front and back pages he has a few colored fashion plates.

Under each heading he gives them a little talk on quality and tells in a very interesting way what is to be worn, etc. He then names a few of the cheaper prices, but gives them to understand that he also carries high-priced goods. All through the catalogue he uses cuts to illustrate the many items.

WEDDING BREAKFAST COFFEE.

In a clever booklet the Nash-Smith Tea and Coffee Company write about their Wedding Breakfast Coffee as follows:

"For years Wedding Breakfast Coffee has been acknowledged by coffee connoisseurs to be the acme of perfection in flavor and strength, the most popular of medium priced coffee. It is highly aromatic, of a mild, delicious flavor, the result of nearly half a century experience in blending by a master mind in the art of blending coffee. It is an honest value, prepared by a firm that believes quality to be the greatest factor known to please the coffee drinker. Its flavor surpasses many higher priced coffees and will please you. If you are one who desires a cup of good coffee, one that will start you on your day's journey contented and happy, then drink Wedding Breakfast Coffee. You can be supplied by your grocer."

HE KNOWS MENZIES.

Editor Small, of the "Merchants' Review," who is looked upon with particular veneration by the editor of the "Grocer and County Merchant," in a recent issue says:

"When a trade paper cannot chain an association to its chariot wheels the temptation to knock the association becomes irresistible."

There is no question but that the "Merchants' Review" has probed to the bottom the cause of the malicious knocking of Mr. Menzies.

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

The American Cereal Company contributed $1000 to the funds of the National Grocers' Association on March 13th.

Ohio—The Ohio Retail Grocers' Mutual Insurance Company has been organized. W. H. Cook, secretary of the Ohio State Grocers' Association, is secretary and manager of the fire insurance company.

Omaha, Nebraska—The retail grocers do not approve of being made to sell premiums by the mush people. On March 9th, the Association passed a resolution in which they not only commended the American Cereal Company, but condemned the Great Western Cereal Co., and added: "Be it further resolved, that we request the members to effectually show their disapproval in this matter by selling and pushing only those goods which are manufactured by the friends of the retailers."

Olympia, Wash.—The governor has signed the anti-trading stamp bill. This bill is the same as that passed by the California legislature except that two amendments were made. One permitted the use of due bills redeemable in merchandise and the other exempted agriculture or church fairs conducted for scientific or charitable purposes.

Pittsburg, Pa.—The Pittsburg grocers are to give a food show at the Old City Hall. The floor space of which has been divided into 60 spaces 7x9 feet in size.

Portland, Me.—The trading stamp people have been able to defeat all trading stamp bills in the legislature this year. A law similar to that in operation in Massachusetts and passed this year in New Hampshire providing for an excise tax of 3 per cent was beaten. A second measure requiring the trading stamp companies to deposit $20,000 as a guarantee that they would redeem all stamps was defeated.

Westbrook, Mass.—The merchants are signing an agreement to give no further trading stamps or coupons to their patrons on and after March 15th.

Lynn, Mass.—The Grocery Clerks' Union have started a sick and death benefit fund. The sick member receives $1 the first week and $5 for 12 succeeding weeks thereafter and in case of death, $100 is given his family.

Cleveland, O.—The retail grocers are preparing for their fifth annual food show. The food shows of the grocers have always drawn great crowds and have earned much money for the Association.

Bowling Green, Mass.—The retail grocers have established a co-operative delivery system. They have four daily deliveries.

Boston, Mass.—The Retail Grocers' Association has placed its membership fee at $50. This fee holds until a membership of 500 is reached when the fee becomes $100 until there shall be 550 members which is placed as the limit of membership. Application for membership must be voted on by the board of directors. One blackball allows another vote to be taken at the same meeting. Two black balls refuses further consideration for one month and three black balls refuse further consideration for one year. Membership in the Boston Grocers' Association enables the member to profit by its connection with the Boston Wholesale Grocery Company.

Massachusetts—The "New England Grocer" says: "The stamp people are abandoning their premium stores. The big department store in Boston that once shouted trading stamps in half-page ads now gives them scant notice. The test cases have not been decided, but the craze has now lost its power, and the public is now seeing the folly of stamps. Even if the law is overturned by the courts—as possibly it will be—it will take a good while for the stamp people to regain public confidence."

CROP CONDITIONS.

The U. S. Weather Bureau says:

"Deciduous fruits have not been seriously injured by frosts this season. In some sections many varieties are now beyond danger. The trees are heavily laden and the outlook is good for large yields in nearly all varieties."

Cordelia, Calif.—Continuous rains have damaged the apricots crop considerably both in Suisun and Green Valleys. Peaches are also affected. It is estimated that the damage will reach 25 per cent.

Visalia, Cal.—Practically no damage was done to the fruit trees in this vicinity by the recent heavy rains.

Orange, Cal.—Bee men report heavy loss by recent floods.

Portland, Or.—Heavy yield of cherries is looked for. Apples and later varieties of fruits are safe from any weather contingency.

Walla Walla, Wash.—The February frosts injured the peach trees considerably. Most of the other varieties of fruits will produce a full crop.

MOLASSES.

New crop of Porto Rico molasses will be arriving shortly. The price is about 2 cents per gallon less than last year, although the crop is lighter than in 1904. The lower price of New Orleans is the cause of this.

SUGAR MARKET.

Conditions are still unsettled.

COFFEE MARKET.

Lewin-Meyer Co. report:

"There is a decidedly firmer feeling in coffee now. Locally there has been quite a demand for stock at 9 and 9½c, since the trade has come to realize that there will not be half as much Salvador received in this market as last year. In the Eastern markets there is a strong undertone of confidence which also has its effect on local buyers."

New York, March 21, 1905.—Volney, Green & Sons say:

"There is nothing to indicate any special change in the immediate future. Buyers are showing more confidence in prices and there has been an improvement in the demand, especially for Brazils."

TEA MARKET.

The market is firm, particularly on high grades of Japans. As the entire trade is very well stocked, the market is likely to remain quiet until May, when the Japan market opens.

PROVISIONS.

The Cudahy Packing Company reports:

"The Eastern market is very firm and advancing, hence we are expecting an advance locally."

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. report:

"Martin's New York State factory cheese is very scarce in the East, hence the high price."

SALT FISH.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Eastern codfish is still very high in price. There are no changes reported in mackerel."

AMERICAN SARDINES.

The Canadian Parliament is considering a bill to tax American fisher boats. Since about half the American sardines packed in the United States are caught in Canadian waters, it is estimated that the tax bill will increase the cost of fish at least 25 cents per case on all grades, since the fish will cost more if the fishermen pay the tax, and if they do not go into the Canadian waters the catch will be so much less. One large concern stated that if the bill passed they will advance prices from 15c to 25c per case throughout their whole line.

SHRIMP.

The packing season is opening at New Orleans. Packers report that 1904 stocks are completely cleaned out.

CANNED SALMON.

The Alaska Packers' Association has not as yet fixed its prices for future Red Alaska. The North Alaska Salmon Company is quoting $1 in largest lots, which means $1.10 to the retailer.

No price has as yet been put on pink. Packers announce that they are waiting for reports from their vessels as to how the fish are running.

Spot salmon is being quoted by local jobbers as follows: Pink, 75c to 85c; Alaska red, $1.10 to $1.20; sorkeyes ½s, $1.25; 1s, tall, $1.75; 1s, flats, $1.85.

There will be 137 canneries operated in the salmon packing trade on the Pacific Coast this year, according to figures compiled by the "Pacific Fisherman." Of these there are 42 in Alaska, 22 on PugetSound, 22 on the California, Oregon and Washington coast, 24 on the Fraser River and 27 in Northern British Columbia.

Seattle, Wash., March 25, 1905.—The "Trade Register" says: "The salmon market has opened up later than usual this year. Hopes of a big pack are general. Fraser River canneries think they will be lucky if 150,000 cases are shipped this year. There will be 37 canneries on the Fraser River this year as against 48 operating in 1901.

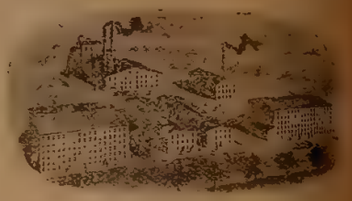
Red Bluff.—There are 83,000,000 salmon eggs being hatched at Sisson hatchery. The average female salmon contains about 500 eggs. The young fish will be ready to turn lose about May 1.

Seattle, Wash., March 22.—Both here and in the East the week opened up with canned salmon firm and an appreciable tendency towards higher prices. The jobbing demand, especially for Red Alaska, is expected to continue steady until the 1905 pack comes in, since the trade holds light stocks. It looks now as if supplies will be exhausted by the time the new pack comes into the market.

The Dalles, Ore., March 14.—F. A. Seufert reports:

"Owing to the small fall of rain during the last winter the streams in this district are lower than they have been since the season of 1889, which was the lowest on record. The salmon pack of that season was less than 200,000 cases on the river, and there were then no cold storage plants in existence to draw upon the catch for fresh salmon for Eastern shipment. If the same conditions should exist this year as in 1889, the canned product would not exceed 75,000 to 85,000 cases, since the canners could not afford to pay the prices given by the cold storage packers. What these conditions mean will be understood from the fact that while in 1889 there were packed only 160 tierces of 1,000 pounds each, in 1904 the pack was 6,122 tierces. While the canners pay only 5 cents per pound, packing salmon of all sizes, the cold storage plants, which take only No. 1 Chinook of over twenty-five pounds, pay 7c to 8c.

If the increase of the business of the salmon packers continues as in the past years, they will probably put up 10,000 tierces for 1905, and the salmon pack will fall below 100,000 cases.



The Sound and Frazer River may make up this average, as it is their fourth year. The Sound deposits of 1901, which was the banner year for sockeye pack, will make their run this year. It remains to be seen if enough fish were allowed to go up to the spawning beds to make a supply for this year. Both the Sound and Frazer River were overfished during the three years preceding 1901, and the last three years have been disastrous to the packers. If we do not allow the salmon to spawn, it is only a matter of time when we will have no fish to can, and the canning will not be a paying investment when Alaska red salmon brings only $1.10 per dozen. The reason for this lies in the greater proportionate cost of packing when fish became scarce.

The destruction of the fish has been assisted by machinery. In former times, when the salmon ran heavily, the canners could do only so much, and the surplus fish were allowed to go on to the spawning grounds. During the past five years machinery has been so perfected that when once the fish is put into the cleaners it is handled entirely by machinery, and therefore the canners are able to use up the largest runs of salmon.

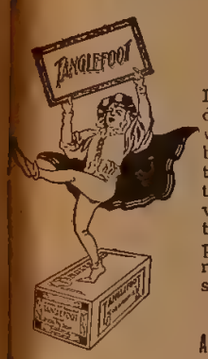
CANNED GOODS.



Canned Asparagus—The season was about two weeks earlier than usual, owing to the spell of warm weather and abundant rains. The California Fruit Canners' Association is running three plants. The largest is at Vorden, on the Sacramento River. The other two are at Sacramento and Milpitas.

Canned Peas—There has been some little movement in futures at the following prices: Standard, 77½c; standard sifted, 82½c; extra sifted, $1.10; petit pois, $1.40.

Canned Tomatoes—The poor, watery stock is almost cleaned up, large quantities having been shipped to Oregon, Washington and Idaho. Solid pack are scarce and will be exhausted by the time the 1905 crop is ready for delivery. Jobbers are quoting 2½s, 90c; 3s, $1.10; standards, 70c. Some of the standard packed outside the association are being sold at 65c to 67½c.

Canned Corn—Fancy Maine corn is being firmly held at $1.35 to $1.45. The supply is limited. There is plenty of Western corn to be had at 80c to 90c.

DRIED FRUITS.

Conditions are much the same as last week.

Raisins are not moving. All parties are waiting to see what effect the newly formed association will have.

Prunes—Larger sizes are scarce. They are being firmly held.

The demoralization of the prune business has been such that the State officially has taken the matter in hand. Elwood Cooper, State Commissioner of Horticulture, is communicating with all the prune growers, presenting two plans for marketing their crops. Each prune grower is asked to sign a card indicating the plan he approves and also agreeing to abide by the decision of the majority.

The first plan is for each grower to sign a contract agreeing to deliver his crop for five years to a central company on a basis of 1¾c, four-size basis. There will be a counter-agreement that one-half the net profits over this sum shall be distributed among the growers.

The second plan is to form a number of local associations which will unite in a central selling agency.

Both plans contemplate centralizing the sale of the crops so that the markets can be properly organized and the consumption of prunes increased. In his circular Mr. Cooper says: "It is absolutely sure that if nothing be done, California prune growers will never again market an average crop upon a 1½c basis."

NUT MARKET.

Almonds—The market is practically cleaned up at first hands on better class of nuts. Prices are firming considerably.

Pecans—Stocks are said to be very light. The market is very strong. This was caused by the unusually heavy frosts which injured the trees in Texas and Louisiana to such an extent that it is claimed they will be largely eliminated as factors in the coming season. Advices from De Witt, Ga., are that because of the short crop of 1904 pecans will be scarce before the 1905 crop is ready for delivery.

Filberts—Advices state that the new crop is a good one. There is considerable hold-over. The market was reported somewhat weak, with the price tendency downward.

OLIVES.

The supply of California olives and olive oil in first hands is at present very low. Growers are anticipating a much larger crop than usual this year, and the proportion of high-grade olives is expected to be quite high.

HAY MARKET.

Somers & Co. report:

"General market conditions are unchanged, and from present indications we expect to see a continuance of the dull state of affairs at least until the new crop is harvested. There is practically no change in prices here, although recently but very little fancy red oat hay has been marketed, and in consequence anything in this line would sell fairly well in comparison with other grades.

ROCHDALE BUYS PROPERTY.

Healdburg, Cal.—The Rochdale Company has purchased a piece of property 66x135 feet and intend to erect a large storage warehouse at once.

CAUSE OF VETO.

was not the case, since the open account would have been subject to the action of the statute of limitations when two years had passed before a new item had been purchased.

It is evident that the men surrounding Governor Pardee have little sympathy with the needs of the retail merchants of the State, since he says that it was their unanimous opinion that the law we ask for was not desirable. This is hard to understand when the fact is considered that in practically every other State of the Union such a law is on the statute books and works no injustice, and that practically every retail grocer in the State of California feels that he has been seriously injured by Governor Pardee's failure to sign the measure.

Cigars and Tobacco

J. M. Gamble is now getting his new offices in the Italian-American Bank Building in shape for business.

The demand for the Optimo cigar continues to show such increases that the San Francisco distributors, Ehrman Bros. & Co., are as hard put to it to fill orders as ever. No other high-class cigar shows such sales in this market as the Optimo.

The total imports of Porto Rico tobacco last year were 3,000,000 pounds, an increase of 130 per cent in one year. In other words, 3,000,000 pounds of domestic leaf tobacco was supplanted by this Porto Rico leaf.

Wellman, Peck & Co. are making gratifying headway with their high-grade Havana leader, the Flor de Lovera. The cigar is appearing on an increasing number of stands and is pushing some of the older brands.

Big manufacturers in all parts of the country are already filling applications for space with the committee having the New York Tobacco Exposition in charge. According to the figures prepared by the committee there will be space for about 150 exhibits occupying about 100 square feet each, and the price will be $1 per square foot.

The treasurer's report of the American Tobacco Company, presented at the annual meeting of the stockholders, shows total net earnings for the year ending Dec. 31, 1904, of $22,304,696, compared with $22,228,182 in 1903, an increase of $76,514. Of this total $12,296,666 is applicable to surplus account, increasing the total surplus to $39,531,796.

Under date of March 11, the Tampa correspondent of Tobacco says: "A. Santaella & Co. shipped 41 cases of Optimo cigars March 1 and 2. For the week they will easily round up 85 cases. They will use about 7,000 pounds of stripped tobacco this week. With all the rush and 'go' of their great business there is order and neatness, both within the factory and outside on the grounds."

An Interesting Comparison.

A New York dealer adopted an ingenious method recently of attracting attention to a line of cut plug smoking tobaccos. In one side of his show window he displayed a box of ordinary plug tobacco, such as is still sold in many sections of the country, but for which there has been comparatively little demand in New York for many years.

In front of the box of tobacco rested a large pocket knife. The knife was open, and the blade was so stained and discolored as to show that it had undergone long use at cutting tobacco from the plug.

On this side of the window was a bulletin which read:

THE OLD-FASHIONED WAY.

Some pipe smokers can remember when they had to smoke "hard tobacco," and got their hands calloused cutting it from the plug, whenever they wanted a pipe full.

On the other side of the same window was an attractive display of cut plug tobacco, in 1 2-3 and 2 1-2 ounce foil and cloth packages, and in 8 and 16 ounce tins.

In front of this display was an opened package of tobacco, and beside it lay a good-sized briar pipe, ready filled for smoking.

This side of the window contained a bulletin which read:

THE MODERN WAY.

Smokers of the present day do not get callouses on their hands, because they buy their plug tobacco ready cut. It saves time and temper, and gives them a better smoke. We can specially recommend this brand of cut plug.

"VERBUM SAP."

This is not a new brand of maple syrup. It is simply a short slang expression which the knowing Roman youths, betting on their favorite chariot racers on the Corso, centuries ago, used on the "easy ones," who were after pointers and tips. Translated freely, here is what those ancient sports meant to convey: "Just one word is quite sufficient for a fellow so wise as you are."

But the business man depends on facts and reason—not on chance. And if he commends the "Sunset" brand of mackerel, a distinctive California product, after he himself has sampled a can, he will take no chances, and can speak of the goods with confidence and assurance. The oil used is the best California olive, and the three flavorings of souse, tomato and mustard are appetizing and delicate. Many large dealers are giving the "Sunset" brand a very prominent place in their Lenten displays. A word to the really wise is sufficient.

CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco—The bar and grocery store of Hartmann Brothers at 516 Second street was held up by three masked men at 9:30 o'clock last Sunday night. The robbers stole $45 from the cash register, and then firing four times in the the air to intimidate their victims, they ran down a dark alley and escaped the pursuing police, who were attracted to the scene by the shots.

Alhambra—H. C. Feutz has been appointed manager of the Britton grocery, vice Mr. Stanton, resigned.

Los Angeles—W. P. Adams, who ran a grocery at 1012 East Ninth street, is under arrest for alleged crooked dealing. William Bond claims he bought the grocery stock which Adams swore was without incumbrance. Later a wholesale firm put in claims for the sold stock, but in the meantime Adams had skipped to San Francisco, where he was caught.

Los Angeles—J. H. D. Cox is making a number of improvements in his store. One of the doors has been taken out and a large show window has been put in its place. The space between this window and the center door will be fitted up as a ladies' resting room. It will be furnished with easy chairs, tables and other conveniences.

Los Angeles—E. W. Grannis, former president of the Retail Grocers' Association, has opened a handsome new store at Washington and Bush streets. His speciality is teas, coffees, meats and fish. J. W. Clark, who was with John Bell at Seventh and Alvarado, has bought out Seely & Son, at 1522 West Tenth street, corner Gratton. W. H. Norwood & Son have disposed of their stock of groceries and hardware to F. W. Somerville. I. G. Stewart has purchased the business of M. E. Koppin. The firm of Zipper Bros. has dissolved partnership, H. U. Zipper succeeding to the business. Henry Cohen has sold his business to I. W. Carter, to take possession March 20. C. R. Valentine, 2201 Downey avenue, has sold his store. Mr. Valentine is one of the oldest and best known grocers in Los Angeles. He has made a success of the grocery business, and now will move to Canada, where with his brother, he will operate a large ranch. His successor is L. A. White, a railroad man, who has also resided in Southern California for several years. The New Cash grocery has established at 2721 South Main street.

Los Angeles—A. B. McNeely, 2526 South Main street, has just opened his newly constructed store, and it is a model for completeness and taste. In it he has embodied many new ideas which are worthy of study by other grocers. From the heavy oak doors at the Main street entrance to the little back office, Mr. McNeely has followed out the mission plan in every detail. At the front of the store in the corner against the front windows is a handsome "woman's booth," with telephones on a heavy table, and furnished with mission style chairs. On the other side in front is the display of fruits and vegetables. This rack is massively built also in the mission style, and, being low and almost flat, is so constructed that every article can be seen on entering the store.

Los Angels—The store building of the Anderson & Folsom Grocery Company, at 497 East Third street, was entered by burglars recently and about $40 worth of groceries taken. They took only canned goods.

Monrovia—Frank McCoy has added a large stock of groceries.

Petaluma—J. E. Mitchell, of Napa county, has rented a store in the Hess block, on Main street, and is soon to open a grocery store in the premises.

Redlands—J. A. Weisenborn, proprietor of the Sterling Grocery Company, has a neat plan for stimulating cash trade. A number of very handsome oil paintings have been secured and are on exhibition in the store. One is given to each purchaser who buys a certain amount of groceries for cash, within a certain time.

IDAHO.

Boise—The Sutton Grocery Company has bought out the Cole Grocery Company.

Grangeville—F. O. Miller is reported buying W. D. Gillett's grodery and bakery.

Harrison—Della York, fancy goods dealer, is adding groceries.

Kellogg—L. W. Gay is reported closing out her grocery.

Mace—Hite & Hamilton have started a grocery and men's furnishing goods store.

Twin Falls—Davidson & Sanders have bought Smith & Price's grocery.

OREGON.

Albany—The Yokohama Tea Company will start.

McMinnville—P. M. Flynn, grocer, is dead.

Medford—F. W. Gaines is opening a grocery store and hotel. W. Stringer is opening a grocery store.

CUT THEM OUT.

The Only Way to Secure Discontinuance of Premium Business.

All over the United States the retail grocers are passing resolutins declaring themselves to be opposed to the policy of giving premiums with food stuffs.

This is not enough.

If the associations pass resolutions and do nothing more the manufacturers pay no attention. They would be foolish if they did.

The grocers can bring about the discontinuance of premium schemes if they want to. To do this they must unite in cutting out the goods that carry premium coupons.

Premium coupons are used for their advertising value. If manufacturers found that the scheme lost them business instead of bringing it they would soon drop the idea.

Must Stand By Friends.

The grocers must learn to stand by their friends and turn down their enemies if they want to have their demands considered.

It makes no difference whether it is a case of getting a profit on flour, inducing a jobber to quit settling consumers, or convincing a manufacturer that it will pay him to give up premium coupons.

The grocers, in order to win, must give special consideration to those who stand in with them and cut out the firms who refuse to give them assistance.

EXPENSIVE SHORTAGE.

St. Louis Retail Grocers Protest Against Being Robbed.

Too much cardboard in cracker boxes is receiving the protests of St. Louis Retail Grocers' Association. When a cracker factory puts in from one-half to 1½ pounds of cardboard worth 1 cent per pound into a box of fancy cakes and charges it up at 16 cents, the grocer is likely to lose money. Committees were appointed to wait on the cracker companies and ask that packages be marked with the net weight of crackers, according to the amount charged.

A correspondent of the "Interstate Grocer" reports a shortage of four gallons found in one barrel of coal oil. Another grocer reported a shortage of $7.50 in one barrel of fish, while another barrel was short $4.40 in count.

A st. Joseph grocer found a barrel of pickles 52 per cent. short. Another found a box of lemons three dozen short.

A St. Louis grocer reported a barrel of pickles five gallons short.

Nevin Bros., grocers at Marissa, Ill., reported that in ten months' time their shortage, breakage and allowance account amounted to $164.55. They insist that it pays to check up bills.

The lesson is evident.

Retail grocers should weigh, count and measure everything they buy.

MR. DAKEN PROTESTS.

Los Angeles, March 25, 1905.

Retail Grocers' Advocate, San Francisco:

Gentlemen—I paid my subscription to the Advocate to-day. I note that the receipt reads from March 1, 1905, to March 1, 1906. I always paid in advance. Look on your books and see if this is not correct.

Wishing you and your paper every success, I remain, your truly,

F. DAKEN.

(Note—Mr. Daken's statement is correct. He is one of the aggressive retail grocers in Southern California, who is ever to the front when anything practical is to be done and, as in everything else, he has paid for his paper in advance.)

Amusements

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Kolb & Dill are closing up a very successful four weeks' engagement. Saturday night will see the last performance of "The Beauty Shop," with its bunch of pretty girls and its list of catchy songs. The summer dramatic season begins on Sunday afternoon, when Virginia Calhoun presents her own dramatization of Helen Hunt Jackson's famous story, "Ramona."

ALCAZAR.

They are scoring another success at the Alcazar in "Old Heidelberg." The clever stock company is creating a great deal of enthusiasm with this piece. The story is a vivid one. It takes the audience into the midst of German student life. The carefree students contrast strikingly with the strict social arrangements of the court in which John Craig as the Prince does a splendid piece of acting.

Next week "Tom Moore" will be presented for the first time in San Francisco. This is a high-class comedy of Irish wit and manners founded on the poets own romance.

MAJESTIC THEATER.

There has been a merry week at the Majestic, where Bishop's players have been presenting "My Wife' Husbands." The play is one of Edmond Milton Royle's best. The cast is a strong one, and the piece is staged with all the elaboration that theatergoers have learned to expect from the Majestic. The Mystic Shriners crowded the Majestic on Monday evening, when they reserved it for a theater party.

TIVOLI.

There has been another week of good houses at the Tivoli, where the "Burgomaster" is still the attraction. Owing to its success it will be continued another week. Elavorate preparations are being made for the production of "Florodora." It will be the first time this opera has been presented by a stock company. The scenery and effects will be entirely new, and there will be several additions to the company for the piece.

CALIFORNIA.

Margaret Anglin is working wonders for this theater. Seats that have been vacant for months are being filled again. Her support is a strong one. Frank Worthing and Hall McAllister are both great favorites in San Francisco, and even if they were strangers they would help draw. A new comedy, "The Lady Paramount," is to be presented next week.

CENTRAL THEATER.

The "Wild West" is the scene of an exciting piece presented at the Central, where "The Gambler" holds the boards. The action takes place in Mexico, and Herschel Mayall as the hero introduces the audience to all grades of society. Joliet Crosby and Myrtle Vane have interesting parts. Some of the scenic effects are surprisingly novel. This is particularly so when the hero escapes from a lighthouse over a stormy sea. Numerous specialties are introduced, and there is enough fun to lighten the tragedy.

THE CHUTES.

Two tiger babies are securing a great deal of attention at the Zoo, where they were born recently. This great pleasure ground has surprises at every turn. Charles Bigney, who dives from a platform 100 feet high into a small box of water, shocks the crowds twice a day. The show in the free theater is particularly good. One of the most amusing features is a comedietta entitled "A Pleasant Evening," by John T. Chick and his clever stock company. A long bill is made up of good vaudeville features, and on Thursday nights the amateurs furnish fun for a noisy audience.

FISCHER'S.

A strong list of clever variety actors, together with interesting moving pictures and an illustrated song, make up a good program at this cozy theater. There are three performances every day, one in the afternoon and two in the evening. The first evening performance begins at 7:30 and the other shortly after 9 o'clock.

HENS ACTIVE IN ESCONDIDO.

Last Saturday was a very busy day with our merchants, notwithstanding the rain, says the Escondido "Times," and the hens broke the record with their contribution. Steiner & Co. alone received 32 cases of eggs, and in all about 60 cases of eggs were brought to town by the farmers, a total of 1,800 dozen for which 19 cents was paid, aggregating over $340 which was distributed, aside from the butter, poultry and other products brought in to this market.

PACIFIC COAST HERRING.

Washington, March 22, 1905.—Consul-General Holloway of Halifax reports that the Scotch fish experts, who inspected the herring fisheries of America, found that while Pacific Coast herring are smaller they had more oil than the Atlantic product. It is recommended that the Government send a staff of Scotch expert curers to the Pacific Coast to put up herring in the best Scotch method and give instructions to persons desiring to learn.

ALL WANT PROFIT.

glad to get a profit on flour when they are backed up by the manufacturers, and know, absolutely, that no competitor can sell for less than they do.

The price card of the Globe Mills has been in effect five months. Not a single case of cutting has been reported as yet.

We ask the Sperry Milling Company, the Port Costa Milling Company, the Stockton Milling Company and the American Milling Company, where is your argument that a price card on flour cannot be maintained? You surely have to accept that you are wrong, or that you do not care for the interests of your customers.

If the Globe Mills and the Bay City Mills can protect the price of their flour and have grocers sell it when the price is higher than others leading brands, how much easier it would be to protect them if all leading brands were on a level.

A SUGGESTION.

When the other mills of California say to the retail grocers of this State: "We will protect you from cut prices on all our standard brands," then, and not until then, can they come to the retailers and say: "Help us against the invasion of outside flour."

The retailers would help, too. There is no question about that.

The brands made by California mills, that are not well known, could be left off the list in order to compete with any cut price that might be made on outside flour.

This is a subject that the State Millers' Association can well afford to study as soon as they are thoroughly organized.

The mills must create a protective policy before the association can afford to take up a fight against the invasion of outside flour, and brands that are similar to old established ones.

WASHINGTON.

Aberdeen—W. W. Maxey & Co., grocers, have occupied new quarters in the Commercial block.

Bellingham—J. A. Brant is reported to have purchased Barry Bros.' grocery store.

Everett—Wildes, Metzer & Requa, well-known grocers, have filed supplemental articles of incorporation, increasing capital stock to $25,000.

Fremont—William West is opening a meat market to be run in connection with the Bird Grocery Company's store.

Hoquiam—The Oriental Tea Store has been closed and the stock turned over to Legg & Haskins, of San Francisco. Mr. Snyder, proprietor, recently accepted a position as travelling salesman for a wholesale spice house.

Puyallup—Whidden & Mitten have succeeded D. M. Snyder, grocery.

Seattle—R. A. Wright reported appointed receiver for the grocery firm of E. C. Damon & Co.

Spokane—John A. Barry is opening a grocery store. M. McPherson has succeeded F. J. Vernon, grocery. J. W. Baker has bought E. H. Willson's grocery. J. A. Solomon has succeeded W. F. Miller, groceries, at 1920 Third avenue. Newman & Garrison, grocers at the corner of Montgomery and Astor streets, have been succeeded by J. Newman. Roger & Lewis, grocers at Second and Jefferson, the old J. B. Newman stand, have sold out to Ralph Irish, formerly in business at Scotia. F. H. Guse, until recently proprietor of the Washington Grocery Company store at Third and Sherman, is re-engaging in business. About April 1 he will open a grocery store at 1025 Sprague avenue. Dayton Tomlinson, a clerk in Bradley Bros.' grocery store in Union Park, was arrested recently on the charge of selling smoking tobacco to a 14-year-old boy. He was tried in Justice Stocker's court, found guilty and fined $10 and costs.

Tacoma—McPherson & Perry, grocery, have incorporated as the West Side Grocery Company.

Declare Dividend To-Day.

The leading grocers are now handling Summit Snow Flour and, it is pleasant to record, will receive a dividend on the stock held by them in the Standard Flour Company. The dividend will be declared to-day.

HELPED BUILD BUSINESS.

It is satisfactory quality that brings customers back to the store asking for more. It is the same influence that prompts customers to advise their neighbors to deal with their grocer. It is the high quality of the "Diamond C" bacon and ham that has made them a satisfactory and splendid seller wherever they have been introduced by the Cudahy Packing Company.

We would call attention to the letter of Kopf & Donovan, of Santa Rosa, printed on page 3 of this issue, in which they tell how greatly their trade has been benefited through their use of "Diamond C" goods.

Points to Watch

BACON, HAM AND LARD.
Market advanced in the past week with every indication of further increase in prices.

SUGAR.
Present prices on the Pacific Coast are below a parity with Eastern sugar.

RICE.
Fancy grades of Japan rice is almost exhausted in the South, and importers predict a sharp advance on such stock in the immediate future.

SEASONABLE ITEMS.
Paint, linseed oil, clothes line, poultry supplies, loaded shells, etc., are things that should move rapidly in the next few weeks.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER.
A free deal of 10 per cent with all purchases is now on, to be withdrawn without notice. A similar free deal in 1904 was kept open four weeks.

MAPLE SUGAR.
Pure food laws are increasing the demand for the real article. This will probably make all pure maple syrup and sugar worth more money, as the flow so far has not been satisfactory this year.

BLACKSTRAP MOLASSES.
Is reported scarce in the Eastern market with a probability of higher prices.

DATES
Are advancing in the East with both primary markets and London, higher.

THE GROCERS' PAPER.

The Advocate is the paper of the retail grocers of the Pacific Coast. We owe allegiance to the retail grocers and to the retail grocers only. The grocers know this and they look to the paper for "straight" information and give it their support.

The Advocate has refused the advertisements of firms whose policies were opposed by the retail grocers. It has received a hundredfold more advertising of firms who recognize the fact that the paper is a good advertising medium just because it takes that stand.

The Advocate is the only paper on the Pacific Coast devoted wholly to retail grocery matters.

The Advocate is the only grocery trade paper with a general circulation all over the Coast.

The Advocate is the only trade paper printed in San Francisco that dares to let advertisers inspect its subscription books and mailing lists.

Wisconsin—The State Grocers' Association is working to have the exemption tax of the State amended in order to protect the retail grocers.

FIGHTING GROCERS' INTERESTS.

Foolish Flour Mills Interfere With the Prosperity of Their Customers and Their Own.

Five mills unite in practically saying to the grocery trade:

"We know certain firms are selling our flour for what it costs you—$1.20 a sack now—but we don't intend to make them stop. You are so foolish that you will keep on selling our flour, even if you DON'T get a profit and, if we tried to make them stop, we might have trouble with the cutters."

These mills are:
Stockton (crown).
Port Costa.
Sperry.
American,
Del MMonte.

They gave as an excuse for this action that the retail grocers did not wish them to maintain a selling price that gave a margin of 15 cents a sack. They insisted that if the grocers wanted them to do so, they would establish and maintain a price.

Then their drummers went to the grocers and tried to persuade them that they could not maintain a price in San Francisco, although the mills were doing so in all the other large cities of California, Oregon and Washington.

What Grocers Are Doing.

More than 700 grocers are now selling the flour of the Globe Mills whenever they get a chance.

They do not do this because they love the Globe Mills. They did not know the Globe Mills six months ago.

They do it because they are business men and because they know that they need not be afraid of having a customer come in and tell them they have been overcharged and that some other grocer is selling the same flour for less money.

Mills Hurt Themselves.

The Advocate is sorry the mills have taken the stand they have. We feel sure that before long they will realize that they did wrong to refuse to protect their customers.

No mill can expect a grocer to want to keep on selling a flour on which he doesn't make a profit. They will sell the flours that bring them $1.25 and a margin of 5 cents when they must, but they are going to sell the flour for which they get $1.40 with a margin of 17½c whenever they can.

The Advocate is sorry to learn that some of the mills have a hard feeling against this paper. We think that, in the end, they will admit that the fight we are making for the retail grocers is right and honest and when it is all over and they, too, are protecting the price of their standard brands they will realize that we have done them a great favor.

The Advocate hopes to see the day come when the California Mills will unite in protecting the profits of the retailer.

We also hope to see the retailers upholding the California mills in an understanding that only the flours of California mills are to be sold in California, and that retailers who sell outside flours shall be refused the rebate of 25 cents per barrel by the mills.

This is one of the possibilities and it should come.

To bring it about as quickly as possible the Advocate once more urges the retail grocers to show that they want profits and that they cannot be driven to work for nothing by a combination of a few mills with the cutters. They can do this by selling the product of the Globe Mills, which protects its flours and will not sell its standard brands to cutters.

PRAISE FROM SPOKANE.

After reviewing the work accomplished at the last Legislature by the State Grocers' Association, "The Trade" of Spokane, Wash., says:

"Good enough, California! And yet there are doubtless many retail merchants doing business in California who will enjoy the benefits and profits of wise commercial legislation without inquiring through what agencies the state secured those laws or without being willing to do their share towards keeping the organization effective."

Legislative Report.

SHOWING THE WORK ACCOMPLISHED BY THE CALIFORNIA RETAIL GROCERS' AND MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION AT THE LEGISLATURE OF 1905.

We desire, first of all, to extend our hearty thanks to those merchants who, by subscribing to our legislative fund, made it possible to secure the following splendid results:

LAWS PASSED.

Senate Bill 344—Our Association was the leading factor in passing the anti-trading stamp and anti-premium bill. This bill prevents the merchant from being compelled to give coupons and trading stamps against his will.

Assembly Bill 152—Our Association had this bill passed, which prevents a husband from defrauding his creditors by transferring his property to his wife. It makes the separate property of the wife liable for the family bills for the necessaries of life, exempting the property she had before her marriage and what she may get through will or by the death of a relative. In other words, all the property both husband and wife may acquire after marriage may be attached for the necessaries of life.

Assembly Bill 920—This bill provided that an account should not begin to outlaw till the customer quits trading with the dealer. In other words, the account would date from the last transaction. This would allow a payment on an account to renew the account. By diligent work this bill passed both Houses. It was not signed by the Governor and did not become a law.

BILLS DEFEATED.

Senate Bill 250—This bill would forbid the serving of attachments except where fraud could be proven. It was a bad bill. We caused hundreds of protests against this bill and it was defeated.

Senate Bill 276—This bill would forbid attachments for less than $25. We took the same steps as on S. B. 250 and it was killed in the judiciary committee.

Assembly Bill 806—This was to repeal the law we had passed two years ago allowing the attachment of public employees. We worked diligently against this bill and it did not get out of the committee.

Assembly Bill 369—Would have prevented a country merchant from selling any proprietary medicine without a prescription. The bill was killed.

Assembly Bills 370, 371, 372—Were obnoxious pure food measures that would have held the merchant liable for adulteration, etc., and not the manufacturer. By diligent work the bills were defeated.

Senate Bill 842—Gave the Supervisors of incorporated counties and cities the right to impose a license on merchants. This bill was defeated.

Assembly Bill 604—Proposed to force the manufacturer or jobber to sell goods to anyone who might apply for same. There are times when jobbers and manufacturers do not like to sell trade disturbers. The bill was killed.

Assembly Bill 646—Was of the same stripe as bill No. 604, except it went still farther and would prevent one DAIRY LAWS.

The following bills have been approved by Governor Pardee and are now law:

Assembly Bill 50—Whoever sells or makes butter hereafter or has butter in consignment in packages of less than six pounds and more than one-half a pound must see to it that each package is marked with its true weight or suffer fine or imprisonment or both.

Assembly Bill 51—To prevent dairy products being offered for sale that are unclean, and defining a sanitary dairy and creamery; also forbidding use of chemicals to color or aid in manufacture, except the package is plainly marked, showing the character of the chemicals and foreign matter used. Duties of State Dairy Bureau in the premises defined and of District Attorney also, and $24,000 appropriated for two years to carry out provisions of bill which provides for dairy inspector and reports to the State Veterinarian.

Assembly Bill 233—To prevent sale of renovated butter except its character is stated on the package and under license.

PICNIC FOR PICNICKERS.

The picnic season is at hand. The grocer will now have a demand for dainty, tempting articles for light lunches, and what better can he offer than the Pim-Olas and "White Label" Olives of the Seville Packing Company?

They make an attractive display in the show window and on the display counter, and with little trouble to the dealer bring him much profitable business.

The grocer who carries them in stock will find that many people will be attracted to his store that would pass it by if he carried only plain groceries.

The Spohn-Patrick Company have been shipping many cases of olives to dealers anxious to be prepared for the picnic trade.

The Seville Packing Company's olives are put in various sized bottles, retailing at from 10 cents up. The fruit is of good size, firm and meaty, and the flavor is excellent.

The Spohn-Patrick Company make up trial assortments consisting of "White Label" Queen and Manzanilla Olives, Pim-Olas and Baby Pim-Olas, and Nicelle Olive Oil for their customers.

Any one interested in olives and olive oil should write them for prices and illustrated literature.

from telling a third party of those who were acting against their interests. This bill was killed.

There were several other obnoxious pure food measures, etc., but they did not have much support, so we do not mention them.

HOW IT WAS DONE.

It was only by much hard work that these results were secured. We found the individual dealers and the affiliating associations ready to work diligently along the lines we suggested to them. It was this prompt assistance that influenced the Legislature to grant us what we asked.

The work accomplished should convince the most skeptical of the necessity of our organization.

The only substantial way to appreciate what we have done, is by a subscription toward our work. We have not only spent a great deal of money in this legislative campaign, but we will have to spend several hundred dollars more to defend the anti-trading stamp law before the State Supreme Court.

We would respectfully request all those who have not yet subscribed to our legislative fund, to do so at once. Our work is for your benefit and you should help bear the expense.

Many merchants have spent valuable time and subscribed from $1 to $5 in conducting this campaign. Surely those merchants who have not helped should be willing to send a small amount to help defray our expenses. Because some of our associations have failed to do their share in raising legislative funds, we have been forced to draw on the funds necessary to pay the running expenses of our organization and keep it in existence.

Send remittances to F. B. Connolly, 456 Montgomery street, San Francisco, California.

Yours very respectfully,

CALIFORNIA RETAIL GROCERS' AND MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION.

WARNING TO THE MERCHANTS OF CALIFORNIA.

Having had charge of the legislative campaign for the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association during 1905, and having been in close touch with the proceedings of the entire session of the Legislature, I issue the following warning to the merchants:

If the merchants of California become disorganized and are not in a position to keep close watch on legislative sessions, they will lose nearly every favorable law now on our statutes.

A study of the laws passed will show you what favorable laws we have at present. Every one of them was secured through the influence of the merchants.

A study of the laws defeated will show you the class of legislators we have to watch.

We have one of the best attachment laws in the United States. Repeated attempts have been made to repeal this law, and the 1905 session was more persistent than usual in trying to do so. The preventing of the repeal of this one law is worth many times the amount the merchants are paying to the State association.

Study the result of the repealing of this one law. Take away the privilege of a merchant attaching wages. How many thousands of dollars would be lost yearly that can now be collected by attachment. How many thousands more would be lost by parties who now pay for fear of being attached?

This is a big question and cannot be treated lightly.

Just as sure as you become disinterested, just that sure will you lose what you have. You will also lose the benefits of favorable laws we might pass.

Yours truly,

J. F. PAULDING.

VALUABLE CALIFORNIA INDUSTRY.

It is worthy of special mention that the fish packed by the California Fish Co. are of such excellence as to give successful competition to the finest imported brands.

Both the sardines and "Sunset" brand of mackerel, packed by this company in its factory at San Pedro, are put up in pure olive oil, and are of strictly high grade.

This fact, leading to the successful upbuilding of the State, makes it especially worthy of support by the trade as well as the consuming public of the coast.

EFFECTIVE ADVERTISING.

Popularizing Welch's Grape Juice.

The Welch Grape Juice Company are doing some exceptionally effective advertising in the magazines and newspapers—advertising that is well calculated to build trade for their grape juice.

The ads are artistically drawn and the copy is good business sense. Anyone who reads the magazines must obtain a knowledge of Welch's Grape Juice and it would be surprising if many people had not tried this article after having read the Welch advertisements.

The advertising of the Welch Grape Juice Company is in the hands of Calkins & Holden, New York, masters of the advertising art.

Welch"s Grape Juice is a food of inestimable value, and above all a pleasant drink.

As the warm weather is coming on the consumers' thoughts turn naturally to grape juice, not only for the novelty of the thing, but because so many delicious punches and dainty desserts may be prepared with it.

The Spohn-Patrick Company's' traveling representatives are promoting the sale of Welch's Grape Juice, and in all probability it will be a question of only a short time when a general demand for the article will have been created.

PROFITS ON JARS.

Kerr Glass Company Promises to Protect Retail Grocers of Spokane.

Spokane, Wash.—At the last meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association Mr. Ball of the Kerr Glass Manufacturing Co. spoke with regard to the "Economy" Fruit Jar and prices. He stated that his company was desirous of maintaining prices that would guarantee a fair and legitimate margin of profits to the retailer. He asked the Association to list the jar on its card price list and promised that the company would refuse to sell to any dealer who would not sign an agreement to maintain prices and would prosecute anyone who would violate such contract.

A committee appointed to see the wholesalers with regard to discontinuing sale of goods in broken packages reported that they had not been able to get together with the wholesalers as yet, and asked for more time, which was granted.

AN ATTRACTIVE DEAL.

Mr. J. M. Gamble, manager of The American Tobacco Co.'s plug department, announces that his people are ready to place on the market "Cremo Export" cigars, Reina Victoria shape. These goods come in tenths, two bundles, and are packed in an attractive Humidor, containing 3000. These Humidors will enable a dealer to have his cigars always in prime condition. They are strong and durable, being made of wood, lined on both sides with metal, with air holes that can be regulated, moistener, lock, etc., and are quite expensive.

Dealers can purchase "Cremo" Reina Victorias at $35 per thousand, less the usual cash discount, and the jobber will bill 3000 as 2500, which is equivalent to 200 free with each thousand. In addition, the Humidor is given free. In less than 2500 lots the price is higher, and the dealer receives no humidor.

All live jobbers have shipments of these goods en route, and dealers would do well to place their orders with jobber at once, for delivery on arrival.

The demand for these humidors has been unprecedented.

SIGHT SEEING SUGGESTIONS.

A neat booklet with this title has been issued by the Palace Hotel of this city. It will prove a great convenience for sight-seers in San Francisco. There is no advertising in the book, in which it differs materially from other similar publications. The Palace Hotel has been making many improvements of late, among them being telephones and steam heating in every room.

ROAST GOVERNOR PARDEE.

Oakland Grocers Protest Against Veto of Assembly Bill No. 920.

There was a lively meeting of the Alameda County Grocers' Association on Monday evening.

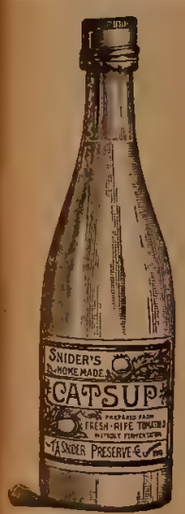
The copy of the letter written by the Governor, explaining why he had not signed Assembly Bill No. 920, was read from the Grocers' Advocate by Secretary Reed. It started a very interesting discussion on the part of the members.

J. S. Wixson insisted that the letter of the Governor was a slap at every grocer in the State. The Governor intimated that he had paid a grocery bill twice. Mr. Wixson was convinced that while Mr. Pardee may have thought he had paid a bill twice, he had never done so. He felt that the position taken by the Governor that it was unsafe to sign the measure because he feared that the grocers were so dishonest that they would seek to rob their customers by means of it was an insult that should and would be resented by every grocer from Siskiyou to San Diego.

L. Warnke of Alameda called attention to the fact that the Governor had stated that the bill on which a payment was not made in a year or two was not of much account. This, he stated, was not always the case, as the Governor would know if he ran a grocery store. The Governor also indicated that if a person should buy goods from a merchant with whom they had once traded the merchant could then bring suit for goods that have been supplied many years before. Mr. Warnke stated that the courts had decided that a purchase renewed an account only when the purchase was made within the time set by the statute of limitations.

George Hoffman joined the anvil chorus. He pointed out the lack of logic in the Governor's letter and showed where his own statements proved that he was wrong.

The matter of the necessity of paying a license for soliciting orders in Emeryville was brought up.



Mr. Hoffman assured the members that the United States Supreme Court had decided that it was not necessary to have a license in order to solicit orders when the solicitor neither delivered the goods nor collected money.

Mr. Warnke, for the picnic committee, reported that they had gone to Martinez and were very much pleased with the grounds. The grass was high and there was plenty of trees and shade. He asked for time in order to secure a definite proposition from the owners of the picnic grounds. The picnic committee was given full power to make a contract for the picnic grounds at Martinez, providing that the terms were satisfactory to the committee.

The question of the flour fight now on, caused considerable interested comment. The fact was developed that every grocer present at the meeting was selling the "A-1" flour of the Globe Mills wherever he could and that their sales of the other flours were being materially lessened every day.

THE CREAM THAT SELLS.

A recent careful canvas of the retail stores of New Orleans by the representatives of the Carnation Cream Company, shows results, which to them should be very gratifying. Out of over 1400 legitimate retail grocers in this city, there are only twelve that do not handle Carnation Cream, and of these twelve, ten agree that the demand for it will compel them to place it in stock shortly. For any new piece of goods this showing is very remarkable for so short a time. There is no question but that the demand for this popular article is increasing rapidly in this city, and it is the unanimous opinion of both retailers and jobbers, that this brand has come to stay, and has surely made a decided hit with the consumers all over this territory, and the future consumption will be very large.

The Carnation people are giving some very elaborate demonstrations in this city and vicinity, and are distributing some very attractive advertising matter. One of the latest mediums to be employed by them is a celluloid button that can be worn on a garment. On this is the fac simile of a can of Carnation Cream in colors. These seem to be an unusually good means of advertising, as they are eagerly sought by all children, and shortly no child in this city will be unfamiliar with this brand of goods. Twenty-five thousand of these buttons have been shipped here for distribution in this territory.

In addition to the buttons, there has just arrived 200,000 receipt books, which are given by the lady demonstrators to every customer who tests the cream in the various forms in which it so palatably served. That no housekeeper shall be unfamiliar with the variety of uses to which Carnation Cream may be applied, arrangements have been made for the distribution from house to house of 75,000 of these little books. Aside from the dainty receipts these books contain, they are a very attractive advertising medium.

The books are in colors, and are made to represent a full-sized can of Carnation Cream. Inside are the recipes artistically arranged, and printed in colors. It is safe to state that by the time this company has finished demonstrating and advertising their brands here, that no man, woman or child, but will fully understand that Carnation Cream is al that its manufacturers claim for it, and is far more economical and far more convenient and healthy than either condensed or fresh milk.—New Orleans Trade Journal.

WHY THEY MAKE BEST CATSUP.

Cause of Popularity of the Snider Brand.

The T. A. Snider Preserve Company of Cincinnati, Ohio, manufacturers of Snider's Home Made Catsup, have always been able to secure the larger part of the catsup business because their catsup is recognized by the public as the best and purest produced.

This firm owns and operates eight factories, situated in the most productive tomato belt in the United States.

To begin with the Snider Preserve Company grow all their own tomatoes, pick them when fresh and ripe and make their catsup while the tomatoes are in their very best condition.

Other ingredients necessary in catsup making, such as vinegar and sugar, must be high grade. Large quantities of pure water are obtained from artesian wells.

The factories are modern in every respect and kept scrupulously clean. The Snider Preserve Company extend invitations to the public to visit their various factories so that they may see how the catsup is made.

In California, Snider's Catsup is moving very rapidly, and from all reports business has increased throughout the United States.

A CONVENIENT PACKAGE.

The new package of the Leslie Salt Refining Co., in which they are putting out their Velvet Salt has a very novel and serviceable spout. There is a little end of cardboard projecting from the label. When this end is pulled out it brings into place a small spout through which the salt runs. The package can be effectively closed by pushing back the little paper end. The great advantage of this arrangement comes from the fact that the housewife does not have to tip the package entirely up in order to get the contents out.

WAR AT OXNARD.

Competition in Oxnard has been developing very rapidly. Some feeling has been brought into conditions with the result that the big store of the city, Lehman & Waterman, have issued a grocery price list which knocks out the profits on nearly all the leading staples.

Pointers for Clerks.

1. Keep your eyes on the front door. Customers should be waited on promptly and pleasantly.

2. Do not stand outside the front door when at leisure. It is an excellent notice to competitors and customers that trade is dull.

3. If you know of an improvement of any kind, suggest it at once to the manager; it will be impartially considered.

4. Employees are requested to wear their coats when in the store. It is not pleasant for a lady to have a gentleman waiting on her in his shirt sleeves or with his hat on.

5. Don't smoke or chew on duty.

6. Don't talk politics or religion while on duty.

7. Keep mum about your business. Always have a good word to say for it and never say it is dull. Keep your eyes and ears open about your competitors.

8. Attend well to the counter, and address customers immediately on approaching; don't walk up to the counter and leave your tongue behind.

9. Be as polite to the customer who spends a quarter as to the one who spends five dollars.

10. Be patient, kind and attentive to children; they grow up to be men and women, and may become purchasers.

11. Give the best possible value in all things, and be particular as to cleanliness.

12. Have all parcels neatly wrapped and use good paper.

13. Give just weight to everybody—no more, no less.

14. Never practice deceit, trickery, or tell lies, even white ones.

15. Keep yourself smart and neat, and don't wear dirty approns when attending to the counter.

16. When seeing travelers don't waste your time or theirs; remember they have to be about their masters' business, and your own counter may suffer if neglected.

22. Rise early and be at business when the shop is opened.

23. Attend well to business during business hours.

24. Keep everything in shop neat, tidy and orderly.

26. Don't parade your troubles before the world. Bury them.

27. Be steady, industrious and careful. Remember the good motto, "Waste not, want not."

28. Have a place for everything and keep everything in its place.

29. Read and study the good works in connection with the trade. Commit all useful things to memory, and never fail to put them in practice.

30. Don't visit with your customer. Let him feel that you have other matters to attend to, and that you are a busy man. If you have finished with a customer, get away from him. If "visit" you must, go back and let him know that's what you came for. He'll entertain you, but forget business when visiting. Telling stories at such time is in order, but not while selling goods. Some men love to hear stories so well that they forget to order half they wanted to at the outset.

31. Don't' be too wise. Let your customer be the wise one. You sell the goods. That's the object of the salesman.

SALMON SITUATION

An Interesting Report by the Fish Commissioner of British Columbia.

Kelley-Clarke Company are sending broadcast extracts from a report for 1904 of J. P. Babcock, the Fisheries Commissioner of British Columbia. This is accompanied by a circular bearing date of March 13, in which they say:

"Seattle, Wash., March 13, 1905.

"There was a time not long ago when the West could boast of its herds of Buffalo, of its tribes of Indians, of its millions of salmon. Now the buffalo has vanished, the Indian is passing fast and the salmon, too, has succumed to the ravages of modern methods and greed.

"As our tale has to do with the sockeye salmon, let us consider its commercial aspects, present and future.

"As the Frazier River is the greatest natural hatching ground in the world, and it is from this river the Puget Sound waters have been supplied, it is pertinent, therefore, to consider the source of supply and what means have been and are being taken to replenish the fish.

"There has lately come to our attention a splendid article on this very point, from the report of the Fisheries Commissioner for British Columbia, John P. Babcock, for the year 1904, exerpts from which we have taken the liberty to embody herein.

"We believe we will witness this year possibly the last fair sized pack of Sockeyes that will be had for a number of years and the trade would do well to closely consider the facts quoted hereunder and their relation to the offerings this season, for, contrary to jobber's expectations, sockeyes may not rule as cheap as they have been anticipating. To those jobbers who realize the situation and place their orders within reasonable time and for liberal quantities, will come a last chance of a goodly profit out of an almost exhausted business.

"It seems, in fact, as criminal for a great public to permit the extermination of such a splendid commercial product as the sockeye salmon, when, with but little care and some consideration, the fisheries could be perpetuated ad infinitum.

"Read Mr. Babcock's report. It will interest every thoughtful business man and every true sportsman will regret at this closing chapter in the history of a royal fish.

"KELLEY-CLARKE CO.

Extracts from the Report of the Fisheries Commissioner, British Columbia, Year 1904.

John Pease Babcock Commissioner.

As the future prosperity of the salmon fishery in the Fraser River depends primarily on the number of breeding fish which reach and successfully deposit their spawn in its headwaters each year, it is there we must look to find the best measures for their perpetuation and test the effectiveness of those now in force.

The weather conditions this year were unusually favorable for observation, yet in only one section of the entire watershed were fish found in any considerable number. In all other sections the spawning beds were almost barren of salmon.

For the last two years the scarcity of sockeye salmon on the spawning grounds was alarming, but this year it was even more so.

It is common knowledge to all those who are in any wise interested in the salmon fisheries of the Fraser River that the catch of sockeyes on both sides of the international line, was this year the smallest in many years, though it may not be generally recognized that it was the smallest in the last twenty years, and probably the smallest in the history of the fishery. [illegible] and the demand for fish at present existing in the Fraser district, a far greater number of salmon in proportion to the total number running, are captured each year now, than was the case even eight years ago. Hence, when we find that the catch shows a marked decline, and that the spawning beds are deserted, we must conclude that these conditions are due to a decrease in the number of fish running, and not to any lack of effort to take them.

In my reports of last year, in reviewing the conditions that existed on the fishing and spawning grounds, I said:

"It is well known that the run of salmon in the Fraser River during the past season was the poorest in many years. The scarcity was largely confined to the sockeyes (O. nerka) variety, though all varieties showed a marked decline. As the sockeye is the great commercial salmon of the Fraser, its failure to run as abundantly as usual entailed a great loss upon the fishermen and the canners. But what is of far greater importance to the government, the fishermen and the canners, than the remarkable decrease

COAST CROP CONDITIONS.

Newcastle—There has been no frost damage. Crops will be at least 25 per cent. less than was first estimated, owing to the recent long continued rains, which destroyed the pollen and blighted the blossoms. The loss will extend to early and midsummer peaches and to cherries, plums and prunes. Certain kinds of pears, grapes, oranges and olives seem to be unaffected.

Winters—The prospects are good for an unusually large crop of everything but prunes.

Anderson—Some of the orchards in this belt are infected by pear blight. The infected trees are being destroyed.

Cashmere, Wash.—Half of the peach orchards of this State will not produce fruit this year.

Vallejo—The fruit crop will be the heaviest in years. The cherry season is two weeks earlier than usual.

Hanford—Apricots and almonds are so far advanced as to be free from damage by frosts. There is a good crop. Peach trees are loaded. There is less appearance of blight among pear trees than for several seasons.

Portland, Or.—The cold weather set in after a spell of warm weather and this, aided by strong winds, has done much damage in Washington and Idaho. The peach crop was considerably damaged by the cold spell.

Orosi—There will be an immense crop of apricots unless late frosts cause damage.

SUGAR MARKET.

There has been no change during the week, although dealers are expecting an advance.

MAPLE SUGAR.

Louisville, N. Y., March 25th.—F. J. Richardson & Co. report:

"As the season advances there is considerable anxiety as to what the crop will be. Dealers are ready to pay better prices to contract sugar than they were last week. Unless the weather changes very soon the season must be short and the crop of fine goods will be limited."

New Hampshire—The Legislature has passed a law prohibiting the sale of adulterated maple sugar, syrup or candy. It provides a fine of from $10 to $50 for the sale of maple syrup, sugar or candy which contains anything besides the sap of the maple tree.

MOLASSES.

New York, March 28th.—W. W. Taussig & Co. state:

"We are having an unprecedented demand for blackstrap molasses. This grade of goods is very scarce and indications point upward an advance in prices."

COFFEE MARKET.

A. Adelsdorfer, manager of the New York house of M. J. Brandenstein & Co., is in the city visiting his home house. In speaking of the coffee situation Mr. Adelsdorfer says:

"The situation in the coffee market so far as heavy holders and growers is concerned is very bright.

"While the heavy holdings at present seeking a market are exerting a powerful influence against an advance, yet the world's consumption of coffee has increased for the past years at the rate of 500,000 bags a year. In other words, the consumption is positively 5,000,000 bags greater than in 1895.

"The present rate of consumption is now ahead of any reasonable expectation of production, with the result that the present enormous visible supply will be exhausted in a few years, and positive deficiency succeed.

"While there will be no rapid advance, a steady improvement in prices is to be expected for the next five years.

"The Rio crop for 1905-6 promises to be much larger than the last crop. This, however, will be more than made up by a decrease in Santos. The crop in Columbia and Venezuela will also be a very short one. Central America will produce a full crop, but the estimate total world's production for 1905-06 is placed at about 2,000,000 bags below consumption."

The Lewin-Meyer Co. say:

"The coffee market is very active and firm, with numerous important transactions. There is an especially big demand for Salvadors, which are scarce, and 9¼ to 9¾ cents in a large way for Standard.

"People now realize that the market is on a solid basis and that prices are more likely to advance than otherwise."

New York, March 28th.—Volney, Green & Son report:

"The option market has shown a steady gain and conditions seem favorable to the gradual improvement of prices to a higher level. The receipts of coffee in San Paulo are decreasing. We believe it safe to carry fair stocks at moving prices. Javas are steady. Mochas are very firm with light offerings."

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co. report:

"The market on lower grades of Japans has strengthened about 1-16. On better grades of Japans the market is 1-8 higher, that is, on fancy grades and we look for a considerable advance on these grades within the next 30 days for the reason that the supply in the South is almost exhausted; everything milled at the present time is turned out poor quality.

"Honduras rice remains firm with an upward tendency. China No. 2 rice has declined and is selling at $4.10. China No. 1 has also declined and is selling at from 5¼ to 5¾, according to grade.

"Imported Japan rice is almost extinct, as the domestic rice has superseded same."

CANNED SALMON.

By the unanimous vote of its Board of Directors the Alaska Packers' Association has renewed its contracts with the J. K. Armsby Company, making them its exclusive agent in the United States.

B. F. Stone of the J. K. Armsby Co. says:

"The Alaska Packers' Association has not as yet made any prices on any grade of salmon. I am not prepared to say when prices will be made. No prices on future sockeye have been made by the Puget Sound canners, and no sales have been made in England by those of British Columbia. Demand in England for red Alaska has been good and at advanced prices. The local market is unchanged for the product of the Alaska Packers' Association at $1.10 for red Alaska and 70c per dozen for pink."

Seattle—The "Trade Register" says: "Salmon packers think sockeye prices should open at $1.25 for talls, $1.35 for flats and 90c on halves."

Liverpool, March 12th.—G. Gallin & Sons report:

"The tone of the market for red Alaska is distinctly firm. Holders have sold considerable quantities at their opening prices and have advanced their price 3 pence per case."

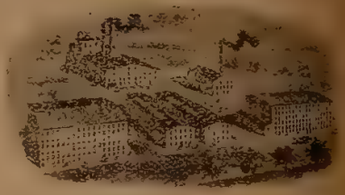
CANNED FRUITS.

The market is firm, with nothing new to report.

Canned goods brokers agree that future sales for this year are much lighter than the previous years. Those who bought futures for the past two seasons have made no money by so doing. With the exception of Maine corn and California asparagus, almost no futures have been purchased. Some sockeye salmon has been contracted for future deliveries subject to approval prices, but very little.

CANNED PINE APPLE.

Paul Taylor Brown Co. of New York state, under date of March 27th, that while one or two houses representing certain large interests, quote advances, that the quotations now coming forward are for the Summer pack and are on a lower basis than the quotations made a month ago for the same shipments.



CANNED TOMATOES.

Baltimore, March 25th.—T. J. Meehan & Co. report:

"The tomato market shows more activity than any other article. Holders are firm in their prices. They look forward to the Spring business to help them out. There was some buying for future deliveries in the past week, but he orders were few and far between."

CANNED CORN.

West Poland, Me., March 25th.—B. N. Fernald reports:

"There is no spot corn left in Maine. The larger and more reliable packers of this State are sold to their limit in future corn. The crop will be a little below average, as the frosts of the past three years have done so much damage to crops that farmers have not been willing to take the chances."

Baltimore March 20th.—T. G. Cranwell & Co. say:

"Do not put much confidence about the unlimited supply of corn in packers' hands. Cheap grades are going into consumption at a rapid rate and it might be well to take advantage of the present opportunity to pick up some cheap lots. The quantity of really good corn is decidedly light. We quote strictly first-class Maine style sugar corn at 65c. In future Maine corn we quote 60c less 1½ per cent.

Canned Asparagus—M. J. Fontana, general agent of the California Fruit Canners' Association, estimates that the pack of asparagus in this State for 1905 will be one-third greater than last year.

PRUNE MARKET.

Philadelphia—The "Grocery World" says:

"While there is as yet no advance in the prices of spot prunes, transactions during the last week were considerably larger than for some time back. The department stores and chain groceries are accustomed to use prunes as leaders during the Lenten season, and their buying has contributed largest to the week's movements."

New York, March 25—John R. Adams & Co., say:

"The offerings of 1903 crop prunes and raisins which have kept our market down for some time past are about closed out. Improvement of the situation is noticeable. Sales are still being made at very low figures because of the approach of the time when these goods on the spot must go into cold storage."

RAISIN MARKET.

Fresno, March 20.—A. P. Jordan, in charge of the organization headquarters of the new Raisin Association, states that he is agreeably surprised at the success being met with in regard to securing signatures to the new contracts.

The management thought they would have to go for practically all the signatures but find that the growers are coming in in large numbers.

New York, March 24.—Arguinbau & Ramee report:

"Stocks of foreign fruit and nuts are exhausted in primary markets and, owing to the unusually light supplies in London, prices there are higher than ours. We anticipate that the small stocks now held here of dates, figs, nuts, etc., will be used up before the end of the season. Dates are still advancing but they are yet the cheapest in the fruit line and the trade continues buying."

COTTON SEED OIL.

New York, March 23.—Aspegreu & Co. report:

"The market is easy. While the prices will vary slightly one way or the other, it is our opinion that oil will remain steady for the next six weeks. There will be little change in price."

PROVISIONS.

The Cudahy Packing Co. say:

"In sympathy with the recent advance in the East, the local market has taken a firmer tone, and has advanced ¼ cent on hams, ½ cent on fancy 4 to 6 lb. breakfast bacon, and ¼ cent on pure lard.

"We shall not be surprised if prices go still higher."

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. say:

"In 1903 there was a great overproduction of cheese, especially in the East, with the result that prices last year in cheese making time were so low that many manufacturers used their milk for butter making.

"This resulted in a very small supply and when the 1903 cheese had become cleaned up prices went soaring, and are getting higher.

"We expect no lower prices until the 1905 cheese is in."

SPICE MARKET.

Baltimore, March 22.—McCormick & Co. report:

"Pepper—Stocks of better grades scarce. Short supplies, especially in Singapores, will be felt by grinders.

"Gum camphor—Very firm in price; higher values predicted."

HAY.

Somers & Co. say:

"Prices are still weaker, especially for the medium and poorer grades of hay. Fancy wheat and oat and timothy hay seem to be in fair demand, with but very little being brought in.

"Reports from the country districts are to the effect that prospects for a big crop were never better. It also seems to be the general opinion that wherever possible, grain will be cut.

The Tampa correspondent of "Tobacco" writes to that journal: A Santaella & Co. report that they have 500 cigar makers at the tables, and are making 75,000 Optimo cigars daily. The 12 tables in their packing room are piled high with cigars, while the sound of the hammer in the shipping department rivals the notes on the new cottages going up on the adjacent blocks. The 12 packing tables are supplemented by one for marking and another for banding the cigars—14 tables in all.

J. L. Jerichan, San Francisco distributors of the Rough Riders Cigars, has now got this excellent nickel cigar on sale at nearly 300 stands and is adding new ones daily. The Rough Riders is becoming one of the leading sellers in this market. It holds trade.

In a circular to the trade Herman Heyneman says: "On or about July 1st, 1905, we will again offer you contract for your purchases of Duke's Mixture, covering period from July 1, 1905, to December 15, 1905, inclusive. The American Tobacco Company will then offer to pay you 3 cents per pound on the quantity of Duke's Mixture that they have billed to you from January 1st, 1905, to June 30th, 1905, inclusive, in consideration of your signing Duke's Mixture contract for an amount equal to said quantity, plus ten per cent.

Herman Heyneman is now offering the trade a new mild sliced plug smoking tobacco, the Van Bibber, on which he makes the trade an allowance of 3 cents per pound from the face of invoice covering purchases of Old English Curve Cut, all sizes, provided the dealer purchases at the same time, and on the same order, an equal number of pounds of Van Bibber Sliced Plug. Van Bibber Sliced Plug is packed only in 1 2-3 ounce tin boxes, 2 1/2 pound cartons, 25-lb. cases, and cost 65 cents per pound, subject to no discount except the usual 2 per cent for cash.

The "United States Tobacco Journal" says of the recently incorporated United Cigar Stores Agency Company: "The object of the agency is to expand the business of the United Cigar Stores Company into towns too small for the establishment of regular United stores. The agency company will act as a go-between between the United Company and some one cigar store keeper in each of the towns in question. The latter will agree to buy a portion of his goods from the United Company and push them, in so far practically becoming an agent. Presumably he will secure the goods at lower rates than his competitors in his town can do. He will also have the privilege of the United coupon, the assistance of expert window dressers who will arrange his display on the United model, and the advantage of instruction and hints from men experienced in United management. In fact, provided he lives up to the agreement, the great company will "take care of him as though he was one of themselves."

News of the Coast.

CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco—Application has been made by T. B. Coghill, the senior member of the firm of Coghill & Kohn, wholesale grocers at 300 Front street, for a receiver. He alleges that there has been considerable mismanagement in the business of the firm during the recent months and that this is due to the neglect of his partner.

Los Angeles—H. Jevne, the grocer, will leave April 11 for an extended visit in Europe. T. D. Ogg, of Ventura, has purchased N. J. Trodo's interest in the Highland Park Grocery, and the firm name is now O. E. Jackson & Co. Mr. Jackson remains with the house. L. A. White is the purchaser of the C. L. Valentine grocery. Mr. Valentine began with a fruit stand and built up a fine fruit and grocery business. He will remain with Mr. White.

Los Angeles—The Crutchfield Grocery at the old Verdugo Milling Company stand, has again changed hands, Mr. Stephenson, the recent manager retiring. It is announced that Mrs. Thomas Brindly has disposed of her store to George Barnes. The assets of F. J. Keptner have been transfered to W. C. Mushet. Also the assets of L. G. Rankin, groceries and delicacies, have been transferred to the same party.

Los Angeles—Frank J. Kepner, grocer, has assigned for the benefit of his creditors. Assets, $3,000; liabilities about $2500. Wales P. Adams, recently arrested in San Francisco on the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, has been discharged on the ground that the evidence was deemed insufficient to convict. The complaint against Adams, who formerly conducted a small grocery store at 1012 East Ninth street, was sworn to by William Bond, who alleged he was defrauded in a deal by which he purchased Adam's stock.

Ocean Park—M. J. Firsich, the grocer, has opened a business at the corner of Second and Bicknel streets and will carry a full line of staple and fancy groceries. It will be managed by Raymond Boyd.

Oxnard—This city is on the verge of a grocery war. The several groceries of Oxnard have been united under a scale of prices, but a few days ago one dealer broke the pledge and undersold his competitors.

Petaluma—The tea store of M. M. Haines has been attached.

Sacramento, March 29—When J. J. Ryan opened his grocery store at Fourteenth and R streets for business yesterday morning he found that thirty rolls of creamery butter had been spread and smashed over the floor and walls, a roll had been forced into the cash register and other rolls of butter had been thrown against the window and show cases. Several sacks of wheat had been emptied and ground into the butter. Six kegs of beer were allowed to run over the floor and ten gallons of cider and six gallons of wine were added to the mixture.

San Diego—Robert W. Hamilton, of Hamilton Bros., grocers, is dead.

San Pedro—W. O. Drishause, formerly of Redlands, has opened the Silver Star Cach Grocery on the corner of Tenth and Center streets. Henderson Bros. are arranging to reopen the grocery business which they lost by the recent fire.

Tracy—Dr. J. S. West has bought out the grocery stock of C. A. Douglass.

Whittier—Edward S. Kemp has purchased the Economy Cash Store from Albert B. Wells, who has conducted the store for some time.

GOLD WATCHES FREE.

Live Firm Wants the Trade to Sell Porto Rico Coffees.

By billboards, theatre curtains, theatre programs and street cars the public is being informed that Ponce de Leon coffee is a pure Porto Rico coffee; that it is "The Best in the World" and that all grocers sell it.

The "Evening Bulletin" is running a series of advertisements that are being written and illustrated by school children in response to an offer by the Porto Rico Coffee Co. to give each week $5 for the best ad submitted. In this way many families are being interested.

In addition to this, experienced lady demonstrators are making a house to house canvass, distributing samples of Ponce de Leon coffee and explaining to the housewife how she will be surer to get full value for her money if she goes to her grocer and asks for "Ponce de Leon" coffee than if she buys bulk goods from a peddler or at one of the stores that throws in dinner sets.

In order to concentrate the interest of the retail grocers in their goods, the Porto Rico Co. have decided to give to each of six grocers who purchase the most packages of coffee from them from April 15th to August 15th a solid gold 14-karat Waltham watch, value $60.

Two of these watches will go to San Francisco grocers.

Four of them will go to grocers in the interior.

Full particulars are given in the advertisement on page 2 of the cover.

THEY ARE FINEST.

The Griffin Extras Brand Shows Marked Increase in Sales.

The California Fruit Canner's Association, packers of the Griffin Extras brand of fruits and vegetables, through their sales agent, the Spohn-Patrick Company, have been aggressively and systematically working this territory in the interest of the above named brand.

Griffin Extras have proven of a very high grade, and the sales have been rapidly increasing. In fact, to our knowledge there has never been a brand of canned goods introduced on this market that the trade have been so uniformly willing to push as has been the case with Griffin Extras.

The packers are constantly adding to this brand new specialties, the latest product being Griffin Extras Pineapple.

This pineapple is grown in the Hawaiian Islands, and is exceptionally tender, juicy and delicious.

This article is put up strictly for table use, and is unexceled by any pineapple grown. What is particularly noticeable in Griffin Extras pineapple is the absence of that heavy fibre usually found in the Singapore and Bahama products, which renders these last named products rather tough.

The Spohn-Patrick Company are certain that the grocer will find his finest trade delighted when they taste Griffin Extras pineapple.

The Spohn-Patrick Company are now taking contract orders for canned goods. They have connections with the largest packers of canned fruits and vegetables in the world, and give goods at prices consistent with quality.

The grocer will be able to save money on canned goods, both as to quality and prices, if he consults the Spohn-Patrick Company before placing his order.

ROYAL PROTECTS PROFITS.

The Royal Baking Powder Co. has put on a special deal by which those grocers purchasing now are able to receive baking powder gratis, to the extent of 10 per cent. of the purchases they may make during the life of the deal. The grocers who are given this free allowance are required to sign the following agreement:

I especially agree to sell Royal Baking Powder at not less than 45 cents for 1 lbs., other sizes in same proportion—also not to divide this special shipment with anyone—but to sell same only at retail; also to make a special display of this order, upon receipt of same.

Any grocer who may have violated his agreement to maintain prices in the past will not be allowed to take advantage of present special deal.

Amusements

MAJESTIC.

J. H. Gilmore is giving another splendid bit of character acting as the detective, Sherlock Holmes, in the "Sign of the Four." This is one of Conan Doyle's most famous stories and is of thrilling interest. The entire company is well cast and the play is one well worth an evening.

ALCAZAR.

Crowded houses still reward the Alcazar for its revival of "Old Heidelberg." The students and their songs add materially to the interest of the play, which is a very pretty story in itself.

Next week "Tom Moore" is to be produced.

CENTRAL.

Much sympathy is aroused by the interesting situations in "The Confessions of a Wife." The play is a melodrama of thrilling interest that requires some remarkable scenic effects, which are provided with the care and attention usually accorded by this house.

Next week "Paul Revere" will be put on.

TIVOLI.

"The Burgomaster" is in its last nights at the Tivoli. On Sunday night "Floradora" is to be given with an augmented chorus and special cast. This is the first time "Florodora" has been produced in San Francisco at popular prices. Special preparations are being made to make the production notable.

FISCHER'S.

New moving pictures and a strong bill of novelties help provide an interesting evening at this theater. The program is full of variety, ranging from illustrated songs to comedy acrobats and Japanese jumpers. There is a performance every afternoon and two each evening.

THE CHUTES.

The circle swing has not lost its novelty at the Chutes. It is attracting a great deal of interest from people who like to be shocked. The program in the free theater is especially good. There are a number of headliners from the Orpheum and John T. Chick and his clever company supply plenty of fun.

THE NATURE SHOW.

The first exhibition of the Pacific Coast Forest, Fish and Game Association at the Mechanics' Pavilion is exciting much interest. The pavilion has been practically reconstructed. It represents a forest within doors and there is something odd to be seen at every turn. There are band concerts every afternoon and evening. The Indian village supplies numerous novelties and there are many other features. The fact that William Greer Harrison is president and James D. Phelan is vice president of this association is the best guarantee of the fact that the show is extremely interesting.

TROUBLE FOR OLSONS.

Harris Bros. & Co., to whom the Olson Company were indebted to the extent of $8640, have brought suit against the Olson Co., Fred L. Hilmer, George M. Fish and the City and County Bank. They claim that the bank unlawfully seized upon the leases of the stores occupied by the company (worth $12,000). They also claim that the sale of the Olson stock, worth $90,000, to George L. Fish for $50,000 was a put-up job, for agreeing to which Nelse Olson received $2000 and J. M. Olson $1000.

Harris Bros. & Co. further claim that the Olsons still retain the store and that the agreement with Mr. Fish was practically a matter of borrowing $50,000 from him with which to pay their $90,000 worth of indebtedness with the understanding that when they paid Mr. Fish back his $50,000 they would have the right to secure complete control. The plaintiff asks that the assets of the firm be held in trust for the creditors and that Hilmer be removed and some other person be appointed to succeed him and that the Court annul the sale to Fish.

SALMON SITUATION.

in the catch, is the fact that the number of sockeyes which reached the spawning ground of the Fraser River this year was so small as to seriously threaten the destruction of the great industry. For I can positively state from personal observation that the run of sockeye to the Fraser watershed above the great canyon (which includes the Quesnal, Shuswap and Seton-Anderson Lakes section) was a failure, and that virtually no spawn to produce a future run was deposited there this year, though combined, these lake regions constitute what is believed to be 75 per cent of the natural spawning grounds of the sockeye salmon of the entire Fraser River watershed. This statement, which may reasonably alarm those interested, is made after a most careful inspection of the spawning grounds during the past three seasons."

The decrease in the catch and the absence of fish upon the spawning grounds of the Fraser River this year and last is entirely attributable to excessive fishing, past and present. I can find no other reason for this condition. To continue fishing for salmon under the laws at present existing will surely cause their extermination in the Fraser River and its tributaries. I do not believe that any intelligent person on either side of the international line, who is interested in the salmon industry does not recognize this statement to be true, and does not in consequence recognize the immediate necessity of restricting the fishing in both our own sockeye have no protection whatever in and American waters. At present the American waters; and the protection afforded them in our own waters, though deemed adequate at the time of its enactment, is seriously inadequate now.

I conclude that the sockeye which run to that river in the off years are perilously near extermination, in fact so near that I believe more stringent regulations than above outlined must be enforced. I am so strongly impressed with this fact that I have no hesitancy in recommending that fishing on the Fraser River, and its salt water approaches on both sides of the line, be prohibited from July 10 to September 15 for the years 1906, 1907, 1908,

It may be said that this is altogether too radical. It may also be said that such legislation can never be enacted, since the fishermen and canners would oppose it, for the reason that it would for three years drive them from the river. I, nevertheless, submit that for three years the sockeye spawn deposited in the Fraser watershed has not been sufficient to produce runs of sockeye equal to those of the last three years, and that, notwithstanding the excessive fishing during that period, the catch has not been sufficient to yield a profit to either fishermen or the canners, and that many of them have lost money.

If the business of the fishermen and canners under the existing laws as to seasons and methods (which they admit have tended to the extermination of the fish), has not been profitable for three years, upon what ground can they reasonably expect to make a profit in the years 1906, 1907 and 1908 under more restrictive regulations?

For argument sake let it be assumed that the runs in 1906, 1907 and 1908 will equal in numbers those of the years 1902, 1903 and 1904, and that the fishing season be made shorter in order to permit a reasonable proportion of the fish to reach the spawning grounds, who will assert that the fishermen and canners will do well as they did in the latter years?

I cannot believe that the run of salmon in the Fraser district in the years 1906, 1907 and 1908 will equal that of the last three years. It certainly will not if the theory is correct that the run depends upon the result of the propagation in the Fraser in the fourth preceding year.

If sockeye fishing in the Fraser district, on both sides of the line, be prohibited in the years above specified, the fish which do come in from the sea will reach the spawning ground; when by natural propagation, aided by the hatcheries now in existence (which combined have a capacity of 90,000,000 eggs), the river will be thoroughly seeded, even though the running should be materially less than that of the past season.

If for a period of four years, the sockeye be given free access to the spawning grounds of the river, the fishery will be restored to a condition of profitable proportions.

It is equally certain that if the river be not thus seeded the run of fish will continue to decrease.

I submit, then, that the closing of the Fraser River district to sockeye fishing in 1906, 1907 and 1908 is necessary, because (1) the run of sockeye salmon to the Fraser depends primarily upon the number of fish propogated in that river's watershed; (2) that the run of a given year depends upon the number of fish propagated there in the fourth preceding year; (3) that there was not sufficient fish propagated there in the years 1902, 1903 and 1904 to produce profitable runs in 1906, 1907 and 1908; (4) only by the means suggested can the extermination of the sockeye be prevented; (5) if it is not done, not only is there grave danger of the fish being exterminated, but it is almost certain that the canning industry will be destroyed; and (6) it will postpone indefinitely their restoration to the river in profitable numbers.

Points to Watch

GUM CAMPHOR—
The market is in small supply and higher prices are predicted.

PRUNES—
While stocks are less than last year, the market is weak locally.

DATES—
Are very scarce in primary markets and the East and must advance before new crops arrive.

MAPLE SYRUP—
The crop of sap in Ohio is very disappointing. The Vermont crop, up to date, has been unsatisfactory.

SULPHUR—
The market is firm. Eastern markets have a higher tendency. Locally, there is no probability of a reduction.

MOLASSES—
Crops in the West Indies are reported as small compared with those of previous years and the market is firm.

CANNED OYSTERS—
The season at New Orleans was very short and the pack is correspondingly small. Advances are therefore predicted.

RAISINS—
There is a decided weakness owing to a general belief that the Raisin Growers Association will not materialize. Should it be formed, prices will improve.

PICNIC SEASON—
Now is the time to begin the display of goods for dainty lunches. The picnic season has begun and the store that makes the most tempting displays, gets the business.

CANNED SALMON—
The sale of the enormous stocks of the P. P. & H. Co to strong holders and the rumor that the new buyers will work with the Alaska Packers' Association serves to make salmon very good property.

AMERICAN FRUITS IN FRANCE.

United States Commercial Agent Walter T. Griffin, Limoges, France, in his annual report for 1904, says:

"Within fifteen years the importation of canned, dried and preserved fruits into this part of France has doubled. California pears, plums, apricots and peaches are found in every grocery store, and dried fruits of every variety, of better quality than the domestic product, are sold throughout France generally. However, there is still an opening for a large increase in this business. If the French market is properly approached, sales could be doubled."

WANT FLOUR PROFITS

Local Retail Grocers Tell What They Think of Flour Conditions.

There is only one reason why the mills who supply the retail grocers of San Francisco should allow a few firms to sell their flour for what the rest of the trade pay for it. This reason is, that enough of the San Francisco grocers do not say:

"If you let my competitor sell this particular brand of flour for a price less than what will give me a fair profit, I won't handle it."

This is what the grocers have done in other communities.

These grocers were then given the protection they asked—and which was theirs by right—and the mills were glad that they gave it to them.

More and more of the grocers of San Francisco are doing this every week.

The trade would be helpless if it were not for the Globe Mills.

This concern has put into the hands of the retail grocers the means to secure protection from the other mills if they will only stand together and demand it. When enough grocers are handling the flour of the Globe Mills and saying to the other mills:

"We are pushing Globe Mills flour because we get a profit on it and the cutters cannot sell it for less than we do."

Then the other mills will say: "We will do that, too. All we want to know is that you want it."

The mills that refuse to protect their trade from the cutters are:

Stockton Milling Co.
Sperry Milling Co.
Port Costa Milling Co.
American Milling Co.
Del Monte Milling Co.

We present herewith the ideas of a few of the retail grocers as to the duty of the mills to protect the grocers in their profit:

Stulz Bros., 533 Montgomery Ave.—"It is a part of our policy to push those goods on which we get a profit in our two stores. This is one of the reasons why we are selling large quantities of the flour of the Globe Mills. The flour gives satisfaction as far as quality is concerned and we know our customers cannot buy it anywhere else for less money than we ask for it. We keep the other flours in stock but find our customers are satisfied with the flour we offer them. As a matter of principle, I think the grocers should make a special effort to advance the interests of those firms that protect them."

Schmidt & Reidt, 12th and Folsom—"It has always seemed a great folly to me for a grocer to allow himself to be influenced into selling something without a profit because a great many of his neighbors are selling that particular kind of goods. I do not like to sell an article for more than my neighbor. For that reason I put the flour of the Globe Milling Co. in stock as soon as they agreed to protect prices and not allow it to be used by the cut rate stores as a lever to pry away my customers. I find my customers willing to take the flour I recommend and that gives a profit."

J. W. Offerman, 1400 Folsom St—"If the grocers will only stand together and throw as much of their business as they can to the mills that protect the prices, they would soon have all the mills doing the same thing. While my flour business is not large, the Globe Mills has been getting a very large part of it since they guaranteed to protect the prices, and I find no difficulty in selling the goods."

F. Speckmann, 1451 Church street—"The proposition to induce the mills to maintain a fair price on their flour is a good one. I hope it can be carried out successfully."

Chas. Mayborg, 1534 Church street—"I want a profit on my goods. I think the manufacturers who sell to retail dealers should protect the trade in helping them get that profit."

H. D. Junck, 3698 17th street—"I am in the grocery business to make money. I think the mills owe it to their trade to protect them from the competition of firms that would sell their flour at cost."

Connolly Bros., 316 4th street—"It is the grocers' fault if they do not secure a profit on flour. If all the grocers would insist upon it, I am sure the local mills would be willing to give the grocers of San Francisco the same protection they are giving the grocers in other communities. I am selling large quantities of the flour of the Globe Mills and find that my trade are willing to take it and pay me the extra profit without a question. The correction of the present bad system lies with the grocers themselves."

F. H. Burmeister, 1901 Howard street—"The retail grocers should protect themselves if they want to get a profit on flour. It is foolish for them to sell goods that they have to handle at a loss because the manufacturer allows them to be cut."

H. M. Deppe, 1450 16th street—"A profit of a nickel on a $1.25 sale will not enable a man to pay his rent. The manufacturers owe it to the retail grocers to protect them from having to meet such competition."

Nordholz & Steimke, 16th and Mission—"It is not right for the manufacturer to allow cutters to force the rest of their trade to sell without a profit. The retail grocers are at fault. I don't think they can stand together well enough to do anything."

J. D. Heise & Co., 16th and Valencia—"I do not see why the grocers cannot stand together in this matter. We are selling the flour of the Globe Mills because it gives us a profit. We have met no difficulty in doing so."

J. H. E. Eiben, 17th and Dolores—"I will not sell a flour on which I do not get a fair profit. I get 15c a sack profit on every sack of flour that goes out of my store and I have been able to introduce profitable goods to my trade and they are satisfied to take what I offer them. It is not hard to switch your trade to another flour if you have their confidence, and the new goods are all right as far as quality is concerned."

WHITTIER DOING WELL.

Whittier, April 4, 1905.

Editor Advocate—We have a small association here, but it is a good one, and is helping all the grocers of our community. We have been glad to help in the work of getting better laws and hope that the next Legislature will give us a Mutual Fire Insurance law that will enable the retail merchants of the State to get their fire insurance at a fair figure. Yours very truly.

PICNIC PREPARATIONS.

Local Grocers Preparing for Their Thirty-fourth Annual Outing.

The "S. F. Retail Grocers' Association" is to have its thirty-fourth annual picnic at Schuetzen Park on Wednesday, May 10th. Tickets will be 50 cents, children 25 cents.

Boats will leave the Tiburon ferry at 9, 10 and 11 a. m., and 12:36, 1:30 and 2:30 p. m.

The first gate prize will be a buggy valued at $75.

The Board of Directors are meeting every Monday evening as a picnic committee and report numerous prizes donated and many tickets sold. The various sub-committees will be named later by the various chairmen, who are as follows

Wheel of Fortune, J. M. Sullivan; Floor, Vice-President Frank Connolly; Members' and Clerks' Drawing, Wm. Ring. Prizes, President Salomon, Music, President Salomon and Frank Connolly, Finance, J. T. Hurley, Reception, E. Lackmann, Bowling, H. Methmann, Ladies Guessing Contest, Geo. B. Doyle; Shooting, Henry Wreden, Tickets and Badges, Henry Rawe.

Vice-President Frank Connolly, who is to act as floor manager, will also have charge of the candy distribution for the children.

GROCERY JOTTINGS.

H. M. Deppe starts soon for a vacation trip through Lake and Mendocino counties.

McCoy & Nesbitt's 16th street store is very effectively arranged. They have a large delicatessen counter in the middle of the store in which are arranged numerous appetizing luncheon dainties. The entire west side of the store is devoted to package liquor goods which make a fine display, and the east side is devoted to retail grocery counters. The shelves are well stocked and are carefully kept.

Sheehan Bros., at 547 Valencia, have a very pretty store. The smell of the coffee from their roaster serves as a very desirable advertisement.

Earnst Illig of 701 Valencia street is one of the grocers who is anxious to see that the anti-trading stamp law is made to stick. He says the news is almost too good to be true.

Wm. Jacobs of 3447 17th has been enlarging his store and rearranging it. It is a decided improvement.

J. H. E. Eiben has been making numerous changes for the better in his store at 17th and Dolores. Mr. Eiben has taken a long lease of a large piece of property on which his store is situated, and by combining two stores into one has given himself the room made necessary by his increase of business. He also has splendid warehouse facilities.

H. D. Junck of 3798 17th st is one of the few men who have had the privilege of learning their trade from a millionaire. He first worked in the store of John F. Ohatmann. Mr. Junck has been in his present location for about ten years. He carries a very

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

Wichita, Kansas—The Grocers' Association has passed resolutions denouncing the method of giving premium coupons. They also resolved that the members of the Wichita Grocers' Association should refuse to handle the products of the Great Western Cereal Company until such a time as they agree to join with other cereal manufacturers for the total elimination of premium coupons in connection with cereal products.

St. Louis, Mo.—The Butchers' Association of St. Louis have secured the passage of a bill in the Assembly providing for closing up grocery stores and butcher shops by a vote of 82 to 15.

Seattle, Wash.—The directors of the State Grocers' Association have decided to levy a special tax of 50 cents per member upon the various local associations for the purpose of liquidating outstanding obligations, etc. They decided to oppose the selling to hotels, restaurants, logging camps, mining camps, etc., by wholesalers. They took a decided stand in favor of manufacturers protecting the retail price of their proprietary brands. Tacoma was chosen as the place for the next State convention and September 12 to 14 as the date.

Texas—The legislature killed an amendment to the pure food law that would enable retail dealers to secure immunity from punishment by the presentation of a guarantee of purity.

Philadelphia, Pa.—One of the main reasons for the success of the Retail Grocers' Association is the large attendance at meetings. It is seldom a meeting has less than 250 members present. Trading stamps were kept out of the stores of the members in Philadelphia because the members were able to get together and decide how they would act.

Providence, R. I.—The Emperor Trading Stamp Company is in the receiver's hands.

Keane, N. H.—The Sperry & Hutchinson Trading Stamp Company is to close the later part of next week on account of decrease in business.

Wilmington, Del.—A tax of $500 per year has been placed on the trading stamp companies.

Indianapolis, Ind.—The Retail Grocers' Association has a membership of 263 out of 900 grocers. The association is establishing a rating bureau. About 15,000 names of credit users have already been secured. A food show will be held from October 26th to November 9th this year. A contract has been made with the J. W. Dean Company which provides that the association shall receive 10 per cent of the gross receipts of the show.

Toledo, O.—District meetings are being held of the grocers and butchers of Toledo. State Secretary Cook attends these meetings and explains fully the workings of the Grocers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company. The district associations are proving a great value to the grocers.

Columbus, O.—The Grocers' Association has a very effective collection bureau. The Arbuckle Company refuses to allow their coffee to be sold by cut-rate tea and coffee stores. The funds of the association have been largely increased by contributions that have been made by the Egg Baking Powder Company and the Rub-No-More Soap Company. The contributions of these companies are made proportionate to the amount of their goods purchased by association grocers. The association has an employment bureau to help members secure good clerks. They are also conducting a campaign against peddlers who pay no license.

Youngstown, O.—The Grocers' Association has worked for a 10 per cent garnishment law; against coupon schemes and stamps; to secure pure food laws; for protection against dishonest customers; unjust treatment from wholesalers and the establishment of a mutual fire insurance company. We find that the interest of our members has been increased by various social affairs which enabled them to bring their wives and thus let them realize some of the desirable features of the grocers' association.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Preparations are being made for the 1905 pure food show. At the last meeting of the association, the chairman of the Food Show Committee asked those members who wished to act as day and night watchmen to hand in their names. Compensation will be $1.50 per day. The members were also asked to hand in names of boys to watch the doors for which 50 cents per night is paid. The association is trying to get a garnishment bill through the legislature.

Southbend, Ind.—The Grocers' Association, recognizing the fact that the American Tobacco Company was hurting their trade by its premium coupon schemes, passed the following resolutions:

Whereas, This Association has repeatedly gone on record as being opposed to premium and gift schemes, coupled with the retailing of proprietary package goods, tobaccos, etc., and

Whereas, The American Tobacco Company, and its offspring, the Florolora Tag Company, are doing more to educate the buying public in the mail ordering system of purchasing goods, since their recent innovation of "the cash," or "part cash," feature in connection with their premium department than all other agencies combined; and

Whereas, Both consumer and dealer are compelled to pay for these premiums in a continual upward incline of cost being charged for their products, and

Whereas, This system of distributing and selling articles composing general merchandise is a "trade abuse," being detrimental to retail merchants in all lines of trade, therefore be it

Resolved, That the South Bend Retail Grocers' Association, in regular executive session assembled, disapprove of, and condemn the methods of the American Tobacco Company, and request them to discontinue the same. And be it further

Resolved, That the secretary notify the American Tobacco Company of this resolution; and also request the leading trade journals to publish same. And also request other retail grocers' associations, as individual associations, to take similar action, notifying the American Tobacco Company of such proceedings.

Louisville, Ky.—The Retail Grocers' Association is to give a pure food show from April 24th to May 6th; admission 25 cents. Tickets can be purchased from retail grocers for 10 cents for the afternoon and 15 cents for the night.

Rhode Island—The Empire Trading Stamp Company of Providence has gone into bankruptcy.

The Money Weight Scale Company sent another check for $500 to the National Grocers' Association on February 28th.

Tacoma.—The Retail Grocers' Association is issuing warning against house to house agents who have been selling a silver-plating preparation dangerous to health and life.

Moline, Ill.—At the convention of the Illinois State Grocers' Association, C. H. Kingsbury of Rock Island was elected president and Sol Westerfeld of Chicago first vice president. Strong resolutions were passed in opposition to all coupon premium schemes.

Connorsville, Ind.—Twenty-four of the retail grocers have agreed to cease using trading stamps.

Columbus, O.—The Retail Grocery Clerks' Union are prosecuting a local grocer for opening his store for business on Sunday. The case has been appealed to the Superior Court.

Youngstown, O.—The retail grocers have adopted the mutual fire insurance plan.

Duluth, Minn.—A rate book in which every consumer in the city will be listed, will be issued by the association. There are 141 grocers in Duluth and every one is a member of the association. The membership fee is $25.

Helena, Mont.—The dues of the Retail Merchants' Association are $2 per month. The association collects many past due accounts for its members.

Denver, Colo.—The Denver Grocers' Association proposed to give back to those members who attended meetings the rebate of 2 cents per sack allowed on sugar by the Beet Sugar Refineries. The Sugar Refineries have refused to allow them to follow this plan.

New Jersey—A bill has been introduced in the Assembly providing that trading stamps shall have stamped on their face a cash surrender value.

AFTER COFFEE PEDDLERS.

Local Grocers Seek to Find Means To Correct Trade Abuse.

The growing evil of the peddlers who solicit family trade for tea and coffee was brought to the notice of the San Francisco Retail Grocers' Association recently. The matter was referred to a committee of which Vice President Frank B. Connolly was made chairman. The other members were Messrs. Doyle, McGuire, Hurley and Sullivan. President Salomon is ex-officio a member of the committee.

With his customary thoroughness, Mr. Connolly at once interviewed the leading coffee and tea wholesalers as to their wishes on the matter. As a result a conference was called which was attended by representatives from A. Schilling & Co., M. J. Brandenstein & Co., J. A. Folger & Co. and Sussman & Wormser.

Supervisor Alpers was interviewed and expressed the view that, under the present license law it would hardly be possible to reach the peddlers.

The matter was discussed in its various phases. It was the consensus of opinion that the grocers should go to the different jobbers with an agreement not to send out peddlers or to supply them with goods. It was thought that in this way a list could be secured of those firms desirous of doing a strictly legitimate jobbing business and that, by having the grocers confine their trade to such firms they could materially lessen the evil.

At the meeting of the Association's directors on Monday evening, Vice President Connolly reported the conditions and the results of the conference. The board decided to follow up the matter as a whole.

THE TUG OF WAR.

Grocer Against the Peddler or Wagon Man.

This is the caption of a clever circular by means of which Hills Bros. have called attention to the phases of this evil. Among other things they say:

"With the consumer this is simply a business proposition.

"To begin with, the grocer has the coffee trade. The wagon man out of a job starts a coffee route to make a living. He solicits the coffee trade of the grocer's customer, and if he is an acquaintance or comes well recommended he gets a trial order.

"Does the peddler or the grocer hold the trade?

"The sentiment of the lady of the house is more than likely to be with the peddler if he puts up a plausible hard luck story. If his coffee is as good as the grocer's, he holds the trade.

"The wagon man gets his business from the grocer, who tries to make a 16-cent coffee do the work of a first-clas Java and Mocha. For a good Java and Mocha to retail for 35 cents to 45 cents the grocer should pay from 24 cents to 29 cents.

"It does not need any great amount of work to abolish this peddler nuisance. The Retail Grocers' Association, all the trade journals, the State Legislature and the jobbers cannot do, by laws and agreements, what would be accomplished in a reasonable time if each grocer would get in and apply his own remedy.

"Put out better coffee than the peddler's. Buy good coffee. Pay a price for it and let the public know it.

"The peddler could not live on legitimate profits, and would soon go out of business if forced to meet a good, lively, well-directed competition from the grocer to whom the coffee business really belongs. It is the unreasonable profit some grocers have attempted to make on coffee that has made the existence of the peddler possible."

CHANGE IN LOS ANGELES.

Secretary W. R. Baxter Resigns to Accept Desirable Place With Mercantile House.

At the last meeting of the L. A. Retail Grocers' Association the organization accepted with many expressions of regret the resignation of Secretary W. R. Baxter, to go into effect early in May. Mr. Baxter has won many friends in Southern California by the able manner in which he conducted the association affairs, and he will carry the best wishes of his grocer associates with him in his new position as representative of a large mercantile concern.

Much pressure is being brought to bear upon J. F. Paulding to have him resume the work in Los Angeles. Mr. Paulding, however, considers it his duty to continue his work in the interest of the Pacific Coast Association at San Francisco.

CAN INTEREST CHILDREN.

How Retail Grocers Can Help Their Little Friends Earn Money.

The Porto Rico Rice Co. has put it in the power of the retail grocers all over the country who handle Ponce de Leon coffee to interest their friends among the children. This company is running a series of advertisements in the "Bulletin." They change them three times a week and each new advertisement carries an ad written by some school child. For each ad they print, they pay the child who designed it $5.

We present herewith an ad that appeared in a recent issue. The only condition is that the child must get a blank from the grocer, which must be filled out by the little one's teacher. This contest is open for children in every part of the State. A grocer who should have helped some youngster win a $5 prize will find that all the neighbors of that particular child will have heard all about his store and the Ponce de Leon coffee.

One of the Advertisements written by School Children.

Ponce de Leon coffee is a "straight" Porto Rico coffee of high grade. This coffee was all sold in Europe before Porto Rico became a part of the United States. The planters are now forced to market it in this country, since they face large tariff discriminations in the countries where it was formerly sold.

In order to add to the interest of retail grocers in their goods, the Porto Rico Co. has decided to give six solid gold gents' Waltham watches, valued at $60 each, to the six dealers who handle the most sealed cans of their Ponce de Leon coffee between April 18th and August 15th. Two watches will be given to the two San Francisco grocers who purchase the most Ponce de Leon coffee in that time and four watches will go to grocers outside of San Francisco.

While this advertising is very expensive, the Porto Rico Co. feels that it will pay them, since the quality of their goods is such that they feel certain every trial will result in a repeat order. They are certain, too, of the grocer's continued interest, since they will not allow Ponce de Leon coffee to be cut and it gives the dealer a handsome profit.

GROCERY JOTTINGS.

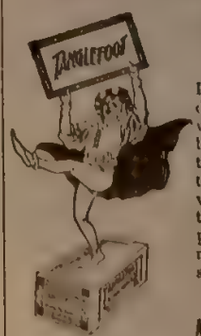
heavy stock in his store and in his large and dry warehouses.

E. & H. Muegge are doing a very nice business in their store at First and Harrison. They purchased this business from W. F. C. Schmidt about a year ago and by push and energy have been able to better their trade considerably.

Wetzler & Fuernstahl are making a very decided success of their Twentieth Century Market at 1560 Market street. They carry a nice line of goods which they display in a manner bound to attract the attention of people passing along Market street. They advertise aggressively, but manage to secure a profit on all their goods.



GAINING IN FAVOR.

It is because Lily Cream is "the original big can," and because its standard of excellence has been so uniformly maintained and even improved on that its sales have steadily increased from the day it was first introduced on the market.

It is an article the grocer can always safely recommend.

How "Shredded Wheat" Is Made.

The Largest, Cleanest and Most Beautiful Building in the World Devoted to Food Production — A Miniature Plant in San Francisco.

Over at 1446 Market street, of this city, there is a novel exhibit of a unique industry—a miniature reproduction of a portion of the great plant of the Natural Food Company at Niagara Falls—showing the process of "shredding" wheat. Although shredded wheat is acknowledged to be the world's standard cereal food very few people have any intelligent idea of the way it is made or the dietetic principle that underlies it. Not all the people who eat it with religious regularity, indeed, know why the cooked wheat is drawn into shreds.

Nearly a hundred thousand of the pilgrims to Niagara Falls last year visited "the home of shredded wheat." But this is only "a drop" compared to the vast army of consumers of the product, for the plant turns out a million and a quarter biscuits a day, and the exhibit at 1446 Market street is "only a drop" compared to the great industry at Niagara Falls. It shows the process of cooking, shredding and baking the wheat, however, on a small scale, using exactly the same shredding machines as are used in the big conservatory at the Falls. The culinary possibilities of the Biscuit and Triscuit are also shown, some of the most delicious dishes being served.

A Model Structure.

An industry that is visited every year by nearly 100,000 persons is worth knowing something about.

The plant is located in the heart of the residence district of Niagara Falls, far away from the smoke and dust of factory and railroads, fronting the rapids of Niagara River, and within sound of the roar and rush of the great cataract. This noble structure, with the sunlight streaming in through thirty thousand lights of glass, flooding every nook and corner with cleansing rays, is dedicated to the scientific truth that a grain of wheat contains all the elements of a complete and perfect food for man. Certain factory ideals have been attained in this building which make it unique among the industrial plants of the world—taking it, in fact, out of the factory class and clearly entitling it to the name which has been given it "The Natural Food Conservatory." In sanitary appliances for securing cleanliness of product and health and comfort of employees it is not surpassed by any structure in the world.

Mere figures give a very inadequate idea of the noble proportions of this building. They do not tell the story of the architectural symmetry, its costly equipment or its perfect adaptation to the work of making the cleanest and most healthful food product on earth. Those who like figures, however, will be interested in knowing that the Natural Food Conservatory is 163 feet in length by 66 feet in depth, contains 3000 tons of steel and 200 tons of marble. Its beauty is greatly enhanced by the 844 windows with their 30,000 lights of glass, making it indeed a veritable "crystal palace."

The building is entered through a large foyer, on either side of which are writing and reading rooms for guests, furnished with beautiful rugs and sumptuous weathered-oak, leather-upholstered furniture. From the middle of the ceiling hangs a pendant, a great crystal ball, inside of which are thirty-six electric lights.

At the base of the vast columns supporting the ceiling are upholstered settees. Here dainty "demonstration lunches" are served to visitors, and here may be found guides ready to pilot visitors through the building. The gallery around the foyer, as well as the entire floor above, are taken up with the administration, publicity and accounting offices of the Company.

Regard for Employes.

The roof of the Administration section, reached by electric elevators, commands a view of Niagara River, the Rapids, Goat Island, Three Sister Islands and other scenic beauties of this picturesque region.

Other unique features of this model building are: A thoroughly equipped dining-room overlooking the beautiful Niagara, in which the employes eat lunch at the noon hour as the guests of the Company, and in which the famous chef of the Company, Eugene Girard, and his assistants, give practical demonstrations in "Shredded Wheat Cookery," showing the many tempting and palatable dishes that may be made out of this product; a convention hall or auditorium with a seating capacity of one thousand, with stage, electric lights and all modern conveniences in keeping with the other handsome appointments of the building; elaborate lavatories finished in marble and mosaics at a cost of a hundred thousand dollars, provided not only with hot and cold water, but with needle and shower baths. These are for the use of all employes of the Company and soap and towels are also furnished without charge.

RECEPTION HALL FOR VISITORS.

The woodwork of the entire building is white enamel and is kept immaculately clean. The windows are double-glazed and fixed in the frames, so they cannot be opened, making the building absolutely dust-proof. The pure air, filtered through sieves, is forced through the structure by means of great suction fans and ventilator shafts.

It would require a good-sized booklet to describe the many departments of "welfare work" carried on by this Company to guard the health of the employes and to secure their comfort, contentment and intellectual and moral improvement.

The Company not only provides a locker for each employe, costly lavatories and hygienic noon-day lunches for them, but maintains a circulating library and gives them access to hundreds of periodicals which come to the Publicity Department.

It provides addresses by men and women of note, English and German classes, essay contests, cooking school, sewing school, boys' vegetable gardens with cash prizes for the best work, and children's playgrounds. It furnishes the girls in the manufacturing section with caps, aprons and sleeves free, and they are also provided with chairs which have foot and back rests. They are also allowed fifteen minutes every morning and afternoon for rest and recreation.

Harnessing Niagara Falls.

The "harnessing" of Niagara Cataract to the wheels of industry was the greatest engineering achievement of the age. It was made possible by the development of electrical power transmission. The electrical power generated in the great power houses by means of turbine wheels can be transmitted by cable a hundred miles to run factories, street railroads and to light cities. It is this great engineering triumph which makes the Natural Food Conservatory a bee hive of industry by day and a palace of electric beauty by night.

Thus the most wonderful achievement of modern electrical science is yoked to the greatest achievement of dietetic

Our Pet BRAND Evaporated Cream

(or any brand which bears our cap label.)

The market is flooded with large cans of thin and watery milks which do not deserve the name of "Evaporated Cream," but intelligent dealers and consumers do not care to pay for tin-ware and water in place of milk substance. Hence they insist on getting the old reliable "Our Pet Brand" which bears this top label.

Machinery for Cleaning Wheat.

Drying Wheat Preparatory to Shredding.

science. Nature's greatest wonder is supplying the world with Nature's greatest food product.

The Whole Wheat Shredded.

Into this temple of cleanliness and beauty there pours every day a constant stream of golden wheat, which emerges in the form of Shredded Wheat Biscuit and Triscuit—over a million and a quarter of these per day. The grain is carried to the top of the building to the cleaning room, where it passes through ingenious devices that remove from it every particle of dust, sand, chaff, rock, cockle and other foreign substances, dropping it clean and pure into tanks of sterilized water.

There are twenty-two of these machines for cleaning the wheat, and each has a particular work to do.

One of them, called a "stoner," removes all the little stones that get mixed up with the wheat. It is a most ingenuous mechanism that utilizes the principle of gravity in separating the stones from the wheat.

Another takes out the "wild oat," another removes the wild mustard seed, another takes out the cockle, others collect the dust, straw, chaff and other foreign substances.

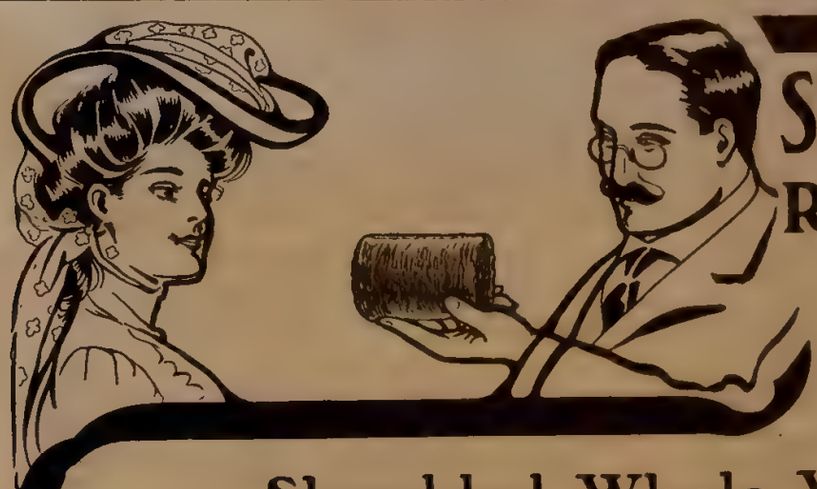
After washing, the wheat is cooked for thirty minutes by live steam in cylindrical wire sieves. The swelled and softened kernels are then spread on clean cloths and exposed to cool air for fourteen hours, being turned from time to time with paddles until ready to feed into the hoppers of the great shredding machines, each 88 feet long and consisting of 36 pairs of corrugated rollers.

The wheat kernels are caught between these rollers and drawn out into fine porous shreds which drop upon an endless chain, laying layer upon layer until the thickness of a Biscuit is formed, when the long band of white filaments is brought to a cutting device which separates them into oblong cakes, and drops them into a pan holding 48 Biscuits.

The pan of Biscuits is then placed in the arms of a large drum, shaped like a Ferris wheel, which revolves in an immense oven until the Biscuits are baked. They are then passed through a second oven which thoroughly dries the interior of the Biscuit, completing the baking process.

The Biscuits are then conveyed in large pan-racks to packing tables, where they are placed in cartons. These in turn are placed on an endless belt which carries them to a machine, a marvel of ingenuity, almost human in its operation. This machine turns back the flaps of the carton, glues them, pasts a strip of paper over the joint and delivers it sealed ready for packing in wooden cases.

A Whole Wheat Cracker.



"Triscuit" is Shredded Whole Wheat compressed into a cracker or wafer and cooked by electricity in a specially devised machine so interesting and wonderful in its operation that it has attracted the attention of electricians from all over the world. It consists of a series of moving "waffle-irons" which serve to compress and indent the cracker while the electric current supplied to each "waffle-iron" cooks it.

Wonderful as all this process is, it isn't half so wonderful as shredded whole wheat itself.

That the process is an impressive revelation to most people is shown by the crowds that daily visit the Company's exhibition plants — miniature shredding plants—which are sent from city to city in this country, and in Europe. After inspecting one of these exhibition plants in Tottenham Court-Road the London editors described the process of shredding the wheat and declared that it remained for the Yankees to discover how to make "bread without flour."

Whole Wheat a Perfect Food.

It is cooked whole wheat, drawn out into fine, porous filmy "shreds," formed into a biscuit and baked in great ovens.

Why is the cooked wheat drawn into "shreds" before baking?

Of course there's a reason for it.

Science long ago established the fact that wheat is the one perfect, complete food given to man, that it contains all the elements necessary for the perfect nourishment of the human body—for the making of brain, brawn, bone and tissue. In the making of modern white flour nearly all these elements are discarded, thus robbing man of his true "staff of life"—the whole wheat.

But it is one thing to supply all these elements in the proportions needed by the human body and quite another thing to present them in such a form that they may be easily and quickly appropriated by the most delicate stomach. In the Shredded Whole Wheat products they are prepared in such a way that the stomach may easily take up all the strength giving properties stored in the whole wheat kernel. The countless shreds of filaments are not only very porous, quickly absorbing the saliva and gastric juices, but they expose a vast surface to the action of the digestive fluids making them easily assimilated.

THE BEST GROCERS MEDIUM.

San Francisco, Cal., March 5, 1905.

My Dear Mr. Powers—I consider the Advocate the best grocers' medium on the Coast. I attribute the success of one of our best manufacturers' agents mainly to its efforts.

Yours truly,

NEAL HARRIS.

A SCIENTIFIC FOOD.

The kernel of wheat contains within itself the necessary elements for the building up and sustenance of bone, brain and brawn. In the milling of the wheat many essentials are sacrificed to securing a white flour.

The National Food Company uses every portion of the grain of wheat in making its "Shredded Wheat Biscuit" and "Triscuit." The scientifically prepared foods are made of the whole wheat and nothing else. They possess peculiar food values, and at the same time can be served in many delicious and appetizing ways.

WANT THEIR CRACKERS.

St. Louis—The Retail Grocers' Association has decided to fight the cracker packers who persist in putting chunks of pasteboard into their cakes and crackers. The grocers have been paying cracker prices for pasteboard for the last twenty years. They are now thoroughly wakened up to the way they have been robbed in the past and now it is to be no pasteboard or no crackers. The grocers even insist that they will start a cracker factory of their own if they cannot get justice from the established companies.

ROCHDALERS FEEL PROUD.

San Diego—At a meeting of the Rochdale Company of this city, the president explained that the store was on a paying basis, and that the need of the hour was that the members should loyally give the trade to the store. Strong resolutions of appreciation to Manager Frederick Rapson were unanimously adopted.

DENOUNCES MENZIES.

Eastern Criticism of the Local Enemy of Grocers' Associations.

The "New England Grocer," a valuable trade journal, realizes that the "Grocer and Country Merchant" has only a handful of grocery subscribers, but still devotes the following space to denouncing one of the illogical and violent tirades against association work, of which Mr. Menzies is so fond:

"The 'San Francisco Grocer,' the advocate of trading stamps and the opponent of grocers' organizations—believes the fight against the premium business has 'neither common sense nor consistency.'

"That's what the grocers think of most of the California dyspeptic's editorial utterances.

"With calm assurance he declares that the grocers' associations 'do not know what they want.'

"Does he?

"We trow not.

"He declares that the offering of premiums consisting of goods 'not handled by grocers' is one that in no way concerns the grocers.

"Ignorance, crass ignorance this. There isn't one article in the premium list of these big concerns but is handled and sold by scores of country merchants—grocers—in New England.

"He believes that the premium system is overdone, 'and the more it is overdone the sooner it will come to an end.'

"His remedy?

"Why, to quietly welcome those extravagant developments.' The more overdone the sooner they will cease.

"The more crime the sooner it will cease. Don't enact laws to suppress crime, but 'quietly welcome' murder and crime.

"That's logic for you!

"The publisher of such an insignificant sheet—so out of tune with modern trade conditions—only makes himself ridiculous when he declares progressive trade movements as 'without merit or value.'

"Know thyself."

ROBBED IN WEIGHT.

The fight of the "Interstate Grocer" of St. Louis against short weight and measure is producing much good in the Middle West and many of the grocers are now weighing, measuring and counting their goods.

John M. Moultie of Collinsville, Ill., wrote the "Interstate Grocer" that he had found two chests of tea to be each five pounds short. The shortage amounted to $2.85 on an investment of $25.

L. F. Padburg, president of the St. Louis Retail Grocers' Association and vice-presdent of the National Grocers' Association, found that a 6-lb. can of cakes which cost him 16c per lb. was 10 oz. short. This meant a loss to him of 1½c per lb. to which we has refused to submit.

G. Wolf of 1715 Franklin avenue, St. Louis, found 11 oz. of cardboard in a can of crackers. The manager of the cracker company told Mr. Wilson to deduct it from his next bill.

Warner, Whitsel & Co. of Covina, Cal., write to the same paper: "In the line of provisions, pickles, crackers, vinegar and molasses we find it necessary to be constantly on our guard."

Association, 18 months ago, had a membership of less than 100 and Associations in only 11 towns. They have now an aggregate membership of nearly 4000 and 53 Associations. They secured the abolishment of the merchants' tax, which has been in vogue for 22 years. In this way they saved all the merchants of the State from $1 to $50 apiece.

Chicago, Ill.—The president of the Chicago Grocers' Association appeals to the members to stand together and do away with cereals containing premium coupons. Among other things he says "I do not understand why the merchants do not take off their coats and fight this premium evil to a standstill. There is not a man who has the confidence of his customers but who can sell them a package of Quaker Oats or some other product as well as Mothers Oats, when they look for it. If the retail dealer does this, then we can easily win out."

Michigan—Since the last State Convention 6 new Associations have been formed.

Birmingham, Eng.—The grocers are denouncing the soap manufacturers who give premiums with their goods.

AN ARTICLE THAT PLEASES.

Now that the picnic season is in full swing the wide-awake grocer will not fail to have a supply of light, appetizing articles suitable for lunches.

Some of the best and most popular of these are the "White Label" Queen Olives and the Pim-Olas of the Seville Packing Company. They make a splendid addition to every lunch basket, making it more attractive and pleasing.

Besides they give the grocer a good profit, and give a charm to his store when properly displayed.

CALIFORNIA CROP BULLETINS.

The U. S. Weather Bureau reports:

"The frosts of the preceding week caused very slight damage to deciduous fruits and grapes and none to citrus fruits. The yield of wheat, oats and barley will be the largest for several years, especially in the south. There will be some shortage in deciduous fruits, because of the continued rains in February and March, but the yield of most varieties will be fully average. Blight is causing some injury to peaches in Fresno. A small gray beetle has attacked the vineyards of San Bernardino."

SUGAR.

The market is strong.

MOLASSES.

New York, April 4.—N. W. Taussig & Co. report:

"The tendency of the molasses market is toward high prices since the West India crops are relatively small as against previous years. Advances have already taken place throughout the entire island of several cents per gallon on all grades."

MAPLE SUGAR.

Bellefontaine, O., March 27.—F. N. Johnson & Co. report:

"The maple season in Central Ohio is over. There was hardly half the crop of last season and last season's crop was not over 75 per cent of a full crop. The weather in the northern counties has been very unseasonable, also. The crop over Ohio will not be over 50 per cent as large as last spring."

St. Johnsbury, Vt., March 30.—Cary Maple Sugar Company report:

"Up to the present time, we have had no really good sap weather this season. In 1902, the season opened March 9th, and we averaged about 2¼ pounds to a tree. In 1903, the season opened March 10th and closed April 10th. The crop was 1½ pounds to a tree. In 1904, the season opened March 24th and closed April 23d. We had a crop of 2¾ pounds to a tree, the largest since 1893. The production to the present time has been insignificant, being about 1-3 of a pound to a tree."

COFFEE MARKET.

New York, April 3.—Volney, Green & Son report:

"The market is ruling firm and there has been a good jobbing demand. Mild varieties are very steady. Bogotas, Marabaibos, Guatemalas and washed Caracas are in fair demand. Caracas has become scarce, as the bulk of the crop has been marketed in Europe. Mochas are firm and unchanged."

New York, April 1.—Henry Nordlinger & Co. report:

"The soundness of the position of coffee is becoming more apparent as the crop season nears a close. The receipts of Rio were about 260,000 bags less during the past nine months than during the corresponding nine months last year. We regard the deficiency in the receipts of other kinds of coffee as about 860,000 bags during the same period. This makes about 1,120,000 bags less than last year for that time. We estimate a reduction in the available supply of about 1,400,000 bags in the rest of the crop season."

TEA MARKET.

Tea stays in a rut. Only the opening of the Japan markets will pull it out—or some important event in the war. Stocks of Japans in this country seem to be ample for the requirements, but prices hold firm on higher grades.

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co. say:

"The rice situation remains the same as in our last reports."

SPICE MARKET.

New York, March 31.—McCormick & Co. report:

Pepper—Spot supplies of all grades are smaller than ever. We would not be surprised to see high values in the near future.

Caraway Seed—The market continues firm, with indications of higher values.

Gum Camphor—Is very firm in price, with indications of an advance at any time. Buyers will do well to anticipate their wants.

SULPHUR.

Sulphur in the Eastern market has a higher tendency. Most of the local sulphur is produced in Nevada or shipped here from Japan and sublimed in this State. The market is firm, as conditions in Japan may warrant price changes at any time.

DRIED FRUITS.

Locally conditions are more healthy than they have been for some seasons. There are not more than twelve cars of peaches and ten cars of apricots on the Coast. These will all go into consumption before new goods come in. Pears are also well cleaned up.

Prunes—There are about 350 cars in this market now. This is much less than the carry over of last year. The market is weak, however. Dried fruit men insist that the consumption of prunes has fallen off. They lay this to two causes; first, that such an enormous quantity of cheap and miserable stock is forced on the market; second, because retail grocers ask such large prices for good prunes.

California will probably have an enormous crop of prunes this year.

Vancouver, Wash.—It is now generally believed that Clark county will have a three-fourths crop this year. While there has been some damage from frosts, reports from the heaviest prune bearing districts indicate a large crop.

Albany, Or.—A full yield of prunes is now assured for the Willamette Valley. The trees were in bloom a month earlier than usual and the fruit should be large and of fine quality. Local prune dealers anticipate good prices since last year's crop is all cleaned up.

Raisins—There is only about 7000 tons of raisins on hand this year, as against from 20,000 to 25,000 tons at this time last year. The jobbers all over the country are carrying only light stocks. Yet the situation is not strong and it is very hard to mass goods except at a sacrifice. The chief reason is that there is a general feeling that the Fresno growers have not yet lost enough money to teach them sense. To this is added the probability of a very large crop.

The growers meet Saturday, when the fact will be developed as to whether an association will be formed or not. Only 11,000 acres had been signed up to Monday and at least 35,000 acres are needed to give the association control of half the crop.

DATES.

New York, April 1.—Hills Bros. Co. report:

"From letters received from London today we gather that the present stock is estimated at 40,000 pounds less than at the same time last year. The quantity available for export has been greatly reduced. Local spot stocks remain unchanged, but sooner or later must be influenced by the strong position abroad."

PEANUTS.

Petersburg, Va., March 31.—E. H. Hartley & Bro. report:

"From the best and most reliable information we should say that not over 3 per cent of Spanish peanuts remain in farmers' hands. Such a condition has not been known in ten years. We think that the trade will realize this fact in the next thirty or sixty days, which, of course, would cause a decided advance."

OLIVE MARKET.

New York, April 3.—Marc M. Michael, president of the Seville Packing Company, says:

Queen Olives—Not much inquiry for Queens. Market is firm, with advancing tendencies. Small fruit is scarce and in good demand.

Manzanillas Olives—In good demand, prices firm. Bottling trade is unusually active, materially reducing stock of bulk fruit.

Nicelle Olive Oil—This brand is growing in popular favor.

CANNED PINEAPPLE.

Baltimore, March 31.—H. H. Taylor & Co. report:

"New prices are out on pineapple at somewhat higher figures than last year. This is due particularly to the sharp advance of sugar, which enters largely in the course of high-grade pineapple packing."

CANNED SALMON.

It is expected that Chinook salmon prices will be announced to the trade shortly. Packing begins on the Columbia River this Saturday.

Seattle.—The "Trade Register" says: "New York jobbers figure on sockeye opening at $1.20 for tails and $1.30 for flats, but Coast interests figure on not lower than $1.25 for tails and the holding over of part of this year's pack to keep up prices and care for the short year lack of profits. Future sockeye, subject to approval of price, have sold freely in Eastern markets."

Seattle, April 4.—The entire holding of red salmon belonging to the defunct Pacific Packing and Navigation Company, amounting to about 100,000 cases, was sold yesterday to the Northwestern Fisheries Company. Kelly-Clark Company have been appointed the selling agents. The policy followed by the purchasers of this stock will decide market conditions very largely. If the purchasers decide to clear out the stocks at a slight figure there will be a general demoralization of salmon throughout the world's markets. If they hold out for the figure asked by the Alaska Packers' Association, between $1.07 and $1.10, f. o. b. Coast, the market, which is already very firm, will be greatly strengthened.

Seattle, April 5.—The holdings of the Alaska pink salmon of the P. P. & N. Co. have been sold. The name of the purchaser is not known. This clears up the entire holdings of this company. The buyers, having obtained this stock at a figure considerably lower than that quoted in the open market, will be able to sell at a discount from the existing conditions and still make a profit. The question as to whether they will do this or will dispose of their goods more slowly at prices that the market would warrant, is of vital importance to the trade. No actual figures have been named on the purchases as yet. John Rosener, representative of the Northwestern Fisheries Company, which yesterday purchased the red salmon of the P. P. & N. Co., stated: "We are going into the fish business and need the fish. That is all there is to it."

Seattle, April 11.—D. Drysdale, vice-president of the Alaska Packers' Association, and J. D. Trenholm, manager of the John Rosener Canning Company, announce that the open salmon war in the Alaskan territory has been declared off. The P. P. & N. Co. and the A. P. Association have been in a continual contest for years back. It is rumored that Rosener and the Alaska Packers' Association are now working toward a consolidation of the big concerns.

New York.—Joseph Durney of the Griffith-Durney Co., in an interview with a commercial paper says: "We have found stocks of salmon in the hands of jobbers to be very much less than they were at this time last year. Taking the stocks of salmon in the consuming markets and adding them to those remaining unsold in first hands, a condition is found which possesses unusual elements of strength from a statistical point of view. That being the case, there is not the slightest doubt that we shall have a very strong market, if not higher prices, during the balance of this season. The strength of the situation in spot stock is enhanced by the fact that we cannot look for an exceptionally low price on the 1905 pack of salmon. The first thought of the packers is to make a price that will be considered attractive by handlers of red Alaska salmon, but their efforts in this direction are limited by the question of cost. Allowing for no unforeseen accidents and without the assurance that all of the salmon outfitted for will be packed, it will cost 90 cents a dozen to pack red Alaska salmon this season. All of our packers, consequently, are convinced that in view of the existing light stocks in first and second hands, they will be able to get readily $1.10 f. o. b. Coast for red Alaska tails."

Seattle.—Puget Sound and Columbia River operators recently shipped 30,000 fresh salmon in refrigeration to Copenhagen for distribution throughout Europe. Those interested in the experiment say that the results are so satisfactory that they will engage in the shipments of fresh salmon to Europe on a large scale. This will increase the shortage of high-class salmon for canning.

CANNED GOODS.

Baltimore advices report that the sale of cans has been phenomenally small. The inference is that the pack in Maryland will be light this season. The fact that cheap corn and tomatoes were sold at less than cost of production would appear to have had the effect of discouraging some of the smaller canneries. It is stated that this has been one reason why the market has been kept down to its present low basis.

Locally the cheap tomatoes have been almost entirely cleaned up. One house has a few left.

Canned Corn.—The California Fruit Canners' Association did some experimenting last season in canning corn in California. They turned out a satisfactory article as far as quality is concerned. Their experience has prompted them to prepare for a pack of about 10,000 cases this year at Milpitas.

Canned Asparagus.—A little bug has attacked the beds. This has not only affected the quantity, but also seems to have stunted the size. As a consequence the percentage of high-class asparagus will be very small.

CANNED CORN.

Baltimore, March 31.—H. H. Taylor & Co. report:

"Most packers have cleaned up their surplus of low-grade corn and the market is in a healthier state for future sales. There is very little really fine corn to be had from first hands of spot stock. The great quantity of cheap grade corn packed last year has been a source of loss to the packers, which might have been avoided."

CANNED TOMATOES.

Baltimore, Md., April 1.—T. J. Meehan & Co. report:

"Buying of tomatoes for future deliveries has been very slow."

CANNED OYSTERS AND SHRIMPS.

New Orleans, April 1.—G. M. Ahrons & Co. report:

"The weather has been so very mild this spring that some of the packers have already stopped packing oysters. The season was so short and there have been so many large orders placed many months past, that there will be few oysters in packers' hands after the packing is over. It is doubtful if all the packers will be able to supply their contracts in full without buying. We would advise buyers to anticipate their future wants while oysters can be had from first hands.

"A very small catch of shrimps is reported. Unless it improves packers will fall 75 per cent short on deliveries."

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Limburger is very scarce and therefore high in price, and New York State factory cheese is firm at present high prices."

FISH.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Eastern codfish is still high in price, owing to great scarcity of fish."

SALT ADVANCES.

All grades of salt were advanced last week 15 to 20 per cent, as a result of action by the New Liverpool Salt Company. This concern's plant at Salton, Cal., was damaged recently, and it will be unable to manufacture much salt for some time, and it felt justified in fixing the price of its commodity in accordance with the supply on hand. This latest advance is the second in two months. All grades of sack goods are raised $2 per ton and other lines are affected in proportion from 15 to 20 per cent.

HAY MARKET.

Somers & Co. say:

"Strictly choice hay, either tame oat or wheat and oat, is in demand. The new crop of both hay and grain will be a large one, although from present indications little fancy hay will be put up.

Cigars and Tobacco

Jake Joseph, of Leopold, Powell & Co., recently visited Tampa.

The price of Boot Jack plub tobacco has been advanced 5 cents per pound.

The Gold Medal factory of M. Stachelberg & Co., at Tampa, now employs 350 cigarmakers.

The Esburg-Gunst Co. has acquired an interest in the Key West factory of M. Stachelberg & Co.

Henry Sutliff, wholesale and retail cigar dealer, of this city and Oakland, recently died very suddenly.

J. H. Neubauer & Co., distributers for M. Stachelberg & Co.'s cigars, are now located in their new headquarters at the corner of Davis and Pacific streets.

One week's shipment of Bustillo Bros. & Diaz to Michalitchke Bros., of this city, contained 60 cases of cigars.

Ehrman Bros. & Co. have received a stock of the Staff of Life and Duke of Athol chewing tobaccos of the Berry-Suhling Tobacco Company, and are working the trade for these brands.

We regret to learn that J. L. Jerichau, San Francisco distributor of the Rough Riders cigars, has been confined to his room for several days with rheumatism. We trust he will soon be about again.

Tillmann & Bendel are very busy these days filling orders for tobaccos and cigars. They have received some very heavy shipments of Bull Durham, for which they are getting big orders.

Portugal has signed with a tobacco company and a number of foreign bankers a contract extending the tobacco monopoly till 1926 and raising a loan of $70,000,000 in 4 per cent bonds, with the same guarantees as the 4½ per cent bonds of 1891 and 1896, which will be liquidated.

The flag law, recently passed by the New York Legislature, has been signed by Governor Higgins. It is said that the American Tobacco Company will make a test case at once to settle the constitutionality of the new law.

Herman Heyneman announces the withdrawal at the close of business on May 6th of the offer of March 6th, whereby the American Tobacco Company gives a special rebate of 50 cents with every 50 pounds and less than 100 pounds of the company's listed tobaccos, provided said order includes an order for five pounds of Union Leader.

A. Santaela & Co., manufacturers of the Optimo, have again increased their force of cigarmakers, now employing 531 and making 80,000 Optimos daily. Nearly half this enormous output is handled by Ehrman Bros. & Co., of this city, whose trade keeps right on increasing even faster than the supply. No sooner have they received one shipment than they find them all sold and orders in for more.

The Tampa correspondent of Tobacco says: The opinion prevails that Sol Hamburger, of A. Santaella & Co., is living in a hazy Optimo smoke atmosphere on the Pacific Coast, as indicated by heavy weekly shipments of Optimo cigars to Ehrman Bros., of San Francisco, and to distributers at other Pacific Coast points. There is a new movement on the Santaella factory grounds, a regular gardener having been employed, and a large number of orange trees and palms have already been set. Flowering plants will be added, all of which is happily in accord with ideas advanced some months ago in the columns of Tobacco, that the cigar factory grounds might be made gardens of loveliness, a delight to the eye and restful to the tired man of business.

That the cigar, tobacco and snuff industry is in a satisfactory condition is shown by the table of total production in the United States, says Tobacco. With the exception of snuff and little cigars, all varieties showed an increase for the month of February, and while the showing is not quite so good for the eight months of the fiscal year ending February 28th, still reductions are principally in articles subject to fluctuations in output, and at most are not serious. The total output of cigars was 4,569,176,271 during the eight months ending February 28th, compared with 4,487,941,785 during the corresponding eight months of last year, an increase of 81,234,486; and as has previously been pointed out, this increase is principally in the better grade of cigars.

THE COLOR QUESTION.

In all the discussion of the color craze question, no one has yet sought to locate the blame for the lack of knowledge on the part of the smoking public, or, rather, to locate the blame for the false education the public has received—for it is true that the public now demands "colors" because it has been led to believe that that is the proper thing for a connoisseur to do. The retail tobacconist is responsible for the growth of the idea that color is an indication of the strength of the cigar. Go into a cigar store, and unless you are a regular customer whose choice is known, you will nine times out of ten be asked, "Light or dark?" Naturally, by this question the buyer is continually led to believe that there is a world of difference between the "light" and the "dark," and he, of course, thinks the difference is in the strength. If the retailers would end the foolish habit, and instead of thus continually being false educators of the public, have neatly printed signs about the store, reading, "The color of a cigar is no indication of its strength," they might be able in time to lead the consumers out of the false path into which they have led them.—Minneapolis Cigar and Tobacco Journal.

MAKES BEST COFFEE.

It has been found after years of research that a smooth, rich, aromatic, full-bodied cup of coffee is best produced from the coffee bean that has been thoroughly aged before being thoroughly roasted. It gives coffee its natural—mind you, natural—flavor, that makes coffee drinking one of the world's pleasures.

Artificial processes of ageing does not produce the required result. Nature alone has the power to do the trick correctly.

Coffee that is grown at elevations of from 3000 to 6000 feet above sea level is cured only by ageing them in the same location as where grown—and then when aged they are fit for the roaster and only then. Damp coffee stews in the roaster and the best of the coffee is lost.

Wedding Breakfast Coffee is aged at an elevation of 3250 feet above sea level and produces the most natural flavor known in coffee.

HIRES' 1905 OFFER.

Inducements to Repay the Dealer for Special Interest.

Retail grocers will be interested in the Hires offer for 1905.

The Chas. E. Hires Co. has built up an enormous trade in every part of the civilized world by their extensive advertising. The campaign of 1905 will be no exception to the rule. There will be an immense quantity of beautiful advertising matter with which to call the attention of customers to the fact that the dealer carries rootbeer in stock. All the magazines and daily papers will tell of the excellence of Hires' Rootbeer, while the billboards will picture this staple summer drink.

Grocers ordering stock before June 15th can take advantage of the following offer:

With an order for one gross Hires' Rootbeer, the dealer receives, free, 4 doz. lead pencils. With an order for ½ gross, 2 doz., and with an order of ¼ gross he receives 1 doz. free. The lead pencils are rubber tipped and of fine quality. They are painted yellow and are the equal of any 5 cent pencil handled by the trade.

In addition to this offer the Hires Company prints the business card of the grocer on their novelty booklet and mails direct a list of names sent by the dealer. At the same time, they send the grocer a copy of their "Ruth and Naomi" picture, 21x16 inches, reproduced in fourteen colors. If no list is sent, the booklets are forwarded direct to the grocer for distribution over his counter.

The great popularity of Hires' Rootbeer has induced them to make another special offer of six beautiful Hires steins with each dozen of rootbeer. These steins are glazed white inside and delicate yellow outside, and are decorated in striking colors. They are highly ornamental and are very dainty. Steins of the same kind would dost the dealer 45 cents. They are shipped along with the rootbeer to the wholesale house and the wholesaler sends them to the retail grocer when filling his order.

Grocers who have soda fountains annexed to their stores can use the Concentrated Solution of Hires' Improved Rootbeer to very good advantage. This concentrated solution, which costs 75 cents per bottle, gives a profit of 1000 per cent when used at the soda fountain.

Spohn-Patrick Company, the local agents, are already booking orders for Hires' Rootbeer and are meeting with even greater success than in previous seasons.

PLEASES RETAIL DEALERS.

X-Ray Stove Polish is not only splendidly advertised, but it pleases the housewife who, in the past, has not been able to get a good powdered stove polish. In addition to this, it pays the dealer a handsome profit, since a box of 3 doz. 5-cent packages costs him only $1.50. With the 6 free packages, he is able to make 60 cents on that investment. A case containing 3 doz. 10-cent packages costs only $2.50. With the 6 free packages, the dealer is able to secure $4.20, or a profit of $1.70.

X-Ray Stove Polish has proven a repeater wherever it has been placed. It is an article that appeals quickly to the housewife, since there is no element of waste in it.

WHEN PEOPLE TALK.

Value of Goods That Serve to Call Attention to the Store.

There is one line of goods sold by grocers in which practically every customer that enters his store is interested. This article is coffee.

What is of more importance, it is an article in which the man of the house is interested and to which he pays particular attention.

Nearly everybody drinks coffee for breakfast. It is the mainstay of the first meal of the day and therefore receives, probably, more notice than any other article of food that is served. For this reason there is no more important item in the grocery store.

When the coffee is good, the fact is noted and commented upon. It is possible that no mention may be made of the grocer from whom it was obtained, but nevertheless the housewife feels pleased because her household is satisfied.

When the coffee is not good, the reverse is very decidedly true. The husband finds fault with the meal. The wife explains that it is the grocer's fault. She very probably buys her next supply of coffee from a peddler or from a downtown store and informs her neighbors why she has taken that step.

This kind of advertising does the grocer much harm.

The fact that grocers so often supply their trade with coffee of whose quality they cannot be sure accounts for the great number of people who buy coffee from others than retail dealers. This trade the retail grocer might have if he would suply his customers with coffee that left no room for fault-finding.

Many grocers, for the sake of a little extra profit, seek to supply their trade with bulk coffee. They have no means of insuring the uniformity of the quality of these goods. When their customers become dissatisfied, they usually say nothing to the grocer, although they may talk a good deal to their neighbors. But they buy their coffee somewhere else.

It is poor policy for the grocer to try experiments of this kind.

With the "Schilling's Best" coffee, supplied by A. Schilling & Co., the dealer is able to give to his customers an assurance of quality that is enough in itself to win their confidence, because they know that if the coffee is not wholly satisfactory it can be returned and they will be given their money back. The dealer himself can be assured that the coffee will always be the same, since the quality carries no less a guarantee than the responsibility of A. Schilling & Co. The fact that "Schilling's Best" goods cannot be cut, is also another assurance that the customer will be satisfied, since it means that they will not find some other dealer offering the same quality of coffee for less money, and they will therefore feel that their grocer is supplying them for as cheap a price as those goods can be sold.

VALUABLE FOOD AND PLEASANT DRINK.

Welch's Grape Juice has the two-fold merit to commend it. It is valuable as food and pleasant as a drink.

As the warm weather comes on the consumers' thoughts turn naturally to grape juice, not only for the novelty of the thing, but because so many delicious punches and dainty desserts may be prepared with it.

The Spohn-Patrick Company's traveling representatives are effectively promoting the sale of Welch's Grape Juice, and in all probability it will be a question of only a short time when a general demand for the article will have been created.

ALPINE CREAM CHANGES.

Andrew R. Patrick Assumes the Management of This California Product.

The trade will be interested in learning that Andrew R. Patrick, who was so long connected with the wholesale and commission house of Spohn-Patrick, has become largely interested in the Alpine Condensed Milk Co., whose plant is at Hollister, Cal. Mr. Patrick has assumed the management of the company and will direct the business, with headquarters at 123 California street. The manufacturing department will be under the direction of J. B. Meyenberg and his son, who have had many years' experience in the production of condensed creams.

An aggressive campaign for business will be instituted by Mr. Patrick, who will have ample means at his disposal to exploit the splendid quality of Alpine Cream. A large force of trained salesmen are being put into the field and their watchword will be "Quality." There has been a reconstruction in the price of Alpine Cream. The large 20-oz. tins will be sold for $3.60 in single case lots, 5 case lots will be sold at $3.55, and 10 case lots at $3.50.

A midget tin containing 8 ounces has also been placed on the market in cases of 8 doz. This will sell for $3.80 in single case lots, or 48½ cents per doz. In 10 case lots, it costs the retail grocer $3.80, or 47½ cents per dozen. This leaves a good margin of profit.

Gallon tins in cases of 6 will cost $3.35 in one case lots; $3.30 in 5 case lots and $3.25 in 10 case lots.

Fred F. Hobbs & Co. have been appointed sales agents for San Francisco and will deal with the San Francisco retailers and jobbers.

TRAVELING BY TEAM.

Joseph Fusch, manufacturer of the Eureka Insect Exterminator, left this week on a trip over the State.

Mr. Fusch will visit all points with his advertising wagon, looking after the trade and advertising his exterminator as he goes.

GROCERS AGAINST PREMIUMS.

The grocers of most of the large cities of the East are carrying on a very effective campaign against premium goods. A letter has been sent by the American Cereal Company to all the associations of the United States, notifying the trade that unless the retail grocers showed their appreciation of the action taken by the company in discarding premiums, that they would be forced to resume them again, since they could not afford to be put at a disadvantage to their competitors.

The matter was discussed at a meeting of the St. Louis grocers and the grocers present all expressed themselves bitterly opposed to premium schemes. As a test of the matter, all those grocers who were handling either "Scotch" or "Quaker" Oats were asked to stand. Every member stood. The vote was nanimous. Those grocers who were handling the "Mothers'" or "Friends'" Oats of the Western Cereal Company were asked to stand. Only ten did so. Several of these explained that the goods they were selling were from stocks which had been on hand for some time.

This matter was taken up by the New York Retail Grocers' Association. It was found that 80 per cent of the members had dropped oats with premiums.

It is only by giving aid to their friends in this way that retail grocers can make it pay the manufacturers to consider their demands.

AFTER CONDENSED CREAMS.

Health Officer Ragan has started a crusade against condensed creams that have been found below the standard of butter fat and other solids. A number of creams have been condemned. It is to be noted that neither Pet, Carnation, Lily or Alpine creams are in this list. The creams that the Board of Health declares to be below the standard are as follows:

"Every Day," sterilized cream, Alpine Cream Co.
"Bonanza," Sussman, Wormser & Co.

DENVER GROCERS WIN.

The retail grocers of Colorado are rejoicing over the fact that they have secured the passage of their anti-trading stamp bill through both houses of the Legislature, in spite of very fierce opposition on the part of the trading stamp companies. The grocers express every confidence that the bill will be signed by Governor McDonald.

ADVERTISING THROUGH DEALERS.

The Standard Flour Company is distributing among the housewives of San Francisco several thousand cards each one of which is good for a trial sack of "Summit Snow" flour. They sell these trial sacks to the retail grocer for 12½ cents. The grocer gives the sack to his customer, who presents the order from the Standard Flour Company. The company redeems the order for 15 cents, thus giving the retailer a 2½ cent profit on each sample sent out.

The trial sacks of "Summit Snow" flour are exact miniatures of the regular 50-lb. sack. They contain about four pounds of flour.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

All the world and its poor relations are putting on their glad rags to go to hear the grand opera at $10 per seat. To be sure, you can get the first two rows of the top gallery for $3 and pay $2 for the balance, but naturally all the retail grocers of San Francisco are to be seen in the $10 seats. Heinrich Conreid has brought a company of unexampled excellence to San Francisco. Their last performance is to be given on Saturday evening.

On Sunday afternoon the dramatic season opens with a production of "Ramona," a play based on Helen Hunt Jackson's celebrated novel.

THE ALCAZAR.

They have a very pretty performance at the Alcazar in "Tom Moore," a clever comedy in which the great Irish poet is the central figure. The play carries a very pretty love story and introduces Beau Brummel, Sheridan and many other notables of the time whose personality has won them lasting places in the history of polite England. Interspersed in the play are renditions of Moore's beautiful melodies. John Craig plays the part of the poet hero with a feeling that makes it interesting. Lillian Lawrence makes the heroine a very real and lovable girl and the audience is pleased at the happy ending of the show. Next week the company will produce "The Man From Mexico," Willie Collier's interesting farce comedy.

MAJESTIC.

There is plenty of military atmosphere at the Majestic this week, where the Pitou romance of the Civil War, "Across the Potomac," is being presented. The action begins in the little town of Northampton, Mass., and then is carried to sent of the war in the South, the last act showing General Lee's surrender. Landers Stevens plays the leading role of Captain Ralph Baker. The company also includes Harry Mestayer, Mina Gleson, Irene Outrim, Oza Waldrop and a score of other well known favorites. During the coming month there will be numerous interesting attractions. Among them is Barney Bernard, who will appear in a new play, "The Financier." Frank Bacon will also be starred in Ezra Kendall's success, "The Vinegar Buyer."

THE CENTRAL.

There is a splendid lesson in patriotism taught in the play at the Central this week, where "Paul Revere" is being presented. This play deals with the feeling that actuated the colonists of America when they first decided to take their stand for freedom. The stage setting and the costuming has been carefully planned and is faithful to the time. The play itself is full of real interest and the company is well cast. Next week there will be a whirlwind of fun when "The Corner Grocery" will be given.

THE TIVOLI.

With an augmented company the Tivoli is presenting "Florodora." The performance goes with a snap and vim that adds materially to its interest. The principals are well cast and the pretty sextet is very effectively rendered. The chorus does particularly good work.

CHUTES.

There are two baby tigers at the Chutes now, which are dividing honors between the startling ride on the circle swing and Bigney's high dive. In the theatre they have a very interesting show.

FISCHER'S.

Ten clever acts compose the show at Fischer's. The acts are all of different character and are very good of their kind. There are two performances every evening and one each afternoon.

BUTLER STILL GROWING.

JamesButler opened 11 new stores in 11 days; total operated, 148. Last week these stores sold 9000 cases 3,240,000 eggs in three days. It required 26 big freight cars to bring them to town, and 90 of Butler's biggest wagon loads to distribute them to his stores. The price was 25 cents for 18 "strictly fresh eggs."

PURE AND WHOLESOME.

Carnation Cream has repeatedly been analyzed and always found pure and wholesome.

The process by which it is prepared does not alter the original ingredients, wherefore all the constituent elements remain as when the milk came from cows.

This is not the case with the evaporated creams, which are preserved with alcohol or some form of sugar.

DON'T HESITATE.

When you think a thing may be good don't hesitate to investigate it. If you see it is good, don't hesitate to get it. All really good things pay for themselves. This is true of the Perfection Short Credit System, which would not be dispensed with by thousands of dealers. The agent is P. E. Lenfestry, 220 California street, San Francisco.

Attracting Trade

How Montana House Builds Trade.

Lutely Bros. of Butte, Mont., who are known over most of Montana as having one of the leading retail grocery houses of the State, do an all-cash business, says the Commercia Bulletin of Minneapolis.

This firm makes persistent and intelligent advertising the foundation of its success from a selling standpoint. It always makes good with the customer.

Goods Well Displayed.

Goods advertised on certain days are displayed on counters and tables and sometimes stacked on the floor. All are plainly ticketed with price figures, and when a special sale is made the price figures are put in red.

The front of this splendid store has three big windows. The window displays are changed every week and sometimes semi-weekly. Whenever the firm plans on advertising certain goods during the week, displays of these goods are made in the windows, plainly marked with card signs and price cards.

A permanent feature of the Lutey store policy is a demonstration of tea and coffee every Saturday. Along with this is the steady pushing of the tea and coffee department in the advertising, the store and window displays and in talking with customers. The clerks in the store and the delivery men on the wagons are always talking tea and coffee.

The Advertising.

There are three daily papers in Butte, and Lutey Bros. patronize all of them, using about the same space in each, 10-inch single column. In this space seasonable goods are discussed from day to day and special sales quoted. It is noticed that such staples as sugar, flour, etc., are rarely spoken of in the Lutey ads. Tea and coffees are given frequent mention and good space. Fish, farinaceous goods, canned vegetables, fruits, syrups, cheese, jams, etc., are more to the Lutey idea of attractive advertising. The meat department is given some mention in almost every advertisement.

The Green Goods.

Naturally one of the most important features of the Lutey store is the department of fruits and vegetables.

A fruit or vegetable window in Lutey Bros.' store always attracts many people.

Down the center of the store are the candy, bakery and delicatessen departments. These do a big business. Lutey Bros. are not one whit behind any of the grocers in any of the large Eastern cities. They are developming their department of ready-cooked foods very rapidly.

Issue a Catalogue.

One interesting feature of the Lutey Bros.' advertising is the catalog which they send out-of-town trade. This is well printed, well illustrated, and, taken all around, a very neat book. It does not quote prices on the whole line. Evidently its purpose is to furnish the people who live in towns where they can not get such goods a buying guide on higher grade groceries. It is printed on good paper, gives prices on those lines and contains many good receipes.

Good Recipes.

The following "eight good rules in cooking evaporated fruit" are clipped from this catalog:

1. Separate the fruit thoroughly by washing several times in luke-warm water.

2. Pour the water off; put the rinsed fruit into an enameled saucepan; cover well with cold water and let stand for at least twelve hours, keeping the saucepan covered all the time.

3. After the fruit has been thoroughly soaked and regained its natural size, pour off this water saturated with fruit juice into another saucepan, add sugar according to taste (apricots and nectarines will require a considerable quantity of sugar, peaches less, and pears none at all), and boil from 15 to 20 minutes until you get a rich fruit syrup. Pour this boiling hot syrup over the soaked fruit. Put saucepan on back of the stove and let fruit simmer very thoroughly for 15 to 30 minutes, according to the quantity of the fruit.

4. Now take your fruit from the stove, keeping the lid on the saucepan, and let it cool off gradually.

5. If cooked properly, the fruit when served must be clear, the syrup should be rich and clear and each piece of fruit should look as if fresh fruit had been stewed.

6. The flavor of all the varieties of fruit is improved by adding some lemon or orange peel, but especially so with pears.

7. Fruit cooked in this way can be used for all sorts of purposes, just the same as fresh fruit—for pies, cakes, puddings, or simply as stewed fruit.

Never put the fruit on the stove without thoroughly soaking it before hand. Never boil it on a quick fire. Fruit must be soaked and must have time to gain the water it lost in the evaporating process and must soak in cold water.

Their Policy.

Lutey Bros.' policy, which has been so successfully worked out in their business, is told in the following:

"Absolute integrity, satisfaction, accommodation—with purpose of winning and holding the confidence of every individual who enters its doors. Under no possible circumstances will this house sanction any word or deed of any employee designed to mislead a purchaser. Whenever mistakes happen—as happen they must—the house will consider it a privilege to correct them with promptitude and courtesy."

GOOD MEN EMBARRASSED.

General regret is felt by the retail grocery trade throughout the State at the financial embarrassment of two of the most prominent retail grocers' association workers of the Coast. The failure of E. C. Damon, president of the State Grocers' Association, and G. A. Pidduck, president of the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association, both of Seattle, has occurred within the past few weeks. "The Trade" hopes that these estimable business men will be enabled to extricate themselves from the financial difficulties in which they at present find themselves involved, and continue to accord the appreciated services which they have rendered to these great business organizations.—The Trade.

IN A CLASS BY ITSELF.

The leading seller in the line of Chili sauce is Snider's. This article is made from choice ripe tomatoes, according to a recipe long held by the Snider people, and which their competitors have vainly sought to discover.

The consequence is that Snider's Chili sauce stands in a class by itself—unsurpassed.

The agents, the Spohn-Patrick Company, reports heavy sales throughout their territory. In fact, the sale is heavy everywhere it is sold at all.

A GOOD COMBINATION.

When profit and quality both are found in one article it should not take the grocer long to decide about buying. "Sunset" Mackerel are as fine as can be and the profit very tempting. See advertisement and price list. Put them in stock once and you will always carry them.

Points to Watch

ALMONDS—
Good stock is scarce and prices are advancing.

GUM CAMPHOR—
Higher prices are foretold owing to scarcity in crude stocks.

CANARY SEED—
The new crop will arrive on a bare market and will bring higher prices.

HAMS, BACON AND LARD.
The market is very firm and packers predict further advances in the near future.

MOLASSES—
The market is steady. There is no possibility of a decline and it is safe to buy at present prices.

DRIED FRUITS—
The supply of apples, peaches and apricots is so small that they are going to continue high for the next 60 days at least.

SARDINES—
One Eastern concern controls 90 per cent of the spot stocks in American sardines. It is stated that they will advance prices shortly.

CANNED SALMON—
The fact that stocks are low in jobbers hands and the combination of prices made by the Northwestern Fisheries Company and the Alaska Packers Association indicates that present prices are low and that spot salmon at present figures is a good buy.

IT MOVES RAPIDLY.

The trade has taken hold of X-Ray Stove Polish with a phenomenal alacrity. The several large shipments that have already been received were practically sold on arrival. Although another carload arrived only a short time ago, the only stocks now available are those in jobbers' hands. R. A. Holcombe & Co., Pacific Coast agents, are now in receipt of some very attractive 8-sheet posters. These will be at once put up in central locations about San Francisco and the cities across the bay. A house to house canvass and distribution of samples throughout Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley is now being undertaken.

The grocers who have already stocked X-Ray Stove Polish speak in highest terms of it and many of them have given repeat orders.

FAILURE THROUGH FOLLY

Conditions That Force Loss and Misfortune on Retail Grocers.

During the past twenty-five years there has been twenty-six grocery failures on Market street. These firms have been cash grocers and their failure has resulted through selling goods at too close a margin and spending more money in advertising than the margin of profit warranted.

The last failure was that of H. Coleman of 134 Sixth street, who came into direct competition with the Market street stores and followed their methods. Besides selling at too low a figure, Mr. Coleman was further handicapped by giving trading stamps.

The Flour Folly.

One of the foolish practices that have been forced on the retail grocer has been that of selling flour at a price that gives no profit and often means a loss.

This folly has been forced on the trade by the mills themselves who have not attempted to force the few Market street cutters to maintain a fair price on their standard brands of flour.

If to-morrow the mills should say to the Emporium and Pragers that they must maintain a price of $1.35 on the standard brands of flour and that any store selling for less than $1.35 would not be able to get any more flour, those firms would be glad of the chance to maintain those prices. They would advertise cheaper flour, of course, but the careful housewife does not risk the entire baking of bread or cake for the sake of saving a few cents on a sack of flour.

If the Market street cutters were selling the standard brands of flour at $1.35, the rest of the grocers throughout the city would have no difficulty in getting the same price. The different mills insist that they would fix and maintain such a price on flour if the retail grocers wanted it.

Mr. Grocer, it is up to you.

Every grocer in San Francisco should tell the salesmen of the mills that he wants a profit on flour and that he wants the mills to maintain the price so that he can be sure that no one will be selling flour for less than $1.35 per sack when it costs $1.20.

Every retail grocer should have some of the flour of the Globe Mills in stock for two reasons.

The first reason is, that he gets a profit on every sack of Globe Mills flour that he sells and the quality is such that it will satisfy his trade.

The second reason is, that by putting the flour of the Globe Mills in stock, he is presenting to the other mills the best evidence possible not only that he wants them to maintain a price on flour, but also that the grocery trade of San Francisco have sufficient ability as salesmen to introduce to their trade any article of superior quality that gives them a profit.

Cutters Want Profits.

The cutters are anxious for a profit on flour and are willing to maintain the price of a flour when they know that no one else can cut that price. This is shown by the way the Emporium and Smith's Cash Store of this city and Sallinger Bros. of Oakland are advertising and selling the "A-1" flour of the Globe Mills at $1.40 per sack.

"It is not an easy thing," said a lead-

AN IMPORTANT MEETING

San Francisco Grocers Consider Many Trade Matters.

MAKE PICNIC PREPARATIONS.

Strong Pleas Made for Better Protection on Prices.

Much enthusiasm for the picnic which is to be held on Wednesday, May 10th, was expressed by the retail grocers at their meeting on Wednesday evening.

The list of firms who had not yet bought tickets or contributed prizes was read and different members agreed to see them.

Vice-President Connolly, who has charge of the dancing platform and the candy distribution for the children, reported that Dodge, Sweeney & Co. had agreed to give the Association five hundred packages of Crackerjack to be distributed among the little ones in place of the bags of candy usually given them.

Director Doyle reported that J. A. Folger & Co. had donated a gold watch and several other handsome prizes for the ladies' guessing contest.

About Trading Stamps.

Under the head of new business, Mr. Doyle advised that cards be sent to members to be hung up in their stores warning the public that giving trading stamps was against the law.

Mr. McGuire thought this was a desirable move and would help turn public sentiment the right way.

Vice-President Connolly, who, as State Secretary, represents the State Association on the trading stamp committee, advised that if, after May 7, a member's competitor gave stamps, he should notify the secretary and the offender would be arrested. He called attention to the fact that two firms that have refused to give up trading stamps before had now "gone where the woodbine twineth."

Butter Wrappers.

A general discussion elicited the fact that the law requiring butter wrappers to bear the mark of the weight of the butter they contained did not go into effect on May 1st, but about May 10th.

Mr. Doyle advised that grocers should urge the butter houses to put up only 1-pound and 2-pound packages. This would save confusion.

Flour Profits.

H. Rowe advised that since the millers now had an organization, it would be a good plan to have the grievance committee confer with them to see what could be done to stop the cutting on flour.

C. Suss thought that the Grocers' Association should use its strength to maintain prices but that it needed more members.

President Salomon said that the fact that his neighbors cut did not force him to sacrifice the profits on his goods.

J. M. Sullivan said the grocers were themselves to blame for the cutting and not the manufacturer. He hoped to see the day when none of the leading proprietary staples would be sold to a dealer unless he first signed an agreement not to cut prices.

Vice-President Connolly said he was glad to see such a unanimity among the grocers as to the necessity of maintaining prices. He felt that this should be the paramount issue in their association. He hoped they would foi-

A Journalistic Acrobat.

Editor Menzies Turns Somersaults on the Trading Stamp Question.

It requires a page of space for Mr. Menzies to unburden himself fully of certain misinformation concerning the campaign against trading stamps.

With a grain of truth here and there as a framework he tells an elaborate story of "How the trading stamp fight was won" without a mention of the California State Grocers' Association, without whose machinery nothing could have been accomplished.

Incidentally Mr. Menzies registers a protest accompanied by his usual vocabulary of abuse, because this paper mentioned the fact that he was at one time a supporter of trading stamps.

As usual, his statements are as false as are his statements in regard to the alleged shortcomings of the State Grocers' Association. In order that the retail grocers may judge for themselves, we have gone over a file of his paper and reproduce a few of his arguments about trading stamps.

It will be noted that they present the side of the trading stamps, as the trading stamp companies would have been willing to pay for had the medium been worth purchasing, and that the undesirable features of trading stamps were carefully made to seem unimportant.

It will also be observed that the position of Mr. Menzies as the champion of trading stamps was taken by him merely because the State Grocers' Association and the San Francisco Retail Grocers' Association were in opposition to them.

In his issue of Sept. 25, 1903, Mr. Menzies puts himself on record as the friend of stamps by saying:

"The intelligent grocer * * * should recognize that trading stamps are but one form of competition which, if abolished, will certainly be succeeded by some other that will be Tantamount to it."

This was one of the arguments advanced by the lawyers of the trading stamp companies before the Legislative committees recently and proved false by the representatives of the State Grocers' Association.

To show how eager he was NOT to help in the movement to secure the abolishment of trading stamps he said:

"The intelligent grocer should realize that people who endeavor to interest him in such a movement as that for the general abolition of trading stamps are either ignorant * * * or have some personal object to serve."

Two months later, in order to show how friendly he was to the men who were engineering the fight against trading stamps, he speaks of them in his issue of Nov. 27, 1903, as:

"A clique of blackmailing grafters in the grocery trade of this city, whose business is comparatively insignificant."

Then he follows with a series of arguments favoring trading stamps and justifying their use. Among other things he says:

"We have frequently explained that even if the movement to generally discontinue the stamps were a success no benefit whatever could result to the grocers."

He says further:

 * * "Stamps * * * appear to us to be about as good a contrivance as there could be to enable an incapable class of grocers to continue in business."

In his issue of April 29, 1904, he said:

"How silly is all this agitation against trading stamps, except from the point of view of providing the associations something to holler about!"

In regard to the complaint that the grocer who gives stamps is really helping the trading stamp companies fleece their customers, Mr. Menzies said:

"It is alleged * * * that the customer does not get value for what the grocer gives; but this is no business of the latter."

Then he adds in regard to the movement to have trading stamps abandoned:

"The whole business appear to us to be indescribably silly."

That he is quite confident that there is good reason to give trading stamps he makes clear by making a statement that grocers "generally" were willing to give stamps, a statement that every retail grocer knows to be false and which Mr. Menzies would know was false if he were running a grocery, and not a tobacco paper. He says:

"The fact that dealers generally are willing to give stamps shows that the average rate of profit is higher than conditions justify."

In his issue of June 3, 1904, Mr. Menzies devotes over a quarter of a page to an article in which he presents all the specious arguments used by the trading stamp companies in their endeavor to prove that their scheme had value as a legitimate proposition. He states in the beginning:

"The advantage that trading stamps present to the average dealer is that they enable him to give premiums to his customers without the expense of carrying them in stock or providing his own coupon system."

To prove that other premium schemes are not as good as stamps he insists that the latter enable the consumer "To procure a more valuable premium than purchases from any single dealer could be made to yield in the same length of time."

To make it appear that trading stamps are really an advantage to the customer, he insists that they offer:

"The means of accumulating little savings and eventually procuring something that would not otherwise be had at all."

This careful booster of the lying arguments of the trading stamp companies uses the same arguments as would a shyster lawyer hired by a bunco-steerer to try to make it appear that the "sucker" who bought the gold brick was to blame for being buncoed, and that the bunco-steerer should not be sent to jail because his victim could have had the thing assayed before buying it if he wanted to.

In the same issue he shows how unfriendly he is to the trading stamp graft by the following gratis advertisement:

"Cigar dealers in the Northwest are being recommended to use trading stamps as a defense against the United Cigar Dealers' Company and its premium system."

PORTO RICO'S TROUBLES.

How Annexation to the United States Has Interferred With the Prosperity of the Coffee Planters.

Frederico Degetau, representative commissioner from Porto Rico at Washington, in an interview with Frank G. Carpenter recently complained that the coffee industry of Porto Rico had been seriously handicapped by annexation to the United States. This is a serious matter for Porto Rico, since coffee has always been their chief industry, and they had no difficulty in marketing their entire crops in the eastern countries where the splendid quality of Porto Rico goods had long been recognized. In this regard Mr. Degetau said:

"Before the war, our principal markets were Spain and Cuba. In those countries, our coffee was considered the best as it is in France and other parts of Europe to-day. Spain took the bulk of the crop at high prices and Cuba bought largely.

"After the war, Spain put such a tariff on Porto Rican coffee that we lost that market, and the Cuban tariff kept us out of that country.

"At the same time, a corresponding increase did not come from the United States.

"The most of your coffee comes from Brazil, and the Brazilian coffee does not compare in quality with that of Porto Rico. It is a cheap coffee, while ours is comparatively dear.

Ranks With Best Javas.

"I feel sure that the Americans will gradually learn the excellence of our Porto Rican product and that it will have the position that the best of the Java coffee has now.

"I think it will eventually bring the highest prices of any coffee in the American markets. When that time comes our coffee area will be increased and we will be one of the richest states of the American Union.

"We annually raise about 40,000,000 pounds of coffee. We have 166,000 acres under cultivation and there are large areas which might be planted. The coffee lands are back from the sea on the slopes of the mountains. They are to be found in nearly all parts of the island, although some districts produce finer coffee than others.

"As for me, I drink only Porto Rican coffee, except where the social demands are such that I have to do otherwise.

"Our coffee has a flavor which is beyond compare."

Pacific Coast Distributors.

The Porto Rico Company has been introducing Porto Rican coffees to the trade of the Pacific Coast for some time back. Their offices are at 589-591 Howard street, where they have an entire five-story building. They are now carrying on a very aggressive campaign to assist in the general use of their Ponce de Leon brand, which is the very choicest of Porto Rican coffee.

We would call attention to their advertisement on page 2 of the cover, where they propose to give six solid gold Waltham watches, valued at $60 each, to the grocers who handle the most of their Ponce de Leon coffee between April 15th and August 15th.

ADVANTAGES OF PACKAGE COFFEE.

The coffee roasters are doing much for the grocers of California and sister States by putting up their coffees in tin packages, enabling the grocer to build up, and what's more, to keep his coffee trade, instead of having it taken from him by peddlers and scheme stores.

The roasters are putting up exceptional values in one and two-pound packages (tin)—the only practical way to put up roasted coffee. It enables the customer to have her particular brand of roasted coffee fresh every-time a pound in wanted, for as a rule the roaster will not change the blend from one year's end to the other.

From a grocer's standpoint it saves the loss of beans on the floor—the down weight while weighing—the cost of a paper bag—all of which occurs in dealing in bulk coffee. Every time there is a can of coffee sold the grocer knows just how much he has made. He is the judge as to his profits. One of the most popular and at the same time best seller and profit giver is Wedding Breakfast Coffee. It's a thoroughly aged coffee roasted in the clouds and produces a truly natural coffee flavor rarely obtained.

OAKLAND GETS RESULTS.

The value of having the members report promptly when wholesalers sell to consumers was shown at the meeting of the Alameda County Grocers' Association on Monday evening. J. E. Frazier of Fruitvale complained that one of the wholesale cracker companies was selling to one of his customers. The secretary at once wrote to this firm. The cracker company replied, thanking the secretary for informing them of the fact that the party was not in business and explaining that the party had sent them an order for the goods telling them he had handled them in the south. Their impression was that the party was a merchant. The letter concluded:

"We are always glad to protect the retail grocers in every way we can. Thanking you for calling our attention to the matter, we are

"Yours truly,

"Bishop & Co."

Secretary Reed reported that a representative of the Hammond Milling Company had recently requested that Queen Anne flour be listed at $1.40 per sack, the price to the dealer being $4.60 per barrel. The secretary stated that the Hammond Milling Company informed him that they had been very successful in Bakersfield, where they had listed their flour at $1.45 and that the firm was instrumental in establishing a card on flour in that city.

The members expressed great pleasure at this indication of the fact that the mills realized that it was to their interest to take advantage of the assistance of the retail trade in establishing a price on flour that left a fair margin to the dealer.

The matter was left open until a decision was reached by the State Grocers' Association.

The picnic committee asked for further time in regard to the time and place for the picnic. They stated that they expected to have arrangements completed within a few days.

MR. BOND IN SAN FRANCISCO.

Mr. C. L. Bond, inventor of the Bond Automatic Weigher, has just returned to Los Angeles after a week's visit with P. E. Lenfestey, who maintains the Bond Scale Company's office in this city.

Mr. Bond has been very busy setting up a couple of special machines, one for the Western Sugar Refinery, and one for M. J. Brandenstein Company, the latter being used for putting up rice in small sacks.

Business locally as well as in the Southern part of the State is highly satisfactory, as dealers are realizing the saving to be effected through using the Bond Automatic Weigher.

Such names as Newberry, Jevne, Ralphs and Cohn of Los Angeles, and Goldberg, Bowen & Co., Levy Bros., Faber and the Sunset Grocery Company locally are a credit to any manufacturer's ledger, and these, as well as many other well known firms, are already in the Bond Scale Company's books.

JUST ONE WAY.

There is only one way by which a man stops using the Perfection Short Credit System and that is by retiring from business. If a dealer once begins this system of keeping accounts, he will never give it up as long as he remains in business.

If you want to learn why, write to the Pacific Coast agent, P. E. Lenfestey, 220 California Street, San Francisco.

A NEW BOILER.

The American Milling Co. has applied for a permit for a 900-horse power boiler at Battery and Union streets for flour milling purposes. The company will also erect an oil tank of 14,000 gallons capacity.

AN IMPORTANT MEETING.

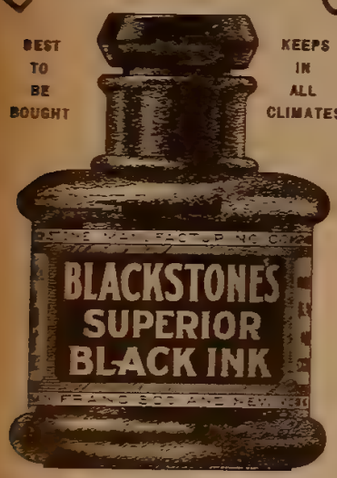
low up the plan of having the manufacturer demand that the retail dealer maintain prices, since the manufacturer is the only one who has the legal right to do this.

"I think we should help the men who help us," he said. "We all want a profit. But if I sell a sack of Sperry's flour to a woman and charge her $1.30, and she sees that the Emporium advertises it at $1.20, she loses confidence in me and my goods, and thinks I am a robber. I have put in the goods of the Globe Mills because they save me from that and my customers do not object to paying me my price for the Globe flour because no one else sells it for any less."

John McGuire advised that the grocer should substitute some article that paid better for goods that could not be sold with a profit.

George B. Doyle called attention to the fact that the "one case free with five" resulted in many men over-stocking and having to cut. He thought the grocers should protest against it.

President Salomon, from the chair, expressed the opinion that the mills would be unwise to require retail grocers to charge an advance of 15 cents per sack on their leading standard brands. He thought that, by so doing, they would invite the competition of Oregon and Washington flours.



The secretary reported quite a number of new members.

Mr. Suss reported several grievances adjusted.

THE PREMIUM CONFERENCE.

An important conference was held on April 12 between the officers of the National Association and the representatives of some of the cereal companies of the country. The position of the grocers was presented by National President Green, who stated the undesirability of premiums as follows:

1. If premiums are given with cereals and soap and tobacco, they will be demanded for flour and sugar. It is developing unhealthy expectations on the part of the consumer.

2. Half the grocers sell crockery. Manufacturers compete with them.

3. Competition among manufacturers leads them to extremes. One soap company is now offering sugar, tea and coffee as premiums.

4. Anything which injures our honorable and good business, injures the entire business. Premiums hurt manufacturers and will hurt them more. We want our people to prosper—retailers, jobbers and manufacturers.

The representatives of the cereal companies were called upon to express their sentiments in regard to the matter.

Manufacturers Speak.

Major Butler, manager Natural Food Co., manufacturers of Shredded Wheat Biscuit, said that his company had never given premiums and did not believe in them, and thought if all manufacturers would discontinue, all would be glad in a short time.

Mr. Cassidy, representing Egg-O-See Company, stated that his company would never put in coupons or premiums, as they believed goods should be sold on their merit, that it was useless to try to get something for nothing.

Mr. Milen, of the Cream of Oats company, said that they stood ready to discontinue the giving of premiums when others would.

Mr. Gilfillan spoke for the Genesse Pure Food Co., stating that his company never did and never intended to give premiums.

Mr. Gregson, representing the Great Western Cereal Company, stated that his company was ready to discuss with either the retailers, wholesalers or manufacturers, and would meet them on a common level.

Mr. Coldren of the American Cereal company, said his company, he felt, had taken the initiative and felt they could go no further alone, but were ready to work with all other manufacturers of cereal companies to abolish all premiums.

Mr. Roleau, manager Malta Vita P. F. Co., said his company has discontinued all premiums of every nature and would sell their goods on their merit only.

Letters agreeing to abandon premiums entirely were received from the following firms:

Hygienic Food Co., manufacturers Maple Flake; Boone Cereal Co., Pillsbury-Washburn Co., Atchison Oat Meal and Cereal Co., and Stobie Cereal Mills.

After a lengthy discussion, the cereal companies asked for time in order that the matter might be taken up thoroughly with all concerned. The manufacturers present signed an agreement to give definite answer by June 1 at the latest in regard to what could be done in the matter of the discontinuance of giving premiums, coupons, tag schemes and free deals of every kind and nature.

SOLD WITH A GUARANTEE.

There are few articles handled by the retail grocer that are so universally liked, and which fill the bill so perfectly as does Carnation Cream.

It must be very gratifying to the manufacturer to hear the many encomiums that are passed on this article daily.

It must likewise be very pleasing to the grocer, as he is the last man to handle the cream before it goes into consumption. It may truthfully be said there is never a complaint.

Besides the goods are guaranteed by the manufacturer to the grocer, who in turn is asked to guarantee them to the customer.

SELLING DELICACIES.

Julius Bunzl, who was so long connected with the I. X. L. Packing Co., is now associated with the Colonial Packing Co., whose offices and warehouse is at 1123-1125 Howard street. This firm is sole agent for Coburn's California Olive Oil and sells large quantities of pickles, mustard, sauerkraut, olives, salad oils and table condiments.

AN IMPORTANT OMISSION.

In printing the list of the chairmen of the picnic committees last week, the name of John P. McGuire, chairman of the Games committee, was omitted. Mr. McGuire served in this same position last year and gave the association the best conducted games they had ever had.

GROCER COMMITS SUICIDE.

Nicholas Blanken, a pioneer grocer at Broadway and Kearny streets, shot himself on April 12. He was 75 years old and had been ill for several months.

PLEASE THE PALATE.

Important Factor Essential in Holding Desirable Coffee Trade.

Few people like the flavor of only one particular kind of coffee. Some would find the coffee too weak. Others would find the coffee too strong.

Long experience has taught the large handlers of coffee that the palates of the great mass of consumers has been cultivated to like a blended coffee in which different kinds of beans are used in certain proportions to secure a certain desired aroma and body. To make such a blend requires much scientific knowledge secured by long study. It is something more than a science, though. It is an art.

When the dealer can offer the customer a blend that pleases that customer he has secured his trade. The customer will come back again and again for that particular kind of coffee.

If the blend is made by the retail grocer himself, he has absolutely no means of securing uniformity of quality, and thus has no assurance that he can continue to please his trade, since it is only by such uniformity that the customer can be retained.

No two shipments of coffee are alike. Because of this fact, the uniformity of a blend can only be secured through constant tasting and testing by an expert whose ability to secure results has been acquired by many years of careful training.

It is therefore essential for the retail dealer who wants to keep his coffee trade to be able to offer his trade the blend of some reputable house whose reputation guarantees the quality of the goods they sell and whose business is of such proportion that they can afford to undertake the expense to secure the special services of experts which alone insures that the blend will be absolutely the same year after year.

This is one great advantage secured by those dealers who handle "Schilling's Best" Coffee. The reputation of A. Schilling & Co. is at stake in every pound of the coffee they sell. If the quality of the blend should vary, the grocers would have complaints and A. Schilling & Co. would lose trade which it has cost them much money and time to secure.

Another great advantage in handling Schilling's Best is that the retail dealer is allowed to "money back" the goods. When the customer is assured that they can return the goods and have their money refunded without a question should they prove unsatisfactory, the kindliest interest of that customer has been secured not only for the goods themselves, but for the dealer. Another advantage of handling "Schilling's Best" Coffees is the fact that their high quality is generally recognized by the consumer. For this reason the consumer who is accustomed to buying "Schilling's Best" coffees and teas from the dealer, does not feel that it is necessary to buy from a peddler in order to secure the quality they want. Besides, if they are accustomed to receiving a really fine quality, they will be less likely to be pleased with the coffee supplied them by peddlers who very seldom give as good a quality for the money as the dealer can who offers to his trade "Schilling's Best."

Milwaukee—The members of the Retail Grocers' Association have decided to quit giving candy and other small gifts to children.

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

Georgia—The Supreme Court has held that the ordinance which charges merchants a license fee of $100 for giving trading stamps is illegal on the ground that giving trading stamps by merchants cannot be said to be a distinct and separate business. The court ruled that a license could be imposed upon trading stamp companies.

Springfield, Mass.—The grocers are urging the passage of a law which gives the local authorities of each city and town the right to regulate peddlers and require that peddlers of all kinds shall be licensed.

New Hampshire—A strenuous effort is being made to secure the passage of an anti-trading stamp bill similar to that which has proven effective in Massachusetts. An attempt is being made to hold up the bill in the Senate.

New Orleans—The Retail Grocers' Association has demanded that the municipal authorities enforce the law enacted by the last Legislature compelling trading stamp companies in Louisiana to pay an annual license of $5000 where gross sales aggregate $150,000.

Salt Lake City, Utah—The Retail Grocers' Association has decided to refuse to handle the goods turned out by manufacturers who offer premiums for so many wrappers, parts of packages, etc. This action will go into effect May 1st.

Washington, D. C.—A bill has been introduced in Congress at the instance of the Retail Grocers' Association that will make the Government employes pay their grocery bills or stand suspended. The proposed law provides that if any civil service employe of the United States, in any department, of either sex, shall, after three demands in writing, refuse to pay an indebtedness for house rent, fuel, groceries, house necessaries, physicians' services, or services of a dentist, or undertaker (consistent with such employe's social position in life) such refusal shall be cause for the immediate suspension from the service, provided, that the debt has been contracted after the employe's admission to the service. If satisfactory settlement is not made with the creditor within three months of suspension the employe shall be stricken from the rolls as "incompetent and unworthy."

Burlington, Iowa—Local grocers have decided to attempt to secure the discontinuance of premium and coupon schemes by different cereal companies.

Little Rock, Ark.—A number of leading merchants, who are members of the State Grocers' Association, have formed a mutual fire insurance company. The company will confine itself to Arkansas and Indian Territory.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—The Food Show Committee have turned in $1500 as part of the proceeds of the Food Show. They promise to turn in a full report and more money at the next meeting. The committee expressed confidence that they would have cleared more money had it not rained six days during the time of the show.

Ohio.—L. J. Oehler, president of the Cincinnati Grocers' Association, says: "We have already written $200,000 of fire insurance policies in Ohio for the Ohio Retail Grocers' Fire Insurance Company. I secured policies for more than $25,000 in one day. We will get our State charter as soon as we secure $500,000 of business required by the law.

Atlanta, Ga.—The Retail Grocers' Association of this city has petitioned the City Council to appoint an inspector of weights and measures. They have taken a firm stand against the giving of premiums with any goods, for the reason that the customers have to pay for these premiums. A bitter fight will be waged on manufacturers who give premiums. The association also decided to try to secure the passage of a law imposing a tax of $500 upon Trading Stamp companies.

Dallas, Tex.—The retail grocers are trying to secure an amendment to the pure food law, by which a retail dealer who can present a guarantee of purity will have protection. This law is similar to the measure secured two years ago by the California State Grocers' Association.

Illinois—A bill has been introduced in the legislature requiring foot peddlers to pay a $75 license, those with one horse wagons to pay $100 and two-horse wagons to pay $150, good for a year.

Illinois—The State Grocers' Association has had a bill introduced to allow the garnishment of public officials.

Columbus, O.—Every retail grocer of the city has been mailed circular announcing that the Retail Grocers' Association is prepared to collect their bad bills for its members. It calls attention to the Retail Grocers' Fire Insurance Co., by which the grocers can save from 20 to 40 per cent. of the cost of their fire insurance. The Arbuckle Co. refuse to sell cut-rate tea and coffee stores in Columbus

COAST CROP CONDITIONS.

The weekly report of the U. S. Weather Bureau Says:

"The last rain was generally beneficial. Hay making is in progress in several places and yield is good. There was some loss by the heavy winter rains and the severe frosts at the close of March but most varieties of deciduous fruits will yield large crops. Apricots and pears are reported light in many places and peaches somewhat injured by the blight in the San Joaquin Valley."

Hanford—Silas M. Hughes says: "There will be only a one-fourth of the average crop in Kings conuty this year. D. D. Hoag, manager of the Inderriegen Packing Company says "There will be a larger crop of peaches in Tulare and Kings counties than ever before. Many new orchards come into bearing this year which will offset the damage sustained by some of the older trees."

Los Angeles—The Walnut Growers' Association of Southern California awarded a contract to a San Francisco dealer for 100,000 jute bags. This means that this year's walnut crop in Southern California is estimated at 600 cars.

Redding—Pears are the only fruit in Shasta county that have been damaged by the weather. There will be a fair crop of prunes. Plums and apricots will be the best crops in years. Peaches promise to be better than average. There will be an immense crop of almonds.

Sacramento—A. R. Sprague, president of the California Fruit Exchange says: "The prospects for a large fruit crop have been declining for the past two weeks, especially along the Sacramento River. There will be only about a third as large a crop of pears as there was last year. The prospects for plums is fairly good. There will be an excellent crop of apricots at Vacaville.

Healdsburg—J. B. Morgan of the California Fruit Canners' Association states that there will be a shortness in peaches.

Suisun—The prospects for the fruit crop in this section this year may be stated as follows: Apricots fairly good; pears, good; peaches, light; almonds, fairly good; prunes and plums, good.

Portland, Or.—It was reported at the last meeting of the State Board of Horticulture that the acreage devoted to apple orchards in Southern Oregon had been greatly increased and that the crop would be the largest in the history of the State. Large crops of prunes are anticipated. Peaches were the only fruit materially injured by the cold weather.

SUGAR.

The market is firm.

MOLASSES.

Boston—The "New England Grocer" says: "The new Ponce molasses has opened at least 4 cents under last year's prices. It is a question how long the price can be kept down to this low basis in view of advancing costs of sugar and the fact that cane molasses is now the cheapest sweetening in the market. Advances are anticipated by May 1st, and possibly a further advancement of values June 1st."

COFFEE MARKET.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. report:

"The coffee market is very active with big demand. Coffee at from 7 to 9 cents is very scarce, and when the present stock is exhausted the trade will have to depend on higher grade coffees for all their trade.

"On this Coast the coffee market is little influenced by the situation in the East, but is governed by the local supply and demand, and although the receipts this year are larger than last year at the same date, the supply relative to demand is smaller."

New York, April 7—Henry Nordlinger & Co. report:

"The continued advance in the rate of Brazilian exchange has resulted in the practical decrease of the current prices of coffee of about 4½ per cent, and an advance in consuming countries of about 3 per cent. The great majority of the small planters are far away from shipping points and their expense of bringing coffee to market are naturally larger in proportion to the distance from railroads. For this reason the small planters cannot afford to market their coffee at the present ruling price of Brazil. Without considering the reduction in the existing world's stocks now taking place, and the necessity of Europe to get back her holding, together with the general improvement in the trade demand all over the world, and the remote possibility of an import duty in this country, we believe coffee is at any rate safe from a serious decline in price merely because of the state of affairs brought about by the advance in the rate of exchange."

TEA MARKET.

A. Schilling & Co. say:

"The tea market is quiet, and owing to the fact that everybody is pretty well stocked up it is not possible to create any great activity at the present time.

"The Japan tea market will open about May 1st, but as that will be only the first pickings it will furnish little upon which to base an opinion for the future. It will be at least two weeks later before anything definite will be known about the 1905 crop."

M. J. Brandenstein & Co. say:

"The appearance of the Russian Baltic fleet in the Orient has had a tendency to strengthen holders of teas in the American market, as a victory over the Japanese would result in little tea coming hither, especially from Japan."

SPICE MARKET.

New York, April 11—John Clarke reports:

"There appears to be a growing shortage in all the different kinds of black pepper. If this condition becomes more apparent, it will result in very much higher prices during the last half of 1905."

Baltimore, April 6—McCormick & Co. report.

Pepper—Spot supplies of black and white pepper are smaller than ever before. All grades show shortage. It is likely that higher prices will prevail.

Caraway Seed—The market is very firm with higher tendency. The new crops which are due in August will be held at higher values.

Gum Camphor—Crude stocks are scarce and being held at higher values. It is very firm in price.

CANNED TOMATOES.

Stocks of cheap tomatoes are almost cleaned up. The situation for solid pack is very firm. There is almost nothing doing in futures.

Baltimore, April 8—T. J. Meehan & Co. report:

"The buying of future tomatoes has commenced in earnest. There are all sorts of prices quoted on all sorts of brands or grades ranging from 45c to 52½c for 2-lbs. and from 57½c to 65c for 3-lbs."

Bel Air, Md., April 7—Finney & Robinson report:

"The tomato market is quiet, jobbers and sellers both holding off. Some packers are being frightened out of the business and will stay out. Others are preparing to pack more than usual in anticipation of the freer market. Farmers are now securing contracts and the acreage will depend upon what the packers decide to do."

Newport, Tenn.—Stokely Bros. Co. report:

"Packers are trying to clear up the remnants of last season's tomato crop and consequently the market is kept down at a low figure. It is supposed the tomato crop will be very much reduced in this section this season. There is absolutely no encouragement to raise tomatoes or pack them at prevailing prices."

CANNED CORN.

Baltimore, Md., April 8—T. J. Meehan & Co. report:

"The present low price is putting a great deal of spot corn in direct line of consumption. Corn packers have the blues badly and the acreage the coming season is likely to be greatly reduced."

CANNED ASPARAGUS.

New pack goods are coming into the market.

The pack is estimated at 240,000 cases, or 40,000 less than the figure when Hickmott was running. A new kind of parasite has been attacking the asparagus beds that not only lessens the quantity but is also decreasing the quality so that the percentage of first-class asparagus will be less than in former years.

CANNED PEAS.

The California Fruit Canners' Association are offering the retail trade the following prices for future 1905 pack:

2-lb; Petit Pois, $1.50; extra sifted, $1.25; Standard sifted, $1; Standards 90c; Marrowfat, 82½c.

Gallons; Standard sifted, $4; Standards, $3.75.

These prices are about the same as last year for high grade peas, but there is quite a reduction in the cheaper grade goods and the gallons. The grading this year will be much more even than in past seasons and the high-class Petit Pois and Extra Sifted goods will be very uniform and small.

CANNED PINEAPPLE.

There has been quite a run on the "Griffin Extras" Hawaiian pack of pineapple offered by the California Fruit Canners' Association. These are 2-lb. goods that are offered to the trade at $1.65 for grated and $1.85 for sliced.

DRIED FRUITS.

Apples are very decidedly firmer in the local market. There is a good demand and supplies are light. Higher prices are anticipated.

Raisins are a drug on the market. There seems to be nothing doing with any class of goods. Only about 16,000 acres were reported as signed for the new Association last Saturday in Fresno and, the matter of getting together a sufficient acreage to warrant the formation of an association this year has been left open until the 1st of October. Nothing definite can be known about prices until there is certain information as to the formation of this Association.

Apricots—The crop is expected to be much larger than usual. Spot Standards are off about 1c, although it is estimated that there are not more than 5 cars left in the State. New apricots are held on the basis of 7c for July delivery, while apricots for August deliveries can be bought for 6½c.

Dried Peaches—The spot stock of peaches is very low. Late estimates place it at about twenty 10-ton cars. There will be a good supply in 1905.

Dried Pears—While the crop of Bartlett pears in the Sacramento valley will be large, the crops elsewhere are reported short. Since the Sacramento Valley pears are chiefly used for canning and shipping East green, the dried article will hardly be abundant.

Prunes—The local market for spot prunes is exceedingly quiet.

Reports from Santa Clara county are that the last week has shown material changes in crop conditions and not more than half a crop is anticipated.

NUT MARKET.

Good walnuts are scarce and high. There is a very large supply of inferior goods.

Almonds—The demand is strong and supply very limited. Prices advanced this week and will probably go still higher.

There will probably be a full crop of almonds, say 300 cars, the only point of importance where they are short being Davisville, the crop there being placed at 175 to 200 tons, against a normal one of 250 to 300. In Capay Valley the crop is a failure. The report is that there will be full crops of European almonds.

BEANS.

J. K. Armsby & Co. report:

"The market in Lima beans is quiet. About 180,000 sacks were shipped East during December, January and February and 30,000 sacks in March. This supplied Eastern jobbing trade with their needs temporarily. As there are only 70,000 bags in sight and 30,000 of these will be needed for seed there is left only about 40,000 bags to last until new beans come in, which ordinarily is about October 1st. This is hardly a month's supply. Last year, after May 1st, 120,000 bags were shipped East. As Eastern jobbing stocks are already showing signs of depletion, it is evident that the Lima bean situation will remain firm for some time to come. Beans are being quoted at $3.25 and $3.50 for October and November deliveries. Spots are quoted at $4.80 and $4.85.

Small white beans are very slow. Extra Choice are being sold at $2.65, although the statistical position would make them worth much more. There is a large quantity of damaged stocks, both pink and small white, which are being sold at almost any price. The local market is further affected by the fact that Eastern beans are being sold in the territory west of the Missouri and in Texas which ordinarily get their supplies from California.

CANNED SALMON.

Contrary to expectations, prices were not fixed by the Columbia River canners last week. It is expected that prices will be fixed this Staurday and announced early next week.

Seattle—The "Trade Register" says: "The clearing of the market by the agreement of the Northwestern Fisheries Company and the Alaska Packing Association, together with the sale of about 15,000 pinks last week, has given the market a healthier tone than it has had for a long time. It will be impossible to tell what the Sound will do before August 1st. Opening prices on sockeyes are therefore not expected for some time yet. The price of sockeyes will therefore control the prices of red Alaska. Some brokers think the price will not be as low as $1.25 and it certainly should not be.

"It is reported that a few brokers are offering reds at 95c in small lots."

New York—Salmon is very steady. There are no offerings of red Alaska under $1 Coast.

Blaine, Wash., April 5—The Alaska Packers' Association is making extensive improvements both here and at Point Roberts. All the canneries have crews at work and the force at the Allen canning plant is to be doubled.

Seattle—Preparations are being made for as large a pack as in 1901, the year of the last big run on Puget Sound, which was 1,380,590 cases. Labor contracts have been made to the full extent of the plants. As far as can be determined, every cannery on the Sound will be operated. It is estimated that the number of canneries that will be operated during the present year, with the exception of the Coast canneries, will be in excess of 139.

Seattle, April 4—Brady & Co. say: "Jobbers' stocks are very light throughout the country, as it is admitted that they have made no purchases of red Alaska to speak of in the past two years. Pink salmon are in comparatively small supply. The market to-day is about 70c. We look for a 75c price inside of 60 days."

Seattle, April 7—The "Post-Intelligencer" insists that the usual announcement of firm salmon prices have a better foundation this year than ordinarily. It continues: "There are indications of prosperity for Puget Sound packers this season that cannot be denied. Alaska reds will be canned less extensively, and stocks, so far as the canners are concerned, are pretty well cleaned up. The Alaska Packers' and the Rosene holdings are the bulk, and they will hold for better prices. Many of the Northern canneries will close, as both the big concerns expect to operate heavily on Puget Sound. Next year the large Sound canneries may be expected to lie idle while main operations are confined to Alaska. The Russian-Japanese war has made a good demand for pinks, consequently there will be less of the cheaper grades dumped on red fish markets. The success of the new traps in British Columbia will be a factor in the Sound pack. If they come up to expectations, there must be a corresponding reduction in the American catch. But that will not affect the situation as a whole.

"It can be said that the salmon trade is in a better and more promising condition than it has been in for some years. There is every reason to expect a good pack and fair prices, which will give a good margin of profit on every case put up."

Cigars and Tobacco

Recent advices from Turkey are to the effect that Turkish tobacco crop this year will be considerably smaller than usual.

F. E. Surbeck has started a cigar factory at Weiser, Idaho.

The entire list of plug chewing tobaccos of the American Tobacco Company has been reduced one and two cents per pound, as per our price list this week.

Ehrman Bros. & Co. find trade in excellent shape. The demand for their Havana leader, the Optimo of A. Santaella & Co., continues to show a steady increase in sales as in the past.

Bolts, Clymer & Co. are introducing a new straight nickel cigar, the El Caudillo, with which they are meeting with gratifying success. The El Caudillo is a strictly quality cigar and is put out without any premiums or deal of any kind. It has a long filler Havanna tobacco and a Sumatra wrapper, and has a flavor unexcelled among nickel cigars.

A dispatch from Tokio, Japan, states that the profits from the tobacco monopoly for the first year amounted to 27,000,000 yen, about $13,500,000 in American money.

The John Bollman Company have issued a circular to the jobbing trade in which they say: "For a limited time we will make drop shipments for your account to bona fide retail dealers, your regular customers, provided the drop shipment consists of not less than 2500 cigarettes and that each drop shipment must not contain less than 500 Egyptian Deities Cigarettes of any style, and not less than 250 Murad Cigarettes. You may assort either Cairo, Khedive, Casino, Richmond Straight Cut No. 1, Egyptian Deities, Turkish Trophies, Mogul, Murad or Carlton Club Cigarettes in making up the requisite quantity, namely: 2500 cigarettes to constitute drop shipment. On such drop shipments we will send the retail dealer direct our check for $1.00 for each drop shipment of 2500 cigarettes, that we make for your account, to him. We will also prepay freight to any point (where the drop shipment applies) on railroad or river having a station agent, and to which point there is a published freight rate and through bill of lading issued. This offer is made for the benefit of bona fide retail trade, and no checks will be sent to retail dealers who turn over their purchase to wholesalers."

MILLER'S SOAP AGENCY.

The Pacific Coast agency for the Pennsylvania Soap Company has been placed with Hoffman & Greenlee. This firm is now carrying on a very extensive advertising campaign with the view of familiarizing consumers with the merits of their Miller's soap made with Naptha, Miller's Powderine made with Ammonia and Miller's specialties.

WORKING THE GROCERS.

Cigar Schemers Would Make Many Victims.

Two young men claiming to represent the International Tobacco Company of San Francisco have been calling upon the Los Angeles grocery trade during the week. The proposition they offer has aroused suspicion. Inquiry discloses the fact that neither Dun's or Bradstreet's can locate such a company in San Francisco. A thorough canvas of the Los Angeles tobacco and grocery jobbers was made by The Bulletin and the International Tobacco Company has never been heard of in this city. The offers made by these people give an excellent loop-hole for fakery, says the Commercial Bulletin.

The first merchant to report their proposition was E. P. Buren, 3532 Downey avenue, Los Angeles. They submitted to Mr. Buren a domestic cigar which apparently had some merit and offered it at $33 a thousand net, the cigars to be delivered from stock here and collected for on delivery and approval. Then as an inducement to buy, a handsome solid oak double decker cigar case was to be shipped free from the factory in the East. Full specifications of the case were given and if same came up to specifications it would easily be worth from twenty-five to thirty dollars, making the net cost for the cigars ridiculously low. The very liberality of the offer aroused Mr. Buren's suspicions, and it occurred to him that as the show case would be shipped by freight it could not possibly reach Los Angeles for a month or six weeks, and the something for nothing man could get out of town long before it was due to arrive. He therefore asked for references. The representative of the International Tobacco Company seemed surprised. He could not understand why it was necessary to ask for references from such a great company. "Of course all the jobbers know us," he said. Then when pinned down to some particular jobber he admitted that they probably would not know him personally, but of course his company was well known.

Many Fake Schemes.

Many tobacco fakers have robbed the Southern California merchant. Few of these fake schemes come under the calcium light, as the merchant who has been victimized by a slippery-tongued faker usually prefers to pay and say nothing.

Not only retailers but jobbers also have been victimized. A few months ago a "salesman" claiming to represent Klein & Co., New York, sold a block of cigars to Stetson Preston Company, with which went a patent cigar lighter and cutter. The sample cigar lighter was a unique and perfect mechanical contrivance, and the sample cigars were of good quality. The cigar lighters which were shipped were mechanical failures, and Stetson Preston Company, to protect their trade, considered it their duty to take both the cigars and the lighters off the hands of the retailers. Inquiry in New York disclosed the fact that the Klein Cigar Company had ceased operations after victimizing jobbers all over the country.

SAFE TO RECOMMEND.

The Spohn-Patrick Company are meeting with very gratifying success in placing Snider's Baked Beans, put up in 1, 2 and 3-pound cans, and which are newly listed in the Advocate's price lists.

The beans, like all of the T. S. Snider Preserve Company's goods are of high quality, and the grocer is perfectly safe to recommend them to his more particular trade.

PRAISES THE ADVOCATE.

We are pleased to print the following extracts from a letter from W. A. Donallan of Salt Lake City:

"Editor Advocate—Enclosed you will find draft for $4 which settles my account and pays my subscription for a year in advance.

"I appreciate the splendid efforts the Advocate has made to better the condition of retail grocers. Every grocer on the Coast should subscribe for and read your paper. They would make money by doing so, since there would then be less difficulty in organizing associations and, as a result, better laws could be enacted and better feeling prevail, better prices be secured and many trade abuses, such as the trading stamps and jobbers selling at retail be eliminated."

HELPS BUILD TRADE.

The grocer catering to particular trade must always have on hand a supply of seasonable delicacies—articles that tempt the eye and through the eye, the appetite.

Such are the Pim-Olas, Baby Pim-Olas and "White Label" Queen Olives of the Seville Packing Company.

They are always in season, and never more so than during the picnic season, when tasty articles are in demand for light lunches and the basket spread. Besides they give a pleasing look to the store windows and display counters where they are shown.

At this season, the up-to-date grocer will not fail to have them in his store and in sight.

Grocery Markets.

Company, which owns about 90 per cent of the available supply of American sardines, has definitely announced that prices on oil sardines will be advanced on April 10th. The notice did not state what the advance would be or whether mustards would be included. It seems probable, however, that the price will be increased from 15c to 25c per case and that the advance will effect only oils, for the present at least. The present stocks are hardly sufficient for requirements since the season is expected to open several months late because of the great damage done to the weirs during the heavy storms last winter.

CODFISH.

Gloucester, Mass., April 5—Receipts of codfish for the first three months of 1905 were much less than for the same period of 1904. High grades are in better supply than for some weeks past and few grades can be bought for a shade off. Stocks of all kinds of codfish in this market are so light that there will be no material change to lower prices until the stocks in first hands become larger. The Newfoundland government has refused to sell bait to American fishermen. This accounts for much of the shortage.

GLUCOSE.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 8—The glucose people have a good thing on the basis of the price of corn with their present prices. They are now trying to tie up the trade to January 1, 1906. There is a general view that prices cannot get higher and should go lower. As a result many firms are buying only to satisfy their immediate needs.

PROVISIONS.

The Cudahy Packing Company say:

"Notwithstanding the advance in the price of ham, bacon and lard, the market is strong at quoted figures, with every prospect of another advance."

OLIVE OIL.

Wieland Bros. say:

"The crop in Italy was a short one and prices are decidedly higher there. We have received one hundred and fifty cases of Ferrari's olive oil in 5, 1, ½ and ¼ gal. tins by steamer Sesostirs. The quality is very excellent, and though we purchased this lot at the old prices, yet we will not raise our selling price till it is sold."

HAY.

Somers & Co. say:

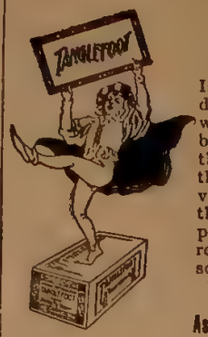
"There is an overabundance of cheap hay and prices are ruling low. The poorest grades can be used for nothing but stock feed, and on account of the plentiful supply of grass, there is but little demand among the stock and cattle men. Strictly fancy hay, either wheat and oat or tame oat, is in fair demand, and at present comparatively good figures can be obtained.

"The new crop promises to be a large one. There will be but little choice hay put up, as in most of the districts contributary to the San Francisco market the growth is very rank, promising an abundance of coarse hay.

STARTS IN THE YARDS.

How High Quality is Assured for the Diamond "C" Products of the Cudahy Packing Company.

There is no element of chance in the production of high grade food products. It is all a matter of good judgment and care. The selection of Diamond "C" products starts in the yards where the hogs are purchased by the representatives of the Cudahy Packing Company.



From corn-fed barrow hogs, the choicest and smoothest animals are selected for Diamond "C" hams and bacon. After the animals are dressed, special attention is given to see that the meats are chilled the proper number of hours before they are put into pickle. Each piece is thoroughly inspected before it goes into the pickle and the utmost care is used in handling them.

Special and expensive formulas are employed in the curing of Diamond "C" meats. On the exact date that the meat is "just cured," the hams and bacon are drawn from the pickle. They are then prepared for the smoke house. This care guarantees every piece to be mildly cured and of delicious flavor. It accounts for the difference from the salt flavor and coarseness of other brands.

One great feature of the Diamond "C" meats is the beautiful color. This is obtained by the use of shell-bark hickory wood which is used exclusively in preparing Diamond "C" meats.

We would call attention of our readers to the letter on page 4 of this week's paper which tells how satisfactory this grade of goods has been in pleasing particular customers.

Amusements

MAJESTIC.

J. H. Gilmour's presentation of Richelieu is one of the most artistic performances that San Francisco has even been favored with. Gilmour is an artist to his finger tips and he makes the great cardinal a very real and living personality and, in his own great feeling, so holds his audience that they even forget to applaud. Adele Block made a very beautiful and loveable niece. Woodward made a decided hit with his performance of Joseph, the confidental advisor of Richelieu, and the young man who assayed the role of Francois was also particularly good. The performance is well worth an evening's time. Frank Bacon appears in Ezra Kendall's success, "The Vinegar Buyer" next week.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

The dramatization of "Ramona" has been drawing large houses at the Grand Opera House this week. The story is one that appeals particularly to the sympathies of the people of the West and Virginia Calhoun gives a very pleasing performance. The staging of the piece is excellent and beautiful in scenic effects and in costuming. Great care has been taken and no expense spared to secure truthful and artistic results. The supporting company is a strong one and the performance well worth an evening. The summer season opens next Sunday afternoon when Florence Stone and the Ferris Company will present "Graustark" at summer prices, 15, 25 and 50 cents.

ALCAZAR.

There has been plenty of fun this week at the Alcazar where the "Man from Mexico" has been produced. From the start of the play until the curtain goes down on the last act, there is something to laugh at. John Craig makes a very strong part of the role of the unfortunate man who had spent a month in jail and then tried to hide the fact by pretending he had been in Mexico. The bill for Easter is "When Knighthood Was in Flower."

COLUMBIA.

A No. 3 company headed by Grace Van Studdiford is singing "Redfeather" at the Columbia. While Miss Van Studdiford is a splendid singer, her support is very weak since, with one or two exceptions, the actors are poor substitutes for those who appeared in the original cast. The show would not be so bad if the management did not charge $1.50 for a seat. At first-class prices, the public is entitled to first-class companies.

TIVOLI.

The Tivoli Company is making a decided hit with its presentation of "Florodora." The double sextet is encored half a dozen times every night. The piece is beautifully staged and beautifully costumed.

CENTRAL.

Specialties and rough horse-play abound in the performance of "The Corner Grocery" at the Central this week. This is a side splitting farce comedy with just enough of a plot to hold together a lot of funny situations in which the corner grocer and the bad boy get into trouble with each other and get out again. Next week there is to be a revival of "Robert Emmett," the great Irish play.

FISCHER'S.

There is a complete change of program at this theatre this week together with new films for the biograph. The program is an interesting one. Besides a matinee in the afternoon, there are two performances every evening.

CHUTES.

The Chutes always has something new to offer. The great crowds of people enjoying the novelty of the various concessions, is perhaps the most interesting part of a visit to this great pleasure ground. The program at the big free theatre comprise various novelties and should satisfy the most exacting.

FAILURE THROUGH FOLLY.

ing grocer this week, "to sell flour for $1.40 per sack to customers who are paying only $1.25 per sack for goods that have been entirely satisfactory in the past. I do sell considerable of 'A-1' flour at that price, but it is only to my very best customers who know good goods and are willing to pay for the best there is on the market."

The Advocate holds that it is an outrage on the retail grocers of the cities about San Francisco Bay for the mills to force them to face the competition of a few firms who buy their goods on such terms that they are able to sell them for the price that these same goods cost the great bulk of the trade.

Few grocers are selling the standard brands of flour for less than $1.25 now. Even these grocers find themselves injured when their customers know that there are certain competitors who sell flour at $1.20.

Attracting Trade

Novelty Commands Attention.

A novel window display will make those who have plenty of time to view it temporarily forget all else, and, not rarely either, will so strongly excite in them the desire for possession, that before they realize it, they are in front of the counter, money in hand to buy what has appealed to the eye.

Old Ideas in New Dress.

Have you ever figured to yourself how many of the most effective displays you know of were really of original conception? You may not have been able to recognize the original in the slight change introduced in the adaptation——just as in a picture a slight touch of the artist's brush will give the entire features a (to you) completely new aspect. Thousands of times one of these artistic touches has changed commonplace or dismal failure into a howling success, both in picture and window display, and it all was so simple that it was, ever after, a source of wonder, even amazement, to the author that the idea had not occurred to him years before. The very best window dressers get their ideas largely outside their own particular lines of business.

An Idea That's Always Serviceable.

The suggestion we now offer is as potent to-day as ever. The idea is a window display showing the time in various cities of the world when it is noon in the particular city or place where the display is made. Any number of cities may be selected, but we suggest that the number be not less than five or more than eight, including the home city. Tokio, the Japanese capital, and St. Petersburg, should be two of the group, Berlin, Rome, Paris and London forming the remainder, if it is to be made up principally of foreign cities; but some one or more of the four last named may be dropped for American cities if desired.

Easily Put Into Execution.

It is not necessary to use bona fide clocks; in fact, a dummy dial, one for each city, answers the purpose much better. A single clock showing correct local time may be used, but it should be aside from the combination and readily distinguished as separate from it.

Arrangement of the Clock.

The various dials should be arranged in a frame the full width of the window, and starting a few inches back from the glass. The frame should run upward and backward at about the same pitch as the top of a school or standing office desk, but should not be carried so far back that any of the display will be lost to the vision of the passer-by. If the window is too shallow to place it thus it may be placed perpendicularly, and in this case it should be some distance from the window floor in order to bring it into the best possible position for easy, quick recognition from the outside. All the dials should be of the same size, except the one representing home time, and it may be larger or smaller than the others, and should occupy the central position, the others being ranged around it in the form of an eclipse, circle, or any other form most convenient. Each clock should show what city it represents and should be set to show the time to be indicated. The clock representing home time should be set at noon and a plainly lettered sign or card on it should state that when it is noon in this city the time in the other cities is that indicated on the dials bearing their name.

Approximate Difference of Time.

As compared with New York time, Tokio is about fourteen hours faster; St. Petersburg about seven hours; Rome about five hours and forty-five minutes; Berlin about the same as Rome; Paris, about five hours and five minutes, and London is about four hours and fifty-six minutes faster. The difference between local time and New York time must be added to these. In order to show the difference between them and the former.

How to Reckon Difference of Time.

A ready method in determining the difference in time is to take a school geography containing a map of the world, or a map itself, on which the degrees of longitude are marked east and west from Greenwich; then find your city and for each fifteen degrees it is situated east or west of the Greenwich meridian the time is exactly one hour faster or slower than Greenwich or London time.

GROCERS GET WISE.

Learning Their Power to Sell Profitable Goods.

By J. F. Paulding.

The retail grocery trade is gradually learning how much power it possesses in keeping any particular article off the market. A few retail grocers in San Francisco are even now independent enough to take chances of offering their trade something new. This number is growing. The greater number let the manufacturer force them to handle goods that they do not want to handle. This is why the flour mills say they do not have to protect the San Francisco grocers because "They are Different."

In numerous communities the grocers have learned that it is not necessary for them to submit to the dictations of firms who refuse to consider their interests.

The grocers of San Francisco are learning this about their flour trade. The knowledge has apparently been coming to them by freight. But it is arriving and more grocers are learning it every day.

Grocers in all the other leading cities of the State realized their power long since and have profited by it. This same recognition will be accorded to the retail grocers of San Francisco as soon as they realize the giant strength that lies at their control.

It is worthy of note that many grocers who a few weeks ago thought it would be impossible for them to introduce a new flour to their trade, especially when that flour costs more than the flour the customer was already getting, are finding that instead of its being a hard matter it is comparatively easy with customers who really want the best. With other customers it is hard and in some cases it would be very unwise to attempt it.

The grocers of San Francisco are working under a series of disadvantages. They would be practically helpless in their attempt to secure a profit on flour if it were not for the Globe Mills who came forward in their hour of need and manfully agreed to refuse to submit to letting the cutter fix the price at which their flour should be sold, even if, by so doing, the sale of their flour should be limited.

The A-1" flour of the Globe Mills is to be sold for $1.40 per sack all over San Francisco and across the bay. While this flour is of higher grade than the other standard brands sold in San Francisco it is rather difficult to sell even a higher grade flour for $1.40, when a flour that was perfectly satisfactory in the past can be secured for $1.20 to $1.30 per sack.

This marks one more loss forced on the retail grocers of San Francisco by the local millers who disregard their welfare. If the grocers could secure a price of $1.35 per sack on all older standard brands (with a profit of 15 cents a sack) their first class trade would more readily purchase a higher grade of flour that cost only 5 cents per sack more (giving the retail grocer 17½ cents profit.)

The grocers of San Francisco declared that one reason for their organization was to assist the members to secure better profits. There is nothing on which they have a better chance of success than with flour, especially with a great mill like the Globe prepared to

WORDS OF PRAISE.

National President Green Commends State Secretary Connolly.

Pacific Coast grocers will read with interest the following letter from National President Green to Frank B. Connolly, vice-president of the San Francisco Association and secretary of the California State Grocers' Association.

It will be noted that Mr. Green approves Mr. Connolly's suggestions, which are along the lines the state organization and the Pacific Coast Associations are working. It is also to be noted that there is a possibility of Mr. Green's coming to the Coast in September. Mr. Green says, among other things:

Frank B. Connolly, San Francisco, Cal.

Dear Sir: Your favor of the 14th was received with much pleasure. Ever since the convention I have been looking for a letter from you.

I knew that the association would demand considerable of my time and was prepared to answer all calls made. But, I must say, that it has taken more time than I had anticipated.

The first call was to the Michigan State Convention, and then to the Detroit Convention. I have been three times to Chicago; once on a collecting tour for donations to the National (which was very disagreeable to me) and the other times in connection with the premium schemes, results of which you no doubt have seen in the Trade Press Bulletin.

Your paper that I read in the Grocers' Advocate and Trade Press Bulletin shows much thought and you deserve a great deal of credit for your masterful handling of so large a subject. I agree with you in your ideas, and I think that, if the matter is carefully prepared and arranged in a condensed form, it would be well received at the next National Convention.

"I will be very glad to give you an opportunity to do this at the first day's session.

"You or some other grocer must do it, for I do not propose to let lawyers or other men of different schemes take up our time, not for one minute. The grocers at the last convention had nothing to say, not even were the papers prepared by the different State presidents read.

"Our Association must be placed on a self-sustaining basis. It has been helped along by different companies long enough. They expect now that the grocers should be willing and big enough to manage their own affairs. There is not one that gives that does not expect a hundred fold in return—the Sapolio and Shredded Wheat companies, perhaps, excepted.

"We cannot afford to place our association in anybody's hands.

"You spoke of your State Convention of California and also the Oregon and Washington Conventions. If it is possible and you think any good can come of it, I will be pleased to come to the Coast and attend these three conventions.

"I have given up this year to the National Association, and any good that is in me I give freely for the welfare of the class to which I belong.

"Let me hear from you again.

"Give my regards to the grocers of California and tell them I wish them success in their every undertaking, and especially in the interests of their associations. Yours truly,

John A. Green.

Pacific Coast Association.

Progress Made in Unifying the Power of Grocers.

CALIFORNIA, OREGON, WASHINGTON.

Proper Organization Will Enable Each Association to Help all Others.

Little did those delegates, who attended the National Convention last May, realize the important steps they were taking when they formed the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association.

While the growth of this new organization has apparently been slow, it is really remarkable when one gives it the consideration that its importance justifies.

One of the principal things accomplished so far is, that the idea of having the manufacturer establish a minimum retail selling price on his goods, is thoroughly practical.

Many manufacturers who have been communicated with say they are anxious that they be accorded the assistance of the retailer in upholding proper selling prices.

Notwithstanding the fact that the Association is not one year old, and that active work has only been going on for eight months, the plan has been already adopted as far East as Kansas City, Mo. Word comes from Denver, Wichita, Kansas City and other places that they are adopting the manufacturers' fixed price plan with good effect. And now the officers of the National Grocers' Association recognize the idea as desirable.

Los Angeles Leads.

Los Angeles was one of the first cities in the United States to insist that the manufacturer should establish and maintain a retail selling price that would give a legitimate profit.

Up to the present time eighty-three manufacturers of local and national reputation have established and are maintaining a retail selling price on their specialties. Progress in Los Angeles has not stopped and every few days a notice is received by the secretary from some other manufacturer who has decided that it is good policy for him to give the retailer protection.

The retailers of Los Angeles are able to get this protection because they are willing to insist on their rights of protection. Many manufacturers who at first were loath to go into the proposition, are now the most ardent workers in its behalf.

Another strongly favorable feature of the situation is that many of the leading manufacturers are backing up their proposition. The following are a few of the leading manufacturers who are supporting the retailer in Southern California.

A. Schilling & Co., Royal Baking Powder Company, Rumford Chemical Company, N. K. Fairbanks & Co., Swift & Co., Pillsbury Flour Company, Natural Food Company, American Cereal Company, Jas. S. Kirk & Co., Postum Cereal Company, Los Angeles Soap Company, New England Soap Company, Babbit Soap Company, Leveing Bros., Sapolio, Fig Prune Cereal Company, Price Cereal Food Company, four leading mills, Lily Cream, Carnation Cream, St. Charles Cream, Snider's Catsup, Log Cabin Syrup, Welch's Syrup, Peet Bros., Bishop & Co., Mil-ery city on the Pacific Coast to read this list of accomplishments and if there is anything that they have not done, to ask themselves whose fault it is.

Read this list carefully:

Not a department store in St. Louis is to-day in the retail grocery business. We did it.

Not a wholesale grocer in St. Louis will sell to a department store. We did it.

All peddlers now pay a heavy license for doing business.. We passed the peddler ordinance.

Wholesale grocers do not sell to consumers as they once freely did.. We induced them to stop.

A ten per cent garnishment law now enables you to collect your bills from the dead beats. We passed that law in 1903.

Several times the price of crackers has been put down to a fair basis after an arbitrary advance. We secured the reduction.

The produce men of St. Louis are under pledge not to sell to consumers. The pledge was given to this association.

Manufacturers no longer sell goods direct to consumers in this city. This association put a stop to that practice.

Coffee wholesalers have recently promised in writing not to sell goods to consumers. The promise was made to this association.

Trading stamps are no longer in general use in St. Louis grocery stores. This association is still fighting that evil.

WONDERFUL PROGRESS.

It was only 17 years ago that James Butler left a position in a hotel to go into the grocery business. He is now a multi-millionaire. He has in operation 143 stores in and around New York. He is a wonderful man and a great organizer. He has a remarkable memory.

PREMIUMS ARE EXPENSIVE.

Their Cost Usually Divided Between the Retail Dealer and the Consumer.

[redacted] facturers frequently say to the [redacted]

miums are usually short weight. In this way the consumer is cheated out of a certain quantity of his goods in order to pay for the premium.

The "Price Current" of Wichita, Kan., in speaking of this matter, calls attention to the following discovery in regard to soap:

"For example, to-day we weighed four bars of soap. Two of them were sold in connection with a premium graft, two were not. The two that were sold on merit weighed within a very small fraction of a pound. One of the premium bars weighed nine ounces and the other weighed nine and a fraction ounces."

One of the large cereal companies operating in Southern California gradually advanced the price of its goods as it began to give premiums. For a time, no advance was made in the retail price. The dealer was then paying for the premiums.

Then so heavy an advance was made that the retailer had to raise the price to the consumer. Even at the advanced price to the consumer, the dealer made less profit than he did before the premium scheme was taken up. In this instance, the cost of the premium was divided between the consumer and the retail dealer.

All over the United States the grocers are passing resolutions deploring the use of premium schemes.

The grocers of the Pacific Coast should not only pass such resolutions, but they should unite in refusing to handle those goods accompanied by premiums wherever possible.

FOOD FOR THE JAPS.

Experts Pay Splendid Tribute to Whole Wheat Foods.

The recent announcement from London that the largest contractor for the Russian army had asked for quotations on Triscuit delivered at Vladivostock has revived discusion of the dietetic habits of the Japs. Upon what does the plucky little Jap feed that he can outgeneral and vanquish the big and lusty soldiers of the Czar? The people are not greatly interested in the rations that are adopted for the Russian army. What they want to know is, What sort of food and what kind of life have developed the valor and physical hardihood of the little men of the island empire?

Triscuit is the shredded whole wheat cracker made by the same concern at Niagara Falls which makes shredded whole wheat biscuit. Being compressed into a wafer, it contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat berry, in small bulk, and is ready cooked. That it should be regarded as a good ration for an army is significant of the growing belief in whole wheat food as having the most strength-giving properties in proportion to bulk. The Jap is a paradoxical combination of gentility and martial valor. In his home life he is gentle, amiable and kind. He loves flowers and the artistic refining influences of life. As a warrior he fights with a fierceness and bravery that astonishes the world. In strategy he displays consummate skill.

The popular notion is that the Jap subsists largely upon rice and dried fish. We know that he gets little beef or pork. We are rather surprised therefore to learn from Dr. Eastlake of Japan, head of the School of Foreign Languages in Tokio, that cooked whole wheat forms such an important part of his daily dietary. In an interview in Philadelphia the other day Dr. Eastlake said:

"The army biscuit consists of a cake one-fourth rice and three-fourths wheat, flavored with both sugar and salt. It is placed in water and allowed to swell up before eating. I have seen Japanese eat four of these cakes, but two were all I could manage."

We know what the valiant Jap has done at Port Arthur. Twice he has driven the ponderous Cossacks from their apparently impregnable stronghold. We know what he is doing in the arts and industries of fair Japan. And now we know that whole wheat—not rice—is the principal part of his dietary. Is any further proof needed that the whole wheat is, after all, the most perfect all-day food given to man?

A NEW YORK MISTAKE.

The usually accurate "American Grocer," in its fruit and produce report of February 21st, speaks of the recent prolonged cold spell as "Spreading its icy breath not only from California to Florida, but reaching even to the City of Mexico, treating them to a hitherto unknown snow storm."

California has escaped the cold weather that our Eastern friends are having. Snow and ice are almost unknown to us and this winter has been a particularly mild and pleasant one. Come out to Frisco, brother, if you want to escape the snow and frost.

A SALT YIELDING BIG PROFITS.

Since the introduction of Leslie Salt the grocery trade finds itself in a much better position so far as its salt trade is concerned.

Leslie is a pure, sterilized salt, and is equal to the most exacting demands, while it yields the grocer an exceptional profit, selling at 10 cents per carton, and costing the dealer only 75 cents a dozen.

PACIFIC COAST ASSOCIATION.

ler's Soap, Scudder Syrup Company, M. J. Brandenstein & Co., J. A. Folger & Co. and many others.

What Southern California was able to get is open to every section of the Pacific Coast, providing they are willing to support the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association and help secure it.

Paulding Resigns.

J. F. Paulding, who has been secretary of the Pacific Coast Retails Grocers' Association since September 1st, will now retire from that responsible position. Although the grocers of Southern California were clamoring for his return and had agreed to advance his salary 50 per cent over what it had been, and although family matters and property interests made it desirable for him to return to Los Angeles, he would not have gone now had he not been able to arrange to leave the affairs of the Pacific Coast Association in good hands so that he would be sure of having the work proceed to the best advantage.

While Mr. Paulding remained in San Francisco he looked after the interests of both the Pacific Coast Association and the legislative matters for the State Association. The State Association did not pay Mr. Paulding direct for his work, but all money earned was turned into the treasury of the Pacific Coast Association.

Mr. Paulding was loath to give up the work he had undertaken. He has felt it his duty for some time to go back to Los Angeles. Yet he has remained in San Francisco longer than conditions would justify, hoping that matters would change so that he could remain and handle the work.

Good Work to Continue.

It will perhaps be unpleasant to the knockers to find out that the work of the Pacific Coast Association is going to continue, and, if anything, more aggressively than before.

A Valuable Man.

If the choice of the California directors is the choice of the directors of Washington and Oregon, Mr. H. W. Thurlow will be the successor to Mr. Paulding.

Mr. Thurlow has been connected with the Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Company for six years and is well and favorably known by the retail grocers throughout the entire West. He is especially well known in the State of Washington, where he has always done everything in his power to aid in the development of the various grocers' associations.

Mr. Thurlow's wide experience and his familiarity with the needs of the manufacturer will make him a valuable man for the position.

The Pacific Coast Association was organized with the purpose, chiefly, of enabling each State Association to call on every other State Association for help when outside influence was necessary and would be of value.

The work so far has devolved on California and Washington. They have accomplished much when the material available is considered.

The beginning that has been made is a good foundation. Now, all that is needed is means to secure proper and effective publicity and a uniform method of proceedure by all Associations and the whole problem will be solved.

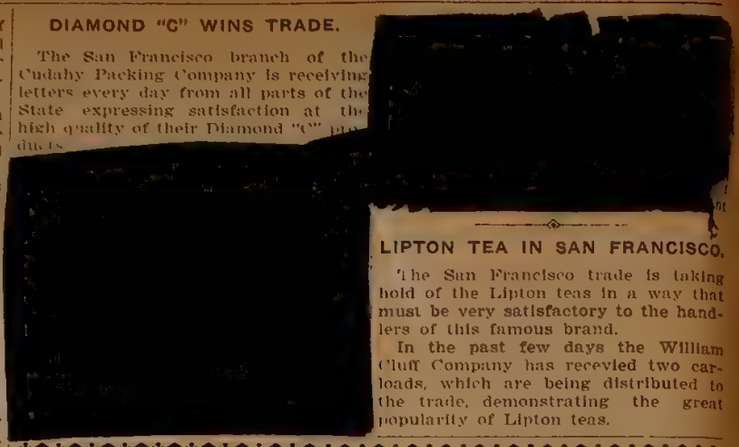
HELP SELL THE GOODS.

Clever Plan for Introducing and Popularizing Banner Lye.

The plan now being operated by the J. K. Armsby Company to introduce Banner Lye and help the retailer who puts it in stock to sell it, is one of the most effective that has been employed in this market for years.

They send out a series of striking illustrated postal cards, brilliantly colored, to 25 consumers whose names are given them by the grocer who has taken advantage of their special deal now in vogue. A different card is mailed to the customer each day till the series is exhausted. Each card tells in an interesting way, illustrated by a striking picture, of some new use for Banner Lye. On the fifth day, the lady receives a personal order on the grocer for a can of Banner Lye together with a letter and a booklet telling of more of its uses.

Since the order does not arrive until the lady has received four postals telling her how useful and necessary and convenient Banner Lye is, the grocer is sure of having it presented. In this way, the J. K. Armsby Company sell for him 25 cans of the lye on which he gets a profit of over 30 per cent.



But they have done more. They have helped create a demand where none existed before. They have educated great numbers of housewives to the necessity of an article of which most housewives were previously ignorant.

In this way they have really done the grocery trade a great favor. Many grocers who have co-operated in the introduction of Banner Lye state that they now sell more Banner Lye in a month than they formerly sold of all sorts of lyes in a year.

We would call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Banner Lye on page 9 of this issue. The deals mentioned therein are subject to withdrawal without notice. We would ask those of our readers who take advantage of this offer to mention the Advocate.

PROTECT DENVER GROCERS.

A Leading Coffee House Supplies an Example That Others Might Well Follow.

The following letter should be read with a great deal of interest by the retail grocers of San Francisco. It shows what one of the leading tea and coffee houses of Colorado thinks of the scheme by which certain papers secure the co-operation of manufacturers and others in advertising at the expense of the profits of the retail grocer.

It is refreshing to find a large house that realizes its responsibility to the retail grocery trade sufficiently to turn down an order for 5000 cans of coffee without any suggestion from the retail grocers.

The letter we speak of is as follows:

"Denver, March 28, 1905.

"Frank Esshom, Esq., Editor 'Commercial Tribune.'

"Dear Sir—A few days ago a representative of the 'News' called at our office regarding a coffee to be given away by them for small ads. He wished to make arrangements to use for this purpose Wedding Breakfast coffee. We, however, did our best to discourage the giving away of such a staple article and thought when he left we had convinced him of the fact that it was not what they wanted.

To our surprise, however, we saw in the next morning's paper an advertisement of a certain brand that they were going to give away.

"We could have contracted with them then and there for 50 full cases, or 5000 cans of Wedding Breakfast, but though he made it 500 cases, it would have been the same to us, as you are well aware our motto has been protection to the retail trade throughout.

"We are not desirous of having a hand in knocking any other firm's goods, but such a breach of business decency seems to demand some action and we also wish the grocers of this city to know that we first had the opportunity of selling our coffee in this way.

"We inclose you the advertisement, so you may see for yourself what brand it is, and then make it known if you see fit to do so, or let the matter take care of itself. But we do wish to be placed on record of trying at least to discourage this one giveaway if it was in our power. Yours very truly,

NASH-SMITH TEA & COFFEE CO.,
George A. Nash, Secretary.

BEET SUGAR PRODUCTION.

Washington—The Agricultural Department has issued a bulletin on the international sugar situation prepared by Frank R. Rutter, assistant chief of the Division of Foreign Markets, in which the situation in the different sugar-producing countries is discussed in detail and the question of whether the industry will be seriously impaired by the recent withdrawal of bounties is considered. Referring to the outlook for the immediate future the bulletin says: "The new sugar year opens with prospects for a reduced beet sugar output in Europe that will probably wipe out the accumulated stocks and perhaps necessitate a considerable decline in consumption. General drought throughout the beet-growing sections, together with a reduction of 7 per cent in the plantings, caused a falling off in the beet crop estimated at 20 per cent as compared with 1903. The International Association for Sugar Statistics estimates the beet sugar production of Europe for 1904-5 at only 4,450,000 long tons—less than that for any other year since 1895-96. Such an estimate, based on returns from manufacturers, doubtless somewhat exaggerates the decline. Licht's estimate is considerably higher—4,870,000 long tons for 1904-5, as compared with 5,770,000 long tons for 1904, a decrease of 900,000 long tons, or over 15 per cent. An increase in the cane sugar production estimated at 400,000 long tons will partly offset this decline, and if fully realized will raise the share of cane sugar in the commercial sugar production of the world from 42 per cent in 1903-4 to about 48 per cent in 1904-5. If the actual decline in the European output is as large as that anticipated, the consequent high prices may check the increasing per capita consumption of sugar. Still such an effort can scarcely prove permanent, for high prices resulting from a bad crop are not only temporary but constitute an incentive to larger crops and hence lower prices in the future. Perhaps the chief objection to the abolition of bounties was the difficulty anticipated in marketing the accumulated stocks and the production above domestic requirements. For the year 1904-5, at least, this difficulty will be removed, and in future, with no special incentive to production for shipment abroad, it will doubtless prove more feasible than in the past to accommodate the output to the actual demand."

MORE SHORTAGE LOSSES.

Missouri Grocers Find Packages Short In Count.

The campaign of the Interstate Grocer against short measure goes on merrily. Every week this paper reports new examples of how necessary it is for retail grocers to weigh, count and measure everything they buy.

J. E. Aul of Webb City, Mo., counted the fish in a half barrel of 10-cent mackerel and found that there were only 110 fish, where the barrel was billed to contain 160. That meant a loss to Mr. Aul of $5 on that barrel. He then opened a half barrel of 15-cent mackerel billed to contain 100 fish, and found that it contained but 92. This meant a loss of $1.20. This percentage is the difference between profit and loss.

Dean & Auterreith of Nevada, Mo., found a package, billed to contain 140 fish, was short 15 fish, since it contained only 125. At 10 cents each, this meant a loss of $1.50 to the firm.

A HANDSOME STORE.

In an illustrated article concerning the wholesale and retail grocery store of John B. Watson, the El Paso "Herald" says:

"No more appropriate term could be used in a description of the John B. Watson Grocery than the word "ideal." In point of fixtures, appointments and choice quality of goods, the house ranks as the peer among the successful business houses of the city. The history of the house dates back to 1893, and as an attestation of the popularity of the management and the appreciation of the public for high-grade groceries, it suffices to say that the patronage has ever increased since the date of opening.

"The present building, located at 208 Texas street, is one of the handsomest in the city and was built especially for Mr. Watson. The store room was designed for convenience and beautiful effect, and in these respects the aim has been achieved. Two spacious aisles extend the length of the building and on either side are sections devoted to particular lines. The counters and shelving are polished oak, and the show cases, which are made of a special glass, are worthy of note. The pillars in the center of the store, decorated with French plate mirrors, and the embossed metal ceiling artistically frescoed, harmonize pleasingly with the other beautiful appointments.

"Besides a complete line of groceries, here can be found every delicacy the market affords. California fruits are shipped direct, and this house has special arrangements with commission merchants to supply the various fruits and vegetables as soon as they are ready for market, thus affording customers the first opportunity of procuring the season's bounties.

"The most modern merchandising methods have been adopted and every facility for expediting business is utilized by this enterprising establishment."

STOMACATHEMIA.

Is a disease which attacks the nerves of men and which has become prevalent to an alarming degree.

Symptoms:—Loss of apppetite for food, increased appetite for drink, inclination to swear at opportune and inopportune times, mind in constant state of belligerency.

Allopaths, Homeopaths, Osteopaths and hundreds of other "paths" have failed to diagnose the ailment correctly. It remained for STEINER & CO. to discover the cause and the cure.

The disease is brought on by eating impure food, ancient groceries and drinking poor coffee, for which you pay the same prices as you would for BETTER goods of us, or else you pay higher prices than you would pay for the BEST groceries here. Your only remedy is to come in and let us prescribe for you with a guarantee to cure, or refund your money.

We do especially recommend as the best tonic for coffee users, the renowned ————————, Java and Mocha which is steel cut by a patented process (not ground) and the tannin-bearing chaff is removed, thereby making it the most wholesome beverage, and not a tasteless substitute.

Sold only by STEINER & CO., the purveyors of Pure Products to Please Purchasers and Particular People.

EFFECTIVE ADVERTISING.

From time to time we have mentioned the advertisement of Steiner & Co. of Escondido. This firm takes a third of a page in both of the local papers and the advertisements are changed in form and matter every week. Many of the Steiner ads are strikingly original. In most of the ads prices are employed that attract attention and convince. Other ads are devoted to fetchy, original matter.

This firm recently had the following reading notice placed in the middle of a big white space and set off by effective cut:

Our Pet BRAND Evaporated Cream

(or any brand which bears our cap label.)

The market is flooded with large cans of thin and watery milks which do not deserve the name of "Evaporated Cream," but intelligent dealers and consumers do not care to pay for tin-ware and water in place of milk substance. Hence they insist on getting the old reliable "Our Pet Brand" which bears this top label.

PRUNE PRICES.

Two Views as to the Causes for Stagnation of This Article.

Two views of the cause of the stagnation in the prune market were exploited in two different articles in a recent issue of the San Jose "Herald." One view blames the folly and greed of the farmer, stating that he ruins his own market by trying to sell poor goods that ought to be turned into brandy and by dishonestly mixing them with goods of a higher standard. The other claims that the grocers are thieves and destroy their trade by demanding extortionate profits.

It is to be noted that it was the "Farmers' Club" that placed the blame with the grocers. At the session of this club, held Saturday, April 15th, C. D. Harvey, who had just returned from an Eastern trip, declared that the grower had "better dump the small fruit and the bad fruit here than to send it East to destroy our market there."

Dishonesty Among Grocers.

Four causes of trouble were given:

Selling of futures, not knowing what the crop will be in either quantity or quality.

Disreputable methods taken to fill futures.

Refusal of packers to fill orders in consequence of which the grower suffers.

Putting out of small sizes which are mixed with larger ones and bring down the whole price, paying the grower less for the whole than he would get if he kept out his small prunes altogether.

The grower is responsible for selling the crop before it is grown; also for the delivery of his prunes to packers who he knows will mix small fruit with them; and giving his fruit to the packers to break prices.

Roasts the Groceryman.

G. W. Leak, a San Francisco dentist, who owns a prune orchard, roasted the retail grocers in an article in which he tells what he don't know, as follows:

"The truth is, this mild-faced groceryman, who never fails in business unless he dabbles in some outside ventures, is the arch enemy to the prune industry of California.

"He sells nothing without a profit.

"Flour, sugar and all such things are sold by him by the barrel or sack 5 per cent less than he sells them. If he pays cash he gets another 5 per cent off. Added to the sale profit he makes 10 per cent on sugar and flower. If he retails by small packages he makes 15 per cent or 20 per cent—a big profit.

"How about prunes?

"He buys them as low as he can and sells them for all the traffic will bear. If the customers inquire price they are told 2, 3, 4, 5 pounds for 25 cents and their groceryman does the rest.

Calls Them Robbers.

"Is it any wonder then that prunes bring 18 cents per pound in New York at retail, while our growers and packers get just 1 cent more per pound in New York than in San Francisco, which is exactly the freight from San Francisco to New York—robber groceryman makes the difference—which is immense?

"Prunes of the 50-60 size laid down in New York last summer brought 4 cents in 25-pound boxes. The commission men charged, including drayage, 10 per cent. Add this 10 per cent to 4 cents per pound and you have what the prunes cost the arch enemy—about 4½ cents—and he retailed them for 18 cents, or 400 per cent advance.

"You have only to ask your grocery store man what he charges and look at quotations to verify the above. Each grocery store charges all his conscience will bear, and he has no right to class dried prunes as perishable goods except as they are destroyed by rats and clerks who frequently fill their pockets with the delicious fruits.

Advises Starting Retail Stores.

"Until you can compete with our arch enemy by placing a retail store in each town with orders to sell at a small advance on cost like sugar, flour, etc., you can count me out. I would rather furnish the fakirs prunes at 3½ cents and let them sell them 'at cost,' 5 cents per pound, than join in a season of prayer or promise to deceive myself and other prune growers."

WHAT PAYS?

Does it pay to sell articles that move fast but do not yield sufficient profit to much more than cover the expense of handling? Does it pay to carry an article that pays a big profit when you sell it, but which generally lies on the shelf.

Does it pay to sell an article that does not please your customer when he gets it?

"Sunset" mackerel sells fast, pays a big profit and always pleases; therefore it pays you to handle it.

TRADING STAMP NEWS.

Louisina Grocers Win.

Judge Sommerville of Division D of the Civil District Court of New Orleans, on March 30th, rendered a decision in favor of the State and city condemning the Merchants' Trading Co., the only trading stamp outfit of New Orleans, to pay $5000 to the State and a similar amount to the city, under the Jacobs act, which was passed at the last session of the Legislature.

COAST CROP CONDITIONS.

Geyserville—Cherries are almost a total failure. Vineyards promise a splendid yield. Prunes promise well, though there are not nearly so many on the trees as there were some weeks since.

Haywards—Cherry crop reported very poor. Royal Anne's unusually shy.

Colusa—The fruit crop in this section, with the exception of prunes, is in fine shape.

Yuba City—The almond crop promises to be barely the average. Prunes and peaches have a fair crop.

San Lorenzo—Apricot crop in this section is unusually heavy.

Portland, Or.—Frosts have done considerable harm to the fruit. Apples and French prunes have received but little injury. A good crop of apples is promised.

Watsonville—Prospects were never better for an enormous apple crop. The light frosts have done no damage.

Santa Rosa—Owing to unfortunate climatic conditions many young prunes have fallen from the trees. Present indications are will have about one-half crop.

Vacaville—Apricots, peaches and plums promise a heavy crop. Prunes very light and pears almost a total failure.

Davisville—Crop prospects are good. There will be a big crop of almonds.

Phoenix, A. T.—An enormous yield of all deciduous fruits is promised, as there has been no injury by frosts to date. Grapes will not be so abundant. There will be a good crop of dates.

Los Gatos—A thorough examination of the prune orchards in this vicinity makes it evident that there will not be over a half crop this year.

Yuba City—The Sutter Preserve Co. report that they will make an unusually large pack of apricots and peaches this year and also of tomatoes, corn and beans. Cannery peaches are expected to go up as high as $40 a ton on account of the small carry over of last year's crop. C. A. Rand, manager of the local dried fruit plant, says that the Eastern markets are anything but encouraging to packers of dried fruits and that wholesale houses are cutting down on their previous orders.

Salem, Or.—The Willamette Valley will have a bumper prune crop.

SUGAR.

Market continues firm.

GLUCOSE MARKET.

A brisk fight is now on between the Glucose Trust, the real name of which is the Chicago Glucose Sugar Refining Company, and the New York Glucose Company. This has resulted already in two reductions in price locally amounting to 30 cents on 100 pounds, or about 2½ cents per gallon. Owing to the strength of the sugar market and the uncertainty as to how prices will go, there has been no change in the price of syrup in the local market, although in the Eastern market there has been a decline of from 1 to 2 cents per gallon in compound syrup.

MAPLE SYRUP.

The Vermont authorities will not allow any maple sugar or maple syrup to be shipped out as the real stuff this year. The shipments from Vermont will therefore be much smaller this season than usual. Reports from Western New York state that the maple sugar crop will be almost a total failure this year.

The Government Bureau makes the following point-blank statement: "It is conservatively estimated that seven-eighths of what is sold as maple syrup and sugar is a spurious article. Most of the fabrications are entirely harmless, but they are not the real thing."

TEA MARKET.

A. Schilling & Co. Say:

"The appearance of the Russian Baltic fleet in the Orient has already had the effect of advancing war risks to three per cent, and should the Russians gain any advantage over the Japanese the tea situation would be demoralized.

"As the United States takes over 50,000,000 pounds of tea from Japan and Formosa and only about 15,000,000 pounds from China, it will readily be seen that the presence of the Russian fleet in the Orient has become an important factor to tea importers as well as to the insurance companies. A great victory over the Japanese will practically destroy the trade with Japan and make all Japan teas extremely valuable holding."

The Grocery World says:

"The only event of the week in the world's tea situation is England's reduction in her duty of 4 cents per pound. The duty has been 16 cents and is now 12 cents. The effect of this should be to strengthen the market for India teas, by reason of the increased demand which it will give them.'

RICE MARKET.

Hangchau, China, January 24, 1905.—U. S. Consul George E. Anderson writes:

"Experts in rice matters in this part of China declare that the price of this great Chinese staple will fully double in the course of the next three months. Their predictions are based upon the unusually low price of the grain and conditions affecting its export. At present, in most of the cities of this consular district, rice is selling at from $3 to $3.40 Mexican ($1.40 to $1.55 gold) per picul (133 1-3 pounds). Ordinarily the grain sells at from $5 to $5.50 Mexican per picul, or about 2 cents gold per pound. At such a price the rice farmers will make money on about the same scale as would American farmers in the Mississippi Valley States producing wheat on the basis of 80 cents a bushel in Chicago. The present rate therefore is very low, and in spite of a fair harvest of the crop the rice farmers are realizing very little money. The first result of their failure to get a fair price for their product is that they are compelled to sell more of their crop to raise necessary money and to save less for their own use. Most of them will have to buy back some of this grain at a ruinous advance before they can secure the new crop. The present situation, therefore, is especially hard upon the rice farmers, although for the time being it is taken as a blessing for the cooly classes in the larger cities.

"The export of rice from China is practically prohibited by law, but many ways of evading the laws are found, and ordinarily a considerable quantity goes abroad. The Russo-Japanese war, however, has prevented some trade in this line this year, and has materially affected the situation. One notable result of the prevailing price of the grain is that almost every one of the officials in this portion of the empire who collect the Emperor's rice tribute has lost money by reason of his office. The collection of the tribute is farmed out, and most of the officials have had to pay more money for the privilege than they have realized from the sale of rice secured under it."

COFFEE MARKET.

Port au Prince, Haiti, Jan. 4, 1905.—S. Minister W. F. Powell writes:

"The coffee crop of Haiti will be only about 50 per cent of last year's crop.

"From some sections where a large crop was expected and has, until this year, never failed, reports have been received that the crop has been gathered and that there is little more to come in. The reason given for the failure of the crop is the excessive rains in the early part of the season, which prevented it from maturing."

CANNED TOMATOES.

The local market is well cleaned up of low grade goods. Standards are quoted at 95c.

Baltimore, Md., April 13.—T. J. Meehan & Co. report:

"The next 90 days will probably show some lively movement in spot tomatoes. The stocks carried in the public warehouses here are being rapidly shipped out. Buying of future tomatoes has commenced in earnest."

Easton, Maryland—Some farmers in this locality are refusing to plant tomatoes for $6.50 per ton delivered at the factory. The farmers claim they cannot grow tomatoes at a profit at this price. Many have contracted at this price.

CANNED CORN.

Local jobbers are amply supplied to meet their requirements till the new pack comes in. Western is being quoted at 85 to 90c and Maine at $1.35.

DRIED FRUITS.

The market is dull. There are plenty of raisins and prunes for all requirements. Apricots and peaches will be a good crop. Pears, prunes and cherries will be short in California, though Oregon will have a big prune crop. Extensive damage to the fruit crop of the Middle West, told by the dispatches of last week, make prune growers hopeful of better returns this year.

RAISIN MARKET.

Fresno—At the raisin-growers' directors' meeting, held last Monday, A. P. Jordan reported that 23,000 acres had been signed up, leaving 12,000 to be secured by Saturday. An encouraging feature of the meeting was the presence of representatives of El Cajon Packing Company of San Diego and the probability that arrangements will be made whereby several thousand acres under control of that company will be brought in. There is some question as to whether the El Cajon Company can turn over its acreage or whether contracts will have to be obtained from the individual growers, but the belief was expressed that satisfactory arrangements can be made.

Vice-President Tarpey reported that the committee had made no progress toward an agreement with the co-operatives, owing to the absence from the city of A. L. McCray. C. M. Blowers reported on his trip to Woodland, he having been instructed to go there and ascertain the prospect for securing co-operation from the Sacramento Valley growers. He presented a letter from Secretary C. T. Bidwell of the Woodland Sultana Raisin Growers' Association, expressing a desire to work with the company here and giving the assurance that the growers need not fear any cutting of prices by the northern growers. Mr. Blowers said that he found a general desire to co-operate but this year's crop is tied up by a contract with one of the Fresno packing houses. However, numbers of individual growers expressed a willingness to join the new company.

All the banks and business houses of Fresno are using their influence to secure the acreage deemed sufficient to make the association of enough weight to carry influence in shaping the market.

PRUNES.

Local dealers claim that the prune crop of California, in all the principal districts, will range from one-quarter to one-half of the usual California output. J. K. Armsby Co. report that they have received advices to this effect from the Santa Clara Valley, San Joaquin Valley and Sonoma Valley. Mr. Blum of Vacaville reports that the falling of the fruit has resulted in a loss of at least one-half of the expected crops of Yolo and Solano counties.

NUT MARKET.

Santa Ana.—The entire output of the Santa Ana Valley Walnut Growers' Association for the coming year has been sold to Rosenburg Bros. of San Francisco, and the Gregory Fruit Company. Each concern will take alternate cars as they are packed at the warehouse here. The price is the same as that fixed by the Southern California growers at their annual session.

Brazil Nuts—New Brazil walnuts are now in the market. They are quoted at 13 and 14 cents in a jobbing way. This is a decline of 1 cent in spot goods. There are reports of a large crop. In spite of this there has been an advance of 1 cent in primary markets over the prices quoted on the first shipments which were received at New York during March.

Walnuts—It is reported that the current crop of Chili walnuts will be small and of poor quality. Some reports add that it will be late. This means that buyers will have to look elsewhere for their early fall supplies.

Pecans—Eastern exchanges advise an advance, well sustained, of 3 to 4 cents per pound in pecan nuts, attributed to scarcity. There are reports of damage by heavy frosts in substantially all the producing sections. Higher prices are anticipated before the new crop arrives.

BEANS.

The Schultz-Hansen Co. say:

"All indications point to a shortage in white beans in California, owing to the fact that large quantities have been used for hog feed. It is estimated that Miller & Lux alone have used about 40 carloads for that purpose. On the other hand, there are many more pink beans than are required.

"The following from the Grocers' Criterion of Chicago confirms all reports we have received respecting the bean situation in the East:

"'One hundred and twenty-five Michigan dealers, reporting from that number of stations, give figures which seem to be reliable and place the entire supply in the State at 342 cars, which includes net stocks on hand, and undelivered purchases. The total stocks unsold in farmers' hands are estimated at 228,500 bushels. According to the report of the Secretary of State of Michigan last year's crop was upwards of 3,000,000 bushels, which would indicate that less than ten per cent of last year's crop still remains in the hands of farmers and other holders. About 150,000 bushels are required for seed purchases; it would appear that only about 75,000 bushels are available for distribution, or about 110 cars. Last year the reported sales from March 15 to September 1 were 1,307 cars. Assuming that there are sufficient beans in farmers' hands unreported to cover seeding requirements the total quantity to come forward is reduced to approximately 680 cars. On the basis of consumption during the corresponding period last year this would show an apparent shortage of 680 cars.'"

CANNED SALMON.

The market is healthy with a good demand. Jobbers are quoting Pinks, 75 to 85c; Red Alaska, $1.15 to $1.25, and Sockeyes, $1.75 to $1.85.

As we announced last week, the Columbia river packers announced prices on the 1905 pack of Chinooks on Saturday. In regard to the new prices the J. K. Armsby Co. says:

"San Francisco, April 22, 1905.

"A meeting of packers was held yesterday in Astoria. Following prices were mutually agreed upon, f. o. b. Columbia river:

Fancy Chinooks—Talls, $1.45; flats, $1.55; halves, 4 or 8 doz., 90c; ovals, $2.20; 2 lb. nominals, $2.35.

Standard or Pale Chinook—Talls, $1.00; flats, $1.15; halves, 4 or 8 doz., 80c.

Steel Heads—Talls, $1.20; flats, $1.30; halves, 8 doz., 85c.

"Add for key attachment, 5c per dozen.

"These prices show a reduction on Standard or Pale Chinook as compared with 1904 of 15c on talls, and 10c on flats. This grade is Spring Chinook Salmon, selected during packing; therefore it is lighter and not as regular in color as fancy grade."

Seattle, April 20—So far, the few salmon caught have been distributed in the local fresh fish markets. The canneries will be operated only intermittently until the middle of May. The general tone of red Alaska is steady. It is expected that the announcement now officially made that the selling basis on the recent purchase of 130,000 cases from the Northwestern Packers' Association has been fixed at $1.00 on round lots and $1.05 for small lots, f. o. b. Coast, will inspire more confidence. The Coast market is quoted at from 95c to $1.10 f. o. b., red Alaska talls. The bulk of the stock is held at the outside figures. In future red Alaska, talls, packers offer at from 95c to $1.00. There has been no hint at opening basis that will be made by the Alaska Packing Association on the 1905 pack, but guesses on the street make it $1.10 on talls.

Astoria, Or., April 22—Samuel Elmore is quoted as saying: "The 1904 pack is completely wiped out and we start off this season with a clear market to work on. I am informed that even the jobbers are well cleaned up. There are no holdings left. I consider the situation most favorable and look for a good year."

Cigars and Tobacco

Antonia Santaella of A. Santaella & Co. has gone on a business trip to Havana.

Ehrman Bros. & Co. find the demand for their Havana leader, the Optimo, of A. Santaella & Co., going ahead by leaps and bounds. This firm has some surprises in pickel for the trade.

Samuel Newmark of 213 Montgomery street has purchased the cigar stand at 321 California street, which has been conducted for several months by A. Fibush. He will carry the same high grade goods as in his popular Montgomery street store.

Boltz, Clymer & Co. report a rapidly increasing demand for the new sizes of their El Palencia high grade Havana cigars—the Invinsible Chico and the Rex. Their representative in the Northwest—Oregon, Idaho, Washington and Montana—is doing the best ever done by the house in that territory and is reporting some crack orders.

Major Fred S. Burrows, Pacific Coast agent for the Jose Lovera Company and E. M. Schwarz & Co., is especially pleased with the progress made in the distribution of the Lovera's by Wellman, Peck & Co., and of the Rough Rider brand by J. L. Jerichau.

An attempt is being made in the Chancery Court of New Jersey to have the merger agreement under which the American Tobacco Company, the Consolidated Tobacco Company and the Continental Tobacco Company were consolidated, set aside, and the status of the three companies restored to what it was before September 1, 1904, when the merger took place.

According to a government report from the Philippine Islands: "In commercial importance tobacco is the third agricultural product, the value of the manufactured article being a little more than half of the total value of all the tobacco exported, which amounted to nearly two million dollars in 1902. Measured by value of product, tobacco outranks all other products of the Philippine Islands and the output of the 113 establishments for 1902 was valued at $8,740,516, which is about 25 per cent of the total value of manufactures for that year. The products of liquor and tobacco constitute 37.4 per cent of the value of the insular manufactures as compared with 4.8 per cent for the United States. The capital invested in manufactures in the Philippines Islands exceeds fifty million pesos."

According to a report to the Department of Commerce and Labor from Consul Le Roy, at Durango, Mexico, that country imports considerable tobacco from Cuba, Egypt, Turkey, France and the United States, the main imports from this country being of Virginia leaf tobacco. His report is as follows:

Mexico imports considerable tobacco in the leaf, as well as in the manufactured form, principally Cuban cigars and cigarettes, American cigarettes and pipe and chewing tobaccos, and some French and German cigars and Turkish and Egyptian cigarettes. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1904, the importation of Virginia leaf tobacco amounted to 2,468,773 pounds, valued at $147,131 in gold; the importation of all other tobacco in leaf was valued at $32,896 in gold. Of this "other leaf tobacco" the United States also contributed 4,675 pounds. The Netherlands and Cuba contributed 17,332 and 15,890 pounds, respectively, and Sumatra and Germany were next in order, with small quantities from India, Belgium, Turkey, Persia, and even China, part of the tobacco from various sources coming through Great Britain. Higher duties were placed on Virginia leaf last year, and this operates somewhat to change the course of the trade. In general, however, the importation of leaf tobacco into Mexico is increasing, partly through the increased consumption of foreign tobaccos, but principally through the demand for foreign leaf to blend with the native leaf in the manufacture of cigars.

IDAHO.

Juliaetta—Fire recently broke out in the grocery store of J. E. Douglas. The entire building and stock of goods were destroyed. Loss on stock $600, and on building $550.

MONTANA.

Great Falls—F. A. Ferron, grocers, sold out to J. E. Folson.

Havre—Richardson & Richardson, grocers, reported burned out; partially insured.

OREGON.

Ashland—H. A. Palmer, of H. A. Palmer & Co., grocers, died last week.

Middleton—Poole & Ashpole, general merchants, have dissolved, Ashpole continuing.

WASHINGTON.

Puyallup—John B. Gibbs has purchased a one-half interest in the grocery department of J. P. Stewart & Sons. A new firm will be established in new quarters under the name of Stewart & Gibbs. The space in the store of J. P. Stewart & Sons now occupied by the groceries will be used by the firm for boots, shoes and men's furnishing goods.

Starbuck—Jackson & Plane reported succeeding Frank Barr.

Tekoa—Doty & Baker, grocers, have sold out to Fred C. Poole and K. W Tyler, who continue the business.

AN IMPORTANT IMPROVEMENT.

The Bond Scale Co. of Los Angeles manufacturers an automatic weigher that should be in every grocery store except, perhaps, the very small ones.

Dealers have spent a great deal of money in trying to insure accuracy and speed in weighing staples, but here comes a weigher that weighs more accurately than you will do it by hand and does it about eight times as fast. It does not spill either.

Grocers and manufacturers all over the Coast are rapidly availing themselves of the opportunity to economize through this machine, and every wide awake merchant owes it to himself to investigate the merits of the Bond Automatic Weigher.

News of the Coast.

CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco—As a result of his attempt to end his life recently, Joseph R. Watson, a grocer at 399 Capp street, was arraigned before Police Judge Morgan last Monday on a charge of disturbing the peace. Policeman Naylor, who made the arrest, testified that Watson tried to drink carbolic acid in the presence of his wife and children, and that in the attempt to wrest the bottle of poison from her husband Mrs. Watson was so badly burned about the face and hands that she will probably be disfigured for life.

Long Beach—Messrs. Lambrigger and Gunby have recently bought from F. H. Woomer the Descanso grocery store at 116 Descanso street.

Long Beach—W. F. Pascoe, the grocer, recently addressed the town council, protesting against allowing peddlers of fruits and vegetables to ply their callings in the territory bounded by Pacific avenue on the west, the alley east of American avenue on the east, and Fifth street on the north. Mr. Pascoe talked at some length on the subject, calling the attention of the board to the fact that peddlers stopped their wagons just so long as they wanted to. This, Mr. Pascoe claimed, was most detrimental to his business and to all others who carry perishable produce.

Los Angeles—A. Delamastro and J. Musset were recently arrested by Policemen King, Ingram and Close for selling liquor without a license. They were released at the police station upon furnishing bail. Delamastro and Musset have a grocery store at New High and Temple streets, but appear to have profited by the larger demand for and the small supply of "wet" goods that exist on Sundays. In the rear of their store they were selling wine, whiskey and beer by the bottle or drinks, and the officers bought liquor along with a number of other persons.

VALUE OF RECOMMENDATIONS.

How Old Friends Help Establish Confidence in New.

When a customer of long standing brings a friend into your store and tells you this friend is "all right," the dealer seldom finds that he has to investigate any further as to whether this party would be a desirable customer. The high standing of old friends is a good indication of the desirability of the new.

When a manufacturer who has established a reputation for fair dealing and honest goods brings out a new article, it requires no more than his word to convince the firms with whom he has been doing business for years that the new article can also be depended upon as being among the best of its kind.

Consumers are also influenced by this same consideration.

When a brand of merchandise has been on the market for a quarter of a century or so it becomes like an old friend. The housewife has the confidence of long acquaintance. There is never a question in her mind as to whether she will like it or not.

It is this recommendation of high quality that is the best assurance of the permanency of the popularity of the "Schilling's Best" goods. People have known "Schilling's Best" for so long as the emblem of high standing, that they do not question the quality of the goods that bear the label. They have also become accustomed so long to finding that dealers hold the same ideas of value for "Schilling's Best" goods that they do not question the fairness of the price that may be asked.

All the advantages that are carried by the rest of the "Schilling's Best" goods are carried by "Schilling's Best" Coffee. Because it has the "Schilling's Best" mark, the housewife knows that it possesses the "Schilling's Best" advantages of quality and reliability.

The words "Schilling's Best" are to the grocer the symbol of profit for himself and satisfaction for the customer. This satisfaction on the part of the customer carries the additional advantage of good will towards the dealer, which is a very valuable asset.

The grocery trade would be in a better condition if the manufacturers would all protect their goods as does Schilling & Co. by guaranteeing that the goods will be satisfactory to the customer as to quality by the "money back" offer and also guaranteeing that the customer will be satisfied with the price of the goods by refusing to sell to parties who will not agree to maintain a fair retail selling price.

GROCERS GET WISE.

co-operate with them in maintaining prices.

I feel certain that all the mills would have been brought to realize the necessity of recognizing the desires of the retail grocers of San Francisco long time since, had the managers of the local association accorded the movement the same measure of support it has received from the merchants of associations in the other cities of California.

This matter is of very great importance.

It shows the necessity of the management of grocer associations throwing its entire strength behind a movement if we hope to secure its success. Any appearance even of discord among the retail grocers is hailed with delight by the manufacturers who do not desire to accede to their requests.

It shows, too, the necessity of havisg an executive officer who shall devote his entire time to advancing those cases in which the retail grocers are interested since investigation will show that wherever the grocers have won success it has been through the untiring energy and unfailing courage of the secretary, who through his courage and devotion was able to imbue the members with his own confidence as to the ultimate success of the movement in hand.

The directors of the State Grocers' Association have not called upon the grocers of the interior to back the retail grocers of the cities about the bay in their attempt to secure fair retail prices on flour, because, while the San Francisco grocers, as an organization, have expressed their desire for the success of the movement, yet the managers of the Association at no time have used any effort to force the issue.

When the association managers have decided to force the issue with the mills and demand that they must give grocers of San Francisco the protection from cutters to which they are entitled, they can expect and will secure the prompt and enthusiastic support of great numbers of the leading grocers in hundreds of communities throughout the State.

The retail grocers not only in the cities around San Francisco bay, but throughout the whole State of California owe it to the Globe Mills to show their appreciation of the loyalty with which these mills have stood behind the retail grocers to better trade conditions. The only way the grocers can show this appreciation is by handling and advancing the sale of the product of the Globe Mills, on every sack on which they are sure of a good profit.

UNWISE CREDITS.

The Seattle Trade Register in speaking of the recent failure of two well known retailers of the Northwest, says that it "has demonstrated that credits have been ill advisedly given and extended and that there are too many grocers striving for business in Seattle."

This expression of the Northwest shows the truth of the lesson taught by J. R. Newberry at the last convention of the State Association at San Jose when he pointed out that a retail dealer must confine his business to the limit marked by his capital and that an attempt to secure too ambitious growth would result in inability to meet obligations when they came due.

CLEVER ADVERTISING.

Will Help Retail Grocers Regain Coffee Trade Taken By Peddlers.

At the present time several manufacturers are doing very extensive advertising of package coffees, the quality of which is such that it will prove satisfactory to the most particular consumers. These manufacturers are doing a great favor to the retail trade since they are helping to establish the fact to housewives generally that they can be sure of satisfactory coffee at the ordinary grocery store.

One of the most aggressive of these advertisers is the Porto Rico Company. This company has no premium coupons or gift schemes, but has instituted one of the cleverest advertising ideas that has been presented for some time to interest consumers in their coffee and help convince them of its high quality.

Each package of their Ponce de Leon coffee contains a circular slip carrying the information that the Porto Rican Company is prepared to pay $5 for each illustrated advertisement of Ponce de Leon coffee made by one of the school children of California between the ages of 6 and 12 years. On the circular are blanks to be filled by the child's teacher certifying as to the age, etc., of the child sending in an ad.

It can readily be seen that if some little one decides to try for one of the $5 prizes, the entire family will be interested in the success of the making of the ad. When the ad is completed, the child has to get the teacher's verification of her age and the fact that he or she attends school. This, of course, attracts the attention of the entire class and, very likely, of the entire school to the fact that one of their number has submitted an advertisement of "Ponce de Leon" coffee.

When the advertisement is printed it is naturally a source of great pride to all the little artist's friends and relatives and a subject for interesting comment by all the other children of that particular school. The interest aroused by this advertising is intensified by the big fence displays and liberal appropriation of space on curtains and theatre programs together with the house-to-house distribution of samples by experienced solicitors. All these aids to publicity tend to increase the demand for Ponce de Leon, the quality of which is such that the manufacturer feels assured of sufficient repeat orders to warrant their undertaking the initial expense of introduction.

The fact that Ponce de Leon pays the retail grocer a larger profit than any of the other package coffees now on the market, is a thing that the retail grocer should consider. Another fact that should make the grocer feel an interest in the success of the Porto Rico Company's campaign is the fact that this company maintains the retail selling price of its coffee and will not sell to cutters.

After their campaign of advertising had been well started, the managers wishing to increase the interest of the retail grocers in their goods, decided to distribute six solid gold gent's watches of the value of $60 each among those retail grocers who take the most interest in advancing the sale of their goods. Two of these watches will be given to retail grocers in San Francisco and the other four to retail grocers of the interior.

MANY VALUABLE PRIZES.

Grocers' Picnic Promises Sport for All Who Attend.

There are to be many valuable prizes and some interesting games at the picnic of the San Francisco Retail Grocers on Wednesday, May 10.

Director John McGuire has charge of the games and promises that they shall be handled with expedition.

Vice-President Connolly will have charge of the dancing platform and will be assisted by a number of handsome young grocers, including "Bill" Offermann and Charles Suss. There will be a distribution of "Crackerjack" to the little ones.

Director Doyle has arranged with J. A. Folger & Co. to supply a handsome gold watch for the first prize at the ladies' gussing contest.

President Salomon is assisting the various committees.

There will be numerous special boats.

A WARM WEATHER DRINK.

Welch's Grape Juice has the two-fold merit to commend it—it is valuable as food and pleasant as a drink.

With the coming warm weather the consumers' thoughts turn naturally to grape juice, not only for the novelty of the thing, but because so many delicious punches and dainty desserts may be prepared with it.

The Spohn-Patrick Company's traveling representatives are effectively promoting the sale of Welch's Grape Juice, which is now the leader in its line.

Attracting Trade

Good Advertising for Nothing.

From Maine we glean information of an advertising scheme which is new and has a number of commendable features, says the New England Grocer. It is one of those projects with many sides, and opens several avenues through which trade may be attracted to the store of a merchant who carries it out. French Brothers are dealers in general merchandise at Fort Fairfield, Me., and are far enough removed from the large centres of the country to escape the influences of the big department stores and not to feel too strongly of their methods. The result has been that they have branched out for themselves, developed their own plans, their own schemes, and stand as models for many other retailers who are frequently at a loss to stir up their trade.

Interests the Children.

They have gone right to the root of their patronage, one might say, for they have succeeded in interesting the children, and there is perhaps no surer way to win the family affections than to get the children on the side of the merchant. They have opened an advertisement writing contest for the high school pupils, and are offering weekly prizes of $2 to the student who composes the most effective advertisement for their store. No student is allowed to compete for two or three weeks who wins a prize, and thus the interest is recurring, for each of the competitors knows that he will have more than one chance and that there is no danger of his being forced to compete again and again with some bright particular genius, who romps home in first place every week.

On Monday afternoons the advertisements of all the pupils is handed into the committee chosen by the proprietors of the store, the winner is announced, and the advertisement published in the Fort Fairfield Review during the current issue.

Everybody Reads Ads.

"Novel," hardly describes this method of advertising. It is unnecessary to say that a more effective way to get their ads read by citizens in their territory could not be devised. The firm has not only strongly ingratiated itself in public favor by its clever thought, has made friends with all the mothers and fathers who live near by, but it has also placed the young people on its side.

How to Give Point to Scheme.

In working up such a scheme as the French Brothers have conducted, a dealer should take advantage of every opportunity offered. He should not only endeavor to give it prominence through his advertisements in the papers, but should use his influence with the editor to make mention of it in his news and editorial columns. It is not very difficult to point out the educational value of the contest, or the practical effect it may have on the future work of some of those high school pupils, and these and other virtues should be carefully stated and strongly presented. It will be of great help to get a representative committee to decide the contest; not only to select a member of the firm who may have a practical eye as to the worth of the advertisements, but some of the prominent men of the town, a clergyman or two, or perhaps the principal of the high school, who may be induced to say something about it to his pupils and thus give it another little push along.

Business Building on Quality.

The store that is built upon cut prices never has a substantial hold upon its trade. Its customers are attracted by cheap prices and will buy there only goods which are sold cheaper than elsewhere. As soon as a cut price appears at some other store they are all off after the latest bargain.

The dealer who sells a 25 cent package of short smokes for 20 cents, or a 15 cent package for 12 cents, in the hope that he is going to make up the difference by selling the people who buy these goods something else upon which he makes a long profit, is in nineteen cases out of twenty chasing a will-o'-the-wisp.

On the other hand, the dealer who builds his business on quality and is able to convince his patrons that the goods he sells are always reliable will attract a class of customers who will stick to him through thick and thin.

Quality makes satisfied customers and builds up healthy trade; cut prices create a little feverish activity, but in too many cases awaken a lingering suspicion that the store that harps upon them too constantly is not strong on quality.

Of course, there are certain localities where cut price methods may be excusable or even necessary, but in the great majority of cases the dealer who builds on a foundation of quality will have the cut price man distanced in the long run.—Tobacco.

THE VALUE OF DISTINCTIVENESS.

There is a distinctiveness about the flavor of "Sunset" Mackerel that when once tasted is not easily forgotten. It is different from any other canned fish and very delicious.

This is a California industry that deserves the co-operation of every dealer because it is one of the finest products of the State, and "all California."

Once introduced to the trade it wins on its own merits. Try a can once yourself and you will understand why.

ANOTHER NEW GRAFT.

Schemers Plan a Trading Club Scheme in Los Angeles.

Schemers in Los Angeles are trying to establish a trading club scheme which was unsuccessfully tried in San Francisco several years ago. The solicitors are organizing a club of 25,000 members, each of whom pays $1 a year for membership. Each member is given a membership card which entitles him to a 5 per cent discount from certain firms lists of which are sent to them from time to time. The solicitors demand a $50 fee from merchants who desire to have their names put on this list.

The Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association of Los Angeles has taken up the matter and so much publicity has been given to it that the scheme will probably fall through.

TROUBLE AMONG WHOLESALERS.

George A. Kohn and T. B. Coghill, who made up the wholesale grocery firm of Coghill & Kohn, which recently discontinued business, are in the law courts. Coghill now claims that Kohn misappropriated partnership funds and had the bookkeeper make false entries. Kohn enters a full denial of these charges.

Points to Watch

CANNED ASPARAGUS—
The pack has fallen short of expectations so far.

MAPLE SYRUP—
Reports confirm shortage of crop of sap in Ohio and Vermont.

LIMA BEANS—
The situation is very strong and higher prices are looked for within 30 days as the supply is limited.

COTTON SEED OIL—
A shortage in the foreign crops has resulted in an unexpectedly strong demand. Prices are up and will probably go higher.

GALVANIZED WARE—
Higher prices in galvanized iron have stiffened the price on all finished products. These goods have an advancing tendency these days.

TEAS—
There is no possibility of cheaper prices. If the Russians win the impending naval battle, tea shipments will be seriously iterfered with.

BEANS—
The situation is very strong. There is a heavy shortage in Michigan; much rain damaged stock in California, and Europe is taking our beans instead of shipping them to this country.

GALLON FRUITS—
A temporary reduction in price of from 10 to 25 cents per dozen has been made in gallon apples, apricots, grapes, pears and plums, as the association wishes to reduce its stocks. The old prices will be resumed in a very short time.

GALLON FRUITS—
Prices have been temporarily declined from 10 to 25 cents per dozen on all gallon fruits except peaches. Some of them are already being advanced.

PICNIC LUNCHES—
This is the time when the grocers should display luncheon dainties in their windows. There is hardly a day for the next three months that will not have its picnic. The grocer who makes a tempting display will get business that he might otherwise miss.

HOLLYWOOD RETURNS.

C. B. Hollywood of the California Fruit Canners' Association is in town after a "swing around the circle" in the interest of his firm. He reports the markets of the West and South in splendid condition. Jobbers are closely sold up all over the country and they are all growing more interested each year in "Griffin Extras" goods.

Plans for Future.

New Pacific Coast Secretary Praises Mr. Paulding.

By H. W. Thurlow.

To the Grocers of the Pacific Coast:—

A little over one year ago, the plans of organizing a Pacific Coast Grocers' Association were explained to me by Mr. Higgins, secretary of the Seattle Retail Grocers' Association. I at once realized the immense force and power of such an organization if it could be carried through successfully and the immense possibilities for the correction of trade abuses if this power were properly and judiciously applied.

At that time, the thought of ever having any direct connection with Association work was a very remote probability, though, as many of the members of the Pacific Coast Grocers' Association are aware, the progress and work of the individual associations had always been more than ordinarily interesting to me.

In accepting the office of secretary of the Pacific Coast Grocers' Association, I take up the work which Mr. Paulding has so ably brought to its present efficiency with the determination to push it along as energetically as possible and with the assistance and loyalty of the members to endeavor to build up a vehicle of such strength and stability that it will command not only the respect and interested attention of the manufacturers and jobbers of the country, but also their co-operation. I also expect to secure the friendly aid of those retailers who from timidity or other reasons hesitate to become association members.

I believe, from my experience during the past six years in connection with the manufacturing business, that I have become thoroughly familiar with the needs of manufacturers and jobbers as well as with their various peculiarities and their individual feelings for and against associations. I feel that this knowledge will be of inestimable value to our association.

Having personally visited the larger majority of the retail merchants of the coast a number of times and, in most instances, discussed association work, I feel that I am not entirely unacquainted with your aims and ideas, both individually and collectively. With this knowledge and our past acquaintance I hope we may work harmoniously together and accomplish much for the general good of all.

My past experience has already demonstrated that, as individuals, the grocers can hope for absolutely no recognition or consideration of trade abuses from either manufacturer or jobber. But united in one body in each locality and these local organizations formed into one compact unit working smoothly and in harmony, an invincible front can be presented before which any corporation, no matter how powerfull, will quail.

In reviewing what has already been accomplished, I am agreeably surprised and not a little astonished to learn how much real good has been done and also to note the interest that seems to have been created among some of the leading manufacturers and their agents who depend upon the retail grocers of the coast for the support of their various products.

There is a great necessity at this time that this interest should be in-

Mr. Paulding Retires.

Los Angeles Grocers Eager to Secure His Services.

Every grocer on the Pacific Coast will learn with regret that Mr. Paulding has retired from his position as secretary of the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association.

Mr. Paulding would have stayed at his post, although private interests demanded his presence in Los Angeles, if he had not been able to secure a proper successor, which he has in H. W. Thurlow.

How ably Mr. Paulding has fulfilled the expectations of the grocers will be learned from the speeches at a farewell banquet to be tendered him at the Spreckels Cafe on Thursday evening, May 4th, by some of the leading grocers of this city, Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley.

A full account of this banquet will be printed in our paper of next week.

GET YOUR PROFITS.

Men are in business to make money. There are some men who spend their lives in helping those whom they come in contact with. They are not in the mercantile business, though, they are ministers of the gospel.

A man starts a store to make money.

The firm that helps him make money is his friend.

A firm that gets him to buy goods and then forces him to face competition that means that he must sell those goods without a fair profit or else not meet his competitors' prices, is an enemy.

The grocer who sells anything without a fair profit unless he has to or unless he will get enough advertising out of it to pay him does a foolish thing.

No merchant can afford to demand more for his goods than what his immediate competitor charges. If his competitor sells a certain brand of flour that costs $1.20 for $1.25, the retail grocer can not afford to charge more for that particular brand. But if he knows his business, he don't sell that particular brand often. He sells in its stead flour that costs him $1.22½ a sack, for which he gets $1.40 a sack, and which can not be sold by any one else for less and is advertised, even by the big cutters at $1.40 a sack.

This fact explains why ALL the large grocers of Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley and MORE THAN FOUR HUNDRED (400) of the best retail grocers of San Francisco are recommending "A1" and other brands of flour of the Globe Mills to their customers. They say: "It costs a little more, but you will find it is more than worth the difference." And the customer always agrees because it is the truth.

WORTHY OF SUPPORT.

Monrovia, Calif., April 27th, 1905.
Mr. J. F. Paulding, San Francisco, Cal.

Dear Sir:—Enclosed find check for $3, amount of my dues in the State Association to November, 1905. I think the Association has done some very good work and is entirely worthy of support. Yours very truly,

FRANK J. CORNES

Ready for Trading Stamps.

Merchants Preparing to Concentrate Their Influence Against the Schemers.

A final meeting of the various committees appointed to represent the interests of the merchants in enforcing the anti-trading stamp law was held in the offices of the Merchants' Association on Tuesday evening. The State Grocers' Association was represented by Frank B. Connolly and the local grocers were represented by J. Salomon.

There will be several arrests made on Monday of parties giving trading stamps. These cases will be carried at once to a higher court and decisions secured as soon as possible. It is known that the trading stamp companies will seek to rush a cooked-up case through the courts in Los Angeles if possible. The State Grocers' Association will use its best endeavors to see that the interests of the merchants are protected in this respect.

Already considerable evidence has been secured to show how great a graft the trading stamp proposition really is.

At the meting on Tuesday evening there were different prizes shown, mostly of glassware which were passed on by Mr. Dohrmann of Nathan-Dohrmann Company as to their value. The retail price was said to range from $2.50 to $3 for each prize, which was secured by the merchants by paying books containing $5 worth of stamps.

It was decided to retain John Garber as legal adviser to act with Attorneys Son and Wright to defend the trading stamp law before the Supreme Court. The law must stand as good law until it is proven otherwise. It may take a year or so before a decision can be reached.

Until that time at least anybody giving trading stamps will be arrested.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 10th.

Grocers' Day to be Celebrated With Usual Events.

The directors of the San Francisco Retail Grocers have completed their arrangements for the picnic which is to be held on next Wednesday, May 10th.

There have been a great many tickets sold and the list of prizes is quite up to the usual standard.

There will be a buggy for a first gate prize. There will be a gold watch for the best lady guesser and a distribution of "cracker-jack" for the little ones. Vice-President Frank B. Connolly, assisted by J. Wm. Offermann and C. Suss, will have charge of this part of the program. The games will have numerous prizes.

Boats will leave the Tiburon Ferry, foot of Market street, at 9, 10 and 11 a. m., and 12:35, 1 50 and 2:30 p. m. Returning trains will leave the park at 3:43, 5:03, 6:15 and 7 o'clock.

FRESNO ROCHDALE ELECTION.

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

Davenport, Iowa—The Retail Grocers' Association has petitioned the City Council to raise peddlers' license to $100 per year.

St. Louis, Mo.—The "dollar dinner" of the Grocers' Association was a splendid success. There were over 600 at the table. This includes retail grocers, wholesale grocers, manufacturers and salesmen. One of the salesmen present moved that every salesman at the banquet promise to secure the name of one of his customers as a member of the Association by May 1. The drummers all rose and promised to do so. This was received with cheers.

The Natural Food Co. practically arranged the banquet for the committee that had it in charge. The beer, cigars, the pickles, the bread, the ham and the ice were contributed by firms with whom the grocers did business. The menu was as follows:

Tomato Soup (Heinz)
Triscuit Croutons
Pim Olas (Seville Packing Co.)
Tomato Catsup (Heinz)
Pickles (Heinz)
Shredded Wheat Oyster Patties
Sliced Cold Ham (Armour's Star)
Supreme of Chicken a la Shredded Wheat
Potatoes Creamed Peas (Squirrel)
Cabbage and Celery Salad
Triscuit Cheese Balls
Shredded Wheat Ice Cream
Assorted Cookies (Heydt's)
Toasted Triscuit
Potted Cheese (Royal Luncheon)
Coffee (Yale)

Tacoma, Wash.—E. C. Damon has resigned as president of the Washington Grocers' Association. Vice-President C. E. Coone of Port Townsend, who is now Lieutenant Governor of the State, will be elected to fill the position for the unexpired term.

Tacoma—The Retail Grocers' Association presented a handsome silver punch bowl last week to Captain Scott, master of the four-masted ship "Pegasus," whose vessel was the first deep-water ship to go through the 11th and 14th street bridges along the city water way, the opening of which was brought about by the Grocers' Association.

Bellingham—The Grocers' Association spent its last meeting in the consideration of the laws passed at the last legislature at the instance of the Grocers' Association. Much interest was expressed.

Sacramento, Calif.—The Retail Grocers' Association held a special meeting on Friday, April 14th, at the parlors of the Congregational Church, when A. F. Sheldon delivered a lecture in regard to salesmanship and business systems. The members of the Chamber of Commerce were the guests of the grocers that evening.

Albany, N. Y.—The State Grocers' Association has secured an amendment to the garnishment law by which any head of a family may be attached for any source of income in excess of $12 per week. Prior to this, $20 a week was exempted from garnishment, which made it practically impossible to attach a working man.

St. Paul—Secretary Ryan reported collections on bad bills for members amounting to $425 for the previous month. A committee of two reported that flowers had been sent regularly to cheer a sick member who had been confined to the hospital. This association has the following standing committees: Taxation and Insurance, Excursions and Conventions, Advertising, Freight and Express Rates. Hours of Opening and Closing, Miscellaneous and Legislation.

Seattle—The Retail Grocers' Association and the produce commission houses are considering the matter of furnishing wholesale prices to daily papers. They contend that wholesale prices are for the retailers and retail prices for consumers and that it is as unjust to quote wholesale prices to the consumer as it would be to give manufacturers' prices to the consumer.

Cleveland, O.—The association has secured the help of the city to prevent the use of faulty scales and measures. State Secretary W. H. Cook reported that the State Association would soon have enough policies promised to begin issuing premiums. He stated that he had been refused applications from only two grocers visited by him and both of these had since made applications for policies. It is estimated that through the Mutual Insurance Co. the members will be saved from 20 to 35 per cent of the cost of their fire insurance.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The recent failure of a department store was directly ascribed to trading stamps. The Retail Grocers' Association have been working against trading stamps for a long while. The department stores have now decided to discontinue the use of stamps entirely on July 1st.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The Retail Grocers' Association has passed its nineteenth birthday. It has been continuously self supporting. It has fought retailers' fights and while the battles were not always won the association has taught its members not only how to make money but how to save it. It has made business methods more honorable. It has taught its members to buy for cash and sell for cash. To treat merchandise as money and recognize that competition is not necessarily opposition. Its chief criminal offense in the eyes of its enemies is the fact that it established co-operative buying, built a warehouse to house its goods in and allowed its member with the smallest distributive capacity to buy to the same advantage as his largest competitor. This crime (?) the association glories in and rejoices that the member has been enabled to cast off the yoke of slavery to a system that compelled him to buy at long prices on long credits.

Little Rock, Ark.—The Retail Grocers' Association has a committee to consider advertising propositions. They turn down propositions that do not seem to them to be based on good business policy, such as church programs, etc.

Cleveland, O.—The Grocers' Association proposed to discuss the following subjects at its next meeting:

"Does the abolishment of premiums bring extra money to the manufacturers?"

"Shall we sell cereals with which premiums are given?"

"Does it pay to solicit orders four miles from your place of business?"

Denison, Tex.—The members of the Retail Grocers' Association are discussing the advisability of discontinuing the system of soliciting, entailing upon each grocer from $800 to $1000 per year. The butchers stopped this system more than a year ago and the result has been satisfactory. Some of the grocers are opposed to discontinuing it and no action will be taken unless the vote of the general body is taken.

SECRETARY MASON RESIGNS.

The grocers of the country will learn with regret that Fred Mason, secretary of the National Grocers' Association has felt it necessary to retire from the work in order to accept a position of trust with the Diamond Match Co. In a letter to the directors, he explained that he was influenced to accept the position with the Diamond Match Co. because it would be permanent, while that with the National Association was more or less temporary. The directors of the National accepted Mr. Mason's resignation and passed strong resolutions of regret at their loss and the kindest wishes for his future advancement.

SUSTAINS LICENSE LAW.

Washington—The State Supreme Court has handed down an important decision upholding the hawkers' license law passed by the Seattle City Council, and afterward declared unconstitutional by Judge Bell. The law was attacked on the grounds of being class legislation and of the licenses demanded being excessive and prohibitive, but in the end all attacks were unsuccessful and the ordinance stands.

PRUNES IN BRAZIL.

Frankfort, Germany, Feb. 7, 1905.—The official trade journal of Austria states that there is a large demand for prunes in Brazil, which is supplied by imports from France. The French prunes come in tins containing 5 and 10 kilograms (11 and 22 pounds) and in wooden boxes containing 50 kilograms (110 pounds). Some are packed in glass bottles of one-half and 1 kilogram (1.1 and 2.2 pounds). Last October the price paid for French prunes, c. i. f., Rio de Janeiro, per box was about 45 francs ($8.68).—Richard Guenther, Consul-General.

PLANS FOR FUTURE.

tensified and other manufacturers' interest awakened.

You should keep always prominent in your mind, that the stronger you can make your association by increased membership, the greater the ease for you collectively to secure your just rights and legitimate profits without the necessity of a demand or contest of any sort.

The greatest need right now, is to secure or create a medium to circulate among the Coast Association members that will keep them thoroughly informed of the work that is being done and that at the same time can by its arguments and reports, be used to keep enthusiasm active among the members and interest others to join the Pacific Coast Association. To create a new publication at this time is prohibitive, even if it were necessary, owing to lack of funds and the immense amount of work and expense necessary to get such a medium into successful and regular operation and circulation. Such a step has been made unnecessary through an arrangement we have made with the Retail Grocers' Advocate, which permits the use of its columns for association news and arguments and in fighting our battles. It will also subscribe $75.00 per month for association work during the next three months and will continue to do so if the grocers of the Pacific coast will show themselves sufficiently interested to assist in building up this medium of circulation.

The Advocate already has a very large circulation in California, Nevada and Arizona. With an equally strong circulation in Oregon and Washington, we would have an instrument that would enable us to win out any contest that might be forced on us by a firm that was unwilling to be fair to retail grocers.

Earnestly requesting the assistance of all those interested in the grocery trade, I remain.

Yours very truly,

H. W. THURLOW.

ENFORCING FOOD LAWS.

The grocers of Los Angeles are having a lively time with the Board of Health. On April 21st, fourteen grocers were arrested charged with selling coal oil and gasoline without labeling cans. They were fined $5 a piece. In some instances the grocers were arrested for selling gasoline without a label to a man who rode up in an automobile and rushed in asking for gasoline to fill up his tank and the grocers neglected to label the tin in which they gave him the material.

Activity is being displayed in the matter of foods not properly labeled. If the grocers of Southern California will take advantage of the laws secured last year through the State Grocers Association and get guarantees of the purity of the goods they handle, they will be saved much trouble and much expense, since the responsibility for the purity of the goods will then be placed upon the man from whom they bought them.

ATTRACTIVE BILL BOARDS.

All over San Francisco and the cities across the bay, the bill boards are telling of the excellence of X-Ray Stove Polish. Eight-sheet posters of very attractive design have been put up in prominent places all over these cities.

X-Ray Stove Polish has made a decided hit in this market. The many desirable qualities and the good profit that it pays the retail dealer have won it many friends. As a consequence the brokers are entirely sold out and the only stocks now in this market are those held by the wholesale grocers.

Another carload of X-Ray Stove Polish is expected to arrive about June 1st. This will practically be sold on arrival.

30,000 CANS A DAY.

The Snider Preserve Company Increases Its Facilities for Packing Beans.

Few Hamilton people are perhaps aware that thousands and thousands of cans of baked beans are being regularly sent out from this city into the markets of the world, says the Republican News, of Hamilton, Ohio.

The Jersey Packing Company a few days ago installed a machine in its plant here which is capable of turning out baked beans to the number of 30,000 cans in ten hours. The cans come from the wonderful machine in a swift and steady stream, and it affords a sight as interesting as it is wonderful. The machine is called the Glass can filler, after its inventor. Into it the beans and tomato sauce are fed: exactly the proper amount is allowed to drop into the cans as they pass automatically along a track through the machine. The stream of filled cans then pass beside a worker, who places upon each one its cap or lid, after which another machine solders them up, two or three dozen at a time.

The concern is a part of the Snider Preserve Company, and now that it has entered into an agreement with the American Can Company, a well known Hamilton concern, to buy its cans of this local company, its presence in the city is of no little advantage in a business way.

Last year a little over 3,000,000 cans were used. This coming season about 5,000,000 cans will be required. Another thing showing what an advantage the plant is locally is the fact that the farmers of the vicinity are being contracted with to furnish the company three hundred acres of tomatoes this coming season, to be consumed right here at the Hamilton plant in making the tomato sauce which is used in the canning of baked beans.

HAVE MANY FRIENDS.

The Baker-Hawley Company are the latest candidates for favor in the manufacturers' agency business, with offices at No. 578 Mission street. Their field is the Pacific Coast and Hawaiian Islands.

Mr. Hawley, it will be remembered, has for the past several months been the direct coast representative for the Anderson Tool Company of Anderson, Indiana, for their "Dunn" and "Anderson" Computing Cheese Cutters, which have become so popular among the grocer trade throughout the coast, due, as Mr. Hawley put its: "To having the RIGHT cutter at the RIGHT price, with the RIGHT kind of ADVERTISING and the RIGHT salesmen behind it." Mr. Baker has for several years been coast representative for one of the largest glass manufacturers of the East, and is one of the best known and most popular salesmen on the coast.

Both of these gentlemen are well and favorably known among the jobbing trade. They have the right kind of push to secure business and already represent some of the best manufacturers of the East. The Advocate predicts a bright future for them, and joins their many friends in extending best wishes for their future success.

A FARM WANTED.

The University of California wants a farm. The last legislature provided that there should be at least 320 acres of first class tillable land at least half of which should be capable of irrigation. The proposal should contain a description of the land offered and information as to its exact location and character, also information regarding water rights and climatic conditions and distance from nearest railroad. Communications on the subject should be sent to V. H. Henderson, Berkeley. The commission will begin to visit land on May 18th.

AN ATTRACTIVE OFFER.

What the Chas. E. Hires Company are Doing for Dealers Who Sell Hires Root Beer.

Have you seen any of the advertising matter which the Charles E. Hires Company is furnishing the grocery trade in connection with its 1905 offer?

It is in great variety and includes large banners, opalescent window signs, hangers, handsome lithographic display cards—in fact there is such a variety and richness of display that every grocer can find something that will help to make his place more attractive at the same time he advertises the fact that he has a stock of their popular summer beverage—Hires Root Beer, now known to every household in the land.

The Hires offer for 1905 is an exceedingly attractive one, and as it has only about five weeks more to run grocers should at once place their orders with the agents for the Hires people, the Spohn-Patrick Company.

Grocers ordering stock before June 15th can take advantage of the following offer:

With an order for one gross Hires' Rootbeer, the dealer receives, free, 4 doz. lead pencils. With an order for ½ gross, 2 doz., and with an order of ½ gross he receives 1 doz. free. The lead pencils are rubber tipped and of fine quality. They are painted yellow and are the equal of any 5-cent pencil handled by the trade.

In addition to this offer the Hires Company prints the business card of the grocer on their novelty booklet and mails direct a list of names sent by the dealer. At the same time, they send the grocer a copy of their "Ruth and Naomi" picture, 21x16 inches, reproduced in fourteen colors. If no list is sent, the booklets are forwarded direct to the grocer for distribution over his counter.

The great popularity of Hires' Rootbeer has induced them to make another special offer of six beautiful Hires steins with each dozen of rootbeer. These steins are glazed white inside and delicate yellow outside, and are decorated in striking colors. They are highly ornamental and are very dainty. Steins of the same kind would cost the dealer 45 cents. They are shipped along with the rootbeer to the wholesale house and the wholesaler sends them to the retail grocer when filling his order.

Grocers who have soda fountains annexed to their stores can use the Concentrated Solution of Hires' Improved Rootbeer to very good advantage. This concentrated solution, which costs 75 cents per bottle, gives a profit of 1000 per cent when used at the soda fountain.

EPOCH AMONG GROCERS.

Importance of Conference Among Leading Elements of the Trade.

The conference of the cereal manufacturers with the officers of the National Grocers' Association and representatives of the grocery trade press marks an important epoch in the history of the grocery trade of the United States. It also tends to establish one point of value of the National Grocers' Association.

When two conflicting interests are able to come together and mutually agree upon some course satisfactory to both, much friction and loss will be eliminated from business and results will be obtained that could not be secured otherwise.

There is one feature absolutely essential towards making such a conference of permanent value.

This is the intelligent co-operation of the trade press.

Spot goods are in such large supply that it will be some time before the successful formation of the new Raisin Growers' Association will affect the market. While the new association will not attempt to fix prices, there can be no question but that the concentration of the sale of the product of over 35,000 acres of raisin vines in strong hands, backed by the banks, will tend to strengthen next year's market and will give the 1904 carry-over a much stronger tone before the new crop comes in.

There are many careless and unthinking grocers who fail to discriminate between "fair" and "unfair" goods. They can only be brought to the realization of the importance of backing up decisions that may be reached by their representatives, from the insistent teachings of the trade papers.

There are many disloyal grocers who will also be influenced by the trade papers. These men would not be willing to back up the efforts of their representatives of the grocery trade through patriotic motives. Many of them can be made to see that their interest lies in supporting the association, however. This is another value that the trade press can be to the association.

National President Green has been doing some very valuable and active work. With the support of the trade press and of the honest manufacturer he will be able, without question, to keep in line those manufacturers who merely seek advertising by hyprocritical pretense of loyalty to the retail trade.

We hope before long to record a favorable decision on the part of the cereal manufacturers with regard to discontinuing their premiums.

"I WON'T ORDER NOW."

How Hesitation Often Means a Loss of Possible Trade.

While the wise merchant is often slow about putting on his shelves goods that are likely to stay there, the most successful dealer is the man who recognizes goods that are good and takes advantage of the assistance of the manufacturer to increase his trade. One of the costliest sentences of the vocabulary of the business is

"I won't order now."

This is usually followed up by advise on the part of the dealer to the manufacturer to create a demand and get his goods going. The dealer is not sure that the goods will move and does not want to take any chances. When a customer comes in and says: "I have been receiving a number of postal cards telling me about Banner Lye and I think it will be useful to me. Please give me a package."

Then the dealer says: "I havn't got it in stock. Is there anything else I can give you?"

The customer frequently says: "No, I was curious about this Banner Lye and wanted to try some of it."

Then she goes out and down the street and, by chance, sees a tin displayed in another grocer's window. She stops to order the tin of lye. While it is being tied up, she looks around and her eye is pleased with the appearance of some dainty preserves and other articles that have been displayed to advantage.

When the grocer says: "Is there anything more I can give you?" it is more than likely that the lady will decide that she wants some of the other things she has seen. Then with good service and the right quality and the right price, the grocer will have secured for himself a new customer that would not have come to him had he not been able to realize that the man who first stocks goods that are backed by proper sales methods on the part of the manufacturer is going to reap the best harvest.

There is another picture of grocers who allow themselves to be persuaded into stocking up goods that lack quality or which are not advertised properly by the manufacturer. This puts the entire burden of selling upon the retail dealer, and is often a very hard job.

This is not true of Banner Lye. It is being advertised generously through the J. K. Armsby Company and at the same time pays more than 30 per cent profit to the dealers who take advantage of the special deals now being offered.

REDUCE THE PRICE.

The Standard Flour Company has decided to reduce the price of their "Summit Snow" flour, although the profit secured to the retail grocer remains 15 cents per sack. This is explained in the following letter:

San Francisco, May 1st, 1905.

J. F. Paulding, Secretary Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association, City:

Dear Sir:—Please take notice that on and after May 1, 1905, and until further notice, the retail price for "Summit Snow" flour will be $1.30 per 50-pound sack, for San Francisco and vicinity.

We have adjusted our wholesale price to the grocer so that he will be able to make at least 15 cents per 50-pound sack. Yours very truly,

STANDARD FLOUR CO.

NEW ROCHDALE DIRECTORS.

Healdsburg, April 24.—The annual meeting of the Healdsburg Rochdale Company was held last Saturday at Redmen's Hall. It was thought best to make no trade dividend but to extend the business by dealing in some other lines of goods. A new board of directors was elected.

We Help You Sell Banner Lye

WE desire to sell you BANNER LYE and assist you in selling it. We will buy 25 cans of it back and pay you FULL PROFIT. These 25 cans we will give to 25 of your customers. By so doing, these customers will be able to learn of the wonderful possibilities of BANNER LYE as a cleanser—hence, become regular patrons for it.

BANNER LYE—The New Style Lye SELLS. It does not possess the "Shelf Habit." Many grocers tell us they sell more BANNER LYE in a month than they formerly did of all other lyes in a year. WHY?

BECAUSE BANNER LYE is New Style Lye and can be used everywhere—old style lye cannot.

BECAUSE for ten cents BANNER LYE is more economical than any other cleansing article on the market. It cleans everything and can be used everywhere.

BECAUSE our advertising is educational and creates a consumption for BANNER LYE with everyone. We believe in giving direct advertising assistance to the trade and creating a direct demand on our customers.

Our Special Introductory Offer

QUALITY SECURES RECOGNITION.

For more than 100 years the European markets recognized Porto Rico coffee as the best that could be bought. The name "Porto Rico" was a guarantee of quality not only in Spain, to which country Porto Rico belonged, but in France and Germany as well. This coffee was practically unknown in the United States, since its quality authorized a high price and the ready European market saved the Porto Rican planters from the necessity of competing with the cheaper Brazilian and Central American grown berries.

When Porto Rico became American territory, the coffee planters of the island found themselves practically barred from their old markets by discriminating tariffs. They therefore had to create a new market in the United States.

This work is being done on the Pacific Coast by the Porto Rico Company, whose warehouses and offices are at 587-589 Howard street. This company deals only in Porto Rico coffee. A careful selection of the highest grade coffee is being put on the market under the "Ponce de Leon" brand. This is being advertised in numerous ways in order that the public generally may be brought to try it, the manufacturers feeling assured that one trial will result in the securing of a permanent customer. Besides attractive signs on the bill boards and theatre curtains, in the street cars and in theatre programs, this company advertises three times a week in the "Bulletin," printing in each issue a new illustrated advertisement written for them by one of the school children of California. For each advertisement they accept, they pay the little artist $5.

As a consequence there are children in nearly every school in San Francisco who have received a reward for supplying advertising ideas to the Porto Rico Company, and there have been as many grocers who have had doubly pleased customers.

After they had established their advertising system the Porto Rico Company decided to make a present of six gold watches to six California grocers who gave the most assistance in the initial introduction of their goods. The giving of these watches was not a part of their original advertising plan but was decided upon after it was instituted in order that the grocers might feel that any effort they might put forward in behalf of "Ponce de Leon" coffee was appreciated. To the two San Francisco grocers who purchase the most pounds of "Ponce de Leon" coffee in the company's sealed cans from April 15th to August 15th, will be given a watch, and there will be four grocers in the interior who will be similiarly rewarded. Each watch is guaranteed to be solid 14-karat gold and of the value of $60.

FIRMS THAT HELPED.

Men to Whom California Grocers Are Under Obligations For Results Already Achieved.

(By J. F. Paulding.)

Much has been accomplished already for the grocers of the Pacific Coast through concerted effort.

What has already been accomplished is only a small measure of what we would have been able to do had we been given the unqualified support of the San Francisco retail grocers.

I know from personal interviews that the members of this organization desire to co-operate with the various movements we have instituted and feel certain that the enthusiastic support that is absolutely essential to success will be forthcoming eventually.

Through the work of the managers of the Pacific Coast Association, numerous manufacturers to-day maintain the retail selling price of their goods. This is being done not only in California, but in Washington and some of the results of our work are being felt in Oregon, although the grocers there are still waiting to be organized more effectively.

It was through the assistance of the Pacific Coast Grocers' Association that the California State Grocers' Association was able to have a man at Sacramento during the past session of the Legislature. This resulted in the successful passage of laws there.

The State of Washington has secured the passage of an anti-trading stamp law exactly similar to that passed in California. If, through the efforts of the grocers of California, the constitutionality of this law is established, the grocers of Washington will have to thank the Pacific Coast Association for their anti-trading stamp law.

Those manufacturers who are supporting the Pacific Coast Association are:

A. Schilling & Co.
Pacific Creamery Co.
Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Co.
Del Monte Milling Co.
Sapolio.
Globe Grain and Milling Co.
Bishop & Co.

These manufacturers have not only helped the Coast Association in a financial way, but they have always stood ready to co-operate with the retailers in maintaining prices.

When a manufacturer is willing, not only to protect his customers from cut prices, but to furnish funds to help secure needed legislation, their support should be appreciated by every retailer who is benefited thereby.

This appreciation should be shown by substantial orders.

SAFE TO RECOMMEND.

Snider's Chili Sause is an article the grocer need have no fear in recommending to his customers.

Because of its excellence, the sale of this article has greatly increased during the past year, as is the case with all of Snider's goods.

It will therefore be seen by every up to-date grocer that Snider's Chili Sauce should always be in stock, for when there it is as good as sold.

LIKE CONNELLY'S PLAN.

Many Merchants Approve of Proposal To Have Manufacturers Protect Profits.

F. R. Connelly, vice president of the local grocers' association and secretary of the State Grocers' Association, has received many communications expressing approval of his suggestion for employing the great power in the hands of organized retail grocers of the country to insure a profit through co-operation with manufacturers to make it profitable for them to maintain a fixed selling price on their various specialties.

In commenting upon this plan in the National Trade Press Bulletin, National Secretary Mason says:

"Mr. Connelly has evidently given much thought to devising a plan whereby the retail grocers and the wholesale trade may establish relations mutually beneficial to each. In other words, he would seek to harmonize the two elements, retail and wholesale, so that the retailer shall retail and the wholesaler shall wholesale."

In an editorial review of Mr. Connelly's letter, the Inland Grocer of Cleveland, O., says:

"Mr. Connelly recognizes the wide variance in conditions existing in cities where the wholesalers act in harmony with retail interests and those where such co-operation is unknown.

"If his plan is adopted, it would undoubtedly have the effect of improving conditions in cities where the retailers are compelled to meet the competition of semi-jobbers, chain stores and grocery department stores. He makes a telling point in his suggestion that, while jobbers and retailers cannot safely agree upon selling prices, the manufacturer of any article will be upheld by the courts in insisting upon a given price.

"The proposal has so many good points that we commend it to our readers' earnest consideration."

Frank M. Newland of Topeka, Kans., former treasurer of the National Association, writes Mr. Connelly as follows:

"Your report fully agrees with my position as to the good the National has done for the retail grocers. I also agree with you as to what can be accomplished by the National if it should take up the line of action you suggest."

Fred Mason, secretary of the National Association, in a personal letter to Mr. Connelly says:

"It seems to me your suggestions are, for the most part, practicable. I trust that giving them publicity may be the means of producing discussion, which can add to the usefulness of organization work. No system of organization is so perfect that it cannot be improved. It is only by comparison of views and the realizations of actual experience that progress is to be made."

W. J. Galligan, Loveland, Colo., at present a director of the National Association, writes as follows:

"I am fully in accord with your plan. We have worked it in this city with success for about two years. We work hand in hand with our wholesalers and have succeeded in putting out of business those few jobbers who refused to co-operate with us and insisted on offering their goods to consumers. Your suggestion goes further, since it would enable the retailer to conform to prices fixed by the manufacturer. This is an important step and one that will have my earnest and energetic support.

"I feel satisfied that the National officers will consider favorably this plan of yours for the advancement of the grocery trade and, personally, I beg to thank you for the interest you have shown in behalf of organization."

HURTING THE TRADE.

Every wholesale grocer and manufacturer who realizes how necessary proper profits are if the trade conditions of a town are not to be demoralized, will respect the appeal conveyed in the following letter:

Everett, Wash., April 22, 1905.

To Jobbers, Wholesalers, Commission Merchants and Manufacturers operating on the Pacific Coast.

Gentlemen:—The City Grocery, R. D. McNeely, proprietor, 3410 Everett avenue, Everett, Washington, is operating a price cutting grocery store to the great detriment of the grocery business. Believing that you are interested in the welfare of the majority, we ask that you use your best efforts to convince this man that he should cease cutting.

Respectfully,
The Everett Grocers' Ass'n.

WRONG AS USUAL.

Numerous Eastern trade papers are printing an article taken from the "Grocer and Country Merchant," in which Mr. Menzies says:

"Fixed retail prices, with the supply of cutters shut off on one hand, co-operative buying on the other. Such are the alternative policies of the associations."

This is absolutely untrue.

The associations of the Pacific Coast want and have secured co-operation of the members of the various buying exchanges. They feel that grocers' associations should be run in the best interests of the entire grocery trade and they want the active support not only of the small dealers, but of the very largest dealers, who are able to secure jobbing discounts from manufacturers.

Every grocer in the country is in business to make money. Even the cutting grocers are glad to sell an article at a fixed price when they know that no competitor is selling it for less. It is the purpose of the Pacific Coast grocers' associations to co-operate with the manufacturers to have the manufacturers fix and maintain a fair selling price on their leading staples, refusing to sell to those dealers who may cut the price. This policy is to the advantage of every man in the trade.

Where wholesalers are united and are able to assist the retail grocers in maintaining prices, there can be no question but that the retail grocery trade will profit more by working with them than by co-operating among themselves to buy for less money than the jobber can sell them.

No matter what the trade methods of a community are, the association based upon the plans of the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association will benefit the entire body of retail grocers.

SHORT MEASURE GOODS.

More Dishonesty Exposed by a St. Louis Contemporary.

In its last issue, the "Interstate Grocer" of St. Louis exposes more dishonesty on the part of wholesale grocers and manufacturers.

They tell of three different instances in which a certain wholesale grocery house billed packages of mackerel stated to contain 70 fish, but which actually contained only 52. This shortage meant $1.80 loss to the retailer in each instance.

Another retail grocer who bought five boxes of clothespins which were supposed to contain 60 dozen each, and found there was a shortage of 33 1-3 dozen—a little more than 10 per cent of the quantity for which he had paid.

The "Price Current" of Wichita, Kan., tells of three 24-lb. tins of crackers sold to the grocery department of the Boston Department Store of that city, in which one was 3¾ lbs. short, the next 3 lbs. and the other 2 lbs. short, making a total shortage of 8¾ pounds.

T. Charand of 1704 South Ninth street, St. Louis, found 16 lbs. of crackers in a can which was billed to him at 20 lbs. net.

Pacific Coast retail grocers should examine carefully all goods they buy. It is a good rule to weigh, measure and count everything that comes into your store.

The Advocate would like to hear from some of its many readers as to whether they have suffered in this way.

DR. PRICE'S FOOD.

In our price current will be noted the list of Dr. Price's Cereal Food. This is an article of recognized excellence that is being pushed and advertised very extensively. Dr. Price's Food can be obtained from any of the San Francisco jobbers. This article is guaranteed against weavels. It is the largest package of its kind on the market and pays a good margin to the retailer.

THE PROPOSED COFFEE DUTY.

According to the Washington correspondent of the "Grocery World," the suggestion of a duty on coffee was advanced by Republican Senators and representatives in order to sound the public. It is claimed that two, if not three, members of the Cabinet are personally in favor of placing the duty on coffee.

It is thought that the Democrats will lend their support to the movement since Louisiana and Texas have lands which agricultural experts declare are specially adapted to the production of coffee. It is claimed that one reason that coffee is not produced in the South now is because the South cannot compete with Brazilian cheap labor without a duty.

The beet sugar interests are also said to favor a duty because it would tend to induce our tropical possessions to devote much of their land to the raising of coffee which would otherwise be devoted to sugar.

Senator Teller of Colorado favors the movement. He calls attention to the fact that in Colorado they produced 65,000 tons of beet sugar in 1904. Some of the farmers cleared upward of $70 per acre. There are numerous States where beet sugar can be produced to advantage. Coffee cannot be raised in the States, but the soil and climate of the Philippines and Porto Rico make them the ideal places for the development of this great staple.

He argues that if the people of the Philippine Islands can be persuaded to turn their attention to coffee raising, the islands would produce great quantities of coffee and would not interfere with any of the industries of the United States.

The New York "Herald's" Washington Bureau says:

"The sugestion as to tea and coffee is to impose 5 cents a pound on coffee and 10 cents a pound on tea. The imports of coffee in 1904 were 995,043,284 pounds, and a 5-cent tax would raise about $49,752,154. Tea importations were 112,898,801 pounds, and a 10-cent tax would raise about $11,289,801.

"Thus an imposition of the tax on coffee and tea would give Congress $61,040,955 more to spend and increase the expenses of the American table just so much."

The "Herald" has sought the opinion of New York coffee men as to the proposed tax on coffee. It says:

"Members of the trade agree that the duty would not increase the price of coffee in the home, but that it would be paid by the retailer, who now makes a heavy profit. They also said it would serve to exclude cheap and inferior grades of the product."

Secretary Seligsberg of the New York Coffee Exchange is quoted as favoring the proposition to tax coffee.

PORTO RICAN COFFEE.

The Porto Rican Legislature has passed a law to establish an agency in this country to introduce and exploit Porto Rican coffee. The representative will have permanent headquarters in New York, and in addition to exploiting the coffee of the island he will also attempt to further the interests of the island in every possible way.

WHERE THE LOSSES MAY OCCUR.

An Explanation of How Some of Them May be Stopped.

There are three expensive items to the grocer. One is the time consumed in putting up his sugar, rice, beans, split pease, etc. Another is the over or down weight almost always given, and the third is the spill that goes on the floor.

These three items aggregate an expense varying from a few dollars to hundreds per month in every store, but can now be entirely overcome by the use of the Bond Automatic Weigher, which weighs with absolute accuracy and cleanliness in about one-eighth the time used in weighing by hand.

BELLINGHAM ACTIVE.

Reports of the Dissolution of Whatcom County's Association Not True.

Reports have been spread in different papers that the Whatcom Grocers' Association had dissolved. In order to learn the facts the Advocate wrote to Charles W. Jones, who has been its secretary for a long time. His reply is ample proof of the falsity of this statement.

Bellingham, Wash.,
April 24th, 1905.

Publishers Grocers' Advocate, San Francisco.

Gentlemen:—In reply to your inquiry in regard to our association, I would say that the articles stating our association had disbanded are wrong. These reports unquestionably gained circulation from a misstatement of conditions made in one of the local papers.

"The real facts of the matter are that the association managers decided temporarily to throw down the card price barriers in order to discipline some of the small dealers who would not join the association. All the larger men in town then joined in making the "open season" a carnival of low prices.

"The abandonment of the price card was only temporary. As a matter of fact, the demand for the renewal of the card price is so insistent that it will probably be put on again sooner than was expected.

"I have put in my resignation as secretary of the Association. As yet my successor has not been appointed and I am keeping the office open until this is done. I am retiring in order to accept a more lucrative position.

"You may use the contents of this letter as you see fit. Yours truly.

"CHAS. W. JONES."

PREPARE FOR PICNIC SEASON.

The coming of the picnic season should serve to remind the grocer that he wants in stock a line of delicate goods adapted to that trade.

Among the best sellers for picnic trade, as all grocers, who have tried, know, are the Pim-Olas and the "White Label" Olives of the Seville Packing Company. These goods are always seasonable, but are especially acceptable to people desiring to put up a light appetizing lunch.

They sell well, please the customer, and yield a good profit.

MARKING BUTTER.

Requirements of the Law Passed at the Last Legislative Session.

The law passed by the last legislature requiring the marking of packages of butter containing less than 6 pounds and more than one-half pound was signed by Governor Pardee on March 24th. Since the bill was to go into effect 60 days after its passage it becomes effective May 19.

Section 1 of the bill states that no person shall sell by themselves, or their employees any butter in packages containing less than 6 pounds or more than one-half pound, unless the exact weight of butter contained in the package shall be printed or marked upon the wrapper or other container of the butter in letters or figures not less than one-fourth inch high.

Any one violating this law is liable to a fine of not less than $20 or more than $100 or imprisonment in the county jail of from 10 to 50 days, or by both fine and imprisonment.

The law does not require that a package containing one-half pound be marked. If it contains one ounce more than one-half pound the package must be marked, no matter whether it is put up by a commission house or by the retail grocer.

The wholesale butter dealers of San Francisco to the number of 30, met on March 31st to discuss the law. They all expressed pleasure at its having been passed. They felt that one result of the law would be to secure a uniformity in weight of retail packages of butter.

A resolution was therefore passed that the firms represented should encourage the general use as the standard size packages, of squares containing either one or two pounds weight of butter. The one-pound square of butter will be 1½x3 inches and the length sufficient to contain one pound. The standard two-pound square will be 3x3 inches and of length sufficient to contain two pounds.

The wholesale butter dealers agreed that they would immediately notify the authorities of any discrepancy in the butter packages coming within the law. They further agreed that upon receipt of packages in which the law had been violated, they would immediately notify the shippers to rectify the error in future.

Copies of this resolution were forwarded to the Humboldt County Creamery Exchange, the Creamery Operators' Exchange and to the Creamery men and dairy men throughout the Coast who market their butter in San Francisco.

The retail grocers of San Francisco should do all in their power to encourage the butter men to keep their packages to the standard weight. The grocer who buys a short weight square of butter containing, say 1 lb. 8 oz. instead of 2 pounds, would have to mark a half square as containing 12 ounces, or be liable to fine or imprisonment. A general standard would save any confusion in this matter.

FOUGHT WITH TINS.

Masked robbers held up Manuel Henas, an Oakland grocer, in his store at 961 East Fourteenth street, last Saturday night, about 10:30 o'clock. Henas and two friends, instead of raising their hands when ordered to, ducked for cover and the robber began shooting at them. As soon as the robber's pistol was empty, the grocer and his friends started a fusilade of canned beans, canned tomatoes, sardines, oysters and were so much better shots than the robber that they chased him away. The robber escaped. The front of the store was wrecked by the flying groceries.

THEIR FIRST MOVE.

Trading Stamp People Open Up a Campaign Against the Law.

The grocers of the State of Washington secured the passage of an anti-trading stamp law similar in every respect to that passed in California through the influence of the State Grocers' Association. The first step has now been taken toward beating this law.

The National Trading Stamp company of Seattle has instituted suit against Governor Meade and Attorney General Atkinson to prevent them enforcing the trading stamp law, which becomes effective June 7. Plaintiffs allege that the act is unconstitutional because it is destructive of their lawful business; because it is a restriction of trade between the people of the State and of interstate commerce; because it is special and class legislation, and all the other familiar stock legal phrases which should vitiate it, in the opinion of the stamp promoters.

As the California law goes into effect on May 6, the Supreme Court of this State will probably have passed upon its validity before the matter comes up in Washington. The Washington grocers will, therefore, be able to profit by the legal experience of their California brothers.

The lawyers of the California State Grocers' Association feel that the law will be held to be constitutional because it does not prohibit the giving of all coupons, but only of those coupons that are to be redeemed by some unidentified article.

COAST CROP CONDITIONS.

The United States Weather Bureau says: A heavy crop of grapes may be expected, although some damage is being done in the South by the army worm. Caterpillars are damaging prunes and other fruits in parts of the Northern districts. Excessive moisture and continued cold weather has caused a heavy dropping of deciduous fruits in many districts.

Venture—Report from Bardsdale says: "The apricot crop will be very light although the fruit will be unusually large."

Lodi—Cherries and peaches will be about half a crop. Plums and prunes should make a full crop.

San Leandro—The cherry crop is very short.

Elsinore—Apricots are unusually large. The crop will be two weeks earlier than usual.

Chico—In many peach orchards thinning will have to be resorted to. The apricot crop will be far below the average.

Santa Rosa—Agricultural Commissioner O. E. Bremner after a trip through Sonoma county, reports that the prune crop will be lighter than last year although the fruit will be larger. There will be a large crop of peaches. Pears are looking poorly and do not promise well.

Sacramento—Experts report that the pear crop has been somewhat injured by "scab" and is somewhat lighter than last year. Cherries also light. All classes of plums and peaches will have bigger crops this year than last.

Gridley—Pears will be less than one-third crop. There will be a fair yield of cling peaches. Late Crawfords will be about one-half crop. Plums and prunes will be from one-third to one-half crop. There will be a good crop of almonds. Apricots will be good throughout this section.

Geyserville—Cherries are said to be a total failure. Peaches show up better than they did at first.

Santa Rosa—The apple crop will be good. Peaches and cherries and pears are very poor and the crop will be very light.

Pendleton, Ore.—Cherries, prunes, pears and plums all in first class condition.

McMinnville, Ore.—Apples and other fruits, except prunes and cherries, will yield abundantly.

SUGAR MARKET.

Sugar continues firm. Buying continues from hand to mouth because while prices should be higher, a decline may come at any moment because of differences between the large sugar producers.

MAPLE SUGAR.

Bellefontaine, Ohio, April. 22—The F. N. Johnson Company says:

"The season is nearly over in Ohio. Ohio makes more sap maple sugar than any other two States. Our crop is probably not over one-half as much as was produced last year. From other maple sections in the United States we learn that the crop is below average except in some sections of Vermont."

Burlington, Vt., April 13—Maple sugar gathering has practically concluded throughout the State to-day. There will be only one-third to one-half the usual supply.

MOLASSES AND SYRUPS.

Jacksonville, Fla., April 17—The Florida-Georgia Syrup Company report:

"We beg to advise market weak on open kettle goods except in cans, the same being very strong. We look for a larger crop than last year in Southern Georgia and Florida notwithstanding 1904 was the largest ever known."

COFFEE MARKET.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. say:

"The market is very quiet. Little business has been transacted in the past ten days, and roasters are buying from hand to mouth, as they are looking for lower prices.

"Coffee in San Francisco is below parity with New York prices, that market having little influence on conditions here.

"Receipts of coffee at San Francisco to date are 50,000 bags greater than at the same period of 1904. It is estimated that the receipts at this port this year will reach at least 275,000 bags.

"Most coffee held locally is owned by importers and jobbers, little being in the hands of roasters.

"Salvador in a large way is now selling at 9½ cents, while Costa Rica, a much superior value, is selling at 9½ to 9¾ cents."

TEA MARKET.

A. Schilling & Co. say:

"Reports from the East are to the effect that prices have advanced there on Formosa-Oolong teas, but there has been no change locally. It now seems certain that the presence of the Baltic fleet in the Orient will be a very disturbing element in the tea trade."

New York, April 25—John E. Brown & Co. report:

"A large business has been transacted during the past week. Local jobbers seem to be ready buyers when fair rates are offered. The following three reasons seem to make the trade willing to accumulate stock:

"First, prices are low, with no probability of a loss being sustained in buying.

"Second, a fair run of business is reported from all sections.

"Third, there is no telling what the outcome of the expected naval battle will be: it is easy to understand, in the event of a Russian victory, or even a partial one, that tea shipments will be seriously interfered with."

RICE MARKET.

Charleston, S. C., April 22—Samuel G. Stoney says:

"Holders of rice seem willing to carry the small remnant now on hand in this market until the season is further advanced. They feel confident that they can obtain prices somewhat higher than those ruling this week. The recent cold spell through the southern part of the Atlantic States has backened the young rice to some extent. It is not certain that the injury has been material."

M. Phillips & Co. say:

"The market on Japs have at last taken a substantial advance. Mills in the South are holding their goods at ¼-cent above prices quoted ten days ago and few mills will sell at the advance, because of the continual rains in the South preventing planting and from reports there will only be one-half crop next season. We look for another advance in the next thirty days. Jobbers have large stocks and it will be some time before the trade will feel the advance, for the reason that jobbers in San Francisco do not take advantage of an advance, but are satisfied to sell on a profit over what the goods cost, not what they would have to pay to duplicate.

"China Rice—No. 2 is stronger, the market advanced to $4.15 against $4 last quotations. No. 1 is also higher.

"Honolulu Rice—The market is overstocked on this grade and sales are few for the reason that Jap rice is so much cheaper.

"Fancy Carolina Rice—The very fancy grade is almost exhausted, other grades are plentiful."

SPICES.

New York, April 25—John Clarke says:

"The market is active and prices are higher abroad for pepper, ginger and cloves, with very much better demand here for all grades. The stocks are ex-

CANNED FRUITS.

In order to "straighten out" their stocks, the California Fruit Canners' Association, last week announced a reduction of from 10 to 25 cents per dozen on their gallon apples, apricots, plums, grapes and pears. The trade have taken up these offerings so readily that prices will be put back to the old basis in a very short time and some advances have already been made. No reduction was made in the price of gallon peaches, peeled or unpeeled, as the stocks are very depleted.

All districts report a short crop of cherries. Royal Annes will be particularly scarce.

CANNED ASPARAGUS.

The California Fruit Canners' Association says:

"We have been much disappointed in the pack up to date. We have not been able to get 50 per cent of the asparagus we had hoped for. The shortage is due to the rust parasite which has affected both the quality and quantity of the crops."

CANNED TOMATOES.

The local market is well cleaned up. There are a few cheap goods left. They are Napa Valley stock and are fire damaged. They bring from 60 to 65 cents. Standards, 2½'s bring 75 cents, and solid pack, $1.00, and solid pack with peppers, $1.05.

Baltimore, April 22—T. J. Meehan & Co. say:

"Spot tomatoes are attracting more attention because it is thought the damage done all early vegetables and fruits by frosts must be serious and results must be to advance the use of the canned article. There is almost no trading of futures up to date."

CANNED CORN.

The market is loaded up with cheap goods. Western is quoted at 90 cents, although there is some cheap weight stuff of poor quality offered at 75 cents. Maine is quoted at $1.35 to $1.40.

Reports from Maryland as to the acreage of corn and tomatoes are very much along one line and that is that the acreage will be much smaller in these commodities than last year. How much these predictions are worth time will tell. They evidently have had no appreciable effect on the market.

T. J. Meehan & Co. say:

"Very few spots are being sold and next to nothing is being done in futures."

PRUNES.

Reports of shortages in the 1905 crop have tended to strengthen the spot market considerably. All the large distributing centers are overloaded with rain damaged, over processed goods that are a heavy drag. Good goods are not in very large supply and prices are firming.

San Jose, April 29—The Mercury says:

"At a meeting of the Dried Fruit Association yesterday a resolution was adopted that since from the best information gathered from the various sections of the coast as well as a canvass among commercial packers lead to the conclusion that the crop of 1905 will be less than 50 per cent of the crop of 1904, that the growers should not accept a price less than a 3 cent net basis prior to July 1, 1905."

New York, April 26—There has been a decided revival of interest in prunes. There has been a good deal of picking up of the more desirable lots, mainly 40s, though other sizes when the quality is right and the price satisfactory are being taken more freely than for a long time past.

Chicago, April 22—John R. Adams & Co. report:

"Prunes are about the only dried fruit in good supply. So many poor quality goods are being offered, however, that the market is much demoralized."

HONEY.

Los Angeles—The outlook for the coming yield of Southern California has never been so propitious. The heavy rainfall insures an abundance of feed for the bees to work on.

NUT MARKET.

Good walnuts are getting scarcer and are advancing in price.

Fullerton—The Fullerton Walnut Growers' Association expects as heavy a crop as last year when they shipped 55 cars which sold for $113,400.

Yuba City—There will be about three-fourth of a crop of almonds this year in this section. Davisville reports a half crop. Buyers are reported as offering 11½ cents for the Hatch variety.

BEANS.

Limas are reported by the J. K. Armsby Company to be considerably stronger. A decided consumptive demand has begun in Eastern jobbing circles. The distributing center alone took 3,000 sacks. At this rate the existing supply will soon be exhausted. We look for 5 cent prices, f. o. b., south, within 30 days.

The Schultz-Hansen Company says in a trade circular:

"Bean planting for 1905 does not commence until the latter end of May. It is reported that large tracts of land heretofore planted to beans will be seeded to potatoes, because of the high price of potatoes the past season and comparatively low price of beans and poor quality (rain damaged).

"Whether the prospective acreage is going to be small or large, the bean crop of 1905 will come on a market that will be comparatively barren. All points in United States and Europe are looking to California for supplies, and at the ratio of March and April (1905) shipments, the present stocks will be exhausted before the crop of 1905 is ready for market (October 15, 1905).

"It is estimated that there are now in California about 400,000 sacks of beans, as follows:

	Sacks.
Pinks	155,000
Limas	65,000
Washingtons or large whites	70,000
Small whites	50,000
Bayos	35,000
Black eyes	15,000
Various	10,000
Total	400,000

"Of this amount, there is not over 60 per cent available for shipment; balance for home consumption, seed and feed.

"Considering again the California shipments for March and April, 300 cars, and five months to run before the new crop of 1905 and only 250,000 available for shipment, figuring the March and April demand (three hundred cars) as an estimated demand for the next five months, there can be but only one result, higher prices sure and a very light carry-over stock for 1905.

"A heavy shortage is reported from Michigan. Reports from New York are of like effect. There are absolutely no foreign beans in New York City and Boston and there have been large shipments of beans to European ports.

"The situation statistically and otherwise presents a condition that should make the market from a half dollar to a dollar a hundred higher than present values."

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Limburger cheese, good October stock, the best make, is scarce and high in price. New Limburger, which is generally cheap but very poor, will be in the market in about a month."

COTTON SEED OIL.

New York, April 20th.—The situation is extremely strong and should sooner or later bring about higher prices. This will probably come sooner than was at first expected since it has been developed that there is a shortage of the competing seed crops of South America, India and Africa. In addition to this, Linseed oil, which is used to a great extent instead of cotton seed oil in soap making, advanced from 6 to 8 per cent during the week. The English cotton seed oil market followed suit. A buying wave was occasioned and in consequence during the past week 50,000 barrels of oil have been taken for export. This was mostly off grades for soap making. Europe has so far bought 630,000 barrels of oil already used and 200,000 to be shipped later.

CANNED SALMON.

The J. K. Armsby Co. reports that Eastern jobbers are confirming very promptly their early orders on Columbia River salmon at the prices fixed on April 21st. Already two canneries have contracted all that they feel safe in offering and others are in almost as favorable a position.

Portland, Ore., April 29—The Oregon Daily Journal says:

"A careful canvass of the various salmon packers shows that most of them have already sold more salmon than they expect to pack during the present season. It reports that indications point to a pack of about 5 per cent larger than the previous year. The entire market is cleared up of the Columbia River canned fish and packers report that they cannot pack to fill demand for supply."

The Kelley-Clarke Co. say in a recent circular to the trade:

Cigars and Tobacco

H. Rinaldo & Co. have removed their wholesale and retail cigar store from Taylor street to 624 Montgomery street, where they have fitted up elegant and well arranged sales and store rooms.

J. L. Jerichau, San Francisco distributors of the Rough Riders cigars, has so far recovered from his recent attack of rheumatism as to be able to be about again, and when seen the other day behind his counter was as chipper as ever.

Boltz, Clymer & Co. report that trade was never better with them than at present. The past month was their record breaker for April. El Caudillo, their new nickel cigar, is meeting with exceptional success. It is sold straight at 5 cents whether one or a hundred at a time, and being exceptional value dealers are making some big sales.

Herman Heyneman announces that the use of Star Pittsburg stogies and Whip-Poor-Will cigars as a cover for Duke's Mixture has been discontinued from April 15. These goods will hereafter be marketed by the American Stogie Company of New York. Dromio, Honest, Steel Trap and Two Orphans cigars, hitherto used as a cover for Duke's Mixture, are also to be marketed hereafter by the same company.

Ehrman Bros. & Co. are introducing to the trade a new nickel cigar, the Henry Miller, in the placing of which they are meeting with phenominal success. In the first three days of their campaign in behalf of this cigar they placed it on 72 stands, the major portion of which are in the wholesale district. Ehrman Bros. & Co. are going to make a big campaign in behalf of this cigar, and are arranging some very effective advertising to brings its merits to the attention of smokers. The daily papers and many other forms of advertising will be used, and nothing left undone that will tend to bring to public attention the superior qualities of this splendid 5-cent seller.

Governor La Follette, of Wisconsin, signed the anti-cigarette bill, prohibiting after July 1 the sale or manufacture of cigarettes or cigarette tobacco or paper or the giving away of cigarette papers.

New York, April 20.—The National Cigar Leaf Tobacco Association, of which A. Bijur is president, will convene at Lancaster, Pa., on May 1, to protest against a reduction in the tariff on tobacco imported to this country from the Philippine Islands. The association, made up of importers, packers and dealers representative of $70,000,000 of invested capital, will make a strong protest.

The law, passed by the last Indiana legislature prohibiting the manufacture and sale of cigarettes, went into effect April 15. The American Tobacco Company has promised to take immediate steps toward bringing a test case in the courts, and to that end have retained one of the leading law firms of Indianapolis, with instruction to proceed with all possible despatch to ascertain whether or not the law is constitutional.

The Independent Tobacco Manufacturers' Association has lost a doughty champion and able leader in Mr. John Landstreet, who has definitely confirmed the rumors that were current of his resignation from the presidency of the organization. With its president, the association loses one of its most powerful supporters, the R. A. Patterson Tobacco Company, of Richmond, Va., which has withdrawn from membership.—United States Tobacco Journal.

During February, 1905, the Philippines sent to the United States $202 worth of cigars and cigarettes, a considerable falling off in her exports to America, as compared to February, 1904, when they were valued at $1,058. During the month of February, 1905, the United States did not export any tobacco to the islands, according to the tables. Hawaiia shipped to the United States in February, 1905, $20 worth of cigars, and in February, 1904, $540 worth of all kinds of tobacco. During February, 1905, the United States exported to Hawaii the quantity of $47,326 worth of cigars, cigarettes and plug tobacco, a decrease from the exports in February, 1904, when they were valued at $57,510. Alaska sent $70 worth of tobacco to the United States in February, 1905, and $150 worth of cigars during February, 1904. During February, 1905, the United States exported to Alaska 760 pounds of leaf tobacco, valued at $223, and $25,883 worth of cigars, cigarettes and plug tobacco. During February, 1904, America shipped to Alaska $10,301 worth of cigars, cigarettes and plug tobacco.

MOCHA COFFEE IMPORTATIONS.

San Diego—From official reports it is learned that Ballou & Cosgrove of this city imported nearly as much Mocha coffee through the port of San Francisco as all the other importers combined. While they are not the largest importers of "Mocha" on this Coast, the fact that Ballou & Cosgrove are the largest importers of "Mocha" speaks well for the enterprise of the San Diego firm.

News of the Coast.

CALIFORNIA.

Cleone—Rich & Lydick have purchased the grocery business of E. J. Lawler.

Exeter—A. J. Stanley has sold his interest in the Cash Grocery to John Hamilton, who, with Chas. Hamilton, will conduct the business under the firm name of Hamilton Bros.

Los Angeles—Wilbur Grant of Nashua, N. H., has purchased the grocery store of J. J. Beatty.

Los Angeles—In the first half of April one wholesaler and more than half a dozen retail grocers have been arrested and convicted of violating the State and city pure food and oil laws. Of course, not one of those arrested was a malicious violator of the law. But the result was the same; he was taken before the police judge with the crowd of "drunks and vags," and to each was administered the "$25 or 25 days." In every case the merchants plead guilty. There was nothing else to plead. One hinted at ignorance of the law but this did him no good, for ignorance is no excuse at all in the eyes of the law and a very poor excuse in the eyes of men.—Commercial Bulletin.

Los Angeles—The grocers of the Park Side suburb have been in trouble during the week because of the mysterious man in the automobile, who has dashed up to the several stores in the vicinity and asked for a gallon of gasoline. The grocers, who are well supplied with labels and who say they are ready and willing to use them, in order to accommodate the fellow who was in such a hurry, passed out the gasoline without a tag. Grocers on Workman and Sichel streets were entrapped into supplying oil, and were forced the following day to pay a fine of $5 for being accommodating. There is no little indignation among the business men and others at what, they declare, is snap judgment. They say the fellow has been hired to set a trap for them, and declare they would not have violated the ordinance under other conditions.

Los Angeles—The grocery store of Olson & Son, 1625 South Main street, was entered by burglars recently. Five dollars was taken from the cash register.

National City—Burglars recently entered three stores in this place in one night, making a total haul of $11.50. Among the places entered was the grocery of A. G. Williams.

Ocean Park—H. C. Burmister, formerly of Prescott, Ariz., has opened a fine grocery here.

Pasadena—D. H. Winans and V. V. Seymour, who for a number of years have been connected with the Model Grocery have, with N. M. Seymour, opened up a new store at 82 North Fair Oaks avenue. Their fixtures are unique, being mission style throughout, and the stock of goods arranged in a very attractive manner.

Piedmont—Poor marksmanship of a robber who fired point blank at his head at a distance of five feet is all that saved the life of H. F. Sack, a Piedmont grocer, on the evening of April 21st. The fellow took two shots at him but both missed their mark. The assailant than made his escape.

Pomona—A. W. Brown of the Capital grocery has adopted the strictly cash principle of doing business in his store.

Redlands—J. A. Weisenborn, proprietor of the Sterling Grocery, reports a very large increase in his trade due to the advertising he has done within the past three months. About the first of February this firm moved from their old stand on East State street to a larger store on Orange street. The stock was increased and a more liberal form of advertising begun.

San Bernardino—C. B. Robuck has succeeded L. A. Overholtzer as manager of the Rochedale Co-operative Association.

San Gabriel—Samuel Dolly has purchased a lot and will erect a store on it at a cost of $3000, which he will occupy as a grocery.

San Jose—Smith's meat and grocery store at First and San Antonia streets, was entered on the morning of April 23d by expert crackers who rifled the cash registers. The robbers used dynamite in an unsuccessful attempt to force the safe.

San Pedro—J. C. Melody is fitting a new exclusive tea and coffee house. He will solicit business in San Pedro, East San Pedro, Terminal Island and Wilmington.

Santa Monica—E. O. More has purchased the candy store adjoining Ward's meat market and is thoroughly renovating the same. Mr. More will carry a complete line of groceries, vegetables, fruits, candies, nuts, etc., and also have fresh fish for the trade.

South Pasadena—Powell, the Alhambra grocer, has opened a branch here with N. Ledgerwood as manager.

Whittier—L. Cline, who for the past year has been employed as head clerk in the F. K. Weeks' grocery, has taken a position in the general store at Artesia and will move with his family to that point this week.

Whittier—Mmes. L. C. Montgomery, Kittie Swain and Misses Frankie Whallon and Rito Woodruff, of Downey, were hostesses at the opening of Montgomery Bros.' grocery store in the new location on South Greenleaf avenue. Flowers and vines were artistically arranged in the windows, and the front of the room was a bower of beauty, a huge boquet of beautiful carnations from the Weinshank ranch adding to the scene. Mrs. Swain and Miss Whallon and Miss Woodruff presided at the booth, serving excellent coffee to the many guests, and during the day and evening many took occasion to pay their respects to the newly housed establishment.

"In conforming to new conditions, the packer will not act alone. The jobber must be prepared to pay such prices as will permit the packer to realize a fair profit. When the business assumes this basis, and not till then, can we avoid the violent fluctuations which have disturbed the market the last few years. Stability of market; fair profit to packer, jobber and retailer: full value to consumer—these are the pledges to success."

DOMESTIC SARDINES.

The Chicago "Criterion" says: "It is stated that the present prices on three-quarter mustard domestic sardines for both keyless and key opening cans will be withdrawn shortly by the principal holders and a higher figure named. Ordinary quarter-oils have advanced during the week and it is said that all other varieties will do the same before very long. It is said that all the quarter-mustards left at Eastport have been sold and all the half-oils have been sold to a prominent factor in the market. Three-quarter spiced goods are scarce and one-quarter spiced have all been sold. Considerable sales of quarter-oils were sold before the advance, buyers availing themselves of the last opportunity to obtain as liberal stocks as possible before the increase in price. It is believed that should present demand continue all sardines in market will be cleaned up before the new pack is ready for distribution."

MACKEREL.

New York, April 21—Thomas Woodward & Sons report:

"Stocks of all kinds of mackerel are very light. The demand will start up again about the middle of June. Advances are almost a certainty then, especially on Irish mackerel, which is the size principally called for."

Philadelphia, April 21—The few Irish mackerel here are firmly held. It now looks as if this fish will sell for more money before the new catch appears. There are fewer salt mackerel of all kinds than there has been for years.

CODFISH.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Eastern codfish is still high in price, although prices may change at any moment."

New York, April 21—Thos. Woodward & Co. report:

"Stocks of codfish are very light and very few fish are being caught. There is hardly any room for a decline from the present high price before July 1st and then prices will depend upon the supply."

AMERICAN GROCER APPROVES.

The suggestion of Frank B. Connolly, secretary of the State Association and vice-president of the local grocers, of a plan to increase the value of the National Grocers' Association, meets the approval of the "American Grocer," which says:

"A tentative proposition looking to the protection of the profits of the retail grocer has been outlined by Secretary Frank B. Connolly, of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association, and laid before the Associations affiliating with the National Association of Retail Grocers for consideration and action. Mr. Connolly claims that there is only one way that law and order can be brought into the grocery business. This is through the assistance of the manufacturer who has the right to fix and maintain the price at which his goods shall be sold. The manufacturer has the right to refuse to sell to those who cut his price and to demand of the wholesale trade that they refuse to sell firms that cut this price. The manufacturer alone has this right.

"This is the position advocated by the American Grocer for years. We think the entire trade must realize that the interests of the manufacturer in proprietary goods does not cease until the identity of goods protected by patent or trade mark is destroyed."

TO KILL PREMIUMS.

Vive-President Padberg Advises Grocers as to Their Duty.

An interesting letter has been issued to the retail merchants of the United States by L. E. Padberg, vice-president of the National Grocers' Association. In this letter, he urges the grocers to give preference in their sales to manufacturers who do not give premiums. He also points out the deep interest that every merchant in the country has in helping bring about the discontinuance of the premium schemes.

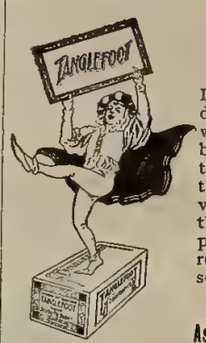
We urge every reader of the Advocate to study the following paragraphs carefully and then do his best to advance the sale of goods on which no premiums are given:

"Now my conclusion is," writes Mr. Padberg, "that we should not stand still in the interim. There will be no settlement of the premium controversy unless the retailers of the country show to the cereal companies that have asked for time, that they mean exactly what they say when they demand the withdrawal of all premium schemes.

"I argue that every retail merchant in the country in other lines is more vitally interested in this matter than are the grocers. A premium of cheap teaspoons take away from the jeweler a sale. A premium of a Morris chair with two or three packages of oatmeal, kills the sale of a Morris chair for a furniture dealer. A premium of a hot water bottle or a bottle of perfume prevents a druggist from selling those goods to the consumer. A premium of a set of dishes prevents the china dealer from selling a set of dishes. The grocer sells the oatmeal containing the coupons which gets these premiums and, for acting as sales agent and advertising man for the cereal company's mail order scheme, he is paid the miserably poor profit on two or three packages of oatmeal.

"We have figured that the general retail dealer should join us in this matter, hence we have invited committees from the jewelers, the hardware men, the furniture men, the druggists and other local business associations to attend our next meeting so that we can show them where they are sufferers. We will then ask them to go back to their associations and bring up the matter and pass ringing resolutions pledging their members to refrain from buying goods that carry premiums. We will ask them to have their members talk against premium scheme goods on every occasion."

New Raisin Association.



Fresno, Saturday, April 29—This was an important day for the raisin growers of California. At a few minutes before 12 o'clock that night, there were lacking 220 acres of enough to make up the 35,000 acres that it was decided necessary for the association to have before it began operations. Before midnight was reached, the total had summed up 35,075 acres. As over 600 acres has been promised from Southern California, the permanency of the association is now assured. The business men of Fresno were very active in securing the signatures of the owners of several thousands of acres. This new company will control the marketing of an enormous amount of raisins. As they will pack their goods to advantage, they will be able to meet all prices if necessary and the fact that the banks are behind the combination will mean that growers who may be weak financially, will not be forced to sell in order to secure funds. The new company will be an element of strength in marketing the crop of 1905.

San Diego, April 28—About 200 persons were present at the meeting of the raisins growers held to-day at El Cajon. As a result of the meeting, nearly 700 acres of raisins will be signed with the association when it goes into effect.

SELLING PRUNES CHEAP.

During the past week, R. H. Macy & Co. have been selling Santa Clara prunes, sizes 80s to 90s, at 4 cents a pound, or 25 pounds for 98 cents, says the "American Grocer." Now, the wholesale price for reliable marks is 3 and 3¼ cents., packed in 25-pound boxes. Other department stores are getting for prunes not quite so good, 5 and 6 cents a pound. At these prices the cheapest seller would make a profit of at least 25 to 33⅓ per cent., and at the same time gain a tremendous leverage on the general public by making prunes serve as an advertising medium.

Amusements

MAJESTIC.

Adele Block and J. H. Gilmore have very strong parts in "Thelma," a dramatization of Marie Cordelli's novel with its scenes located in Norway. The story is full of human interest and the striking conflicts of emotions exemplified by the play is well portrayed by Bishop's players. The scenic effects are quite pretentious, especially in the third act where one of the wild Norwegian mountain passes is shown. Miss Block as Thelma does a beautiful artistic piece of work. George Stuart Christie, Elsie Esmond, George Woodward and other favorites all have very good parts. Next week Barney Bernard is to appear in his new play, "The Financier."

ALCAZAR.

Lillian Lawrence is doing splendid work as Mary Tudor in "When Knighthood Was in Flower." The remarkable success of the play resulted in its being given a second week which has been almost as well attended as the first. Next week will see the first stock production of "The Stubborness of Geraldine." This is another of the Fitch comedies. It is a very interesting satire on modern social conditions.

COLUMBIA.

Julia Marlowe seems to have won the united praise of the critics of San Francisco in her Shakespearean revival. This is not true of Sothern, who is criticized rather severely by all of them. The fact that $3 is charged for orchestra seats makes the lack of a finished production more remarkable.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

The Ferris Stock Company opened its second week with Nat Goodwin's success, "A Gold Mine." Florence Stone has repeated her initial success and the company does even better work than in the opening week. Beginning with the Sunday matinee, Miss Stone will appear in the Fanny Davenport version of "Joan of Arc." The piece will be elaborately staged and quite spectacular in its effects. The productions are remarkable good considering that the highest price for seats is 50 cents.

TIVOLI.

"Florodora" is in its last week. Those who have not seen this pretty opera should make it a point to attend Monday night when "The Mikado" is to be revived.

CENTRAL.

"Shamus O'Brien" is being played this week to crowded houses. Herschel Mayall is cast to splendid advantage in the title role and Miss Crosby makes a dainty Irish lass. Numerous specialties are introduced which add materially to the interest of the play. A thrilling melodrama by a local newspaper man is to receive its first production next week. It is entitled "The Criminal of the Century," and is written by Frank M. Winch.

FISCHER'S.

They have a remarkable clever magician at this theatre in the person of Howard Thurston. He does all sorts of marvelous things with the most apparent ease. Mr. Thurston's performance alone is more than worth the cost of admission. The program includes club juggiers, Tyrolean singers, a monologist, an operatic vocalist, a comedy team and new pictures on the biograph. There are two performances each evening and a daily matinee.

CHUTES.

"Cleopatra Up-to-Date" is again interesting visitors to the Chutes with its crowds of children and its numerous songs and specialties. The Zoo, the Circle Swing and the numerous other concessions insure a good time for those who visit these great pleasure grounds.

PRAISE SACRAMENTO WHOLESALERS.

A circular issued by Hall, Luhrs & Co., a large wholesale grocery house of Sacramento, was printed in the Advocate recently. In this circular they stated that they would refuse to sell any proprietary goods under their control to any retail merchant who should cut the selling price by giving cash checks, trading stamps or similar inducements to promote their sale. Favorable comment has been elicited for this circular from the trade press all over the country. One of our exchanges says:

"This is the right position for manufacturers and wholesalers to take, and it will brace up the customers of the Sacramento firm to cut out premiums and all lottery propositions in connection with merchandising."

ROCHDALE IN OROVILLE.

Oroville, Calif.—The "Mercury" says: The Chico Rochdale Company has purchased the Bruce and Young building in that city and notified the present tenants to move out. They will put in a stock of groceries only, at first, but later intend to branch out into other lines.

Attracting Trade

The Market Day.

How to make a market day successful is an interesting topic to many Western merchants.

The first move is to get the merchants of the town in all lines working harmoniously in a merchants' association.

Then appoint a secretary and a market day committee.

Decide on the date of the first monthly market day.

Take the local editors in on the deal and advertise with them. Maybe one of the editors will act as secretary and general manager.

Every merchant should advertise special bargains on his own account and the association should thoroughly advertise the event.

The program and announcement by an Eastern association at their last market day can be used as a guide. It follows:

Free Auction Sale!

All stock and produce brought to Ortonville on Saturday, Dec. 10th, 1904, can be placed for sale at auction. Services of auctioneer entirely free.

As there will be a large number of people here on the above date there will be great opportunities for buying or selling all kinds of stock and produce. Bring in any stock or produce you have for sale and take advantage of the prizes and big market day.

All registrations for prizes or market are free and must be made at McLane & Chapman's machine shed, opposite First National Bank, not later than 1 p. m., immediately after which the prizes will be awarded and free auction sale begin.

Wanted!

10,000 Pounds of Poultry—A. L. Moore will buy all poultry brought to Ortonville on Dec. 10th, 1904, and pay the highest cash market price. Will also pay one-half cent per pound above cash market price in due bills, goods at trade in any store in Ortonville. Bring in your poultry of all kinds, few or many.

A good farm horse or team, about 1200 pounds each. Buyer here, Dec. 10th, 1904, and if satisfactory, sale guaranteed.

$77—Given Away in Cash Prizes—$77.

For the largest number of ladies in one load from a distance of 5 miles or over, first prize, $3; second prize, $1.

For best basket of cabbage, first prize, $1; second prize, 50 cents.

Also 17 cash prizes of $1 each given for first prizes for matching coupons which will be in all the stores of Ortonville on Saturday, Dec. 10th, 1904.

34 Prizes in Merchandise. 54 Prizes in Cash.

All the merchants of Ortonville will make a special effort to display the very best assortment of all holiday and staple goods at rock bottom prices.

Reap the benefit of our special low prices on Saturday, Dec. 10th, 1904. A further inducement is offered in a novel matching of numbers, for cash and merchandise prizes.

The plan as follows:

A number coupon will be issued and distributed to as many farmers as we are able to reach from the best mailing list possible to obtain. Should any fail to receive them, they can obtain coupons by calling on the committeeman, John Nielson, at the drug store, before 12 o'clock, Saturday, December 10th, 1904.

A duplicate number will be issued of each coupon and all merchants will retain a portion of these coupons, and at 1:30 the duplicate numbers will be conspicuousl y displayed in different parts of all stores, the persons matching their numbers first after 1:30 in any store will receive a cash prize of $1; the next two matching their numbers in any store will receive valuable merchandise prizes.

Bring your coupons with you and join the merry hunt.

It will be enjoyable as well as profitable.

SHOULD BE IN STOCK.

A pure grape juice, such as is Welch's is an article pleasant to drink, especially during the warm days of summer, and as there are many people who desire the pure juice of the grape every dealer will find it to his advantage to keep it in stock.

HELPS WIN TRADE.

While "any old thing" is good enough for some customers, there are others who will travel miles to get good butter, good coffee, good eggs and good hams and bacon. The value of all these different lines depends upon their flavor. The store that sells the best wins friends who are glad to spread the news of the palatability of their purchases among their friends.

This fact is what makes the Diamond "C" hams and bacon of the Cudahy Packing Company so valuable an article for grocers to handle. They are the choicest products of the largest packing house in the world. The hogs from which they are made are carefully selected from the thousands brought daily to Chicago. Special care is taken not only in the curing but in the smoking of the meat. The result is that they not only are of wonderful tenderness but have an especially delicious flavor and also have a very attractive appearance.

All these things tend to make them good sellers and grocers who make a specialty of Diamond "C" hams and bacons are very generous in their praise and they do not hesitate to admit that these goods have assisted them in building up their provision business very decidedly.

GENTLEMEN:—We have sold a good many carloads of your "Rex" hams with pleasure and profit to ourselves, and the entire satisfaction of our trade. We have felt that they were the very best ham on the market. But after thorough test and careful comparison of quality, cure, trim and flavor, we have become convinced that your Diamond "C" is even a better ham than "Rex" and fully equal to, if not superior to any ham ever used in our business.

Points to Watch

ROYAL BAKING POWDER—
Deal on "Royal" will positively end on May 20th. There is no probability of its renewal for another year at least. Grocers will do well to take advantage of the exceptionally low prices prevailing at present. All orders must be in jobbers' hands before the 20th.

CANNED SALMON—
Kelley-Clarke Co., in a strong circular insist that salmon will be higher soon. See the Review of the Grocery Markets.

MAPLE SYRUP—
There is a crop shortage with higher prices and indications of further advances.

RICE—
The market has advanced ¾ cent in the past ten days, and as the mills in the South are closed down, importers look for still further advances and at once.

PRUNES—
Prices have advanced and there is a very firm tendency owing to the certainty of a short crop.

TEA—
Prices have advanced since this season's opening in Japan, where there is an estimated shortage of 20 per cent in the crop due to the cold wet weather.

HOLLAND HERRINGS—
Stocks in Vlandingen entirely cleaned up, and recent sales to United States made at figures much higher than previously. As light stocks in importers' hands become diminished, higher prices are predicted here.

STRONG RECOMMENDATIONS.

When the leading merchants in any line of business unite in unqualified praise of some particular article they carry, there can be no question as to its value.

It is worthy of note that the firms who speak in praise of the Diamond "C" hams and bacons of the Cudahy Packing Company are invariably the largest grocery stores in their respective communities. The recommendations of the Diamond "C" hams and bacons are in no wise perfunctory. They speak explicitly and with enthusiasm. In every instance they have declared that through selling Diamond "C" hams and bacons they had increased their trade because of the delicious flavor and splendid quality of the goods which had pleased their customers and had resulted in bringing people to their stores who did not trade with them formerly.

BIGGEST AND BEST.

Picnic for 1905 Surpasses All Previous Efforts of San Francisco Grocers.

Owing to unavoidable circumstances, the Advocate is not giving as full an account of the picnic of the San Francisco Grocers' Association as usual this year. We print, however, those lists in which the association members will be most interested. The picnic was held at Schuetzen Park on Wednesday, May 10th.

The crowd was larger than usual.

The day was perfect.

Universal praise was accorded Vice-President Connolly and his untiring assistants, J. Wm. Offermann and Chas. Suss, for their splendid management of the floor.

The wheel of fortune proved a source of interest to everybody on the grounds as long as the prizes lasted. If there had been 500 more prizes, they would have gone easily. The prizes were such as to cause much favorable comment.

The games were conducted to the satisfaction of everybody with John McGuire as director.

The bowling alley was well patronized.

The ladies' guessing contest was a center of interest. The names of the winners were not announced.

The names of the winners in the members' target shooting could not be secured for publication.

J. Schwormstede won the scale in the members' drawing contest. His number, 79, was the one drawn first from the wheel. The members who participated will find their numbers opposite the number of the prize they drew in the following list:

FLOUR MILLS ROASTED.

Oakland Grocers Grill the Concerns That Encourage Cutters.

The flour mills that have refused to protect the retail grocers of the Bay cities in their profits could have listened with much profit to the discussion that came up at last Monday night's meeting of the Alameda County Grocers' Association. The discussion was precipitated by a letter from the Hammond Milling Company, expressing a desire to list Queen Anne flour (which would cost the retail dealer $1.15) at $1.40 per sack and asking the Association to advertise the fact to its members.

H. D. Cushing of Oakland said that to pass intelligently on the matter he thought the members should understand the situation thoroughly and explained as follows:

"Representative grocers from Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley, West Berkeley and San Francisco held a conference with representatives from the difference mills of San Francisco about six months ago to ask them to fix and maintain a selling price that would leave a margin of 15 cents a sack. Every mill was represented. We then assured the mills that, if they would grant our request and control the cutters, we on our part would agree, among other things, not to handle Oregon and Washington flours.

"Only one mill granted our request. This was the Globe Milling Company, whose flour all of you gentlemen are now selling.

"The other mills not only would not grant our request but have done everything they could to interfere with an honest understanding of conditions among the retailers that would, unquestionably, force them to do justice to the trade.

"Under the circumstances, I do not see that there can be any objection to granting the request contained in this letter. I do not know anything about the quality of Queen Anne flour, but I do know that the Hammond Milling Company has agred to maintain its prices while the other mills persist in leaving us at the mercy of the cutters, and I think we should show our appreciation."

Mr. Powers of the Advocate advised grocers of Alameda county that it would be unwise at the present time to make any entangling alliance with the Oregon or Washington mills. Mr. Powers called attention to the fact that the California flour mills were now in a compact organization and that it was very probable that the desired protection would be granted to retail dealers shortly. He explained that the matter had been discussed by the managers of the State Grocers' Association and that there was a general feeling among those gentlemen that it would be wiser to take no definite step with regard to Queen Ann flour.

'Frisco Fails in Duty.

Mr. Cushing stated that there was no question of Oakland being glad to assist in the work of maintaining prices. He called attention to the fact that the San Francisco grocers had done nothing to uphold flour prices or the making the mills feel that the grocers honestly desired a profit on flour. He thought it would be a poor policy for them to help maintain any price when the grocers of the other cities of

HOPE FOR THE FUTURE.

Caustic Comment On the Condition of Association Affairs in San Francisco.

Never has there been such a representative body of retail grocers gathered together in San Francisco as that which met last Thursday evening at the Spreckels cafe, on the fifteenth floor of the Call building to join in tendering a farewell banquet to J. F. Paulding, who returned this week to his labors in Los Angeles.

Mr. Paulding was also the recipient of a beautiful silver coffee set handsomely and appropriately engraved.

There were thirty-three gentlemen seated at the table when the toastmaster, Mr. Frank B. Connolly, requested them to be seated. The table was set in L shape in the northwest corner of the banquet hall. It was daintily garnished with flowers.

As the black coffee was served, Mr. Connolly rapped for attention and spoke briefly. Among other things he said:

MR. CONNOLLY'S ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

It gives me great pleasure to be able to see seated at this table so many of the most influential and representative grocers of Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley and San Francisco. Even Los Angeles is represented to do honor to the gentleman who came to our city eight or nine months ago and who has done so much to better trade conditions since then.

We are sorry indeed to have him leave us. But our loss is Los Angeles' gain.

I am satisfied that every gentleman seated at this table thinks as I do when I say that Mr. Paulding has done his work well and that the grocers of San Francisco and other cities around the bay will be very sorry to see him depart. I am glad to say that the work of Mr. Paulding will be taken up where he leaves off by Mr. Thurlow, a man of splendid attainments and we hope and feel certain that he will carry the work to success.

I have known Mr. Paulding for two years now. I have found him an honest and efficient worker. Although I have been the secretary of the State Association I am a grocer and my business demands a greater part of my attention. I do not hesitate to say that to Mr. Paulding is due practically all of the credit for the accomplishments of our State Association since the convention. He can does in the matter of securing the passage of various laws at the Legislature, in collections and the issuance of our reports.

I want to say that I am satisfied that the purchasing power of the gentlemen seated around this table alone, is sufficient to warrant their securing the respectful consideration from any manufacturer for any proposition they might make. If to the influence of these individuals is added the influence of their personal friends among the grocers of the bay cities, I am satisfied that they could secure anything they might ask for. This will be especially true in regard to inducing manufacturers to maintain a proper selling price for their specialties. Since we are all in business to make money I am satisfied that the matter of maintaining prices will be the ultimate paramount issue of the grocers' associations of the United States.

You will note that in one course of our dinner we were served with Petaluma spring chicken "a la Connolly," of course to indicate, I suppose, that if it was a genuine Petaluma spring chicken it must be like me. I want to say that, though I was born in Petaluma, and therefore I may be a Petaluma chicken,

I can hardly be called a spring chicken in truth, because that happy event occurred 29 years ago to-night. I take pleasure in this banquet because I feel that I am celebrating my birthday in a way that I can well feel proud of in the years to come.

We have around our board several gentlemen whom we expect to talk to us of matters of great moment to the grocery trade. The first of them is Joseph A. Stulz, who is one of the fathers of association work in this city. He has a reputation not only in San Francisco, but all over the United States. I accompanied Mr. Stulz to Cincinnati and found on arriving there that he was easily the most popular grocer in the convention. I now take pleasure in calling upon our well tried friend.

Mr. Stulz was greeted with warm applause as he rose to speak. Among other things, he said:

Stulz Speaks for Profits.

Gentlemen and Mr. Toastmaster—This reception is very gratifying. It is also very gratifying to me to see so many grocers of high standing seated at the same dinner table.

I can remember the time when I first began to think of association work. The grocers hardly recognized each other as they passed. It was not an unusual thing for a grocer to load up his wagon with empty boxes and drive through another grocer's neighborhood to make him feel that business was being done there.

I agree with Mr. Connolly that the matter of securing profits must be the paramount issue of grocers' associations. Expenses are higher. Clerks' wages are higher. Many of our most profitable lines of business are being taken from us. The coffee peddlers are making encroachments on our trade. The butter and egg peddler is also taking some of it.

The manufacturer has the right to fix prices at which his goods must be sold. If the grocer demands it of him and if the organization is of sufficient power to enable them to enforce their demands, the manufacturer will be glad to fix prices so that there will be a profit for the retail dealer.

Individually, the retail grocers can accomplish nothing. If they put their shoulders to the wheel together they will get there.

Los Angeles is successful. Sacramento is successful. We have their representatives here to tell you how they did it. You will find from them that it was only by standing together that they secured their results. They did not have any one among the managers of their association to interfere with the progress of the work that was being attempted for their organization.

When the State Association began about five years ago it was a little pup. Now it is a big watch dog. I have never felt so confident of its success as I do to-night. The men seated at this table are the source of its strength. We need all the assistance they can give us.

We need combined effort to secure different methods of handling our leading staples. I think you will all agree with me that we do not get profits enough to pay us for the amount we have invested and the time we employ. Specially do we fail in getting enough profits on our leading staples.

To change this we must have the co-operation of the manufacturers who are willing to help us.

Mr. Paulding has done splendid work for the grocers of the State. His duties have been faithfully performed. I am almost sorry to have met him, for just about the time we have learned to love him he is leaving us.

Mr. Connolly here introduced Harry R. Blair who, he explained, had been the secretary of the Sacramento association for sixteen years and had frequently brought success out of failure for the grocers of that city.

Mr. Blair stated that as a traveler for one of the wholesale grocery houses of Sacramento he had been surprised at the foolishness of the grocers in handling sugar. All were selling it without a fair margin and each one was trying to find out what his neighbor was selling it at and would then sell for the same price or perhaps a little lower.

He had begun his work by asking each grocer he called on one Monday morning if they would be willing to sell sugar at a certain figure on the Thursday following providing all the other grocers of the town agreed to do so, too. Without a single exception, each stated that he would agree but that the others would not do so. They all kept their agreement and the present grocers' association was organized on account of the mutual interest that was then established.

Mr. Blair then continued:

How Sacramento Won Wisdom.

When our association was first formed, the grocers were selling flour on a margin of 4 per cent. We had 52 members out of about 80 grocers. These 52 men represented nearly all of the better class of grocers in our city.

We went to the mills and told them that we wanted a profit and if we got what we wanted we would be willing to confine our sales to their flours. We added, however, that if we could not get profit on their goods, we would introduce outside flours on which we could make money.

We were able to make such a showing of strength that the mills were glad to accede to our request.

There is no reason why San Francisco should not be able to secure the same results. To be sure this is a much larger city than Sacramento, but it can be handled if it is properly organized, just as an army must be properly officered. A captain can control a company. A battalion can be handled by a colonel. You must have a major general to command an army.

In Sacramento we have a fairly large company. It is well officered and has an effective executive committee. We get what we want and we get it without unfriendly feeling, because the manufacturers know our strength and respect it.

Get Profits on Baking Powder.

This was well illustrated a few years ago when the representative of a certain baking powder of national reputation went to a half dozen of our stores and found that they did not seem to carry his goods in stock.

When he urged the grocers to buy, they told him they had all they needed. When he insisted that it was evident they did not have any in stock, they stated that he was mistaken, that they had the goods but that they kept them out of sight under the counter and that they would only sell his baking powder when they absolutely had to because the manufacturers allowed the price to be cut to such an extent that there was no profit in handling them.

When he found that this same condition of affairs extended all over town, he immediately communicated with his house in San Francisco and the head of the firm came to our city and was very glad to enter into an agreement to force the cutters to maintain the price on his goods.

Why did he do this?

Because he had to.

The manufacturer is the man who should protect you in your profits.

I think we honor ourselves by coming to a table to honor a man like Mr. Paulding. How thoroughly he has done your work you can understand from the following fact. One day, during the recent session of the Legislature, I went to one of our bright lights in Sacramento (I refer to Mr. Faucher, who was once Governor of North Dakota) and asked him if he would not be willing to spend some time at the Capitol in order to help out Mr. Paulding. Mr. Fancher said "Help him out! He don't need any help. I want to tell you right now that Mr. Paulding is as good as twenty men."

Mr. Blair's remarks were frequently interrupted with applause. As he concluded, Mr. Connolly informed the gentlemen present that the San Francisco Grocers' Association had among its directors a young man who was energetic, honest and capable; a man who had had splendid training in the grocery business and had then won success as the manager of his own store. Mr. Connolly then introduced Mr. George B. Doyle, assuring his hearers that Mr. Doyle never spoke unless he had something to say and that he then spoke fearlessly.

Mr. Doyle among other things said:

The Fault of the Dealer.

While I am a novice as a speaker, I am old in getting profits. I think that the man who puts his money into a business is entitled to a return for his investment. I want to say now that if a man asks for it right and goes about it in a business-like manner, he is going to get the profit.

Every other interests that has anything to do with the distribution of goods gets paid for their work. The manufacturer gets his profit. The broker gets his percentage. The jobber, the billboard man, the newspapers and all the rest get their share.

The retail grocer distributes the goods. But where does he get off at?

Usually the more the goods are advertised and the greater the amount sold, the less returns do the grocers get for the money they have invested.

It is their own fault in almost every instance.

The dealer has not the manhood to demand his rights. He allows the manufacturer to load him up and then sell some dealer a larger quantity at a less price and allows that dealer to set the selling price at a figure that leaves no profit for any body else.

There should be a fixed retail price set by the manufacturer on his specialties. This is particularly true of flour.

The conditions that rule at the present time are preposterous. Our clerks get dirty handling the sacks. It has to be taken out in wagons. We have to carry it on our books and very frequently we have to turn the account over to our Association to collect. We do this on a number of cents per sack.

There is no sense in our doing this sort of thing. We should only push those brands of flour on which we make a good profit and on which there are guaranteed profits to you.

The grocers of San Francisco would do well to agitate earnestly in demanding this protection as they have united in other cities and would refuse to sell any brand of flour where all they got was the privilege of handling it, we could have it in two days.

I have been working with Mr Paulding now for nearly a year. I am sorry the Pacific Coast Association could not retain his services. I am sure however that he has planted seeds in fertile ground and hope that in a year from now we will have at least fifty articles in this market, the price of which is protected by the manufacturer.

When the applause accompanying Mr. Doyle's remarks had died away, Mr. Connolly introduced A. H. Powers, of the Grocers' Advocate, stating that he had been closely connected with the management of the association movement for the last ten years and had given freely of his time, his money and thought to better the conditions of the grocery trade. He spoke of Mr. Powers as an indefatigable worker and asked him to speak on the relations of the grocers' associations to the trade press.

Among other things, Mr. Powers said:

Value and Necessity of Publicity.

The trade press is absolutely essential to give to the grocers the measure of publicity without which they can neither reward their friends adequately or punish their enemies sufficiently. The Advocate, now and always, has been ready to give to the retail grocers of the Pacific Coast the assistance that is essential if they are to secure success in their Association work.

The first essential for effective effort on the part of the retail grocer is a strong organization. The members of the Association must be able to get together and consider the condition under which they work. The individuals may then give proper consideration to the various trade abuses and decide what should be done to effect a cure. It then becomes necessary to call these things to the individual grocer in order that the Association may be sure that each will know what is expected of him.

It is not enough to do this once or twice. It must be done again and again in order that the individuals may not forget their responsibilities or the possibilities that lay before them.

The manufacturer who goes out of his way to help the retail dealer get profits, is not a philanthropist. He does not take this step because he loves the dear grocer. He does it because he thinks it will benefit the sale of his goods.

This result follows if the proper publicity is given to his effort to better the conditions under which his goods are sold by the trade. It follows, therefore, that if the retail grocers are able to guarantee the manufacturers satisfactory publicity should he agree to co-operate with the trade, that the manufacturer will be the more willing to do as he may be requested.

It also follows that the manufacturer who refuses to treat the trade properly is going to reform if he thinks that his unfair action will be heralded broadcast and that, instead of profiting by his methods, that he will lose money and trade thereby.

I need only refer to the way in which the Advocate has been placed at the disposal of the retail grocers in the past to assure that the grocers will have the same aid in securing publicity in the future. It remains with them as to how general its circulation shall be and to what extent the effectiveness of its assistance shall be increased.

Toastmaster Connolly then introduced Henry D. Cushing of Oakland. He spoke of him as a forceful and conservative man whose ideas were respected not only by the grocers of his own community but wherever he was known. Mr. Cushing said:

Boasts Frisco Grocers.

We all agree with Mr Powers as to the trade paper must act in order to help the grocer, its and the necessity for the use of some means of bringing about concerted action. We recognize too the importance essential for success of a complete and harmonious organization and we feel that the grocers of San Francisco are not able to give us the assistance in bettering trade conditions that we would be poor policy for us to seek to raise the average of profits above that prevails in the Bay cities.

There is no question but that the grocers are themselves to blame for existing conditions. I agree with Mr. Doyle that conditions will not be changed until the dealers themselves demand that the change be made.

Had the San Francisco grocers made a move as they should have we would have secured the price on the well established standard brands of flour long ago. As it is, I am satisfied that out of the 200 leading grocers of Alameda county, at least 175 are pushing the sale of the flour of the Globe Mills, which was the only one of the local mills that would agree to maintain a fair retail selling price on their flour. We are able to do this because we all know that, while we are getting a profit for ourselves, we are giving our customer a good article.

We hope the San Francisco grocers will get together before long and work with us so that we can have a chance of securing a profit on all our brands of flour.

Mr. Cushing's remarks were warmly applauded.

When he was seated Mr. Connolly explained that they had expected to call upon Mr. Sill, president of the Alameda County Association, to follow Mr. Cushing, but he regreted to say that Mr. Sill had been kept away by serious illness in his family. Mr. Connolly also explained that Mr. Salomon, president of the local organization, was attending a meeting of a committee.

He then stated that although it was early in the evening, they might expect the sun to rise shortly and that, like all the rising suns in California, it would be a bright and shining light. He then explained that Charles A. Son was a guest at their banquet. Mr. Son had drafted the anti-trading stamp law which was passed by the last session of the Legislature and would speak to them with regard to its possible results.

Mr. Son, in his initial remarks, said that he did not know whether to be honored or ashamed to be at the table. He rather thought that he should be ashamed to be associated with men who seemed to be so lacking in sense as to continue doing business without a profit. In referring to the anti-trading stamp law he said:

State Association Scored Results.

The committee made up of representatives from the various associations of merchants of San Francisco, which included representatives from your State Association and your local Association, has made every arrangement to enforce the anti-trading stamp law as long as it remains on the Statute books and until the Supreme Court says it is not good law. Your committee has spared neither labor nor expense to follow the work up. It has laid its plans to give the law a full defense and see that the trading stamp companies are not allowed to secure a decision on a faked-up case. Besides Mr. Allan Wright and myself, the committee has retained the services of Mr. John Garber, who is a leader of the bar of California, and is recognized as one of the best constitutional lawyers in the United States.

You all have seen the start of trading stamps. I think we can soon show you the finish of the system.

I want to say now that the State Grocers' Association is entitled to more credit than any of the other influences brought to bear for securing the passage of the anti-trading stamp law. There were many men whom I interviewed in regard to the matter and it was a very general instance to have them show me letters they had received from their constituents asking them to vote for our measures and they did not hesitate to tell me that they would obey the re-

Mr. Son spoke eloquently of Mr. Paulding's efforts at Sacramento. He told the grocers that they would have to thank Mr. Paulding for the passage of two of their laws since both of them at different stages seemed deader than a door nail and that it was only by the clever and energetic work of Mr. Paulding that they were revived and finally brought to a successful issue through the influence behind him. He concluded with the statement that Mr. Paulding was the best lobyist he had ever met.

The banqueters listened with much interest to Mr. Son's remarks and were warm in their applause as he sat down.

Mr. Connolly then introduced Ludwig Warnke of Alameda as one who had served the State as secretary for two years and had worked enthusiastically for the grocers of California, practically without remuneration for himself since, even when he devoted his entire time to the affairs of the association, he only asked for sufficient pay to meet the cost of extra clerk hire and other special expenses made necessary by his neglect of his own business.

Mr. Warnke laughingly said that when he took the office of State secretary, it was explained to him that the work would be very little since there would be a meeting only once a month of the State Board. The work of the first year did not amount to very much, so he accepted a second term and in that year the legislative work was taken up which required him to give his entire time to the work and forced him to leave his business entirely in the hands of a manager.

Mr. Warnke told of the legislative work that had been taken up at that session and of the passage of two laws of very great importance. One was the law to allow the garnishment of the wages of public officials and the other a law allowing the formation of Mutual Fire Insurance Companies.

His account of the difficulties encountered and overcome through organization were very graphically told and were full of interest. In conclusion he said:

Importance of Good Secretaries.

In my official capacity, I came in contact with all the secretaries of the associations of the State.

I learned that those associations that were successful and accomplished results for their members, had secretaries possessed of brains and courage.

The successful secretary must do the planning for his organization.

The members must pay the bills and back up the plans of the secretary with their influence. But as merchants, we must devote our thoughts to our stores, and the reason we have a secretary is because it pays to hire someone to plan things for us and show us how we can profit by effective employment of our influence.

We have been very fortunate in Oakland. In the person of our former secretary, Mr. Hopkins, we had a man who did not wait for us to plan things out and urge action upon him. Mr. Hopkins took the initiative and laid careful plans before us for our consideration. We have been equally fortunate in our present secretary, Mr. Reed, who is a thinking man.

His main thought has always been how to best be useful.

The Pacific Coast Association has been equally fortunate in its secretary, since Mr. Paulding had that happy faculty of not knowing when he is licked.

You have heard how he secured the passage of bills after they had actually been beaten. Mr. Paulding has told me that he had been on the verge of going home, but went back and won out what he was fighting for. It is this faculty of being able to secure renewed courage that makes the successful secretary.

The grocers round the Bay are under heavy obligations to Mr. Paulding for the work he has started. If it were to be neglected, it would be a serious loss to us.

From what I know of Mr. Thurlow, I am satisfied that Mr. Paulding's work will be taken up where he left it and that it will not be long before we will see some of our initial efforts brought to a successful end.

In the cities of Alameda county, we have learned, too, the value of publicity. Mr. Powers and the Advocate have been of immense value to us in keeping our members informed of the work our Association was doing for them.

There were several times when our Association work would have broken down. With publicity and a good secretary, every Association has an opportunity for success.

The secretary who does not plan for his Association is of no value.

A clerk can be hired to collect dues at any time.

Mr. Warnke was applauded to the echo. When he had resumed his seat, Mr. Connolly introduced Mr. J. R. Newberry of Los Angeles. He referred to the fact that Mr. Newberry had fourteen stores in Southern California that were doing business to the extent of a million and a half dollars annually. He also referred to Mr. Newberry as the backbone of the Southern California Association, and that through his assistance this association had been able to accomplish much that would have been impossible without his aid. Among other things, Mr. Newberry said:

Results from Paulding's Work.

I am very glad to be with you this evening. In fact, I am much more pleased than you can imagine to learn how you regard Mr. Paulding and his work, since it was more largely through my influence than anything else that Mr Paulding came to San Francisco. It gives me great pleasure to know that you concur in my judgment as to his ability to fill the trying position to which he was called.

I do not think any of you can appreciate how hard it must have been for him to leave his work here unfinished. The time will come when you will appreciate more fully the value of the efforts he has put forth in your behalf. All the retail grocers of the Pacific coast will find business conditions better because of Mr. Paulding's work in San Francisco.

The wise business man is the one who unites with those of similar interests to fight those who are opposed to his prosperity.

The foolish man fights with his neighbor who should be his warmest friend.

When a man quits fighting, it is time for him to retire from business.

I see around me to-night, a band of men who have the power of controlling trade conditions in their hands.

Two Similar Contests.

You have in the cities about the Bay the same fight we had in Los Angeles. You have lined out the same foe that we picked out for our first fight.

I refer to the flour mills to whom you went to ask that they refuse to throw their strength with the cutters just as we asked our flour mills to co-operate with us rather than with those who forced us to sell flour at a margin of 5 cents per sack.

At first our mills turned us down as your mills in San Francisco turned you down.

The flour mills can be a power for good.

They are like the bronchos of our cattle ranches. You must handle them right if you are to get any use out of them. And you have to break them over again every morning.

We of the south are under obligations to Mr. Powers and your Grocers' Advocate for being able to successfully face the mills and the other manufacturing interests who, because of lack of co-operation, had forced us to do business at a loss prior to that time. Through Mr. Powers, the grocers of the interior cities of Southern California, were brought together in associations and it was very largely through the help of the merchants of the outlaying districts that we got what we wanted.

In our contest for a profit on flour in Southern California we were met with opposition by the mills whose brands were long established in our market, just as you have been met by the opposition of the same class of mills of your territory.

Sperry Helps Southern Grocers.

The Sperry Flour Company was not well established in our territory at that time. They agreed to maintain prices and not to sell the cutters and I then placed an order for 2000 barrels of flour with the Sperry Mills at one time.

I was one of the many who acted in the same way. We did not put in Sperry flour to help to Sperry mills. We did it to convince the other mills that we were not their slaves and that they could not have the power to make us handle their flour without a profit. The other mills said Mr. Paulding was in the pay of the Sperry mills and tried to work other lies to dissatisfy our members. I am glad to say that we were not to be fooled by any such foolishness, and we gained our point.

I am satisfied that the men seated at this table could bring about the same results as we did in Los Angeles if they would act with the same vigor. With no more power than that controlled by the men seated here at this table, you could revolutionize grocery conditions in San Francisco and vicinity. If each man here would guarantee the active co-operation of three or four of his friends, and you could be absolutely certain that they all would unite with you in demanding the same thing in the same way, there is nothing within the bounds of reason that would be refused and the profits of the grocery business could be increased from 4½ to 10 per cent over what they are to-day, just as we have done in Southern California.

Points a Way Out.

If Mr. Bibo, here, and Mr. Doyle and Mr. Cushing and Mr. Hauch and others, backed up by twenty-five or thirty men of equally strong purchasing power, should inform any manufacturer in the country that they could not afford to continue handling his goods unless he changed certain conditions under which they were being marketed and that unless the conditions were changed as they desired they would sell no more of them, but would sell some other similar article instead, the change would be made. This is not theory.

I am now giving you the result of experience.

Of course, in Los Angeles, we have one thing you haven't got in San Francisco—that is, a loyal local Association behind us.

Don't think our grocers have absolute unanimity of action. We have several big firms trying to prevent the success of our movement. Their are quite a number more who are not willing to bear their share of the burden of securing results.

A 30-Cent Profit on Flour.

In spite of these drags, the influence of the active workers for good in and around Los Angeles has been enough to increase our profits on flour to $1.20 a barrel or 30 cents a quarter sack. When "Crown" and "Sperry" came into our market they were glad to maintain that price. They would be glad to maintain the margin of 15 cents a sack that you men about San Francisco bay ask, too, if you went about it in the right way.

Your request is an exceedingly modest one. A profit of 15 cents on a $1.20 margin means only about a 11½ per cent profit. I am willing to assert that there is not a man here who is doing business at an expense of less than 12 per cent.

Get What They Deserve.

I want to tell you now that you are getting just what you are entitled to.

If you ask for a thing as if you didn't expect to get it, you won't get it.

As in every other line of business, you will get only what you are prepared to pay for.

If you will biuld up a combination of strong buyers so that you can throw a sufficiently large purchasing power either to or from a flour mill, you will have gotten together the price to pay them for a respectful consideration of anything you may ask.

I think the flour situation is the easiest of all to handle. It is the best to start out with.

Our first fight was of a far different character. It was one of the prettiest I ever heard of or can remember.

History of a Pretty Fight.

The jobbers of Los Angeles jumped on us with both feet. They knocked us down and licked us to a finish. Then they rolled us under the table and turned away satisfied that they had finished the job up brown.

But as soon as we got our second wind, we sent out communications to the Association grocers throughout the interior. We transfered the field of operations to where we had the jobbers at a disadvantage. We got the Associations of the smaller towns in to action and we soon had the jobbers asking for peace.

It was largely through Mr. Paulding that we were able to secure these results. The wholesalers were very bitter against him then. There was nothing too severe to say about him.

Want Paulding to Come Back.

But now these very men are anxious to have Mr. Paulding back.

Why?

Because during the last year, the grocery trade of Southern California has had a season of unexampled prosperity. Even the jobbers (much against their will) have prospered. Their collections have been better and there have been fewer failures.

These results have been secured through the co-operation of the manufacturers, 84 of whom have named retail prices on various specialties and have agreed to use all their influence to prevent these prices being cut, going to the extent of not only refusing to sell cutters, but also refusing to supply jobbing firms that may sell to cutters after being warned.

I think that this little band of merchants, if they will only get together compactly will be surprised at the wonderful results they can achieve.

Expect 25 Per Cent Gross Profits.

In Southern California, we expect to make our gross profits 25 per cent. We will better the conditions of trade and the consumer, too, will be advantaged since they will get better goods and better service.

Our progress dated with the coming of Mr. Powers, some three years ago. Without the aid of the medium sized stores in the interior towns, we would not have been able to control either jobbers or manufacturers. The great power lies with the medium sized stores when they are well organized and intelligently directed.

Mr. Newberry told in an interesting way how the Royal Baking Powder Co. was induced to maintain the price of Royal Baking Powder in the south. The grocers, he explained, took hold of "Schilling's Best" goods, his house buying $5,000 worth as their first order. They then transferred about 90 per cent of their business to the Schilling goods. He continued:

Story of Royal Victory.

The "money back" guarantee of A. Schilling & Co. enabled us to feel confident in recommending their goods to our customers. Their agreement not to allow their goods to be cut gave us personally the confidence that it would pay us to get our trade into the habit of using his baking powder. I think it will be safe to say that, as a result of the Royal Baking Powder Company's initial refusal to grant our request to protect prices of their goods, they lost fully 90 per cent of the business of many men who had been formerly large handlers of their product.

It was because of this fact, that the Retail Grocers a Unit in Knocking Trading Stamps.

No better example of the value of the trade press to retail grocers has been given than the way in which grocers all over the country are uniting to knock trading stamps. In the grocery trade, the use of stamps is confined almost exclusively to young grocers who are just starting in business and who do not fully realize how foolish it is to give up 5 per cent of their gross sales. On the subject of trading stamps, National Secretary Fred Mason writes:

"Public sentiment and publicity is the great corrective of evils which afflict states and communities. Public sentiment has been forcefully aroused as to trading stamps.

"This being the year when the legislatures of many of the States are in session, anti-trading stamp laws are either pending or have been passed which must in a large measure either suppress the evil or greatly decrease the injury which it perpetrates, as the following list of States shows: Maine, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Alabama, Washington, Minnesota, New Jersey, Massachusetts, California, Nebraska, New York, Delaware, Colorado and Pennsylvania."

In Minnesota the District Court has enjoined the president, secretary and a director of the Retail Grocers' Association of Minneapolis from attempting to persuade retail dealers to break their contracts with the trading stamp companies. The court held that the trading stamp concerns were a recognized legitimate business and that the defendants had no right to bring pressure to bear upon individuals to break contracts with these companies.

PURE FOOD AGITATION.

Southern California Manufacturers Protest Against Enforcement of the Law.

The canners and packers of Los Angeles have protested before the Board of Health of that city against the strict enforcement of the law forbidding the sale of jellies and preserves made by flavoring and coloring apple jelly and apricot jam. They insist that they must have the privilege of selling the imitation goods if they are going to compete in the Arizona market with the packers of San Francisco.

"The Arizona merchants are continually sending orders for a strawberry jam, at apricot prices," said one local packer; "they purchase little of our best goods. If we must label every glass in which apple is added as a filler it will mean that they will buy the northern product which contains more apple but is not so labeled."

The board finally adopted a rule that all adulterated fruits, jams and vegetables sold for local consumption must be labeled, showing just what ingredients are used, this rule to go into effect June 1. The rule will not be enforced for the present on goods shipped outside of the State. Health Officer Powers was instructed to communicate with the health officers of San Francisco and San Jose to the end that a similar rule governing fruits and jams packed for foreign consumption shall be adopted in the three cities at the same time.

THE CAUSE OF SOME FAILURES.

So many dealers allow their customers to run their business for them that it is no wonder that they cannot compete with the man who runs his business himself. Of course it is easy to get just what every customer wants, whether it is wholesome or not, profitable or is sold at cost. But where does the profit come in?

The dealer who knows his business will look out for the article that has quality and profit as well. They are always to be found if you wish to take the trouble to open samples and examine the contents instead of depending upon the brand.

In this connection it may be mentioned that "Sunset" Mackerel, a California canned fish, prepared in olive oil and flavors, is as choice an article of its kind as can be packed.

The profit is large, and if you will recommend them to your trade, your patrons will think better of you than if you keep on selling them some Eastern or foreign article of higher price and lower quality.

TEA GROWERS COMPLAIN.

London, England, Feb. 8, 1905.—U. S. Consul General H. Clay Evans writes:

"A deputation from the India Tea Association called upon the Chancellor of the Exchequer a few days ago to lay before him the condition of the tea industry of India, with an appeal for the reduction of the tax (tariff) on the imports of tea into the United Kingdom.

"It was shown that India has under cultivation 525,000 acres of tea and produces over 200,000,000 pounds of tea per annum. They claimed that the present tax of 16 cents per pound puts a burden upon the tea grower in India and Ceylon (British colonies) of $66 per acre per annum.

"The capital invested in India in the tea industry amounts to from $97,330,000 to $121,662,000. In 1866, China furnished the United Kingdom with 114,000,000 pounds of tea, or about 96 per cent of the consumption, while in 1904 only 4 to 5 per cent came from China. India now furnishes 60 per cent and over (about 155,000,000 pounds), while Ceylon furnishes more than 31 per cent (about 80,000,000 pounds), or the two combined 92 per cent of the tea consumed.

"The per capita consumption had increased from 3½ pounds in 1866 to over 6 pounds per head of population in 1904. In the Netherlands the consumption of tea per head per annum is 1.48 pounds; in the United States, 1.09 pounds; in Russia, 0.93 pound; in Germany, 0.12 pound, and in France, 0.06 pound."

BEST PRESERVATIVE FOR EGGS.

The Department of Agriculture recommends water-glass as the most effective method for keeping eggs, next to cold storage. Water-glass is commonly sold in two forms; a sirupy liquid about the consistency of molasses, and a powder. The more popular liquid form is sometimes sold wholesale as low as 1¾ cents per pound in carboy lots. The retail price varies, though 10 cents per pound seems a common price. Dissolve one part of the sirup thick water-glass in ten parts, by measure, of water. Much of the water-glass offered for sale is very alkaline, which is a decided fault. Pure water should be used in making the solution, and it is best to first boil the water, then cooling it. Place the eggs in a clean vessel and cover with the solution. If wooden kegs or barrels are used they should be thoroughly scalded. The eggs should be stored in a cool place; this is important. It is best not to wash the eggs before packing, as this removes the natural mucilaginous coating on the outside of the shell. One gallon of water-glass is said to be sufficient for fifty dozen eggs if they are properly packed.

PACKERS OF PURE FOOD GOODS.

The Pure Food Packing Company find the demand for their various high-grade products steadily on the increase. The chloride of lime, ammonia and bluing put up under the "Pure Food" brand are articles that every grocer should carry, as they always give satisfaction to the customer and repeat readily.

The Pure Food Packing Company are packers of high-grade pickles (mixed, plain, German and Mexican hot) and chow-chow.

Grocers will find it to their interest to call on the Pure Food Company when they are stocking with goods packed by them.

Cigars and Tobacco

A. G. Herr has been appointed San Francisco representative of H. N. Martin & Co., manufacturers of Martin's Navy Plug and Rose Wine.

The M. Blaskower Co. are making a deal in Nathan Hale cigars, whereby they give free 100 with each thousand ordered. The new size Nathan Hale, the Nathan Hale Special, is proving a hit. It is larger than the old sizes and meets the wants of those who demand a big smoke for their money.

In April Ehrman Bros. & Co. placed nearly a million Optimos in their territory, and still the demand keeps right on increasing. It is now getting to be an accepted fact that if a man wants a high grade cigar the Optimo is the one that he will accept without a question if he does not demand it. It certainly is the big seller of this market.

Tillmann & Bendel report an exceptional demand for Recruit, Cremo and Cremo Exports. The new stock of Sanchez & Haya, clear Havana, is of exceptional quality and the wrapper of exceptionally fine colors. They are receiving large orders for plug tobaccos under the drop shipments. They are also meeting with fine success in placing Red Top Stogies, owing to the fine qualities of the goods.

The Henry Miller, the new 5-cent cigar, which Ehrman Bros. & Co. are introducing to the trade, has caught on beyond the most sanguine expectations of the firm. In ten days they have placed upwards of 40,000 of these cigars and still the orders keep coming in. The firm are arranging an advertising program, which will make it easy for dealers. Liberal spaces have been taken in all the leading papers for the purpose of exploiting the merits of the Henry Miller, and as the cigar has quality its future sale is assured.

The R. A. Patterson Tobacco Co. recently shipped two solid carloads of its products to Nome, Alaska. One car was loaded with Lucky Strike and the other with the Westover brand made by the concern. Each car contained about 24,000 pounds, making a total of nearly one-third as much as the new navy contract for which bids were opened recently. The value of the shipment is about $30,000.

The total output of cigars for March was 586,746,910, compared with 527,7 275,270 during March last year, an increase of 59,672,000. For the nine month period of the fiscal year, ending March 30, 1905, the total output was 5,120,759,240, against 5,015,217,050 during the corresponding period a year ago, an increase of 105,541,190. It is interesting to note that more than one-half of this increase was in March.

The agreement entered into by the proprietors of retail cigar stores in St. Louis, to close their doors on Sundays hereafter, only lasted one week. The first Sunday that the closing of saloons and barber shops was enforced, the cigar stores also closed, but on the second Sunday one or two of the cigar stores were open for business and now all have signified their intention to go back to their old custom.

The Tampa correspondent of Tobacco writes to that Journal: A. Santaella & Co. are just now beginning upon what promises to be one of the finest factory settings in the Tampa collection of fine cigar factories. A German landscape gardener is laying out the grounds, giving his entire attention to the surroundings of this handsome factory. It is safe to predict that future visitors to Tampa and home people also will visit the great Santaella cigar factory as a model of its kind, one of the attractions of Tampa.

The Cigar Makers' International nion is endeavoring to establish a branch in the city of Havana. A start has already been made, and a little handful of some twenty cigar makers out of the many thousands in the city, have applied for a charter. This is the outcome of an official visit of International President George W. Perkins to the Cuban capital during the past winter. In his official report of this visit recently made public, President Perkins expresses little hope for any immediate success. He characterizes present conditions in Cuba as frightfully deplorable, from the union standpoint. Race prejudice, he says, is responsible for this.

Apropos of the slot machine tangle in San Francisco, a situation which recently arose in Denver, Colo., is an example of the puzzle that these instruments present to the local authorities of various cities. Not long ago Chief-of-Police Delaney issued an order abolishing slot machines in cigar stores, saloons and other public places on the grounds that they were gambling devices. A few days later, however, apparently having changed his mind, he issued a new order permitting their reinstallment. The cause of the original order, it seems, had been a "squeal" on the part of several saloonkeepers and others whose machines had played them false, with considerable loss resulting. Indeed, the views on the part of the owners on the morality of the machines seems largely to depend on what the latter produce. For instance, in a small Western town there is a cigar dealer who, after running a machine in his place for years, has now arrived at the firm conclusion that the instruments are inventions of the evil one. One Saturday night, it seems, a customer rolled in, and in true breezy Western fashion, began putting $5 on flushes. A successful draw to a flush on the machine netted eight five-cent cigars for a nickel, so that for $5 the number won would be 800. Fortune favored the plunger until he found that he had 40,000 cigars to his credit. In a last heavy bet, however, he was unlucky, and the number was reduced to 20,000. But the cigar dealer was far from satisfied, and when the customer desired to cash in at once, put him off until Monday. In the meantime he hastened off to his lawyer with his tale of woe. The latter declared that the debt being a gambling one need not be paid. The upshot of it was that when the customer came round on Monday with a handcart to collect his cigars, the dealer offered him $18 to take or leave, as he pleased. The offer was refused with scorn, and now the dealer has lost a customer, but acquired new moral views.—U. S. Tobacco Journal.

GROCERS SELL ORANGES.

New York, March 13—There are approximately 11,000 retail grocery stores in Greater New York. They all buy oranges. Where they once bought Floridas exclusively, they are now buying Californias. These grocers handle on an average at least one box a day each and several handle two or three boxes daily. This channel of distribution alone is providing an outlet for an enormous quantity of California oranges.

TRADING STAMP LOSES.

The Sperry & Hutchinson Trading Stamp Company have lost a case that will effect them very seriously. They brought suit against a broker demanding that he be enjoined from buying trading stamps from the public and giving them to his customers. The decision is a complete victory for the dealers. It holds that the court cannot enjoin the broker from buying the stamps and giving them to his customers.

Royal Baking Powder Company were glad to accede to our request and protect us, and to-day we are selling Royal Baking Powder and getting a good profit on it. We may not sell so much of it as we did before, but we get a profit on what we do sell.

There is no reason why the Royal Baking Powder Company or the flour mills or any other manufacturer should not do for the grocers of San Francisco and the Bay cities what they are doing in Los Angeles. The retail grocers must know what they want. They must be prepared also to so act that their requests will be respected and that the firms they approach will KNOW that it is going to pay them well to co-operate with your association and that it will be very expensive for them to refuse to grant you the protection you may ask and that they really owe you.

Mr. Newberry was frequently interrupted by the applause of his hearers.

At the conclusion of his address, Mr. Connolly introduced Mr. Paulding, speaking eloquently of his accomplishments in Los Angeles after the association had been organized through the assistance of Mr. Powers. He explained how Mr. Paulding had been practically pressed into the service and had developed results entirely unexpected by himself or the association managers when he was first induced to take hold of the secretaryship of the Los Angeles Association.

"When the Pacific Coast Association was formed," said Mr. Connolly, "The directors studied the field anxiously for a proper man for secretary. No better could be found than Mr. Paulding and he was induced to undertake the work of that organization.

"Mr. Paulding felt that the cities about the bay formed the keystone of the arch over which the grocers must proceed to reach the goal of proper profits. He for that reason expended special efforts to bring the grocers of San Francisco and the other bay cities into a position to secure for themselves better returns.

"I regret to say that Mr. Paulding has not been assisted in his work by the organization in San Francisco. I regret to say that in various important instances, he has ever been hindered by men who have had no other than a personal reason for their action.

"Now that he is going back to Los Angeles, I hope that the men responsible for this will realize how they have injured themselves by their action.

"I take pleasure in introducing Mr. Paulding, whom I consider every inch a man."

Mr. Paulding spoke briefly of his previous experiences as a retail grocer. He then spoke of his purposes in deciding to return to Los Angeles as follows:

Expects Order From Chaos.

I want to state definitely once and for all that I am not going back to Los Angeles because I have failed in my work. I have not failed. I want to say that, Providence willing, I would have stayed here and brought order out of chaos.

I am leaving San Francisco now because I thought it was my duty to do so and not because I wish to. I have left my work here in spite of the fact that I feel complete success is almost at hand.

I doubt if anyone can question the desirability of our measure when they stop to consider that already the grocers in many places in the United States have considered and approved of our plans and are putting them in operation. In Seattle, Spokane and other cities of Washington, in Denver and Kansas City the grocers are taking up the methods that we have initiated.

While our method is conservative, yet it is thoroughly practical and while effecting no change in trade methods will yet cure certain abuses. We will be able to force the manufacturer to grant us protection by requiring him to do what is right, which is simply to help us secure a profit for handling his goods, with the understanding that we will handle something else if he does not do so.

Every man seated at this table is a legitimate dealer. Every one of you should have a legitimate profit.

It is through your own carelessness more than any thing else that the manufacturer has been able to force you to compete with the man who pays only 45 cents on the dollar.

The record of the Market street cutters, 26 of whom have failed in 25 years, shows how the retail grocer has been abused.

In Santa Rosa I found that one firm forced all the rest of the trade to sell goods without a satisfactory profit. I was informed that this man had failed three times.

In Sebastopol, I found that a firm which was demoralizing profits had been allowed to settle recently for 56 cents on the dollar.

San Francisco Failed to Act.

I have had more to contend with in my San Francisco experience than I am going to tell you about.

When we went to the Alameda County Grocers' Association and told them we would help them if they wanted to secure profits, the Association rose as a man and said: "We will be glad to do anything you may suggest. Why should we not? You are pointing out to us the way to business success."

Had the organization in San Francisco done the same thing, the grocery trade would to-day not only be getting a good profit on flour, but would be rivaling the Southern grocers for whom 84 manufacturers have agreed to refuse to sell their goods to cutters. I will say, here, that the cutters are forced to recognize the power of the manufacturer.

I can understand the position of the salesman of one of the mills who, in talking to one of the grocers of Oakland, said: "Our mill would be glad to fix a retail selling price if we were sure we could have the retail grocers behind us. When the secretary and president of the San Francisco Association get out and fight the project, do you think we are going to put on a price card in San Francisco? Not much."

I want to assure you that such a condition has not given me cold feet. If I did not know that the position taken by the president and secretary of the San Francisco organization did NOT represent the desire of the leading grocers of the city and of the organization, I would long ago have stepped down and out?

To the San Francisco grocers who are present I want to say that the question as to whether you will get profits or not rests with yourselves.

Nobody is going to hold your nose and force profits down your throats.

You must be willing to fight for profits first. We will then help you.

South Wants to Help.

As an illustration of what the actual situation is, I would say that in Southern California a few weeks ago, the grocers said to me: "Why have we not been asked to help the San Francisco grocers in their efforts to get a profit on flour? It seems to us that we ought to be a very great power to help them."

My reply was: "Gentlemen, I think it would not be desirable to ask you to help in this matter until the San Francisco grocers had taken the first step towards helping themselves. When the San Francisco retail grocers have declared to the mills that unless they protect them in their profits they will refuse to sell any more of their goods, then they can have help and only then.

When they turn to the State Association and say: "We want your help to assist us in securing our independence," then not only in Southern California, but in dozens of other communities, the retail grocers will be called on to use their influence with the mills to guarantee the San Francisco grocers what they ask.

I want to tell you right now, that it will be no careless response that will come either. The grocers throughout the entire State recognize that they must have the assistance of San Francisco to win their battles and you will be surprised how many of them will be willing to lend assistance when it is called for.

The Southern Flour Fight.

I am glad Mr. Newberry spoke of our fight against the flour mills in Southern California. Our fight was practically the same as the grocers of the Bay cities have had on their hands today. The only difference is that we were earnest in our request. We were so much in earnest that one mill was forced to close down temporarily for lack of orders.

Mr. Newberry said it was only twenty-four hours after the mills realized our strength that they agreed to guarantee the protection we asked. I will say it was not twenty-four minutes after they talked the matter over with us in our office and found what influence we were able to bring into play that they were willing to grant what we asked.

Praise for Mr. Thurlow.

I think Mr. Thurlow will be able to carry this work on to a successful end. I think, too, he will probably be able to give the grocers even better service than myself because his experience has been with the manufacturer and jobber and therefore he is acquainted with the influences that will be most powerful with them.

It has been my privilege to act as assistant of Mr. Connolly, the secretary of the California State Association, and our toastmaster. He has said that I did my work well. I will add that I did my best. I want to say, however, that it was not my name or my influence that secured results at Sacramento. It was the name of the State Grocers' Association and it was the influence of the grocers of California that was recognized.

I used your influence and I said to the members of the legislature: "The merchants of California want this." It was this influence that secured the results.

What was true of the matter of getting legislation, is true of every other measure the Association takes up. The secretary who is of value, must be able to employ the influence of the members of his Association to good advantage. If the secretary cannot use that influence, you had better get rid of him as soon as possible.

In all my connection with the Association work, I have always acted under the orders of my board of directors. To be sure, I made suggestions to those directors that I thought were advisable. But I never acted until the matters had been carefully studied by them and the plans worked out and approved.

About 'Frisco's Future.

If the San Francisco grocers achieve any success, that success must come out of the head of the secretary and that secretary must be wise enough to originate plans that will meet the approval of his directors who will authorize him to carry them out.

While it is essential that the secretary shall be a man of ability, it is of still more importance that he shall be backed up liberally by the influence of the members of the Association.

An organization cannot afford to have a secretary in whom they have not full confidence. Each member must, in his individual capacity, be prepared to give full measure of support to the secretary when called on. Unless the members of the Association are prepared to back up the secretary by individual action, the plans of the secretary and of the directors will come to nothing.

I regret to say that a few of the larger men in the grocery business in San Francisco have failed to give our movement their support. Our experience in Southern California has shown that our organization has even greater value to the larger dealer than to the little man. It is the semi-jobbers who sell to the big dealer's customers. When the grocers get a law through the legislature that helps the little man to collect his bills, the big man is able to collect more. Where the little man may be able to save $10 by being able to secure a proper profit on certain articles, the big man will save $100. It is therefore of vital importance to the larger dealer that he give to this movement his careful attention and assistance.

I want to express my appreciation of the many kind things that have been said about me this evening. It is a source of great satisfaction to me to see the leading merchants of Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda and San Francisco seated at the same table discussing how they can work together to the best advantage.

The San Francisco Grocers' Association has many large dealers on its list of members. You do not see them at the meetings.

If this were changed, the conditions of the organization would be much improved.

In Southern California, we have all the grocers, both big and little, in line with us to help us carry our work to a successful issue, with the exception of two or three cut rate stores. In all the cities of the Coast except in San Francisco, the big men are connected with the management of the Association. I hope that the larger men of San Francisco can be induced to take hold of Association work. When this comes to pass, then most of the results that you now look forward to as barely possible will have been achieved.

Gentlemen, before sitting down I want to introduce to you my successor, Mr. H. W. Thurlow. I think he will serve you to very good advantage. I hope that he can secure for you results that I might not have been able to secure, although I assure you that anything that I might have failed to accomplish would not have been through lack of effort on my part.

It was some time before Mr. Thurlow was able to begin to speak. He explained that he had always been much interested in organization work, and, as a salesman, had helped the grocers to get together in the Northwest. He also expressed surprise at hearing of the backwardness in organization results among the retail grocers of San Francisco.

Washington Well Organized.

The grocers of Washington have profited very largely by what they have learned of results achieved in other cities, particularly in California. My experiences with the organization of that State would tend to make me think that the pupil had far surpassed the teacher.

Take Tacoma. In that city, there were 97 grocers with 96 members in the Association.

Nearly 92 per cent of the grocers of Seattle belong to the Association. The meetings were always large.

In Whatcom county, out of 101 retail grocers, there were 101 members.

In Spokane, the organization was almost perfect.

Compared with these organizations, San Francisco appears to have made almost no progress.

It seems to me that the Pacific Grocers' Association should be a very valuable organization to the various affiliating Associations, and especially to San Francisco. All that is needed to make it a power is an effective system.

Manufacturers Study Condition Closely.

Few retailers realize how closely manufacturers study trade conditions. They not only have all the large cities of the country plotted out in streets, but they know the peculiarities of the different grocers and the power of the various Associations better, often, than the retailers do themselves.

You will find that the manufacturer figures that Los Angeles has a strong Association and he must be prepared to protect the dealer in his profits. He will know that the San Francisco Association lacks cohesiveness and the ability to act effectively and that, therefore, he need not bother about the dealers there.

A certain jobber in Portland once said to me: "Individually, the retailer is a sucker made to order. Collectively he possesses a power that he little realizes, fortunately for us."

Mr. Newberry told you that the men sitting at this table had enough purchasing power to demand and secure the respectful consideration of any manufacturer doing business in this market. I agree with him thoroughly and it will be my work to attempt to systematize that power.

You will all have noticed that the manufacturer never reduces his prices. He may do it temporarily to gain some particular end. But he always resumes the price necessary to secure the profits he intends to make. If he feels that he has to figure on you as a part of his system, he will help you get your profits, too. It will be a part of my work to try and make him feel that it will pay him to do this."

Mr. Thurlow here paused and, turning to Mr. Paulding, said that in closing he wished to present to him a token of the regard and appreciation in which the retail grocers of San Francisco and the other bay cities had learned to hold him. Wishing Mr. Paulding God speed and good luck, he presented a beautiful silver coffee set, the gift of the gentlemen present.

Mr. Paulding replied feelingly, saying among other things that, while he would always value the gift for its beauty and associations, he did not appreciate their silver gift so much as he did the golden words of sympathy, regard and fellowship.

Mr. Connolly at this juncture called on Nathan Bibo for a few remarks. Though he had not been listed to speak, Mr. Bibo held the close attention of his auditors for some time, saying among other things:

It does me good to hear the expressions of appreciation and gratitude for your retiring secretary. I agree with Mr. Paulding that these words are better than any present they might give him.

I want to say that I think the work Mr. Paulding has taken up is a splendid one. It will have my staunchest support at all times.

At this time, when competition is so rife and expenses are increasing every day, it is absolutely essential that the retail grocers should get together. The producers are forming associations. Our employes are organizing. The jobbers are in a combine. Unless we act in unison, we are a slave not only to them but to the public who plays us one against the other to our own undoing.

I do not think any man present seeks to evade honest competition. We know we must meet it and we meet it gladly. But the cut-throat dealer who intends to sell for 10 cents on the dollar is not in honest competition and we can not meet that competition and pay our bills. Any organization that will force the manufacturer to control this competition will be a godsend and I want to be counted in.

When your plans require the personal activity of the individual members, let me know and I will do my share. I think that such an organization as this will be a source of betterment to the entire community.

Mr. Bibo spoke briefly of the duty of the merchant to better the conditions of his community and spoke in flattering terms of Mr. Paulding. Mr. Connolly then urged those present to talk to their neighbors of what had been discussed at the meeting. The banqueters crowded around Mr. Paulding to admire his beautiful present and wish him "Good Bye" and "Good Luck."

TAX FOR GROCERS.

The city council of Colton has passed an ordinance requiring grocery stores to pay a license tax of $4 per quarter. The ordinance has passed its first reading. It will be put to the merchants of the town to find out whether they are willing to pay this unfair extra tax or not.

COAST CROP CONDITION.

The United States Weather Bureau reports:

"A phenomenal growth of weeds in parts of Southern California is said to have checked the development of early sown grain in those districts. Prospects are less promising for the grain crop that at the close of the preceding week. Hops, peas and sugar beats are in fair conditions. The fruit outlook is not as good as earlier in the season. Many reports indicate that there will be a short crop of pears and prunes."

Geyserville—A. M. Wisecarver reports a very light cherry crop.

Santa Monica—The acreage devoted to beans is much larger this year than at any time in the past.

Haywards—Crop of cherries is unusually light on account of the long continued rain season. The crop of apricots will be a record breaker.

Yuba City—The condition of peaches in this vicinity are much better than a few weeks ago.

SUGAR MARKET.

A reduction of 10 cents per 100 was announced on Wednesday morning.

SYRUPS.

No reduction has been made in the prices of compound syrups by local syrup refineries although there was a reduction equal to 2½ cents per gallon on glucose. The wisdom of their conservatism has been shown by the fact that Philadelphia advices states that the glucose people are trying to get together to settle their differences and that the New York Glucose Company has advanced its prices to meet the price of the independents.

New York, May 2nd—N. W. Taussig & Co. report:

"An advance was made on May 1st of 2 cents per gallon in fancy and choice Ponce crops of molasses owing to the scarcity of supplies obtainable in the island of Porto Rico this season. The crop of this season is reported to be about 50 per cent short."

MAPLE SYRUP.

East Providence, R. I., April 28—The Huntington Maple Syrup Company reports:

"The indications are that the crop of maple syrup and sugar in Vermont is about half the usual quantity. Prices are very much higher than last year with every prospect of their being still higher later in the season."

COFFEE MARKET.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. say:

"The coffee market is stronger in the East. Arbuckle and Lion have advanced ½ cent. The demand locally is good for green coffee."

New York, May 2nd—Volney, Green & Son report:

"The market has ruled strong since our last report. Prices in Brazil are higher than they are in New York and prices evidently should go higher in this market if this condition continues. It is hard to pick up any cheap lots."

New York, May 1st—Henry Nordinger & Co. report:

"There has been a decided improvement in the actual position of the coffee market in the past month. There has been a slight falling off of receipts from Rio Santos and another advance of about 10 per cent in the Brazilian rate of exchange. To this was added a most important reduction of the world's visible supply. The reduction of the world's visible supply last month was 475,000 bags. This is the heaviest reduction that we have seen in one month for many years. A probable reduction of the same extent will probably be witnessed a month hence."

TEA MARKET.

M. J. Brandenstein & Co. say:

"The season in Japan opened at practically the same figures as in 1904, but advanced almost immediately and are now materially higher. The crop is reported 20 per cent short on account of the cold wet weather.

"New York reports are to the effect that Ping Sueys have advanced there on account of light stocks and extensive buying.

"Locally the market is showing an improved tone."

A. Schilling & Co. report:

"The Japan market opened with prices substantially as last year. The quantity offered was light; hence present conditions are hardly any criterion to go by when supplies begin to come in more liberally. Only fancy teas have yet made their appearance.

"The San Francisco market is more active than for some time."

New York, May 2.—John B. Brown & Co. report:

"The first cable from Japan was received yesterday to the effect that the market had opened at prices exactly as one year ago. The tendency was however for lower prices which should follow as the rates at present are extreme. Quite an amount of teas of all kinds have changed hands at prices slightly higher than the basis which has ruled for the last three or four weeks."

Boston, May 1st—Nash & Hopkins say:

"The placing of the island of Formosa under martial law, following the closing of the port of Kelung, has had still further effect upon the market for Formosa teas. The demand is decidedly better and prices from first hands have advanced at least 1 cent per pound during the week. Prices have been very low all winter, and even at this last advance are exceedingly moderate. One effect of the closing of the tea ports will be beneficial, as it will allow the clearing up of the old crop before the new crop comes forward."

RICE MARKET.

M. Phillips & Co. say:

"The market on Japans are up another ⅛ cent. This makes an advance of ¾ in the past ten days. We look for a further advance as mills in the South are all closed down and will not open up again until next season. Our advice is to "get aboard" now and do it quick. Other grades of rice are stronger in sympathy with Japs."

New York, May 2nd—Dan Tallmadge Sons Co. report:

"The fact that buyers could supply their needs without much difficulty has for some time past made them somewhat careless. They are now finding that previous purchases are not so easily duplicated as the quality and price. They are therefore watching the market more closely."

Portland, April 25th.—The Portland Rice Milling Company report:

"The market here lacks snap largely from the fact that buyers have been promised and have waited so long a time for an advance that they are now becoming skeptical and are now taking only as required."

Charlestown, S. C., April 29—Saml. G. Stoney reports:

"While sales for the past week have been brisk, prices have not shown the strength that the condition and stocks warrant. Holders seem inclined to meet the values fixed by buyers and a steady business is being done."

SPICE MARKET.

New York, May 2nd—John Clark Company report:

"The market is strong and active with good demand from outsiders and good demand for all grades. Cloves show signs of advance on account of the insistent demand from oil pressers."

CANNED GOODS.

There is little doing in canned fruits. The small remnants of the 1904 pack are gradually being worked off and the entire trade will be in good condition to take the new pack when it arrives.

Baltimore, April 28—The "Trade" says that tomatoes, corn and peas will have a very much reduced acreage this year. It states that the acreage may possible be even less than half the average acreage of the past year since producers have no faith in this year for profits.

New York, May 1—Walter B. Timms of Austin, Nichols & Co. says:

"Unprecedented overproduction of corn, peas and tomatoes is the cause why the purchase of futures on these staples has fallen away. The dealer who can get good spot peas at from 65 to 70c does not care to buy futures that will cost him from 90c to $1.00. The future sale of asparagus this year will be the heaviest ever made. The Columbia River salmon futures are being bought freely. No difficulty will be experienced in selling A 1 canned fruit for future delivery when the time comes."

CANNED TOMATOES.

Baltimore, April 29.—T. J. Meehan & Co. report:

"Unfounded rumors originating in New York of a break in the price of spot tomatoes in this market last week caused many inquiries from jobbers who were eager to buy them at a reduction from the going price. The result has been to give the market a firmer tone."

Baltimore—H. H. Taylor & Co. report:

"The market on the staple canned goods continues to be in buyer's favor. Prices on tomatoes, corn and peas are lower now than they are likely to be until the packing season. The longer the present condition continues the smaller the pack will be. Peaches have been slightly advanced in the small remaining stocks, owing to the certainty that there will be no cheap fruit for packing purposes this year."

CANNED ASPARAGUS.

The amount of asparagus available is much less than was expected. The pack will be very decidedly shorter than was looked for.

CANNED PINEAPPLE.

Baltimore, April 28.—The "Trade" reports: "It is now known that pineapples will be late and probably higher in price than in past years."

DRIED FRUITS.

The absolute certainty that there will be only about a half crop of prunes has resulted in the decidedly firming of this article. Prices have been slightly advanced all along the line and as the season progresses, it is highly probable that further advances will be made.

There has been no change in raisin conditions since the formation of the association. There is sufficient stock on hand to satisfy the demands until the new pack comes in and it will not be until conditions have shaped themselves more certainly that the trade will feel any confidence in paying higher prices than those ruling at the present time.

BEAN MARKET.

Charlotte, Mich., April 26.—O. E. Packard reports:

"The bean market has advanced from 10 to 12c within the past eight days. It looks as though we might get another advance since dealers throughout the state have a pretty good stock which cost them more money than they can market them for at the present time."

Detroit, Mich.—Lichtenberg & Son report:

"Prices on beans have strengthened somewhat. While the stock on hand is not large it seems as if there were beans enough to supply the demand."

Morrice, Mich.—T. M. Towner & Co. report:

"Prices for beans have advanced slightly. The few bean handlers can not afford to and farmers will not sell at present prices. If the demand is what it usually is for the next three months, prices must advance."

CANNED SALMON.

Bellingham, May 4.—The "Reveille" says:

"Practically all the larger salmon canneries and many of the smaller ones have been put in readiness to handle big packs during the coming fishing season. Optimism is evident on Puget Sound. In Alaska the same hopeful feeling does not seem to prevail. Low water and other adverse conditions will, it is feared, lower production on the Columbia River. No one is able to make a reliable estimate as yet of the amount of salmon that will be canned in the Northwest. The Vancouver correspondent of the "Pacific Coast Fisherman" says the Indians are predicting a light run because of the very light snowfall on the mountains of the Coast range."

HERRING.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Stocks of all kinds of Holland Herrings are entirely cleaned up in Vlandingen, and as the last sales to the United States were made at quite an advanced price over previous sales, prices have advanced fully $1 per barrel and 5 cents per keg. Further advances may be looked for as soon as present light stocks have somewhat diminished."

SARDINES.

Eastern advices are to the effect that the recent advance of 25c per case on quarter oils and later on three-quarter mustards is causing a great deal of interest. This advance is supposed to be due to a small supply. Conditions are said to be such that a further advance in price would not come as a surprise.

OLIVE MARKET.

New York, April 28.—Marc M. Michael, president Seville Packing Co., reports:

"Large size olives are in plentiful supply in this market. Small sizes are extremely scarce and prices are advancing. The drouth in Andalusia has been very severe and the harvest and vegetable crops have been affected to such an extent that the Spanish government at Madrid found it necessary to make an appropriation of 250,000 pesetas for the relief of the province. Latest advices in regard to the growing crop was that the outlook could not be more disastrous. All classes and sizes of olives are affected.'

Against Premiums—Wholesale grocers all over the country have been sending word to the National secretary at St. Paul that they are opposed to premiums.

EARNING A PROFIT.

Responsibility of the Manufacturer in Protecting His Customers Among Retail Dealers.

Investigation and years of experimenting has proven that the solution of the problem as to the maintainance of the price of any article and the securing of profits for the retail dealer lies with the manufacturer.

In many communities the retail grocers are now begging the manufacturers to be kind enough to give them the assurance that he will not cooperate with the trade brigand to force the great mass of the trade to sell the manufacturer's goods without a profit. It is worthy of note that more manufacturers are agreeing to protect their goods every day.

The grocers of the Pacific coast should be interested in the fact that this concession, which they are so earnestly asking of the manufacturers of the country, was voluntarily placed in their hands nearly a quarter of a century ago by A. Schilling & Co. In the beginning this firm was laughed at by some as cranks and, in some instances, met with opposition from the retail grocers who were profiting by their business acumen and the farsightedness of the managers of this firm.

A. Schilling & Co. have fought the grocers' battles now for nearly 25 years. This firm realized that no grocer was likely to continue selling an article which did not leave him more than enough margin to pay the expenses of his business. If he was willing to continue doing this, it would mean that it would only be a short time before he would fail and the manufacturer would then be out the money that might be owing him in the case he sold to the dealer.

The plan that has been taken up by the Pacific Coast Association and which was put in so successful operation in Southern California, has been operated by A. Schilling & Co. during all those years. This plan is to have the grocer sign an agreement by which he promises not to cut the price of the goods and that price is fixed at a figure which insures a satisfactory profit.

Experience has shown that should the dealer repudiate his agreement with A. Schilling & Co. and cut the price on their goods, that he is not able to buy from Schilling again. The grocer who repudiates the contract is liable for a suit for damages, although A. Schilling & Co. have not as yet found it necessary to sue any dealer because the grocer who may have cut their goods, invariably discontinues when he finds that the firm is honest and firm in its intention to protect the rest of their customers.

It seems odd that grocers should not be anxious to secure a profit on everything they sell. There are some grocers who will apparently cut on anything they can and the more demand there is for an article, the more anxious they seem to cut on it.

It is this class of grocers that has to be compelled to do business on lines that are not only safe for himself but will not hurt his neighbors.

It is to control this class of grocers that A. Schilling & Co. have prepared their agreement. By this means they firmly insure the trade safety of the conservative grocer and require the would-be-cutter to maintain prices no matter how much he may desire to overturn trade conditions.

WILL ARREST GROCERS.

Board of Health of San Francisco Takes Action Against Illegal Creams.

The Board of Health of San Francisco during the month of March examined 50 samples of condensed creams and milk. They found eighteen below the city standard in butter fat.

The following are the brands below the city standard in total solids and butter fats:

Bonanza Evaporated Cream, Sussman, Wormser & Co.
"99" Brand, Dodge, Sweeney & Co.
Red Ribbon Evaporated Cream, Elmira Milk Condensing Co.
Valle Cream, Valle Condensed Milk and Cream Co., Visalia, Cal.
Monroe Brand, Wisconsin Milk Condensing Co.
Primrose Brand.
Blue Ribbon Brand, Elmira Condensed Milk Co.
Princess Brand, Getz Bros.
Sego Brand, Tillmann & Bendel.
Century Brand Condensed Milk, Sussman, Wormser & Co.
Home Farm Brand.
Eureka Brand, C. Whalley.
California Poppy Condensed Milk, Wheaton, Pond & Herold.
Pearl Brand, Wheaton, Pond & Herold.
Coon Brand, American Condensed Milk Co.
Oak Leaf Brand, J. F. Cunningham.
Blue Bell Brand, Cluff & Co.
Valle Milk, Valle Condensed Milk and Cream Co.

In speaking of the action to be taken by the health authorities, Dr. Ragan said:

"Our office wants to avoid any unwise haste that may do injustice to dealers who have put the illegal goods on their shelves illegally, and at the same time we intend to protect the public. We sent word to the Police Department last Thursday (May 4) requesting that they print the list of the canned milks and creams that were under the ban in the Police Bulletin. Every officer will be instructed to warn dealers who have the illegal brands on their shelves. If at the end of 10 days, the goods have not been removed or re-labeled legally showing the true nature of their contents, the dealer will be arrested and fined."

It is to be noted that among the brands of condensed milks and creams that were found to contain sufficient solids and butter fats to warrant their meeting the approval of the Board of Health, were the following:

Eagle Brand, Silver Cow, Highland Brand, St. Charles Evaporated Cream, Rose Brand, Yacht Brand, Lily, Carnation, Alpine, Tiger, Pioneer Brand, Poney Cream, Pet Brand, Dixie Brand, Hire's Condensed Milk, Every Day.

Retail grocers will note with interest that three brands of Pacific Coast evaporated creams, namely, Lily, Carnation and Alpine, are included among the best class of goods.

It is also worthy of note that an extremely large part of the list of satisfactory goods is made up of the old established "Gail Borden" brands and "Helvetia" brands, the manufacturers of which have been in the market for years and have secured a reputation for stability and desirability that could only have been maintained by high quality.

SHORT COUNT PICKLES.

A reader of the "Interstate Grocer" of St. Louis, in writing about firms who sell short weight goods, speaks of them as robbers, and adds:

"I say robbers because it is the only term by which I can express it. I have greater respect for a man who steals a horse or robs a bank than the man who steals your confidence and money too. Of the two, the latter should go to the penitentiary first."

This grocer explains that he counted a barrel stated to contain 2,400 pickles. To his great astonishment, he found by actual count only 2069 pickles in the barrel.

He wrote to the firm supplying him with the goods. The shortage was made good at once and their excuse was that the packers had robbed them.

This same sort of robbery is going on in California at the present time. The grocer should weigh, count and measure everything he buys.

Los Angeles—The grocery store of M. Bellue, Thirtieth street and Central avenue, was raided by a squad of policemen recently, and enough liquor was confiscated to stock a small wholesale business. This is the third time Bellue has been arrested in the last few months on a charge of selling liquor without a license. On each of the former charges he was heavily fined, but the stock he had on hand when raided last was far larger than before. He was taken to the police station, where he gave $150 bail.

Los Angeles—A deliberate attempt was made recently to destroy the grocery owned by G. Bane, 1428 San Pedro street, by fire. The new Newberry grocery building is going up on Avenue 50 and Marmion way. FLOUR MILLS ROASTED.

the Bay would be free to ship the same goods into Oakland at less than Oakland figures.

I am not boasting Queen Ann flour particularly," Mr. Cushing explained. "I am selling Globe flour in my store. But I think it is a good thing for us to have them desire to maintain prices. I think we should write them a letter saying that we were pleased to see that they wanted to list their goods and we would be glad to have them do so."

Mr. H Hauch of Alameda said: "I think much as Mr. Cushing does. I can not see any harm in listing Queen Ann flour. We have been waiting on the San Francisco mills for the past six months with regard to the question of maintaining prices and with one exception they have not seen fit to accede to our request. From my point of view, ours is a fighting organization. We are united in order that we may be able to accomplish results that we could not secure alone. I have no sympathy with this talk about not antagonizing those mills that have not been willing to lift a finger to help us."

Mills Will Wake Up.

"Practically all the flour that leaves my store now is either "A-1" or "Queen Ann." I am selling almost no Sperry flour. With Mr. Russell, Mr. Cushing, Mr. Sill and a few others doing the same thing, I think the Sperry people will realize before long that it would be better for them to have let let us get a profit on their goods than to have us throw them out."

Mr. Hauch explained also that he found that it was a desirable thing to be able to let his customer have a choice of flour. That when he could offer them only one kind of high grade flour it looked too much as if he was trying to force something on them whether they wanted it or not. When he could offer two grades they seemed better satisfied. He did not think there would be any entangling alliance if the grocers handled Queen Ann flour.

L. Warnke thought that the letter of the Hammond Milling Company should be acknowledged. He thought it would be wise to take advantage of the offer of the Hammond Milling Company to guarantee that no firm should be allowed to cut the price on "Queen Ann" flour.

On motion of Mr. Morris of Alameda, seconded by Mr. Mitchell of Oakland, the secretary was directed to write to the Hammond Milling Company thanking them for agreeing to list their flour and expressing appreciation for their policy.

Drummers Spread False Reports.

A general discussion of the flour situation ensued.

The fact was developed that the drummers for the mills were going to the different dealers carrying false tales as to the feelings of the grocers about the flour situation. One Alameda grocer said that when he had told the drummer of a certain San Francisco mill he did not need any of his flour because he was selling "A-1," this drummer then told him that with the exception of a crazy Dutchman and himself none of the other grocers of Alameda were selling any of the Globe flour to speak of.

Mr. Thomas of Oakland said that only a few days before, the drummer of the Sperry Milling Company had come to his store and told him that he had taken 34 orders in Berkeley that day and had received a big order from S. J. Sill, the president of the Association.

Mr. G. F. Ruble, manager for the S. J. Sill Company, and who is also interested in the firm laughingly answered that they had only one sack of Sperry flour in the house and that he [illegible] for Sperry's flour in four months. The last Sperry flour S. J. Sill Co. had bought was one barrel for which they sent a wagon down to the warehouse about a week ago to get four sacks in order to fill deliveries where people insisted on having that kind of flour.

Mr. Hauch of Alameda said that he had noticed of late that the Sperry wagon that drove through Alameda was practically empty.

Other grocers joined in the discussion and they all expressed gratification at the fact that they had so little difficulty in convincing their trade that the "A-1" flour on which they got a profit of 17½ cents per sack would be more satisfactory than the other brands of flour which they would have to sell in the face of the competition of San Francisco stores which sold for $1.20 per sack.

Complaint Promptly Adjusted.

The secretary reported that a complaint on his part to Bishop & Co. of their having sold goods to a certain consumer had brought forward a letter from Bishop & Co. assuring the Association that they would not sell this individual any more and thanking the Association for calling the matter to their attention. The letter explained that the goods were sent only because the firm had been mislead into thinking that the party was in business.

As a result of the report of the picnic committee, it was decided to give a banquet instead.

Mr. Cushing for the picnic committee reported that the larger down town stores had stated that they would prefer to give $25 rather than close up on a week day. Since the purpose of the picnic was to raise necessary funds and he felt that there were many others who would be willing to contribute from $1 to $25 towards the Association work if they knew the funds would be employed to large advantage, he thought it would be wise to have a banquet at which the purposes and prospects of the Association should be discussed. The need of funds should be explained and a list started.

Mr. Kirkland, Mr. Warnke, Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Hauch all agreed that it would be better to hold a banquet since there would be a possibility of exchanging ideas and creating enthusiasm that could be secured in no other way. The organization voted unanimously in favor of the banquet when the matter was submitted for their judgment.

Secretary Reed called attention to the fact that Decoration Day was close at hand. On motion of Mr. Mitchell it was decided to recommend the grocers to close their stores all day Tuesday, May 30th.

After Free Yeast Cakes.

Vice-President Harry Duncan who occupied the chair in the absence of Mr. Sill, called attention to the fact that the grocers all over Alameda county were giving away yeast cakes. He thought the Association could take action on this matter to everybody's advantage.

Mr. G. F. Rubel stated that while no yeast cakes were given away at the Sill store, yet the solicitors invariably carried a pocket full when they went out and that the cost of this drain was very considerable.

Mr. Kirkland said he hoped something would be done in the matter and he would do his part.

Mr. Mitchell said that he would be willing to give up yeast cakes in a minute. That his bill for yeast cakes amounted to from $30 to $40 per month and he doubted if they sold 5 cents worth of it.

Mr. George Hoffman insisted that no one was to blame for the existing condition of affairs but the grocers. He told of an attempt to secure an agreement of the retail grocers not to give away yeast cakes. It was conducted by one of the compressed yeast companies and had failed because some of the down-town stores gave them away and soon every one was doing it.

L. Warnke said that the first mistake in this attempt to establish an agreement to sell yeast cakes was in leaving the matter to an interested party. This man signed all but a few big down town stores, the proprietors of which he did not wish to antagonize. In this way the man had made himself solid with the great mass of his customers and at the same time had done nothing for them as he had left the matter open with the big men. Mr. Warnke thought the secretary should take up the matter and should approach the big men first.

On motion of Mr. Mitchell, the secretary was directed to prepare ways and means to secure the co-operation of the grocers in an agreement to do away with free yeast. A further suggestion of Mr. Mitchell that the agreement should carry a forfeit of $25 was warmly approved by Mr. Hauch of Alameda.

Want Fine Inserted.

Mr. Manning thought the grocers were strong enough to say to the yeast companies that if they did not protect the grocers in the price on their yeast cakes, they would be thrown out. He said that the fact that there were several kinds of yeast cakes on the market gave the retail grocers the ability to help the particular brand that they could depend upon as giving them protection.

Mr. Hauch of Alameda said that the grocers should get past the idea that any one or two men could be stronger than the Association. He did not agree with the idea that if Anderson or Olson insisted in giving away free yeast cakes that it would render fruitless the action of the Association. It was foolishness to think that the trade would flock to these stores because they gave away yeast cakes.

Mr. Hoffman thought that the influence of one or two giving away yeast cakes would affect the immediate neighbors of those stores. When these men began giving away yeast cakes they would affect their neighborhood and soon the entire trade would be back at its old vicious practices.

TRADING STAMP ARRESTS.

Numerous arrests were made on Monday morning at the instance of the committee that has in charge the work of seeing that the anti-trading stamp law is enforced. Several representatives of the Tobacco Trust were arrested for giving coupons. Arrests were made at Pragers, the Great American Tea Co. and numerous other places. The Trading Stamp companies and the Tobacco Trust will take the matter up to the Supreme Court with as little delay as possible and attempt to secure a decision as to the constitutionality of the law. It is notable that the daily papers have not had a word to say about the arrest nor the plans of the associations having it in charge. It is evident that the Tobacco Trust and Prager's have brought influences to bear so that the general public will not be frightened off from using trading stamps until the very last moment.

The writer regrets that lack of space and lack of time prevents our telling of all the old-time friends who met and clasped hands at the picnic. It was especially worthy of note, however, that Wm. Cluff was the only wholesale grocer present on the grounds, although the other houses had numerous representatives present.

Attracting Trade

Advertises Fresh Eggs.

A young man back in Michigan has made a big success of selling fresh eggs through mail orders. He advertises to ship selected fresh eggs anywhere within one thousand miles of his place of business inside of 48 hours from the time the egg is laid. The business he has built up is already of considerable size and constantly increasing.

When you take into consideration the fact that the customer has to pay the express charges, which amount to considerable, and that they should be able to go to the corner grocery and get eggs equally as fresh, without waiting at as low or a lower price, with no express charges to pay, it seems rather strange, to the grocer at least, that this gentleman has been able to secure the trade he has.

Why is it?

Confidence the Key.

Not at all strange, I should say. In the first place, his customers have confidence in this far away dealer. His claim for his eggs is that they are fresh—not only that, but he names a definite time when they are laid. Fresh eggs means, in itself, nothing at all. The grocer calls all his eggs fresh. But are they?

This enterprising egg man guarantees every one of his eggs to be strictly fresh. Offers a reward for any that are not, consequently he is compelled to ship eggs that will satisfy his customers.

He sells nothing but one grade of fresh eggs. You can contract to take a certain number a month the year round and always get them at the same price, 30 cents. Or you can get them as you require them at the prevailing price.

Lets Public Know.

But the most important feature of this venture is the fact that he advertises his eggs. Otherwise the public would not know he had them. That's why he has succeeded.

This experience ought to convince any grocer that it pays to advertise—even eggs. Do you think that your customers would send thousands of miles away for fresh eggs, paying considerably more than you charge, if they really thought they could get eggs equally as good of you, and at a lower price? The fact is they haven't any confidence in your statement that your eggs are fresh. They have been fooled too many times by untruthful grocers.

A few suggestions to the grocer who sees the possibilities of building a first-class egg trade in his own vicinity.

See Supplies Are Right.

To secure the eggs is the first important part of the transaction. They must be nearby, selected, strictly fresh eggs and none other.

Take a day and call on every farmer and poultry man in your vicinity. Make an offer to take the entire supply of eggs for one year and offer a cent or so more than the highest market quotation in case the eggs are delivered at your store within 36 hours from the time they are laid. Offer to pay spot cash on delivery and refuse to take any eggs that are not full sized, clean and well shaped.

Examine every egg carefully when received. Wipe them off with a damp (not wet) cloth. Decide on a name for them—say Gold Medal Brand eggs or any other name that may suit your fancy. Procure a rubber stamp, curved so that it will print well on each. Have the stamp contain your name and address as well as the brand name that you select. Also have a little dating stamp to stamp the date on each egg. Every egg that leaves your store should contain both stamps.

Next you will need pasteboard boxes to put the eggs up in. The regular one-half and one dozen folding egg boxes will do for this purpose, though it would be preferable to have something a little more fancy. At any rate, the box should be printed with the brand and your address.

Have Guarantee Printed.

Then you will want a little printed guarantee to go with each box. This should be on white paper about three by five inches. State the fact that each of your eggs is selected and strictly fresh. Offer 10 cents for each egg returned within three days from the date sold, that does not come up to requirements. If you select your eggs with care you will have little trouble in this respect.

Now that you have your eggs ready for sale, the next thing is to let the public know about them.

First try your local papers. Take a good-sized space and tell people about the freshness of your eggs. Keep telling them the same thing, only put it in different language each time.

Then get up a little booklet from eight to twelve pages. Put in a few halftones of the different farms from which you obtain your eggs. Then tell the difference between your fresh eggs and the ordinary fresh eggs—the cold storage kind. Mail or distribute these booklets to every family in your vicinity.

Don't forget to continually bring out the fact that your eggs are the only kind for sick persons, consumptives and others who are required to live on an egg diet.

Write a personal letter to every doctor in your town asking him to recommend your eggs to his patients. Try to arrange to supply the local hospitals with eggs. If you can do this, make it a point to bring this fact out in your advertisements. Tell people about it.

Effective Displays.

Window displays will also help you to increase your sales. Get a few well bred hens and place them in your window. They will surely attract attention. A neat sign, worded like this: "Gold Medal Brand Eggs Laid While You Wait," or "These Are the Hens That Lay the Gold Medal Brand Eggs," will add much to the display.

Then secure a photograph of every farmer who supplies you with eggs, as well as a photo of his poultry houses. These will make a display that will be noticeable.

SPOKANE GROCERS GET RESULTS.

Manufacturers Pay Heed to Their Requests.

Spokane, April 29—At the regular meeting of the local retail grocers' association, held April 24, Messrs. Reid and Bishop, of the committee appointed to confer with the flour mills, reported nothing much accomplished with respect to lessening the differences between the mills but stated there was hope of the discrepancies between prices in the city and in the adjacent country being adjusted.

A communication from the Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Company, relative to the cutting of Carnation cream, stated that they have instructed the jobbers here, and their traveling representative who will soon be in Spokane, to put a stop to the cutting of the established selling price of their cream.

Proctor & Gamble, through their local selling agents, have taken a decided stand against the cutting of the price on their products, Ivory and Lenox soap. In a letter to the association they announce that they will maintain the following retail selling prices on their products:

Lenox, 100 oz., 5 cents per cake; 6 cakes for 25 cents; 25 cakes for $1.00, and 1 case, $3.65. Ivory, 100 oz., 5 cents per cake straight; 100 8 oz., 10 cents per cake, 3 for 25 cents; 100 6 oz., $4.65 per case.

The letter states that the cutting of prices on staple lines has reached such a state that in many instances the sale of the article in question has become utterly demoralized and has resulted in a very serious loss to retailer, wholesaler and manufacturer, and as a great deal of cutting has been done on Ivory and Lenox soap, particularly on Lenox, the manufacturers have decided that a determined stand must be taken and have instructed their local selling agents to see that the retail selling prices are maintained at all cost. Any retailer who persists in cutting the price of Ivory and Lenox will have his source of supply cut off, and any retailer who sells to any grocer who has been cut off, will in turn be himself cut off.

After an informal discussion of sugar questions, a motion prevailed that it be the sense of this meeting that brown and other sugars ought to be on the card list and that the matter be referred to the board of managers.

Mr. Bishop reported the failure in council committee of the ordinance providing that outside displays of vegetables, fruits and meats must be properly protected from dust, filth and contamination. This ordinance was prepared by the Board of Health and endorsed by the association as being in the interest of the public health.

Points to Watch

CHEESE—
When new Eastern cheese arrives about a month hence prices will be materially less than at present.

MACKEREL—
Mackerel is being held at high prices for speculative purposes. When new pack comes in the market may be overstocked with old, as free buying is stopped.

DRIED FRUITS—
All kinds are firmer, even prunes, and promise to be better property before the new crop is received.

LIMA BEANS—
There is not nearly enough to supply the country's needs till new crop arrives. Prices have advanced this week and will probably go higher.

ROOT BEER—
This is the time when people begin dropping into the store and asking for Hires Rootbeer. Every grocer should see that his stock is well kept up.

CANNING SEASON—
Every housewife in the country will soon begin preparing for her jams and preserves for the year. The wise grocer will see that his stock of jars, jelly glasses, rings, etc., is in good condition.

GRAPE JUICE—
Grocers who have not a good trade in grape juice are neglecting a very fine opportunity for profit. Dealers handling Welch's Grape Juice are given very attractive advertising matter which will help them build up business which they have not had before.

RICE—
As the Advocate has repeatedly intimated a strong market and materially higher prices are almost certain. A leading San Francisco house has practically secured control of the rice situation of the country. Rice which was sold at $2.55 three weeks ago, now costs $3.05 and will cost $3.55 before July 1st.

TO LARGER QUARTERS.

The Alpine Evaporated Cream Company have been forced to secure larger quarters and have transferred their offices to the Buckley Building, 95 Market street, corner Spear, where it will occupy rooms 212-213. Since Mr. Patrick has taken charge of the management of the company there has been a large increase of activity.

ARE AFTER RESULTS.

Pacific Coast Grocers Must Have Publicity to Secure the Same.

MUST CONTROL THE MEDIUM.

The Paper Must be Fearless and Free From Outside Influences.

By H. W. Thurlow.

The success of the movement to better trade conditions among retail grocers depends upon our being able to keep them informed promptly and fully as to what is being done and how they can help.

There are two ways that this can be done:

First—We could use circular letters. The expense of this makes it impractical.

Second—We can use the trade press. This is only practical when we can have a medium that we KNOW will be willing to take up the cudgels actively in our defense whenever that is necessary without regard to what influences may be antagonized thereby. We must be able to use the paper as we would a circular, freely and effectively at all times. The paper must have a general circulation or its value will be nil. To create such a paper would be an enormous undertaking, although it is what the grocers of Illinois did.

We have been saved this trouble since a paper has been put at our disposal that fulfills all our needs.

We KNOW that, without regard to how it may affect its advertising patronage, this paper will oppose vigorously any concern that may antagonize our movement.

This paper has among its subscribers about 80 per cent of the better grocers of San Francisco; about 90 per cent of those of Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley; about 80 per cent of those of Sacramento, Stockton, San Jose; about 60 per cent of those of Los Angeles, a heavier percentage of the better grocers of Pasadena, San Bernardino, Riverside, Redlands, Whittier, Santa Ana Long Beach, and other Southern California cities. It also has a considerable circulation in all the larger cities of Oregon and Washington.

We know of no other medium that could do our work for us so well.

A Los Angeles paper finds fault with this office for expressing our appreciation of this medium and our intention of using it.

We do not wish to make invidious comparisons, but we know of certain troubles of the grocers of Southern California in which the side of the retail grocers was not strongly set forth in that paper while that of their opponents was quite vigorously represented.

The Los Angeles paper also says that because the Advocate has "boosted" the State Association "in season and out of season" that color was loaned to the "charge" that "certain of the officers of the State Association were stockholders of the paper."

Grocers are Stockholders.

That is exactly the case and it is exactly why the Association managers feel safe in using the Advocate.

The directors of the State Associa-

Help Yourself, Mr. Grocer!

Manufacturer Follows Policy of Pacific Coast Association and Looks to Retailers for Action.

"Diplomacy and the ethics of fairness are all right, but more is needed. "Words, words, words—these be very pretty.

"But Action, Action, Action is the exemplification of the old saying that "handsome is what handsome does."

"Protest is good but action is better."

These are the stirring words of the veteran editor of the "New England Grocer."

Moved by the evident sincerity of the gentlemen who attended the recent banquet given in honor of Mr. J. F. Paulding, Mr. Harry Blair, for sixteen years the secretary of the Sacramento Grocery Association and now the sales manager for the Kelly-Clark Co. has decided to co-operate with the retailers along the lines asked for by the Pacific Coast Association.

Mr. Blair announces that he will require from every grocer putting "Riverside" Gloss and Corn Starch in stock an agreement not to sell the same for less than 8 cents per pound in quantities of less than 10 pounds. The retailer must further agree not to sell to dealers who have not signed a similar agreement and forfeit $5.00 should they violate their agreement.

The Kelley-Clarke Company on its side agrees to restrain jobbers from furnishing Riverside Starch to dealers who may cut the price.

As a further safeguard, the individual jobbers will be required to sign an agreement not to sell Riverside Starch to any retailer who does not sign the agreement to maintain the price and also not to sell Riverside Starch to any firm who may be reported to them as cutting prices by the Kelley-Clarke Company. The jobber will be required to forfeit $25 for any violation of this contract.

A Blessing or a Curse.

If this contract were not strictly enforced it would be a source of great annoyance both to the retailers and the wholesalers. It would also result in loss to all concerned since, until May 31st, there will be a free deal in force which will enable retailers buying in 5-case lots to secure one case free which will bring the price to about 4 cents per pound.

Mr. Blair insists that he will require a rigid compliance with the contract both by the retailer and jobber.

It is claimed for this starch, both gloss and corn, that it is "equal, if not superior, to any other brand on the market, no matter what the price" and that "it will answer all requirements so that the grocer need carry no other brand."

Upon Mr. Blair's presentation that the retailer would not be allowed to cut the price and that the jobber would not be allowed to sell the cutter, a carload was placed with one jobbing house in Sacramento. Mr. Blair insists that the jobbing trade of the Pacific coast will be required to follow the same methods and that should any jobber either refuse to sign the contract to maintain the prices the firm will get no goods. And if, having signed the contract, the jobber should violate the same, that the fine will be collected and, if necessary,

CONDEMN INACTIVITY OF MILLS.

All Unite in Feeling That They Should Be Protected From Cutters.

The flour mills of San Francisco have said that they would be willing to force cutters to maintain the price of their standard brands if the grocers wanted it.

Then they insisted that the grocers did not want this protection and their salesmen have gone from store to store combating the idea.

The salesmen claim among other things that the mills can not prevent cutters from selling their flour at cut prices. This, on the face of it, is absurd. They can prevent it, if they want to.

The truth is, that they fear that a demand from them that the cutters maintain prices might cause trouble for them with two or three big cutters and lose them a little business. They would rather let the 2,000 retail grocers around San Francisco boycott their flour at less than a fair price, rather than risk the loss of an order or two from a Market street cutter.

Is That Fair Treatment?

The Advocate thinks it is not.

The grocers of Alameda county think it is not.

In an interview with a number of San Francisco grocers, they all, with one exception, were disgusted.

The question the Advocate representative asked was:

Would you like to have the Market street cutters forced to sell flour at $1.35? This, of course, means that you would have to sell it for $1.35, too.

The grocer whom we mentioned as an exception said:

"Mr. Blood tells me that the mills would be glad to do it but they can't."

"What are you selling flour for?"

"We get $1.30."

"Are you satisfied with 10 cents profit?"

"We get more than that."

"Well, do you think that a profit of 12½ cents is enough on a $1.30 sale—less than 10 per cent?"

"O, it's pretty good."

"Do you think it fair to you for the Sperry mills whose flour you sell, to force you to face the competition of stores that they allow to sell their goods for $1.20?"

"But the Sperry mills don't do that."

"Do you mean that they don't allow their goods to be cut?"

"That's what I do. I started to sell for $1.25 and they made me put the price at $1.30."

"But that is all we ask of them and you just now said Mr. Blood told you it couldn't be done."

"Well, it isn't being done with Sperry's flour."

"Do you mean to say that you don't know that Sperry's flour is being sold for $1.20 per sack?"

"I don't know that it is being sold for $1.20."

Other Grocers Know More.

It was a very different story that we got from the other grocers to whom we talked. Here are the sentiments of a few of them:

ECONOMY—ECONOMY.

The Most Important Study in the Retail Grocery Business.

Economy does not mean poor help at low wages. It does not mean a cheap store in a poor neighborhood. It does not mean to give up advertising.

It means system by which much work can be done with little labor.

It means shorter methods.

It means accuracy in weights.

It means Bond Automatic Weighers.

Hand weighing takes time and necessitates over weight and spill.

The Bond Automatic Weigher does the same work in one-eighth the time and is absolutely accurate and clean. Business economy demands it. See advertisement on page 11.

J. R. NEWBERRY'S ADDRESS.

Speech Made By the Millionaire Retail Grocer at Paulding's Banquet.

At the request of numerous friends of association work, we reproduce this week the speech made by J. R. Newberry at the farewell banquet recently tendered to J. F. Paulding.

Frank B. Connolly, vice president of the local association and secretary of the State Grocers' Association, presided as toastmaster. In introducing Mr. Newberry, Mr. Connolly referred to the fact that that gentleman had fourteen stores in Southern California that were doing business to the extent of a million and a half dollars annually. He also referred to Mr. Newberry as the backbone of the Southern California Association, and that through his assistance this association had been able to accomplish much that would have been impossible without his aid. Among other things, Mr. Newberry said:

Results from Paulding's Work.

I am very glad to be with you this evening. In fact, I am much more pleased than you can imagine to learn how you regard Mr. Paulding and his work, since it was more largely through my influence than anything else that Mr. Paulding came to San Francisco. It gives me great pleasure to know that you concur in my judgment as to his ability to fill the trying position to which he was called.

I do not think any of you can appreciate how hard it must have been for him to leave his work here unfinished. The time will come when you will appreciate more fully the value of the efforts he has put forth in your behalf. All the retail grocers of the Pacific coast will find business conditions better because of Mr. Paulding's work in San Francisco.

The wise business man is the one who unites with those of similar interests to fight those who are opposed to his prosperity.

The foolish man fights with his neighbor who should be his warmest friend.

When a man quits fighting, it is time for him to retire from business.

I see around me to-night, a band of men who have the power of controlling trade conditions in their hands.

Two Similar Contests.

You have in the cities about the Bay the same fight we had in Los Angeles. You have picked out the same foe that we picked out for our first fight.

I refer to the flour mills to whom you went to ask that they refuse to throw their strength with the cutters just as we asked our flour mills to co-operate with us rather than with those who forced us to sell flour at a margin of cents per sack.

At first, our mills turned us down as your mills in San Francisco turned you down.

The flour mills can be a power for good.

They are like the bronchos of our cattle ranches. You must handle them right if you are to get any use out of them. And you have to break them over again every morning.

We of the south are under obligations to Mr. Powers and your Grocers' Advocate for being able to successfully face the mills and the other manufacturing interests who, because of lack of co-operation, had forced us to do business at a loss prior to that time. Through Mr. Powers, the grocers of the interior cities of Southern California, were brought together in associations and it was very largely through the help of the merchants of the outlaying districts that we got what we wanted.

In our contest for a profit on flour in Southern California, we were met with opposition by the mills whose brands were long established in our market, just as you have been met by the opposition of the same class of mills of your territory.

Sperry Helps Southern Grocers.

The Sperry Flour Company was not well established in our territory at that time. They agreed to maintain prices and not to sell the cutters and I then placed an order for 2000 barrels of flour with the Sperry Mills at one time.

I was one of the many who acted in the same way. We did not put in Sperry flour to help to Sperry mills. We did it to convince the other mills that we were not their slaves and that they did not have the power to make us handle their flour without a profit. The other mills said Mr. Paulding was in the pay of the Sperry mills and tried to work other lies to dissatisfy our members. I am glad to say that we were not to be fooled by any such foolishness, and we gained our point.

I am satisfied that the men seated at this table could bring about the same results as we did in Los Angeles if they woud act with the same vigor. With no more of power than that controlled by the men seated here at this table, you could revolutionize grocery conditions in San Francisco and vicinity. If each man here would guarantee the active co-operation of three or four of his friends, and you could be absolutely certain that they all would unite with you in demanding the same thing in the same way, there is nothing within the bounds of reason that would be refused and the profits of the grocery business could be increased from 7½ to 10 per cent over what they are to-day, just as we have done in Southern California.

Points a Way Out.

If Mr. Tilbo, here, and Mr. Doyle and Mr. Cushing and Mr. Hauch and others, backed up by twenty-five or thirty men of equally strong purchasing power, should inform any manufacturer in the country that they could not afford to continue handling his goods unless he changed certain conditions under which they were being marketed and that unless the conditions were changed as they desired they would sell no more of them, but would sell some other similar article instead, the change would be made.

This is not theory.

I am now giving you the result of experience.

Of course, in Los Angeles, we have one thing you haven't got in San Francisco—that is, a loyal local Association behind us.

Don't think our grocers have absolute immunity of action. We have several big firms trying to prevent the success of our movement. Their are quite a number more who are not willing to bear their share of the burden of securing results.

A 50-Cent Profit on Flour.

In spite of these drags, the influence of the active workers for good in and around Los Angeles has been enough to increase our profits on flour to $1.20 a barrel or 30 cents a quarter sack. When "Crown" and "Sperry" came into our market they were glad to maintain that price. They would be glad to maintain the margin of 15 cents a sack that you men about San Francisco bay ask, too, if you went about it in the right way.

Your request is an exceedingly modest one. A profit of 15 cents on a $1.20 margin means only about a 11½ per cent profit. I am willing to assert that their is not a man here who is doing business at an expense of less than 12 per cent.

Get What They Deserve.

I want to tell you now that you are getting just what you are entitled to.

If you ask for a thing as if you didn't expect to get it, you won't get it.

As in every other line of business, you will get only what you are prepared to pay for.

If you will biuld up a combination of strong buyers so that you can throw a sufficently large purchasing power either to or from a flour mill, you will have gotten together the price to pay them for a respectful consideration of anything you may ask.

I think the flour situation is the easiest of all to handle. It is the best to start out with.

Our first fight was of a far different character. It was one of the prettiest I ever heard of or can remember.

History of a Pretty Fight.

The jobbers of Los Angeles jumped on us with both feet. They knocked us down and licked us to a finish. Then they rolled us under the table and turned away satisfied that they had finished the job up brown.

But as soon as we got our second wind, we sent out communications to the Association grocers throughout the interior. We transfered the field of operations to where we had the jobbers at a disadvantage. We got the Associations of the smaller towns in to action and we soon had the jobbers asking for terms.

It was largely through Mr. Paulding that we were able to secure these results. The wholesalers were very bitter against him then. There was nothing too severe to say about him.

Want Paulding to Come Back.

But now these very men are anxious to have Mr. Paulding back.

Why?

Because during the last year, the grocery trade of Southern California has had a season of unexampled prosperity. Even the jobbers (much against their will) have prospered. Their collections have been better and there have been fewer failures.

These results have been secured through the co-operation of the manufacturers, 84 of whom have named retail prices on various specialties and have agreed to use all their influence to prevent these prices being cut, going to the extent of not only refusing to sell cutters, but also refusing to supply jobbing firms that may sell to cutters after being warned.

I think that this little band of merchants, if they will only get together compactly will be surprised at the wonderful results they can achieve.

Expect 25 Per Cent Gross Profits.

In Southern California, we expect to make our gross profits 25 per cent. We will better the conditions of trade and the consumer, too, will be advantaged since they will get better goods and better service.

Our progress dated with the coming of Mr. Powers, some three years ago. Without the aid of the medium sized stores in the interior towns, we would not have been able to control either jobbers or manufacturers. The great power lies with the medium sized stores when they are well organized and intelligently directed.

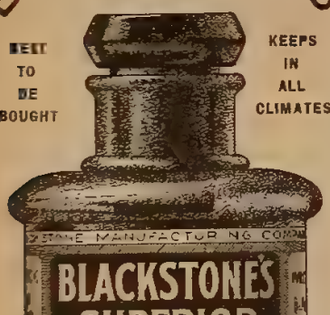
Mr. Newberry told in an interesting way how the Royal Baking Powder Co. was induced to maintain the price of Royal Baking Powder in the south. The grocers, he explained, took hold of "Schilling's Best" goods, his house buying $5,000 worth as their first order. They then transferred about 90 per cent of their business to the Schilling goods. He continued:

Story of Royal Victory.

The "money back" guarantee of A. Schilling & Co. enabled us to feel confident in recommending their goods to our customers. Their agreement not to allow their goods to be cut gave us personally the confidence that it would pay us to get our trade into the habit of using his baking powder. I think it will be safe to say that, as a result of the Royal Baking Powder Company's initial refusal to grant our request to protect prices of their goods, they lost fully 90 per cent of the business of many men who had been formerly large handlers of their product.

It was because of this fact, that the Royal Baking Powder Company were glad to accede to our request and protect us, and to-day we are selling Royal Baking Powder and getting a good profit on it. We may not sell so much of it as we did before, but we get a profit on what we do sell.

There is no reason why the Royal Baking Powder Company or the flour mills or any other manufacturer should not do for the grocers of San Francisco and the Bay cities what they are doing in Los Angeles. The retail grocers must know what they want. They must be prepared also to so act that their requests will be respected and that the firms they approach will KNOW that it is going to pay them well to co-operate with your association and that it will be very expensive for them to refuse to grant you the protection you may ask and that they really owe you.



PROMISES DON'T GO.

Denver, Colo.—At a recent meeting of the Denver Association the brokers representing Sunlight Soap reported that the manufacturers refused to advertise these goods until one-half the grocers in Denver had bought the soap. The suggestion to "list no more goods on promises" was approved by all members present.

AN IS'ER

Last week, at Steinway Hall, a well-known business expert, Mr. Sheldon, of Chicago, told a story about a young man from the Middle West who went to Chicago to buy a horse. The salesman at the stockyards first trotted out a horse whose sires had held world's records and therefore recommended it as a valuable animal. The young man was not satisfied. He was then shown a horse that was expected to be a Prize Winner. He then said, "Don't waste any more time on has-beens or comers, they won't do. What I want is an

WHAT GROCERS THINK.

Golder Bros., 1422 Howard St.—I think the mills owe it to the grocers to prevent the cutters from selling flour for a less margin than 15 cents above the cost price. When the down town firms can advertise certain brands of flour at $1.20, it puts all the rest of the trade who ask more at a serious disadvantage. It makes people think they are overcharged on flour and they are discontented. The results are very far reaching. We must secure a margin of at least 12 per cent on our gross sales in order to meet expenses. If we sell one article at cost it follows that we must sell something else at a margin of 24 per cent in order to secure our 12 per cent. average. It is this practice of selling flour with too small a margin and trying to make up for it by trying to get too large a profit on teas, coffees, etc. that has resulted in this branch of the grocery business being taken from us by the peddlers. We think the mills should act promptly.

J. Schwormstede, 350 12th St.—When the mills allow the cutters on Market street to sell flour at $1.20 per sack they are treating very unfairly the rest of their trade. We have to pay that price for flour and can not afford to meet the prices of the cutters. I am afraid the grocers will not work together, though.

John F. Block, Powell & Lombard—I have quit selling the old brands. I sell Globe flour and get my profit. I find that the "A-1" flour gives great satisfaction and that people are willing to pay $1.40 per sack. While I do not sell so much flour as the big stores, I get profits on all that I do sell.

Holzkamp & Hildebrandt, Jones and Greenwich—We sell the standard flours for $1.30 and think that the mills are treating us unfairly to allow other firms to sell it for $1.20, which is what it costs us. We are gradually shifting our best trade to the "A-1" flour of the Globe mills and find that those who try it once always come back for more and are glad to pay the extra price.

Geo. Ludeke, 900 Filbert—I am selling Globe flour entirely. I want a profit on my flour and when I found that I could not sell the other standard brands at a profit without having my customers think that I was robbing them, I put in the flour of the Globe mills and found they were as well satisfied as before.

Wm. Warnke, 710 Broadway—I can not understand why the mills would prefer to protect the cutters rather than the great mass of retail grocers who sell the bulk of their flour. I think it very wrong to sell flour for a less margin than 15 cents per sack, but, of course, we have to do it to meet competition. We are selling more Globe flour every day and get our full profit on it.

Schleef & Creyer, Powell and Jackson—I think the grocers are a lot of chumps. They fall all over themselves to sell the goods of men who let their competitors sell the same goods for what it costs them. We line up with the rest because we are getting only $1.25 for our flour. We have to sell for this price because the mills let others sell it for $1.20 and we have to meet competition. I think the mills should use their rights to prevent the cutters from selling at less than a fair price which would at least cover the cost of handling the goods which is not in any case less than 12 per cent.

Mangels Bros., 1044 Pacific St.—We are selling flour at $1.30 not because we want to nor because we feel that 10 cents is a proper profit, but because others are selling for $1.20. We want a profit on our flour and think the mills, from whom we buy, owe it to us to prevent the cutters from selling their goods for less than a fair price as the "Globe" is doing.

Frais & Co., 1201 Pacific St.—We think that a great wrong is done the grocers when cutting firms are allowed by the mills to sell their flour at $1.20 per sack. We think the mills should stop this cutting.

C. H. Offerman, 1601 Leavenworth—We want a profit on flour because we need it in order to pay our expenses. We are selling the flour of the Globe mills because we know that none of our competitors can offer those brands to our customers for less than we do.

P. E. Slavin, 1641 Hyde St.—I am nearly sick of expecting grocers to do anything. They talk a whole lot but that seems to be all they do. I would like to see the mills make the cutters maintain a price of $1.35 on flour, but have no special hope that it will be done.

H. & R. Muegge, 1st and Harrison—Every man in this store works hard and works long hours. We do not do this for fun, but because we want to make money. We think that when the mills let a few firms sell flour for $1.20 per sack, they are doing us an injury. We sell Globe flour wherever we can.

CULTIVATE TRADE.

Much Possible Business Lost Through Carelessness or Ignorance.

Farmers are often satisfied to reap what they call a "volunteer crop"—taking what chance may bring them rather than seeking much greater returns by carefully cultivating the soil.

There are many retail grocers who treat their stores the same way. They are satisfied with the "volunteer" results rather than seeking to secure better returns by properly cultivating the field of trade at their disposal.

Every grocer should study his customers as the farmer studies his fields. He should know what of his customers do not buy high grade coffee. He should see to it that these customers learn how good his high grade coffee is and switch them to those brands that pay him a profit.

He should know what of his customers do not buy their teas at his store. By giving them samples of teas that he knows will satisfy them and cultivating their trade, he can largely increase his business in this line which pays a good profit.

By careful study of his customers, he will find that many of them never buy certain articles that they would consume were they acquainted with the merits of the articles. When the grocer has brought these articles to their attention he will find that he has created new business and has permanently increased his income.

There is a large field open for the retail grocers who seek to build up a trade on Banner Lye. They will find a large part of their customers have never used lye in their houses. This is largely because the packages in which lye was put up in the past have not made it a practical household article.

The new style lye, with its new style convenient package, makes the housewife wish to use it when she realizes the great advantage it is to have this wonderful help to cleanliness close at hand.

Every customer that the grocer wins for Banner Lye is just that much additional money added to his income, since most of it is new business, newly created, and the margin of profit for the retailer is more than 30 per cent.

The J. K. Armsby Company, who are the Pacific coast agents for Banner Lye, are prepared to assist the retail trade in this particular case by supplying them with interesting and attractive booklets and other advertising matter that will help interest the housewife in Banner Lye. We would call attention to their two special deals quoted on page 9 of this issue, which should be of interest to dealers generally.

MAKE CUSTOMERS.

Success Depends as Much on What You Buy as on How You Sell.

The grocer who knows a good article when he sees it, and buys for both quality and quantity values, giving his customer the benefit of his study, is almost certain of success.

If you want to get the best possible value in canned fish buy the California Fish Co's goods—California Sardines and Mackerel.

"Sunset" brand mackerel is delicious and yields a proper profit. If you do not carry it get it now.

VERY INSTRUCTIVE READING.

An "Old Time Grocer" Expresses Pleasure With an Advocate Article.

It is with pleasure that we print the following letter concerning the speeches reported in our paper of last week:

San Francisco, May 15, 1905.

Dear Mr. Powers:—That is very instructive reading—the story of the farewell banquet to Mr. Paulding.

Have often heard the sentiment expressed that for real inspiration the genius of letters goes out and studies nature, gets down to earth as it were. At your dinner the men who practice were heard instead of those who only theorize.

To buy right and get profits was the golden thread which ran through the speeches. The only thing lacking, in my opinion, was the advocacy of improved service.

Could not help but think while reading the excellent and thoughtful addresses that the very thing you have so often presented as being the policy of Messrs. A. Schilling & Co., viz.: Compelling the retailer to make a profit, was the essence of the whole subject.

After all these years there are some manufacturers beginning to realize the wisdom of the Schilling policy.

The grocers themselves have been the last to grasp the full meaning of the matter.

It is said all things come to those who wait and it may be that now the grocers are awakening to the fact that price agreements are their salvation and will not alone support Schilling, but compel other manufacturers to adopt the same sane and enlightened policy. Yours very truly,

AN OLD TIME GROCER.

ARE AFTER RESULTS.

tion helped build the paper. They are guilty of the dreadful "charge" made against them. They put their money into the Advocate, but not for personal gain. It was to help the work of bringing the grocers together. They are DIRECTORS of the ADVOCATE and control its policy. It is their paper and it is put in our hands to use because the paper's policy is subject to their control.

The Los Angeles paper should be modest and blush with shame when it remembers that it was only through the help of the Advocate that the south secured an effective organization. The paper at that time, when the Association was weak and needed help hardly dared mention it. Later, when the Association was in a fight that seemed unsuccessful, the paper was luke warm. The Advocate then gave its aid without stint. Now, that the Association is strong and can help the paper, the management is generous in proffers of assistance.

The Advocate will carry our message.

We hope the Los Angeles paper will do what it can to help.

We regret to see the Los Angeles paper spiteful in this regard. As the publisher of a newspaper, its management should applaud us for recognizing and rewarding as far as lies in our power, the merits of a paper that dares do what we think no other trade paper on the coast could afford to do; that is, give us full, absolute and unquestioning support for every measure and contest our directors take up. In other words, in the Advocate our Association has a publication that is all our own except that, while we use it without stint and share in its earnings, we were not required to endure the expense and risk of its up-building and we are not now forced to face the possibility of meeting any of its obligations.

Associations Need Boosting.

The atitude of the Los Angeles paper is neither broad nor generous. It protests against the "continual boosting" that our Association has received from the Advocate. If the Los Angeles paper had been equally generous and enthusiastic in its "boosting" of Association work, we would perhaps not now have found the Advocate able to carry our message to so many of the grocers of Southern California.

To the Trade Press.

We hope you will see your way clear to help the movement of associated grocerdom.

We want our message to be carried promptly and concisely to the Association leaders all over the coast.

We KNOW the Advocate will do that work for us.

To carry the message farther will add to the usefulness of the various local papers. We look for the assistance of

The Trade Register of Seattle, Wash.

The New West Trade of Tacoma, Wash.

The North Coast Trade of Spokane, Wash.

The Tradesman of Portland, Oregon.

The Commercial Bulletin of Los Angeles.

The success of Association work can be made easier by these papers. Their value to their grocer readers will be in proportion to the help they will feel warranted in giving the movement.

The fact that the Grocers' Advocate in San Francisco has devoted its columns to our use will not in any way lessen the value of each of the above named papers to its clientele of readers who subscribe for them because each has certain points of value that can be found no where else.

To the Retail Grocers.

This office is maintained for YOUR benefit.

If you have troubles that could be cured by the co-operation of your fellow grocers, let us know.

We are prepared to fight YOUR fights with the two effective weapons:

Association and Publicity.

Our Association will be conducted along conservative lines, but we propose to DO things.

If you want help, call on us.

That is what the office was established for. Yours for success,

H. W. THURLOW,
Secretary Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association.

ALLOW FOR PASTEBOARD.

St. Louis—The fight of the Grocers' Association against having to pay cracker prices for pasteboard is gaining headway. Four factories are making concessions. One factory has taken out about three-fourths of the pasteboard formerly used. Another factory is allowing the grocers for from four to twelve ounces for the pasteboard used in its boxes.

Cigars and Tobacco

J. A. Drinkhouse & Co. have closed their deal on Manuel Lopez cigars, after having done a very large business on it.

The seventh annual meeting of the National Cigar Leaf Tobacco Association convened at the Hamilton Club House, at Lancaster, Pa., on Monday, May 1.

Rinaldo Bros. & Co. have removed from their First street store (San Jose) to a fine large place next door to the Unique Theatre on Santa Clara avenue.

S. B. Korn has taken the coast agency for E. A. Kline & Co. for their various lines of clear Havana goods. Also that of I. Lewis & Co. for their nickel and little cigars. He has taken an office above his retail store at 120 California street.

Ehrman Bros. & Co. are meeting with exceptional success with their new nickel cigar, the Henry Miller. The cigar has only been on the market here about three weeks, and the campaign of advertising has only begun, yet repeat orders are freely coming in.

J. L. Jerichau, San Francisco distributor of the Rough Riders cigars, has nearly recovered from his recent illness and is again at his post at his Larkin street store. He reports a steady increase in the demand for the Rough Riders.

M. Blaskower Company report jobbing and box trade, to which they are now devoting themselves exclusively, as active at their store. They state that from the numerous orders that are coming in for Lords of England, Manuel Garcia, Adelina Patti, Bock Regio, and Villar & Villar, there must be a very heavy demand for imported cigars.

Honolulu—Jared G. Smith, United State Agricultural Commissioner, has sent a circular letter to plantations in Hawaii offering to assist them in planting from one to five acres of tobacco on each plantation. Laupahoehoe, Paauhau and the Hawaiian Agricultural Company have accepted the offer, and the experiment will be tried at once.

H. E. Mootz of Fresno, president of the San Joaquin Cigar Company, which has factories at Reading, Pa., Key West, Fla., and Fresno, Cal., is visiting F. A. Heim, the Los Angeles agent for the San Joaquin Cigar Company's goods. Mr. Mootz says his company will begin a very active campaign for business in Southern California and Arizona at once.

A scheme has been unearthed at Cleveland, O., which, the government inspectors believe, involves the biggest fraud on the government that has ever been perpetrated in the local tobacco trade. The plan of the alleged swindle was for each dealer to buy one box of stogies properly labeled, and upon which the revenue was paid. After that all stogies were sold from this one box, which was filled again when it was empty. To supply this ever-full box, the stogies were shipped in bulk from New York in large boxes so marked as to indicate that they contained boots and shoes. The inspectors have not learned who the New York manufacturers are, but they are endeavoring to find out. It is believed that millions of these stogies have been sold in Cleveland during the past year or so.

TOBACCO FAKERS.

Los Angeles grocers are being approached by two smooth cigar salesmen, who, according to the "Commercial Bulletin," are irresponsible fakers. They claim to represent the "International Tobacco Company." They offer a domestic cigar for $33, to be paid for when the cigars are delivered—which will be from stocks they carry. They agree to give the purchaser of a thousand cigars a handsome solid oak double-decker cigar case, worth $25 or $30, free. This, they explain, will have to be shipped from the factory, to arrive about 50 days after they have received the retailer's money.

Investigation failed to bring to light any one who knew anything about this company which proposed to give so much for nothing.

WAY BEHIND.

Dealers Who Fall Down Because They Do Not Keep Up With the Times.

Some dealers are struggling along in the hardest kind of a fight against failure simply because they do not realize how necessary modern improvements are to success. In these times every cent and every minute counts.

Many minutes and many cents are saved by every dealer who uses the Perfection Short Credit System, the sensible and accurate method of keeping accounts. Address, P. E. Lenfestey, 220 California street, San Francisco.

HOW HIRES WILL HELP.

There is a time in each year when it is wise to lay in a stock of Hires Root Beer.

The time is now, while the Hires 1905 offer holds good. The benefit you will derive from this offer will adequately compensate you for anticipating your needs in advance.

The Hires offer for 1905 is an exceedingly attractive one, and as it has only about four weeks to run grocers should at once place their orders with the agents for the Hires people, the Spohn-Patrick Company.

Grocers ordering stock before June 15th can take advantage of the following offer:

With an order for one gross Hires' Root Beer, the dealer receives, free, 4 doz. lead pencils. With an order for ½ gross, 2 doz., and with an order of ¼ gross he receives 1 doz. free. The lead pencils are rubber tipped and of fine quality. They are enameled yellow and are the equal of any 5 cent pencil handled by the trade.

SATISFY DEMANDS.

We have in mind the experience of a friend living in a suburban town adjoining a large city. On his first advent there he found it impossible to buy salmon; even the finest grocery store in the place had no salmon. The party in question went to the storekeeper and asked him why he did not keep it, as his family would use two or three cans each week anyhow; and recognizing a good customer he bought one case of salmon, and within a month had built up a steady demand for it, and it has always been one of his stocks in regular demand from that day to this.

The same is true of nine-tenths of the list of things that canners put up.—The Trade, Baltimore.

Don't be afraid to handle the new things that seem to you to be likely to sell.

CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco—Fred L. Hilmer, Geo. L. Fish, Henry Olson, J. M. Olson and Nelson Olson, stockholders in the grocery firm known as Olson Bros., which recently assigned in favor of their creditors, have filed answer to the complaint of Harris Bros. & Co., charging the above named firm members with having conspired to convert certain assets of the firms to their own use through various manipulations. The defendants deny the charge absolutely and ask that the settlement of the affairs of the assigned firm be allowed to progress without interference.

Elsinore—Joseph DePlae has purchased the grocery and bakery business of Thos. Clayton. Mr. Clayton has received his commission as postmaster in Elsinore.

Long Beach—F. W. Lucas has just opened a fine grocery and fruit stand at 347 East First street.

Los Angeles—The grocery store at the corner of Pico and Dewey avenue, formerly owned by Shepherd Bros., has been purchased by Weiligman & Klein.

Los Angeles—The grocery and delicatessen of A. J. Colombo at 413 North Main street has gone into insolvency. Charles A. Dake has sold his business at 434 West Seventh street to G. W. Craig. Mr. Craig was originally in the grocery business in Chicago. Mr. Dake will retire from business for a while at least.

North Pasadena—H. H. Hayward has bought the grocery business of Work & Shilling, formerly Hayward & Miller, and will again identify himself with North Pasadena business interests. Mr. Haywards, with Mr. Miller, sold a few months ago to Messrs. Work & Shilling and contemplated going north to ...ch interests in Oregon, but the outlook here and the many warm friends caused him to reconsider.

Palms—Halverson Bros. have purchased the leading business block of this town. The building is known as the Curlie block. Halverson Bros. have also purchased the grocery stock of J. F. Bryant.

Pasadena—Buying and selling at electric speed recently prevailed at 261 North Fair Oaks avenue. The Pioneer Grocery is located at that number. When the place opened for business recently it was owned by P. W. Pyle. A little later in the morning J. M. Chrisman became the owner by purchase from Mr. Pyle, and ten minutes later still D. M. Green bought the store from Mr. Chrisman. Mr. Green was formerly engaged in business here and made an enviable reputation in business circles. Both he and Mr. Chrisman had been negotiating with Mr. Pyle for several days for the purchase of the store. Both made up their minds to buy it, but Mr. Chrisman was first on the ground this morning and closed the deal. No sooner had he done so than Mr. Green appeared and within ten minutes had negotiated the purchase of the place from Mr. Chrisman.

Pasadena—A. F. Reynolds, owner of the Summit Grocery, corner of Summit and East Orange Grove avenues, has purchased the grocery stock of Haas Bros. at the corner of Yale and Fair Oaks.

Petaluma—John Garth, the pioneer grocer of upper Main street, has sold his grocery business to Israel Gordon of Santa Barbara.

Santa Barbara—Herman Steinert, who has conducted a store on State street on the Orena property, will build a store room on the corner of Hollister avenue and Mission street and conduct a grocery and fruit stand.

IDAHO.

Boise—Boyd & Leitzke have succeeded E. N. Crawford & Co., grocers.

Egan—Anderson & Hjork have succeeded A. Anderson, grocer.

Lewiston—G. W. Wotering is putting in a large stock of groceries. W. A. Davis, a member of the firm of Baird & Co., grocers, has purchased an interest in the Lewiston Broom factory, still retaining his interest in the grocery business.

Nampa—Hodges & Sumner have succeeded McCabe & Hodges, grocers.

OREGON.

Oregon City—J. P. Roehl has purchased C. A. McMillan's grocery store.

Pendleton—Oliver & Co. are reported closing out their grocery.

Wallowa—Fire at this place recently destroyed Chas. Brown's grocery and notion store. Loss about $2,500.

Weston—Charles Du Puis has disposed of his interest in the grocery and bakery business of Du Puis & Co.

WASHINGTON.

Cle Elum—F. E. Kenny, who recently embarked in the grocery business, will shortly add a stock of dry goods.

Orting—Frank Arndt has re-opened his meat market and will add a stock of groceries.

Quincy—T. J. Groves, proprietor of the City Grocery at Wenatchee, is opening a branch store here, where he is taking in a partner.

Seattle—Elliott & Son have succeeded L. Bernard, groceries and meats. A final schedule of assets and liabilities of the grocery firm of Pidduck-Russ Co. has been filed in the Federal Court, showing that the claims against the firm aggregate $20,366.18, while assets are only $7,381.24, the greater portion of which consist of outstanding accounts. Fire, which started in the fourth floor of the Sartori block, caused damage to the amount of about $20,000 last week. Among the firms suffering losses were Sylvester Bros., wholesale grocers, and the Continental Distributing Co., wholesale liquors.

Spokane—Van Norris Murphy, grocer at 2120 Broadway, has sold out to Chas. E. Parks. O. P. Anderson, grocer at 0626 Monroe street, frustrated a neat bunco game. He received a telephone order from a man to send a bill of goods to 818 Broadway. At the last moment, as if an afterthought, the man asked that the driver be given change for $20. Mr. Anderson filled the order and gave the change to the boy but, being a little "chary," told the boy not to part with the money until he received the gold piece. The boy was met by the man who got in the wagon and rode with him, having the wagon stopped a few doors from the number, and remarking that he could carry the groceries in. As he left the side of the wagon with his groceries, he casually asked for the change, saying that the gold piece was in the house and that he would bring it out after taking the groceries in. The boy, however, insisted on seeing the gold piece first, and the man passed into the yard, but did not return.

Snohomish—The Snohomish Grocery Company has embarked in the wood and coal business, having purchased the stock of the Lee J. Taylor Company.

HELP YOURSELF, MR. GROCER.

the jobber's contract will be taken from him and he will not be allowed to handle the goods.

It is now up to the grocers of the Pacific coast to show this manufacturer that it pays to protect the trade.

If they can make it pay the Kelley-Clarke Company to rigidly enforce the retail selling price of Riverside Starch they can make it pay them to maintain the retail selling price on other articles they control.

If they can make it pay the Kelley-Clarke Company to maintain the retail selling price of Riverside Starch, they can make other manufacturers feel that it will pay them to maintain the retail selling price of their specialties.

In order that the retail grocer may understand thoroughly what the proposition of the Kelley-Clarke Company is we print herewith a copy of a circular letter issued to the trade:

San Francisco, May 10, 1905.

THE DAWN OF A NEW ERA.

Manufacturer Helping Retailer Make a Profit. The Best all Around Starch Deal Ever Offered.

ONE BOX FREE WITH FIVE.

Single Case Price Has Not Been Raised

RIVERSIDE BRAND.

48-1's Gloss 5½c
40-1's Corn 5½c
16-3's Gloss 5¼c

1 case of corn, 40-1's FREE with each 5 cases straight or assorted.

It is the best starch that can be made at any price.

Money back if it fails to please.

We guarantee you a fair profit.

Sign enclosed agreement and send orders to Kelley-Clarke Co., 130 California St., San Francisco, Cal., and we will have them filled through jobbers who will help us enforce a minimum retail selling price.

This FREE DEAL will positively close May 31st, 1905, but with your help, the minimum selling price will remain in force as long as the Kelley-Clarke Co. controls the Riverside Brand Starch.

No orders will be filled unless enclosed contract governing retail sale of Riverside Starch is signed by purchaser. Yours very truly,

KELLEY-CLARKE CO.

Contract Governing Retail Sale of Riverside Gloss and Corn Starch.

We hereby promise and agree to maintain a minimum selling price of eight cents per pound on Riverside Corn and Gloss Starch in quantities of less than ten pounds.

We further agree that when requested by the Kelley-Clarke Co., we will refuse to sell any dealer who has not signed an agreement similar to this.

We also agree, if accused of violating this contract by the Kelley-Clarke Co., to make an affidavit under oath or affirmation denying such accusation: refusal on our part to make such affidavit shall be conclusive evidence against us that the charge is true, and we will forfeit to the Kelley-Clarke Co. the sum of $5.00.

The Kelley-Clarke Co. agree to pay the $5.00 collected as above to the parties making or furnishing proof of such charges.

The Kelley-Clarke Co. further agree to restrain any jobber from furnishing Riverside Starch to any dealer who has sold said starch at less than the established price until the fine of $5.00 is paid, either by the merchant or by the salesman who made the sale.

This agreement takes effect at once.

WANT PROFITS.

The "New England Grocer" in a recent issue tells of a meeting attended by the largest and most aggressive cut rate druggists in New York City, who have at last decided to unite with the rest of the druggists of that city to wipe out cut rates on patent medicines. This is the fruition of years of persistent efforts to this end. The movement is backed by the leading manufacturers of patent medicines.

SCHMITZ PROMISES PROTECTION

The attention of the directors of the local grocers organization was called by J. William Offerman to the fact that the Chief of Police had ordered his officers to forbid grocers from serving drinks over the counter of their stores to ladies, either alone or under male escort. The penalty of disobeying this would be the revocation of the grocer's license.

A committee consisting of President Salomon, Mr. Offerman and Supervisor Alpers called upon Mayor Schmitz this week. He gave careful attention to the condition of affairs as outlined by the committee and then promised to lend the grocers his assistance, assuring the committee that he saw no harm in selling liquor to ladies under these conditions.

The Mayor has instructed the Chief of Police not to bother grocers who may serve drinks to women customers until after the matter has been taken up by the Police Commissioners. He assured the committee that he would personally present the side of the grocers to the Commissioners and would use his influence to see that they were protected in their rights.

PROVES A REPEATER.

X-Ray Stove Polish is proving one of the strongest repeaters that has been introduced into this market for some time. This is a powdered stove polish that possesses many advantages over the old paste stove polishes, both in the matter of economy in application and also effectiveness. It also pays the retail dealer a good profit.

Fred Holcombe & Co., the Pacific coast agents, are now billing Sacramento and Marysville. Samples are being distributed from house to house in Sacramento and the trade is being actively worked.

The goods have been received with greater popularity even than Mr. Holcombe anticipated. As a consequence, the agents are entirely sold out and the only stocks remaining are those in jobbers' hands. New arrivals are expected early in June. These will be largely sold on arrival.

NEW SALT REFINERY.

The Carmen Island Salt Company is erecting a plant at North Beach for the refining of salt. This company has its marshes across the bay in Alameda county. With its new plant, it will be able to produce salt equal to the best in the market.

CAMPAIGNING WITH LIES.

Certain competitors of the Porto Rico Company, while admitting that Porto Rico raises the finest coffee in the world, are telling the grocers that no Porto Rico coffee has been sent to the United States, and that the Porto Rico Company has not any genuine Porto Rico coffee in stock. To verify their statements they produce statistics which they pretend have been have been taken from United States Government reports. These statistics pretend to show that no coffee was shipped to the United States from Porto Rico in 1904.

This matter was called to the attention of the Advocate.

We at once looked the matter up and in the Report on Commerce and Navigation of the United States for 1904, we find on page 1055 of vol 1, that the island of Porto Rico has sent to the United States 2,415,559 pounds of green coffee during the year covered by that report.

When the matter was called to the attention of the Porto Rico Company, they produced various invoices, the first dating back to the 28th of June, 1904, when 209 sacks of coffee, weighing 42,751 pounds were shipped by A. A. David to the Porto Rico Company of San Francisco direct from Porto Rico.

The special grade of Porto Rico coffee being presented to the trade by the Porto Rico Company under the "Ponce de Leon" brand is scoring a decided hit with the trade. The methods used in advertising this coffee have excited a great deal of interest and the grocers find that customers who once use it call for it a second time. This coffee pays a larger profit to the dealer than any other package coffee on the market.

WRECK STAMP STORE.

Lafayette, Ind., April 30—Warned by merchants that a trading stamp company was moving its stock from Lafayette on account of alleged financial trouble, an excited crowd of more than one hundred men, women and children, holders of the stamps, crowded into the store and took possession of the first things they could lay their hands on. Vases, lamps and articles of furniture were broken, and within half an hour the establishment had been stripped of household furnishings and other articles that had been kept for the redemption of trading stamps.

SCRAPPING ABOUT SOAP.

There has been much ill feeling engendered in the wholesale trade because Proctor & Gamble have failed to enforce the agreement to maintain fixed selling prices on "Ivory" and "Lenox" soap, which they required the jobbers to sign. The jobbers claim that this agreement has been violated and that Proctor & Gamble have winked at the violations with the result that the contracts were a source of annoyance and loss to those jobbers who maintained the same.

The firm of Haas Bros. this week announced that they would no longer abide by the agreement and that they proposed to openly list "Ivory" and "Lenox" for what their competitors had been selling it secretly; namely, a mere brokerage above the cost price. This has produced quite a live scrap and considerable ill feeling.

One of the firm of Haas Bros. in speaking of conditions yesterday, said:

"We are not in business for fun nor for our health. We want to make money, but we do not want to be the victims of dishonest competition. Our firm is prepared to meet all honest competition and we would welcome any agreement in which the manufacturers honestly exert themselves to maintain the contract as Enoch Morgan's Sons Co. maintain their Sapolio contract. When the manufacturers do not strictly maintain a contract that they require the jobbers to sign, they are failing in their obligations to the firms whom they have induced to sign the contract and I feel that their failure in this regard releases us of any obligation."

Attracting Trade

Satisfaction or Money Back.

When the retail grocer can convince his trade that the goods he gives them are sure to be satisfactory, he has advertised successfully.

The great problem for the grocery trade is the best way to secure this result. As a matter of fact, there is only one absolutely sure way. That is the "money back" policy.

Show Quality is Right.

When the retail grocer can "money back" his goods, his customers know that their quality must be all right because they know that if they do not like the goods they can return them and have the price refunded. The reputation of being willing to refund the money and refund it cheerfully is very valuable to the retail dealer.

Insures Good Prices.

Consumers are willing to pay a fair price for articles of whose quality they are absolutely certain. The dealer is able to secure a fair margin of profit on such articles. It is, therefore, more to his advantage to sell articles of established quality and high grade than cheap articles that not only will not give satisfaction, but do not usually allow so good a margin of profit, since they have to be sold in competition with cutters.

Value of Window Displays.

The show window is to the merchant the best and cheapest of all advertising mediums. It should be treated just as any other advertising space, understandingly, and not a mere decoration.

Many merchants seem to consider their windows merely as places to store miscellaneous stock, and even from that point of view they are careless in arranging them. There is nothing that will turn one against a store quicker than a sloppy looking window.

Make It an Ad.

Every time you make a window display it should be with the idea of advertising appropriate and seasonable goods. Put considerable work in your windows, for you will find that all the attention you give them will eventually result to your benefit.

It is best not to lose sight of the fact that men and women, especially the latter, have their bump of curiosity well developed. They will nearly always stop and look in a window that has an attractive display, and are likely to see something they need.

Endless Variety is Possible.

The variety of your goods gives an almost endless amount of material with which to make window pictures of different kinds. With a little trouble you can form the many curves and angles of a picture display by means of the numerous sizes and shapes of package goods. A handy man needs only a few accessories outside of stock to make an excellent showing. The displays should have a distinctive originality to attract attention.

Foreign Merchants Compete.

In England and on the continent the storekeepers vie with each other in producing attractive displays. Many of our merchants do not seem to understand the arrangement of goods. Especially is this so of fruits, vegetables, etc. In Europe nice, clean, white baskets, which do not cost much, are used, and the fruits are tastefully arranged in red, white, blue and yellow tissue paper. Plenty of the paper is used, and the effect is so tempting that it adds much to the value of the goods. Often a half-dozen figs are displayed tastefully in one basket. A dozen beautiful, luscious peaches in another. Grapes in even clusters add color to the displays. Invariably this makes quicker and more sales.

People want novel things now and then, and, while the bulk of your profits will of course be made on staples, there's many an odd dollar to be turned in novelties.

AGREES WITH CONNOLLY.

The "New West Trade" speaking editorially says:

"About the only way in which grocers can secure the successful maintenance of uniform prices on various articles, of which the prices are most commonly cut, is by united action on the part of the retailers and appealing direct to the manufacturers of such goods. To this category we might make a possible exception of sugar and flour, which it has usually been found can only be controlled by the association through their local wholesalers and millmen.

The manufacturer can, and has the legal right to control the sale of his product and is in a position to guarantee the retailer a fair and legitimate profit thereon if he so desires. And he will desire to do this not only because he realizes that the retailer's prosperity is indirectly his prosperity, but also because he usually desires to maintain the high standard and reputation of his products, which must suffer if prices are allowed to be promiscuously cut.

"And regardless of these considerations with a large majority of the grocers of a community earnestly asking for this protection, the manufacture is not likely to refuse it.

Washington Millers to Organize.

The millers of Washington have decided to form a State organization. A meeting will be held in Tacoma on July 2, when the permanent organization will be effected and the board of trustees elected. The name of the new organization will be the Washington Millers' Association. It will be on the same plan as that of the millers of Oregon and other States. Its purpose is for the general betterment of trade conditions by a mutual adjustment of the customs and usages of the milling business.

SHREDDED WHOLE WHEAT RECOMMENDATION

The Best Cereal Food to Eat, and
The Best Cereal Food to Sell, is

Shredded Whole Wheat

It is made in two forms, Shredded Wheat BISCUIT and TRISCUIT.

TRISCUIT is a CRACKER, not a "breakfast food." It is used as toast in place of ordinary bread toast, and for all purposes for which the common white cracker of commerce is used.

Shredded Wheat BISCUIT is the standard wheat food of the world, delicious for breakfast, or for every meal for every day in the year. It contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat in digestible form. A good seller all the year round.
